SCHACHT PROMISES DEBT FIGURES TODAY IN REPLY TO ALLIES

Opposing Their Demands as Beyond Reich's Ability to Pay, He Will Offer Observations.

PROGRESS IS SEEN BY SOME

BUT HE WON'T MAKE OFFER

Unless There Is Definite Action at Paris Soon, Move by Young to Hasten It Is Foreseen.

By F. J. PHILIP.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—After many weeks of waiting for some proposal from Germany, the delegates of the Experts' Committee have received the promise of "some written observations and some figures" for tomorrow.

It would be too much to expect, some think, that these observations and figures will be in the nature of a counter-proposition to the creditors' bill presented last Saturday. Yet it is felt tonight that something has at last been accomplished in obtaining from Dr. Schacht a promise that he will emerge from his negative critical and very chary attitude and himself lay something on the table.

It was today, when during two sessions the German delegate held the floor, most of the time summarizing once more his objections to the creditors' claims and protesting Germany's incapacity to pay, that he developed figures which seemed interesting. Immediately they were taken up and the Reichsbank president was asked to put them in writing. He replied that he would gladly do so.

Not Counter-Propositions.

Later his colleagues were anxious to point out to newspaper men that these would not be counter-propositions. Apparently the Germans are still far from venturing on any definite step. Indeed the tactics of the German delegation are becoming every day clearer. They seem prepared to let this conference run as long as it may without their taking responsibility for ending it in failure. Thus they continue to treat in the public sessions the creditors' bill as merely a suggestion and not in any way as a definite proposal.

Of course it was not meant as a final take it or leave it offer. Yet it did represent a week's work by all allied delegates with Owen D. Young, the chairman, and a very considerable sacrifice on the part of every country involved. Even now some experts admit that their governments are not going to be pleased with what has been done in the way of reductions. So hope of further reductions is small. Yet Dr. Schacht continues to talk generalities about Germany's capacity and to argue that what she has borrowed in the last five years prevents her assuming any heavy responsibility now.

At the German headquarters at the Hotel Royal Monceau one hears nothing but protestations on the amount Germany has now to pay in interest on what she has borrowed and how all that she has paid for reparations was just money she had borrowed. That is all true enough, but even among the American delegates there is evidences of weariness at this constant plea.

If tomorrow Dr. Schacht does not produce something tangible or its prospect, it is possible that the conference will have to assume different methods and the chairman may be forced into the position of having to hurry the Germans somewhat toward a conclusion.

Schact to Submit Annuity Table.

PARIS, April 16 (AP).—Today's session of the Reparations Experts Committee opened with the distribution of a table of figures showing how the creditor nations had arrived at the proposed annuities. This table had been requested yesterday by Dr. Schacht who, without discussing the total, had asked for more light on the individual items.

After the tables were distributed there arose a general discussion in which Dr. Schacht took the lead, going over the annuities and the total amount proposed by the Allies in order to support his contention that they were beyond Germany's capacity.

He then was asked what he would suggest as being within his country's capacity to pay. The president of the Reichsbank announced that he would transmit to the Allies what he termed "suggestions" tomorrow afternoon.

This was said to be a memorandum of two typewritten pages setting forth his estimate of Germany's maximum figure and a complete table of annuities.

The bargaining between the various delegations will be in full swing

Clearing of Site for New Opera House Aided As High Court Sustains Columbia's Options

Further clearing the way for John D. Rockefeller Jr. to proceed with the development of three blocks of real estate he recently acquired between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, Forty-eighth and Fifty-first Streets from Columbia University, the Court of Appeals in a decision yesterday reversed the lower courts and held that Columbia's option to pay Nathan Kalvin the value of his buildings or tender him new leases for twenty-one years was still in force.

The opinion was written by Justice Irving G. Hubbs of Pulaski, with Justice Frederick E. Crane of Brooklyn dissenting, according to information received in New York City by counsel.

The leaseholds involved in the litigation contained a provision to the effect that at the expiration of the term Columbia could buy the buildings on the plots at a fair and reasonable price to be determined by arbitration, or grant new leases for twenty-one years at a reasonable ground rental to be determined by arbitrators. Columbia University contended that the arbitrators failed to fix a purchase price for the buildings in question before the expiration of the leaseholds and that it was through no dereliction on the university's part that the purchase of the buildings was not consummated.

While the suit involved only two parcels, it is important because it indirectly settles the policy to be adopted by Mr. Rockefeller in taking up the leaseholds to the property he had acquired for a vast real estate development, including a site for the projected new Metropolitan Opera House.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—In delivering the majority opinion of the Appeals Court today deciding that the trustees of Columbia University still had options on property comprised in the New York City site of the projected new opera house, Judge Irving G. Hubbs declared that these rights of the landlord (the trustees), survived the lease in question and reversed judgments of the lower court in favor of the tenant, Nathan Kalvin.

On the point of the landlord's choosing either to renew the lease at the rental fixed by the appraisers or to purchase the buildings at a value fixed by them, Judge Hubbs said:

"There can be no breach of the landlord's obligation to choose until the time for performance of that obligation has arrived, to wit, the completion of the appraisal.

"The failure of the appraisers to make their report relates to a particular obligation in the lease, but not to the contract as a whole. That remains in full force and effect. The failure to report simply extends the landlord's time to choose and excuses his failure to choose before."

SNOWDEN DISAVOWS BALFOUR DEBT NOTE

He Declares Labor, if It Wins, Should Be Free to Repudiate "Infamous" Principle.

HOLDS BRITONS VICTIMIZED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Members of the House of Commons had a shock tonight when they heard Philip Snowden, formerly Chancellor of the Exchequer in the Labor Government, issue what was tantamount to a threat to rescind the war debt settlements arrived at under the famous Balfour note—that is if Labor is returned to power at the forthcoming election.

Mr. Snowden was attacking Winston Churchill for his budget speech and declared:

"No more scandalous transaction has ever been carried through by a British Minister than the settlement with our foreign debtors."

Members knew that Mr. Snowden would probably occupy high office if Labor obtained a victory at the polls and as he developed his theme he met hot cross-fire from the Conservative benches.

He suggested that France was paying to America a higher proportion than she proposed to pay the British and he added that Britain had done more for France than America had ever done.

"Dangerous," Says Churchill.

"Perhaps the worst feature of all the agreements which Mr. Churchill made," he said, "was that if ever we get more from the Continental annuities and German reparations than our payments to the United States, we have to reduce the amount of the annuities received from our Continental debtors. I have never subscribed to the Balfour note, which I think is an infamous note."

Mr. Churchill, surprised, shouted, "The Labor party?"

Mr. Snowden replied:

"The Labor party certainly did not subscribe to the Balfour note and it should hold itself open, if circumstances arise, to repudiate the conditions of that note."

Mr. Churchill then rose and said: "That is a very serious expression, because the principles of the Balfour note have been embodied in agreements between us and France and between us and Italy. I think it is a very dangerous thing for Mr. Snowden, who tells us that he has high expectations of holding high office in the future, to utter words like that in regard to engagements which have been definitely entered into between this country and foreign countries. [Labor cries of 'He is telling the truth.']

"It might endanger," Mr. Churchill continued, "the payments which are even now being made and on which we were counting this year."

Ministerial Reply Today.

Loud ministerial cheers greeted Mr. Churchill's rejoinder, but Mr. Snowden, who earlier supported the late Bonar Law's contention that Britain's yearly payment to the United States "would put the country in bondage for generations," stood his ground.

"Does Mr. Churchill then maintain," asked Mr. Snowden, "that an agreement which is made by a government supported by a party which happens to have a temporary majority in the House of Commons commits every other party in the State to the confirmation and acceptance of that agreement in future? If that is to be so it is a doctrine to which I cannot subscribe."

LAYS BLOW TO BELL IN DEATH IN PARK AV.

MANSLAUGHTER IS CHARGED

Mrs. Robert W. Schuette and eight of the nine guests at her fateful Wednesday night party in the Hotel Marguery, 270 Park Avenue, leaned forward in their seats facing the bench presided over by Magistrate Corrigan yesterday and with startled air heard the secret information which had caused them to be in Homicide Court.

It was no gentle push, they learned from the graphic testimony of the key witness for the State, but a powerful, sweeping blow that felled Arthur Morgan Smith of Cleveland, the absent member of their party, to the sidewalk with a fractured skull that killed him in a little over twelve hours. It was such a punch, according to his account, that it raised Mr. Smith off his feet, and his head and shoulders crashed upon the cement walk in front of the hotel.

This testimony, given by Reuben Gilbert, taxicab chauffeur, of 1,098 Simpson Street, the Bronx, resulted in a decision by Magistrate Corrigan to hold Samuel E. Bell, gray-haired Baltimore oil producer and one of Mrs. Schuette's guests, who was identified as the one who struck the blow, to await action by the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. He was released in $10,000 bail.

No Testimony as to Motive.

He had been imprisoned on a short affidavit charging homicide since Sunday, but the State produced no evidence of intent to kill.

From Mrs. Schuette, calm and firm of voice, came the admission only that liquor had been served to the guests in her apartment. She denied that any controversy had arisen within her sight between Messrs. Smith and Bell or that the former had shown undue attention to Mrs. Robert L. Brown, socially prominent in Lexington, Ky., whom Bell had escorted to the party.

The elevator boy who took Mr. Smith, Mr. Bell, Mrs. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Beinecke of 820 Fifth Avenue to the street when the festivity ended at 2:30 A. M. Thursday morning, was equally devoid of any suspicion that two of his passengers were at odds.

Only Mrs. Brown, low-voiced and smiling nervously when she testified that she "thought" she was sober at the time, gave a hint of what detectives say was the cause of the altercation. With Mr. Smith she waited in the arcade of the Hotel Marguery, she testified, until Bell, in a voice that might "possibly" have indicated annoyance, summoned her to a taxicab on Park Avenue.

Saw Fighting, He Says.

The State has claimed and Bell in interviews has admitted that he resented an attempt by Mr. Smith to accompany Mrs. Brown into the cab. Preceded by this paucity of testimony Gilbert's first words roused the crowded court room to attention.

"Did anything attract your attention?" demanded Assistant District Attorney Joseph Pascocella immediately after he had brought out that Gilbert drove his empty car east on Forty-eighth Street to Park Avenue at about 2:30 Thursday morning.

"I saw two men fighting, striking blows," he answered. "I stopped my car and was just about to get off to halt the fight when I saw one man hit the other on the mouth so that he was lifted off his feet and

SEVEN LINERS HELD BACK

JERSEY SHORE IS HARD HIT

A furious northeast storm, accompanied by winds ranging in velocity from 38 to 78 miles an hour, lashed the North Atlantic seaboard States yesterday, sinking a tug and two barges in New York Harbor, causing extensive property damage along the New Jersey coast, and delaying seven liners in reaching this port.

The storm claimed many casualties over the wide area in which it raged and caused the death of one man at Stamford, Conn. Near Point Pleasant, N. J., the body of a man was washed ashore. There were no identifying marks on the body, which was believed to be that of a sailor.

The gale caused widespread disappointment as well as untold property damage, because it forced the postponement of the opening of the baseball season in many cities in the East.

It was one of the worst storms in recent years, sweeping the coast from Maine to Norfolk, Va., swelling rivers in some sections almost to the flood stage, and uprooting trees here and in other cities. Several thrilling rescues were reported, one being the saving of eighteen men from the tugboat Perth Amboy III by the crew of her sister ship, the Perth Amboy II a few minutes before the Perth Amboy III foundered between Robbins Reef and Staten Island, yesterday morning.

Coast Residents Apprehensive.

Although the local Weather Bureau officials predicted better weather today, residents along the New Jersey and Long Island coasts who had felt the fury of the gale continuously since Monday night were apprehensive last night, fearful of further damage that might be done when the tide reached its flood at 1 o'clock this morning. A lull early in the evening gave rise to the hope that the gale had spent itself, but this lull was of short duration. Later in the evening the wind arose and the rain poured down again.

Delaware and Pennsylvania also were lashed by the storm, which traveled up the New York-Pennsylvania line, where several inches of snow fell during the previous night and where yesterday's rain was interspersed with snow, according to The Associated Press.

Diminishing winds shifting to north and northwest and rising temperatures were predicted for today. According to the local Weather Bureau, the wind here reached its maximum of thirty-eight miles an hour at 9:30 A. M., but at Sandy Hook it blew sixty miles an hour. Atlantic City emerged practically unscathed after feeling the wind at a maximum of seventy-eight miles an hour. New York Harbor had an unusually high tide of 7.6 feet, which was within less than a foot of the record. The water was within a foot of the top of the Battery sea wall.

Oil Barge Goes Down.

The worst damage done by the storm here was the sinking of the oil barge Fred E. Hasler, loaded with 1,700 tons of whale oil, near Pier 6 at Tompkinsville, S. I. The oil

Fishing Permit Voted Coolidge By Connecticut Legislature

HARTFORD, Conn., April 16 (AP).—By rising vote in honor of former President Coolidge, the General Assembly enacted a bill today empowering the Governor to issue complimentary fishing and hunting licenses, one of which will go to the former President when he comes to visit the State during the "fishing season."

As Mr. Coolidge has told Governor Trumbull he would visit the State during the fishing season, the legislators wished to honor him by allowing the Governor to issue a complimentary license. The bill was passed under suspension of rules.

LIQUOR IS PLENTIFUL ON LEVIATHAN TRIP

Ship Did Not Officially Sell It Going East, but Some of the Crew Did.

WET POLICY FOR RETURN

Liquor Will Be Sold by Liner to Change 'Hypocritical State of Affairs' and End Bootlegging.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHERBOURG, April 16.—Still officially dry, despite the announcement after sailing from New York that her stores of medicinal liquor would be sold to passengers, the now privately owned Leviathan called at Cherbourg today. Passengers debarking here, however, proclaimed enthusiastically that the crossing had been quite satisfactorily wet.

This seeming contradiction was explained by the fact that the ship was unofficially wet, just as it is said to have been heretofore under government operation. But orders to change "this hypocritical state of affairs" will go into effect on the return westbound crossing.

Captain Harold A. Cunningham received the following instructions by wireless from New York when the liner was two days out:

"Purchase liquor for the estimated consumption by westbound passengers. Any surplus must be thrown overboard before reaching the twelve-mile limit. The liquor is to be served only on individual orders. No bottle other than wine is to be served to the public in their rooms. No bar will be permitted aboard any vessel of the company.

Ordered to Live Up to Law.

"Seal the liquor before reaching the twelve-mile limit and have in stock on your arrival a supply identical with those listed on the permit on the eastbound departure. Take every possible precaution to avoid bootlegging, and in handling the matter see that the law is lived up to in every particular."

The message was signed by Joseph E. Sheedy, executive vice president of the United States Lines, Inc., the new owner.

David A. Burke, general manager of the United States Lines, the ship's former operator working under the Shipping Board, was among the Leviathan's passengers. Asked whether Mr. Sheedy's wireless order to Captain Cunningham to prevent bootlegging was meant to indicate that the company was aware it had been done by stewards in the past, Mr. Burke answered:

"The message might be interpreted in that way, I suppose, but it indicated clearly that if such a hypocritical state of affairs existed pre-

France Puts English Under Smallpox Ban; Bars Those Not Vaccinated in Last 2 Months

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—A drastic smallpox decree by France insisting that all visitors from England must present a certificate showing they have been vaccinated during the last two months has thrown Continental travel into a turmoil and staggered authorities here.

The decree is the outcome of an outbreak of the scourge on the liner Tuscania while she was homeward bound from India last week. Several hundred passengers were landed at Marseilles and traveled across France to London. Since then seven deaths have occurred among the passengers and members of the crew, who had scattered all over England. The number of "contacts" now runs into the thousands.

To make matters worse, another liner, the Mashobra, is en route here from Bombay, where the outbreak originated, with more cases on board, and it was stated in Parliament yesterday that an engineer, a "contact" from the Tuscania, had been transferred to the liner Caledonia, now in New York.

News of France's swift action was first received today by the Southern Railway Company, which runs the majority of cross-Channel steamers. About 2,000 people travel to France daily from English ports, and unless they can produce the certificate showing they have been freshly vaccinated they will not be allowed to land after tomorrow.

Moreover, air and steamship companies must provide the French immigration authorities with a complete list of passengers, with destinations and the addresses where they are staying in France. The decrees will remain in force until the epidemic here has abated.

London hotels were full tonight of Americans from the Mauretania and the Leviathan, indignant at the prospect of having to be revaccinated before continuing their journey to France. In some quarters it is thought that sufficient pressure will be brought to bear upon the French Government to obtain a withdrawal of the decree within the next few days.

Captain Alexander Collie, master of the Anchor liner Caledonia, denied last night that his vessel had violated quarantine regulations in taking aboard two members of the crew of the Tuscania. He said there was no contact with the Tuscania except to take on the two men, both properly vaccinated. William Lindsay, chief steward of the Caledonia, said there was no truth in the statement that the ship had taken twenty-three cases of chickens and seven barrels of ducks from the Tuscania, as alleged in the House of Commons.

HOOVER FOR FARM BOARD AS EXPERIMENT AND 'LIMITED' REVISION OF THE TARIFF; SHARP DIVISIONS RISE IN BOTH PARTIES

DEMOCRATS PROMISE FIGHT

Stimson Will Oppose Curtailing of Free Trade With the Philippines.

HULL AND GARNER AT ODDS

Former Calls Longworth's Statement on Democratic Views 'Baldest Impudence.'

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Strife within the ranks of the Republican majority, as well as among the Democratic minority, over certain features of the tariff revision, was forecast today with President Hoover's recommendation in his message for the establishment of a "sounder basis for valuation" in assessing duties on foreign goods.

Some Democrats maintain that the logical effect of the President's plan of customs valuation would raise the level of rates, and on this ground they intend to fight it tooth and nail.

The President's views are understood to be in accord with a tentative agreement on valuation reached by the Republican majority of the Ways and Means Committee.

In substance, this provides that the law shall adhere to the present system of basing duties on foreign invoice figures, except where it is obvious that goods are undervalued and where figures on cost of production are refused by foreign manufacturers.

In such cases, under the pending proposal, the Treasury Department would assess the duty on what the foreign article would sell for in this market minus duty, transportation and insurance. The Treasury's decision on questions of facts would be final and not subject to judicial review, as at present.

Treasury Control New Feature.

A new feature of the proposed plan would transfer final control over rates to the Treasury Department instead of leaving it to the courts as now. In the opinion of the Administration, as well as sponsors of the method in Congress, it would provide more elastic regulation and in no wise react to the disadvantage of foreign manufacturers, unless they resisted the endeavors of American agents to obtain figures on production costs.

President Hoover emphasized the difficulties experienced in valuing some goods shipped on consignment by foreign manufacturers to companies they control in the United States.

As an illustration, a House leader pointed out that makers of French perfumes having establishments in this country ship to the latter material of which there is no comparable kind made in the United States. There have been innumerable controversies over questions of valuation in such cases.

Some farm bloc members and a majority of the Democrats look askance on any change in valuation methods, fearing they represent compliance in part with the demands made by representatives of manufacturing interests.

Other developments indicated that there will be trouble over the tariff bill in the House as well as in the Senate.

Stimson Ally of Filipinos.

Secretary Stimson, former Governor General of the Philippines, will confer tomorrow with Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee over proposals looking to the curtailment of free trade relations between the United States and that archipelago.

Secretary Stimson seems apprehensive that amendments to the tariff bill may be adopted placing a limitation on the importation of duty-free sugar from the Philippines, and possibly imposing a duty on other products of the Islands. He is anxious to head off any such step in the House committee. He will tell the Republicans of the committee, it is understood, that even part abandonment of the free trade principle would renew agitation for independence in the Islands.

Representative Timberlake of Colorado, a Republican member of the Ways and Means committee, and Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman of the Finance Committee, advocated a limitation on the shipment of duty-free sugar from the Philippines. Mr. Timberlake would limit such shipments to 500,000 tons a year. Members of Congress from the Agricultural West not only demand curtailment of duty-free sugar, but are in-

1,000 Bills Already in House; Not One Offered in Senate

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—With 300 bills and resolutions introduced in the House today, the total for the first two days of the special Congressional session was brought to more than 1,000. The Senate has yet to receive its first legislative proposal.

Representative McLeod, Republican, of Michigan, proposed a commission of seven, to be appointed by the President, to study the causes and remedy of periodic business depression and unemployment. The commission would report to Congress in December, with recommendations for legislation.

A bill by Representative Schafer, Republican, of Wisconsin, would amend the national prohibition act to permit the manufacture, transportation and sale of beverages of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content by weight.

SENATORS CLING TO DEBENTURE PLAN

Unless Hoover Spurns It More Specifically Than in Message, It Will Be in Farm Bill.

FIGHT ON FLOOR PROMISED

House Committee Adopts the Haugen Measure—Quick Passage Is Likely.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Apparently unconvinced by President Hoover's message that he is absolutely opposed to the export debenture plan for the disposal of crop surpluses, members of the Senate Agricultural Committee were believed tonight to be ready to insert the plan as an optional clause in the farm relief measure they expect to report to the Senate on Monday.

It is not a certainty that the debenture scheme will be included in the Senate bill, but there are very strong indications that it will.

Some Republican members stand ready to reject the idea if Mr. Hoover specifically disapproves it before Chairman McNary is ready to lay a completed bill before the committee on Thursday. But the solid Democratic membership and all the committee Republicans except four or five seem insistent that the debenture proposal be written into the bill.

Whether or not the committee accepts the debenture plan, it is certain to be offered on the floor of the Senate, with resulting heated debate. The Democrats, according to one leader this afternoon, are "100 per cent" for the plan and nine to eleven insurgent Republicans are counted upon to favor it. Friends of the scheme asserted confidently that it would have a majority if brought to a vote.

Committee Talks Over Message.

The Senate committee met in the afternoon to discuss the Hoover message and talk over the chances for the debenture idea. No action was taken, but sentiment appeared to crystallize in favor of the plan.

The House Agricultural Committee went swiftly ahead and ordered a favorable report on the Haugen farm relief bill, proposing that the debate be started Thursday.

The House plans to pass the farm bill by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, under a special rule to be framed by the Rules Committee tomorrow. Indications are that general debate on the bill will end in the House on Saturday night and that the measure will be taken up under a five-minute rule on Monday.

Definite decision whether to place the debenture scheme in the Senate bill will not be taken until after Mr. Hoover sends the committee his conclusions, which a subcommittee asked from him during a White House visit last week and which he promised to convey after having an expert economic study made.

It is generally believed Mr. Hoover will oppose the idea as maintaining a constant drain upon the Treasury, but its backers say they are not sure he will object to it as an optional and not a mandatory plan. Under the tentative proposal of the Senate committee, the contemplated Farm Board would use the debenture plan at its discretion and in an emergency where other methods of handling the surplus seemed ineffective.

Would Avoid a Veto.

Some Senate Republicans most enthusiastic about the debenture idea as an optional solution will hesitate to vote for it if they are convinced

HOOVER SUBMITS MESSAGE

He Urges on Congress Federal Loans to Aid Farm Agencies.

DECLARES PRICE-FIXING BAN

President Emphasizes Relief Plan Is a Test, but That a Start Should Be Made.

VALUATION HERE FOR TARIFF

Census, Reapportionment and Further Delay of National Origins Are Advocated.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Hoover's long-awaited message outlining the work for which he called Congress into extra session and which was read in the Senate and House today contained no surprises discernible in the message as to the scope of the legislation he proposed, but had interesting suggestions as to the character of the farm relief and tariff revision measures he regarded as necessary for enactment to relieve prevailing conditions in agriculture and industry.

The President clung to his prior insistence that tariff revision should be "limited" and stressed his belief that government aid to the farmers should be administered chiefly by the farmers themselves through marketing organizations owned and conducted by farmers.

The creation of a government farm board to have supervision over the public funds advanced as loans to farm organizations and to assist agriculture in other ways is advocated by the President. He refers to it several times as a great instrumentality and compares its functions to those of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Reserve Board. A striking feature of his message is that he speaks of the farm aid proposal as experimental, but believes that a start should be made.

Incidentally, in the concluding paragraph to the message the President suggests that in addition to enacting farm relief and tariff legislation Congress will be able to act on the much-delayed measures for taking the census of 1930, reapportioning representation in the House of Representatives, and further postponing, or, as the President desires, repealing the provision of the general immigration act of 1924 applying the method of national origins in determining quotas of admissible immigrants into the United States.

Views in Congress Vary.

It usually is difficult to obtain genuine reaction in Congress to Presidential recommendations, especially on controversial subjects, and there was no exception to the rule in the Senate and the House after the President's message had been read in both bodies today. Partisanship almost always dominates the views expressed for publication.

Democrats were disposed to be critical of the President's observations on the ground that they were vague and inconclusive, while Republicans praised what he had to say. To the Republicans, according to their expressions, his statements were clear, frank and informative and of the kind to be expected from an efficient business executive.

Perhaps it is not going too far to say that a thread of disappointment that the President was not more specific in his suggestions for farm relief and tariff revision legislation ran through the private comment of some Senators and Representatives who were not disposed to be publicly critical.

Probably the most important feature of the President's observations, in its application to the entire country, is his advocacy of the system of placing American valuation on imported products subject to ad valorem customs duties, instead of continuing the present method of accepting foreign valuations. He points out that it is difficult to determine whether foreign valuations correctly represent the cost of production abroad.

Pleasing to Manufacturers.

This advocacy of the American valuation system will be especially pleasing to domestic manufacturers who ask for high tariff protection for their own products, even if they are to be disappointed over the desire of the President to have only limited revision of the schedules at the Fordney-McCumber tariff act. Recent press dispatches from Europe have demonstrated that government and industry there are alarmed over the prospect.

Another important feature of the President's message is his recommendation that the Federal Tariff Commission shall be reorganized. He does not go into detail as to what he desires, but the idea underlying his proposal for reorganization is that the commission shall function in a way to make it more quickly responsive to proposals for exercising its authority, with the President's approval, to raise or lower tariff rates.

While the President does not make any explicit statement of his idea of a plan for applying the system of American valuation to imports, it was learned from persons close to him, including members of the Senate and the House, that his purpose and that of the Congressional leaders is not to apply American valuation generally to all imported articles.

What is designed is to give customs appraisers greater latitude in individual instances of imported shipments. It is intended to adhere to the present method of valuation, which is based on foreign invoice prices, but to provide an alternative plan which may be invoked where American administrative officials are unable to determine definitely the production costs of any particular shipment of foreign goods.

Farm Views Accord With Bill.

The edge had been taken off the President's views as to the essentials of a farm relief measure by the action of the House Committee on Agriculture on Sunday in giving out the text of the bill which it had drafted. This bill, which was published textually in THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday and was introduced in the House yesterday, is generally in accord with the President's ideas.

The measure contains no provision for the equalization fee which President Coolidge condemned in his messages vetoing the two McNary-Haugen bills, and emphasizes the conclusions of Mr. Hoover, as set forth in today's message, that the system of agricultural marketing through organizations of farmers should be extended under the encouragement afforded by government financial aid administered by a Federal Farm Board.

Nor does the President mention the so-called debenture plan of aiding the farmers to get better prices for the surplus products they ship abroad. This plan is now under consideration by the Senate Committee on Agriculture in its work of drafting a farm bill of its own.

President Hoover has promised Congressional leaders that he will submit his views on this proposal in a communication separate from today's message and the general impression is that he will condemn the debenture scheme.

This plan, which is advocated chiefly by the national grange, and sponsored in the committee by Senator Norris of Nebraska, would provide that when a farmer shipped his surplus crop abroad the United States Government would give him a certificate entitling him to a rebate or bounty of one-half the duty that would be assessed on his crop if it were produced abroad and imported into this country.

Thus, if he shipped a farm product amounting to 100 bushels and the import duty on the same product of an equal amount was $2, the farmer would receive a debenture certificate of one-half that amount, or $1. These certificates would be negotiable and would be purchased by customs brokers or importers and used by them in paying duties on imported shipments they received.

Speed in Flexible Rates Sought.

The President holds that seven years' experience with the flexible tariff has shown it to be practical, but it is apparent that he is not satisfied with the manner in which the business of the present commission has been conducted.

It has been estimated that it takes about two years for the commission to determine whether the duty on any specific article shall be raised or lowered. The President feels that the commission should be able to act in months instead of years, and it would not be surprising if in the future, under a reorganized commission, he would regard two months as ample time for that body to function in any particular case.

As for the tariff itself, the President sees no necessity for any general strengthening of the protective principle by raising duties all along the line. That was done seven years ago in the Fordney-McCumber bill, he points out.

In his view, revision should be based on whether a particular domestic commodity has prospered or suffered. In his observations on the tariff he offers an interesting argument. His idea is that if domestic industries which are suffering for lack of tariff protection should be placed upon a substantial protective basis with consequent high wages to those who work in them, there would follow an increased standard of living among the workers benefited, with a demand for goods from abroad that are not produced in America. Thus, according to his contention, foreign industries and those who work in them would be stimulated.

In this connection the President seeks to allay alarm in foreign countries over a prospective increase in certain American tariff duties on their products.

"No discrimination against any foreign industry is involved," he says, "in equalizing the difference in costs of production abroad and thus taking from foreign producers the advantages they derive from paying lower wages to labor."

Fee Plan Quickly Dismissed.

Realizing that the equalization fee is dead, the President makes only the briefest reference to it when he says of farm relief legislation that "there should be no fee or tax imposed upon the farmer." Summarizing the reasons for agricultural depression, he takes it as established that there is real necessity for farm relief.

In connection with such measures of relief as Congress may take, he includes waterway development to decrease the cost of transporting farm products, and an extension of the tariff on agricultural products further to protect the farmer. He says that in these two particulars "the government has a special mandate from the recent election."

No mention is made in the Presidential message of the amount of government money that should be placed at the Federal Farm Board's disposal to encourage better marketing of farm crops. The House bill puts the revolving fund placed at the board's disposal at $500,000,000.

In his message, however, the President calls attention to the necessity of the board having funds "to assist in creating and sustaining farmer-owned and farmer-controlled agencies for a variety of purposes."

What these purposes are the President sets forth as acquiring warehouses and other facilities for marketing; working capital to be advanced against commodities in storage; advances to farmer-owned corporations which will purchase surplus crops and market them when favorable conditions warrant; to support clearing houses especially to handle perishable products and market them. Other uses for the capital advanced by the government are mentioned.

Word of Warning to Farmers.

Into the message a word of warning is written. The President wants it understood that the farmer must not think that with the government furnishing the capital necessary to overcome distressing conditions he has no part to perform. He wants the freedom of the farmers maintained. There must be no undermining of initiative among them.

The farmers and the people as a whole must not be subjected to "bureaucratic and government domination and interference." There must be no price fixing of farm products. Increasing surplus production should not be tolerated by the operations of the government board.

Unprofitable marginal lands should be eliminated. The farmers should be encouraged to diversify their crops. If marketing is being conducted satisfactorily through established farm organizations, there should be no lending of government funds to supplement these existing facilities.

It is a big job that President Hoover outlines for the farm board whose creation he advocates.

Text of President's Message to Congress

TO THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES:

I have called this special session of Congress to redeem two pledges given in the last election—farm relief and limited changes in the tariff.

The difficulties of the agricultural industry arise out of a multitude of causes. A heavy indebtedness was inherited by the industry from the deflation processes of 1920. Disorderly and wasteful methods of marketing have developed. The growing specialization in the industry has for years been increasing the proportion of products that now leave the farm and, in consequence, prices have been unduly depressed by congested marketing at the harvest or by the occasional climatic surpluses.

Railway rates have necessarily increased. There has been a growth of competition in the world markets from countries that enjoy cheaper labor or more nearly virgin soils. There was a great expansion of production from our marginal lands during the war, and upon these profitable enterprise under normal conditions cannot be maintained. Meanwhile their continued output tends to aggravate the situation.

Local taxes have doubled and in some cases trebled. Work animals have been steadily replaced by mechanical appliances, thereby decreasing the consumption of farm products. There are many other contributing causes.

The general result has been that our agricultural industry has not kept pace in prosperity or standards of living with other lines of industry.

Problem One of Method.

There being no disagreement as to the need of farm relief, the problem before us becomes one of method by which relief may be most successfully brought about. Because of the multitude of causes and because agriculture is not one industry but a score of industries, we are confronted not with a single problem alone, but a great number of problems. Therefore there is no single plan or principle that can be generally applied.

Some of the forces working to the detriment of agriculture can be greatly mitigated by improving our waterway transportation; some of them by readjustment of the tariff; some by better understanding and adjustment of production needs, and some by improvement in the methods of marketing.

Such an effective tariff upon agricultural products, that will compensate the farmer's higher costs and higher standards of living, has a dual purpose. Such a tariff not only protects the farmer in our domestic market, but it also stimulates him to diversify his crops and to grow products that he could not otherwise produce, and thus lessens his dependence upon exports to foreign markets. The great expansion of production abroad under the conditions I have mentioned renders foreign competition in our export markets increasingly serious.

It seems but natural, therefore, that the American farmer, having been greatly handicapped in his foreign market by such competition from the younger expanding countries, should ask that foreign access to our domestic market should be regulated by taking into account the differences in our costs of production.

The government has a special mandate from the recent election not only to further develop our waterways and revise the agricultural tariff, but also to extend systematic relief in other directions.

For Federal Farm Board.

I have long held that the multiplicity of causes of agricultural depression could only be met by the creation of a great instrumentality clothed with sufficient authority and resources to assist our farmers to meet these problems, each upon its own merits. The creation of such an agency would at once tranfer the agricultural question from the field of politics into the realm of economics and would result in constructive action. The Administration is pledged to create an instrumentality that will investigate the causes, find sound remedies and have the authority and resources to apply those remedies.

The pledged purpose of such a Federal Farm Board is the reorganization of the marketing system on sounder and more stable and more economic lines.

To do this the board will require funds to assist in creating and sustaining farmer-owned and farmer-controlled agencies for a variety of purposes, such as the acquisition of adequate warehousing and other facilities for marketing; adequate working capital to be advanced against commodities lodged for storage; necessary and prudent advances to corporations created and owned by farmers' marketing organizations for the purchase and orderly marketing of surpluses occasioned by climatic variations or by harvest congestion; to authorize the creation and support of clearing houses, especially for perishable products, through which, under producers' approval, cooperation can be established with distributers and processors to more orderly marketing of commodities and for the elimination of many wastes in distribution; and to provide for licensing of handlers of some perishable products so as to eliminate unfair practices.

Every penny of waste between farmer and consumer that we can eliminate, whether it arises from methods of distribution or from hazard or speculation, will be a gain to both farmer and consumer.

In addition to these special provisions in the direction of improved returns, the board should be organized to investigate every field of economic betterment for the farmer so as to furnish guidance as to need in production, to devise methods for elimination of unprofitable marginal lands and their adaption to other uses, to develop industrial by-products, and to survey a score of other fields of helpfulness.

Certain safeguards must naturally surround these activities and the instrumentalities that are created. Certain vital principles must be adhered to in order that we may not undermine the freedom of our farmers and of our people as a whole by bureaucratic and governmental domination and interference. We must not undermine initiative.

No Fee or Price-Fixing.

There should be no fee or tax imposed upon the farmer. No governmental agency should engage in the buying and selling and price-fixing of products, for such courses can lead only to bureaucracy and domination.

Government funds should not be loaned or facilities duplicated where other services of credit and facilities are available at reasonable rates. No activities should be set in motion that will result in increasing the surplus production, as such will defeat any plans of relief.

The most progressive movement in all agriculture has been the upbuilding of the farmer's own marketing organizations, which now embrace nearly 2,000,000 farmers in membership and annually distribute nearly $2,500,000,000 worth of farm products. These organizations have acquired experience in virtually every branch of their industry and furnish a substantial basis upon which to build further organization. Not all these marketing organizations are farmer-owned or farmer-controlled.

In order to strengthen and not to undermine them, all proposals for governmental assistance should originate with such organizations and be the result of their application. Moreover, by such bases of organization the government will be removed from engaging in the business of agriculture.

The difficulties of agriculture cannot be cured in a day; they cannot all be cured by legislation; they cannot be cured by the Federal Government alone. But farmers and their organizations can be assisted to overcome these inequalities. Every effort of this character is an experiment, and we shall find from our experience the way to further advance.

We must make a start. With the creation of a great instrumentality of this character, of a strength and importance equal to that of those which we have created for transportation and banking, we give immediate assurance of the determined purpose of the government to meet the difficulties of which we are now aware, and to create an agency through which constructive action for the future will be assured.

In this treatment of this problem we recognize the responsibility of the people as a whole, and we shall lay the foundations for a new day in agriculture, from which we shall preserve to the nation the great values of its individuality and strengthen our whole national fabric.

Changes Asked in Tariff.

In considering the tariff for other industries than agriculture, we find that there have been economic shifts necessitating a readjustment of some of the tariff schedules. Seven years of experience under the tariff bill enacted in 1922 have demonstrated the wisdom of Congress in the enactment of that measure. On the whole it has worked well. In the main our wages have been maintained at high levels; our exports and imports have steadily increased; with some exceptions our manufacturing industries have been prosperous.

Nevertheless, economic changes have taken place during that time which have placed certain domestic products at a disadvantage and new industries have come into being, all of which creates the necessity for some limited changes in the schedules and in the administrative clauses of the laws as written in 1922.

It would seem to me that the test of necessity for revision is, in the main, whether there has been a substantial slackening of activity in an industry during the past few years, and a consequent decrease of employment due to insurmountable competition in the products of that industry. It is not as if we were setting up a new basis of productive duties. We did that seven years ago. What we need to remedy now is whatever substantial loss of employment may have resulted from shifts since that time.

No discriminaiton against any foreign industry is involved in equalizing the difference in costs of production at home and abroad and thus taking from foreign producers the advantages they derive from paying lower wages to labor. Indeed, such equalization is not only a measure of social justice at home, but by the lift it gives to our standards of living we increase the demand for those goods from abroad that we do not ourselves produce. In a large sense, we have learned that the cheapening of the toiler decreases rather than promotes permanent prosperity because it reduces the consuming power of the people.

Foreign Trade Called Vital.

In determining changes in our tariff we must not fail to take into account the broad interests of the country as a whole, and such interests include our trade relations with other countries. It is obviously unwise protection which sacrifices a greater amount of employment in exports to gain a less amount of employment from imports.

I am impressed with the fact that we also need important revision in some of the administrative phases of the tariff. The Tariff Commission should be reorganized and placed upon a basis of higher salaries in order that we may at all times command men of the broadest attainments.

Seven years of experience have proved the principle of flexible tariff to be practical, and in the long view a most important principle to maintain. However, the basis upon which the Tariff Commission makes its recommendations to the President for administrative changes in the rates of duty should be made more automatic and more comprehensive, to the end that the time required for determinations by the Tariff Commission shall be greatly shortened. The formula upon which the commission must now act often requires that years be consumed in reaching conclusions where it should require only months. Its very purpose is defeated by delays. I believe a formula can be found that will insure rapid and accurate determination of needed changes in rates. With such strengthening of the Tariff Commission and of its basis for action, many secondary changes in tariff can well be left to action by the commission, which at the same time will give complete security to industry for the future.

For New Valuation Basis.

Furthermore, considerable weaknesses on the administrative side of the tariff have developed, especially in the valuation for assessments of duty. There are cases of under-valuations, that are difficulty to discover without access to the books of foreign manufacturers, which they are reluctant to offer. This has become also a great source of friction abroad. There is increasing shipment of goods on consignment, particularly by foreign shippers to concerns that they control in the United States, and this practice makes valuations difficult to determine. I believe it is desirable to furnish to the Treasury a sounder basis for valuation in these and other cases.

It is my understanding that it is the purpose of the leaders of Congress to confine the deliberations of the session mainly to the questions of farm relief and tariff. In this policy I concur.

There are, however, certain matters of emergency legislation that were partially completed in the last session, such as the decennial census, the reapportionment of Congressional representation and the suspension of the national origins clause of the immigration act of 1924, together with some minor administrative authorizations.

I understand that these measures can be reundertaken without unduly extending the session. I recommend their consummation as being in the public interest.

HOOVER FOR LIMITED REVISION OF TARIFF

sistent that Philippine cocoanut oil shall be placed on the dutiable list.

Mr. Stimson declined to comment today on reports that he would protest to the House committee against any change in the Cuban sugar differential.

It was said today that while the Republican majority had tentatively decided on a rate of $3 per 100 pounds on world sugar and $2.40 on Cuban sugar, the former might be scaled to $2.75 and the latter retained at $2.20.

Hull Replies to Longworth.

Representative Hull of Tennessee, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, took exception to the statement made yesterday by Speaker Longworth in his speech of acceptance that "the line of cleavage on the tariff between the political parties would seem to have crumbled in the past few years almost to questions of detail."

The Tennessean called Mr. Longworth's statement the "baldest impudence," and declared that if it were accepted as truth by the minority party, the "Democratic party in the future would place itself on the auction block every two years, as does the Republican party."

"I denounce this proposed course as an outrageous libel on the great historic Democratic party and on sound economics," he declared.

Asserting that the average rates under the existing Republican tariff were 55.3 per cent, by far the highest rate in the history of the country either in peace or war, he continued:

"It is almost horrifying to contemplate that Democrats, without productive efficiency vastly increased, should now make abject surrender to the Fordney policy of superprotection.

"Soon the American people will awaken from their post-war reveries and proceed to re-examine the outrageous Fordney schedules which have largely wrecked agriculture, and when they do so, even casually, there will be an uprising and an economic revolution in this country such as would make those of 1892, 1910 and 1912 pale into insignificance.

Expect Garner to Lead Fight.

"I prefer to hold fast to the tested economic wisdom and philosophy of Jefferson, Jackson, Tilden, Cleveland and Wilson, rather than to follow supinely those who would now make the great Democratic party subservient to the most corrupt partnership between politics and vested interests in American history."

Mr. Hull's words are taken as service of a notice that he expects Representative Garner of Texas, the new Democratic floor leader, to make a militant fight on the Republican tariff bill. The Texan today refused to discuss the Hull statement. He said he was not prepared to pass judgment on the tariff bill until he was advised of its terms. At present, he said, he was in the dark as to the purposes of the Republican majority.

Mr. Garner said it had not been decided whether the Democratic minority in the House would caucus on the tariff bill. That was for the members to decide, he said. It was said that Mr. Hull and Mr. Garner are hopelessly divided on the tariff and that their differences might be threshed out in a party caucus.

Leaders in Congress Comment on the Message

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Hoover's first message to Congress was generally approved by Republican leaders. It was endorsed in some particulars by the Democrats, although many, together with the Republican insurgents, expressed dissent with the President's farm relief views.

Senate Democrats were more outspoken in voicing lack of satisfaction with Mr. Hoover's presentment than were their party colleagues in the House.

SENATOR WATSON, Republican, of Indiana—A sound message, thoroughly comprehensive and lucidly setting forth the views of the President on the two subjects in which the country now is most deeply interested. I believe the message will prove a potential force in directing Congress in the consideration of these important measures.

SENATOR CAPPER, Republican, of Kansas—The message is all right as far as it goes. Of course, we had hoped the President would give us a detailed plan. But his position is the same as it has been ever since he became President.

SENATOR NORRIS, Republican, of Nebraska—I haven't found anything new in it. We all agree that agriculture is in a very unfortunate position. The President, though, hasn't touched on the question of surplus. He hasn't definitely outlined any remedy. We are in the same position as before.

SENATOR REED, Republican, of Pennsylvania—I am sorry that President Hoover has thought it necessary to urge the repeal of the national origins clause in the immigration act. I feel certain that the American people are satisfied with their present policy of restrictive immigration. It was never more vital than now. To surrender on national origins would be surrender to foreign blocs. I do not think the law ought to be amended and I do not think it will be.

I think it significant that in all of Mr. Hoover's pronouncements on national origins he has given no reason for its repeal, nor has he offered any substitute.

Tariff and immigration are two of our principal problems. We must restrict immigration in the most practical and scientific way, dealing fairly with all groups, and we must restrict the flow of foreign goods to the United States in such a way as to protect our own essential industries. Any tariff revision necessarily must be a general revision. We cannot open up some schedules and extend protection to some items and at the same time deny protection to other manufacturers and other commodities which need it.

SENATOR BROOKHART, Republican, of Iowa—The tariff recommendations were fairly satisfactory. The tariff rates recommended take into account the difference in our cost of production as to all agricultural imports that can be produced in the United States. This rate of protection would be a price-fixing device that would give the farmer his cost of production.

However, his (the President's) position is entirely reversed when it comes to those agricultural products that have an exportable surplus. The statement that no governmental agency should engage in buying and selling and price-fixing of products is entirely inconsistent with the other position which does fix the cost of production price.

During the campaign in 200 speeches I pointed out that the government did fix the price of wheat both during and after the war upon the basis of cost of production; that Mr. Hoover bought this wheat at that price with government funds, held it and sold it at a profit; that in 1919, after the war was over, he asked and on March 4 got a billion-dollar appropriation to continue these operations for the 1919 crop, and that he opposed the discontinuance of the wheat corporation in 1920. This action is inconsistent with the recommendations of the message.

The promise of equality for agriculture demands that the government use its funds in like manner for the farmers of the country. There is also precedent in the law for all this in the organization of the Federal Land Bank as well as a plan for turning it back to the farmers under cooperative control.

SENATOR NORBECK, Republican, of South Dakota—He is as sympathetic as President Coolidge and has stated his position just as well.

SENATOR ROBINSON, Democrat, of Arkansas—The President's message is brief and clearly states the farm problem. It is, perhaps, unavoidably indefinite with respect to remedies. I take issue with the declaration that the flexible tariff provision should be maintained. I think it should be repealed. How is it expected that tariff revision will aid farmers? What schedules does the President propose shall be revised? There is real danger that the benefits from any farm relief bill which may be passed will be offset by increased burdens growing out of the revision.

I also take issue with the President's declaration that expenses incident to farm relief shall not be borne by the crops benefited. The definite measure of the administration is awaited with interest.

SENATOR DILL, Democrat, of Washington—When the President suggests that one of the principal aids to the farmers will be a higher tariff on farm products, what defense will he have against the export debenture plan? By his own recommendation he opens the way to the debenture plan.

SENATOR MOSES, Republican, of New Hampshire—The bones of the farm relief measure are laid out in the President's message. It now remains for Congress to clothe them with appropriate legislation.

SENATOR SWANSON, Democrat, of Virginia—The President presents very clearly and forcibly the wretched condition to which agriculture has been reduced after eight years of Republican administration. The distress of agriculture and necessity for relief are now universally conceded. The proposed relief is very vague and general, contains many pleasing platitudes and cannot be specifically approved or disapproved until the bills to carry out the suggestions have been reported and considered.

SENATOR VANDENBERG, Republican, of Michigan—President Hoover's official recognition of the reapportionment issue does great credit to his constitutional consistency. It is logical that the leader who asks the country to obey the Constitution should insist first that Congress should yield to the same mandate. Yet I believe this is the first Presidential recognition of reapportionment in all the years of nullification since 1920.

SENATOR JONES, Republican, of Washington—It is a clear and comprehensive message on the subjects he desires to consider. His suggestions regarding agriculture are comprehensive and concrete. It is a wise and businesslike message.

SENATOR SACKETT, Republican, of Kentucky—It was a good, clear message. The tariff section should reassure business in all directions that we are not in for anything that will disturb the present prosperous conditions.

SENATOR McNARY, Republican, of Oregon—It was a good description of farm conditions. He made rather clear his notions on a remedy, amplifying somewhat his St. Louis speech. However, he expressed no opinion regarding the debenture plan. The outline, I think, of his plan followed pretty closely a bill I introduced last year which is generally embodied in the House bill.

SENATOR McKELLAR, Democrat, of Tennessee—There were so many glittering generalities I did not understand it. It will be impossible to limit the legislative program, in the Senate, at least. Undoubtedly, legislation will be introduced to alter the Federal Reserve laws and there will be a great deal of discussion on this point.

SENATOR CARAWAY, Democrat, of Arkansas—I was just impressed with the foresight of a Danish prince 400 years ago. You remember that when Ophelia asked Hamlet what he was reading he answered, "Only words."

SENATOR NYE, Republican, of North Dakota—Boards of trade, buying and selling agricultural products, have always had it in their power to help agriculture to a better reward than has been its lot, but they have, instead, been concerned only with their own profits. If the President believes there can be effective legislation for agriculture and effective administration of that legislation without infringing upon the profits of the Board of Trade leeches, he is off in a blind alley.

I wish that the President, who I believe realizes this fact, had faced this issue more squarely and thrown down the challenge to those who have profited exceedingly through the favor of handling of products between the producer and the consumer.

There can be no effective farm legislation that does not step upon the toes of the grain trade as constituted at the present time. If that thought has in any measure prompted the first message by the President to Congress, I have no criticism to offer of the message and shall expect to see the Hoover Administration not only fostering cooperative enterprise by lending a protective hand but as well when those enterprises are subjected to the programs of sabotage and boycott which have been administered in other days by the Board of Trade interests. The real test for the President will come when this conflict arises.

SPEAKER LONGWORTH, Republican, of Ohio—It is an excellent message. I am in entire accord with the views expressed by the President on farm relief and the tariff.

REPRESENTATIVE TILSON of Connecticut, Republican House leader—As a whole the message is well expressed. It is clear. It is short and to the point. At the same time, it is comprehensive. I think Congress is in no doubt as to what Mr. Hoover means in regard to farm legislation. I think the members can make no mistake in following his views.

REPRESENTATIVE GRAHAM, Republican, of Pennsylvania—The message is a thoughtful, concise paper and properly confines itself to those subjects that alone should be considered in the extra session. It is to be hoped that the suggestions will be followed.

REPRESENTATIVE SNELL, Republican, of New York—It was just what I expected from a business man. It was businesslike in every respect and clearly charts the course Congress should follow. It coincides with my own beliefs that tariff chages should be limited to such schedules as are affected by changed business conditions. I am pleased to see that he confines his message to the emergency subjects Congress was called to consider.

REPRESENTATIVE WATSON, Republican, of Pennsylvania—The President's message strengthens the domestic policies that have maintained the prosperity and growth of our country, confirms confidence in his administration and faith in his foreign relations.

REPRESENTATIVE BACON, Republican, of New York—It settles the farm issue. Congress now has a definite and effective means of aiding agriculture, and it has the approval of the President. There is no use to tarry in its consideration. Of course there are many ways of effecting relief, but the plan as devised at present seems to meet conditions. We are having something of concrete action. Hot air and oratory, which have characterized farm relief discussions, have past. We are on the road to recovery.

REPRESENTATIVE MICHENER, Republican, of Michigan—Mr. Hoover's message, though brief, covered the ground. I can see no reason why Congress should not act speedily in following the program laid down by the administration. I think Mr. Hoover's message most unusual because of its short discussion, but believe it leaves nothing lacking in advising Congress on the national emergencies now existing.

REPRESENTATIVE HULL, Republican, of Illinois—It was brief and to the point. The President left nothing unsaid which would be valuable in guiding the steps of the extra session. As to his expressions on farm relief and tariff, I believe they fit the situation Congress is facing. The brevity and clarity of the message was remarkable.

that Mr. Hoover strongly opposes it, or would veto a bill with this feature included. They do not wish to be put in the position of sending still another farm measure to the White House only to have it rejected there.

Among these are a few Agricultural Committee members who realize, they say, that whether or not the debenture is written into the bill in committee, the issue will be met on the floor, where there will be lively discussion of it.

At the same time, these committee members point out that Mr. Hoover did not mention the debenture scheme in his message, nor use the word "subsidy," by which name the debenture program is often characterized.

Export debenture advocates are counting upon friends of the defeated equalization fee to support the idea, arguing that these Senators would be in an embarrassing situation with their constituents if they did not do so. No doubt that Mr. Hoover is flatly opposed to the equalization fee lingered in committee members' minds.

KELLOGG PACT HAILED BY ARMS DELEGATES

Russians, Turks and Chinese Say It Has Given New Aspect to Problem of Geneva Parley.

TWO PROPOSALS OFFERED

AGENDA ISSUE MUDDLED

By CLARENCE K. STREIT.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, April 16.—The Turkish delegation submitted its disarmament proposal to the secretary of the Preparatory Commission this afternoon in the shape of the text of a speech which it is not known yet whether Foreign Minister Tewfik Rushdi Bey will make tomorrow or merely have read in the record.

As far as his plan goes, he confines himself, as was explained yesterday, to advocating in very general terms the adoption of the principle of equality as the basis of the armament of all powers. He puts this forward as really his own extension of the principle of the equality of States as applied already, for instance, all States having an equal voice in the League Assembly.

Rushdi Bey holds that it is not difficult in practice to apply the principle of equality in armed strength to all States, suggesting that the maximum figure set be that which a great power needs to assure its defense against any sudden aggression, and adding on this very point, "Experiments already have been made" which indicate what force such a power needs.

Would Accept Modifications.

The only relevant "experiment" recalled here is the disarmament already imposed on Germany. Consequently, it is generally assumed that the Turks want Germany's present military, naval and aviation strength fixed as the maximum for all powers. The statement, however, adds that the Turks are willing to accept any modifications of the plan considered necessary. Indeed, they leave all the details to be worked out later.

Meanwhile, the Preparatory Disarmament Commission got through its sole session today and ended practically where it began. It did accept the agenda proposed yesterday by President Loudon, but such confusion developed over what the agenda really contained that it was adopted only tacitly, most of the delegates being plainly too much in the dark as to what the issue was to vote formally on anything. Moreover, it was adopted with an understanding which Lord Cushendun desired, that this order of business should not be rigid. In other words, the delegates can modify it every day.

Optimists found their chief cause for hope today in evidence that the yeast of the Kellogg anti-war pact is working on the question of disarmament in widely separated parts of the world. The Russian, Chinese and Turkish delegations all referred to the signature of this treaty as an event that had fundamentally changed the outlook since the last disarmament session.

M. Litvinoff, the Russian delegate, in urging immediate consideration of his project, said that despite "increasing threats of war" the pact, together with the Moscow protocol concerning it, had increased security, and he failed to see why it should be less binding for the signatories than, for instance, the Locarno treaties.

Chinese General Speaks.

General Tsiang Tso-ping brought out more vividly the wide influence of the pact by speaking in Chinese. With vehemence that gradually even warmed up his interpreter, he said that, though the idea of abolishing compulsory service had already been rejected by the commission, China had introduced it, confident of the adoption now possible while all the nations had solemnly renounced war.

Rushdi Bey argued that his radical "equality" plan was now possible because the "unanimous and enthusiastic reception" of the Kellogg pact by peoples everywhere showed that moral disarmament was already achieved. On the other hand it must be noted that not one of the great powers' delegations so far has made the scantiest reference to war having been outlawed since the commission last met.

The confusion into which the commission fell this morning when faced with purely formal points is causing many to say that the primary necessity of disarmament is for the commission to provide itself with some sort of technique for handling questions before it. When the delegates, it is argued, do not know just what their vote means even on questions of procedure for a purely technical reason, these questions being so ambiguously put, how are they ever going to reach decisions or avoid greater confusion when questions of policy come up.

The only real question before the commission today was the angle from which to consider the Soviet project. President Loudon's agenda included the project, but left it doubtful whether it was to be considered separately or in relation to the second reading of the commission's own draft convention. M. Litvinoff objected to the latter, the whole point of his long speech being that the Soviet plan should be considered by itself as a new method of approach to disarmament.

He argued that the failure of the commission to make any progress on its own draft since 1927 when it was unable to finish even the first reading and President Loudon's hopelessness of real progress on it at this session showed it was high time to abandon the previous approach to the problem and adopt an entirely new one, such as the Russian.

President Loudon ended by asking the delegates to vote whether or not they wanted to consider the Soviet project as a new basis or adopt his own agenda. Lord Cushendun was not sure just what this meant. M. Markovitch and M. Litvinoff said they were similarly embarrassed since the agenda also included the Soviet plan.

The confusion grew as President Loudon explained just what he meant in a different fashion to each delegate. Hugh S. Gibson, the last to intervene, said the elaborate explanations had completely confused him, but he assumed that the vote was on whether President Loudon's agenda should be rejected or adopted as a whole, and, if adopted, it obviously meant that the Soviet project would come up for consideration.

President Loudon, though he had just given an opposite explanation of the motion, hastily accepted Mr. Gibson's interpretation and adjourned the session without a vote, saying he understood his agenda had been adopted. The Russian project hence seems certain of being at least discussed, but whether or not as an entirely new basis for the commission's labors—the only point at issue—remains as unclear as ever.

Mr. Gibson, in a brief statement at the beginning of the session, said the American delegation was "most desirous of advancing our work as rapidly as possible" and strongly supported President Loudon's agenda as the "most scientific manner" of doing this, since it "singled out the very problems on which disagreement still exists" and allowed them to be tackled and disposed of one by one.

Gibson Silent on Plans.

GENEVA, April 16 (AP).—The silence of Ambassador Gibson concerning the American program at the preparatory commission for a disarmament conference has caused in Geneva increased speculation as to its nature. This has not, however, led him to divulge anything, for he believes his proposals should be held for a moment appropriate for a restatement of the American position.

The best information tonight was that Mr. Gibson would have something very important to say on naval matters and would also contribute ideas on other branches of armament. It is believed that he had in mind that the present task is not to secure an agreement to limit or reduce armament but to reach an accord on a method of limitation so that a general conference may be held as soon as possible.

Details of Soviet Plan.

Maxim Litvinoff, in renewing his appeal for extensive world-wide partial disarmament, asserted that acceptance of the Soviet scheme for partial disarmament would immediately diminish the menace of war.

He argued that the consideration of a technical draft could lead nowhere and then made a particular allusion to the naval problem, remarking that the differences it represented not only had not been softened but actually had become more acute and rendered more complicated by new questions.

"While France and Great Britain may have arrived at a solution satisfactory to their respective interests," he went on, "new differences have arisen to take the place of those settled—this time between the Anglo-French compromise and the points of view of the United States of America and Italy. As far as we know, negotiations for the settlement of these differences have not even begun yet."

Maximum displacement of battleships set at 10,000 tons, as against 35,000 tons fixed at the Washington conference, is one of the radical provisions introduced by the Soviet delegation. Whatever may be the fate of the Soviet project, all delegates were tonight carefuly scrutinizing its text. They found that besides limiting the size of all warships to a maximum of 10,000 tons, the scheme called for the disappearance of all aircraft carriers and for the disarmament of all military dirigibles and aircraft so that they could not be utilized for any military purpose.

Nations possessing a navy with a total strength of 200,000 tons would reduce their naval forces by one-half, and those with less than 200,000 tonnage by one-fourth. The life of battleships and big cruisers would be extended to twenty-five years, and a maximum calibre of 12 inches set for the guns.

Countries with armed land forces exceeding 200,000 effectives would be asked to cut them in half. Those numbering more than 40,000 troops would reduce them by one-third, while States with forces of less than 40,000 would eliminate one-fourth of their armies.

The plan also specifies that a permanent control commission of an equal number of representatives from legislative bodies and trade unions and other workers' organizations shall be created to institute investigations on the instant there is a reasonable suspicion of a breach of the treaty.

Russians Closely Guarded.

Extreme precautions were taken by the Swiss Government to see that no harm befell M. Litvinoff. A large squad of detectives was assigned to him and his Soviet associates and remained with them almost constantly.

The precautions were based on the known intensity of feeling between certain of the Russian Communists and their political enemies and the experience Switzerland had in the Vorowsky assassination at Lausanne.

FEDERALS RESUME ADVANCE ON SONORA

SEIZED AMERICANS FREED

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, April 16 (AP).—Three trainloads of Mexican Federal soldiers left here late today for Casas Grandes, in Western Chihuahua, from which point they will continue their campaign against insurgents in Sonora. There were about 2,500 soldiers on the trains.

The Federal air force, seven planes, hopped off from the Juarez airport almost simultaneously for the same destination. General Juan Andreu Almazan, commander of the Federal forces in the North, expects to leave tomorrow with about 2,500 more soldiers.

Unconfirmed reports were prevalent today that Pulpito Pass, a treacherous mountain canyon, but the only feasible route across the mountains in Northern Mexico, had been mined by the rebels.

Calles Ordered Advance.

MEXICO CITY, April 16 (AP).—General Almazan, following out the orders of General Calles, the Federal commander-in-chief, took preliminary steps today to organize a column of 5,000 men at Casas Grandes, Chihuahua, which within a few days will march through Pulpito Pass to Sonora in pursuit of the rebels.

The other main Federal army, commanded by General Lazaro Cardenas on the west coast, was reported concentrating at San Blas, from which the insurgents had fled northward into Sonora. The rebel flight was precipitated by the feat of Federal General Talamante, who led a small body of cavalry around the city in an attempt to cut the railroad to the north.

The Federal cruiser Progreso was still anchored in Guaymas Bay with its guns trained on the railroad junction a few miles inland, through which the retreating rebels would have to pass if they kept to the railroad.

The rebel Generalissimo, J. Gonzalo Escobar, was reported to be at Hermosillo, the capital of Sonora, after having failed to induce Yaqui Indians at Navojao to join the revolt. The morale of the rebel army was said to be so slow that it was disintegrating, with small groups of soldiers making off to join the victorious Federals.

Reports from Jalisco tonight said that seventy irregulars in a raid on the village of El Hapazoltic captured Mayor Eusedio Flores and put him to death on the ground that he was responsible for organization of the home guards, who had curtailed their activities in that district.

Two similar attacks were also reported. One raged for six hours before the defenders of Santa Maria Del Oro, Nayarit, repulsed the band. An attack on Puente Grande, near Guadalajara, also was unsuccessful.

Sonora Railways Running.

NACO, Sonora, April 16 (AP).—Although warlike preparations were being made at Agua Prieta, thirty miles east of here, which is held by rebel troops, and General Almazan's Federal army, under orders to advance into Sonora, were threatening rebel forces east of Pulpito Pass, Northern Sonora today began returning to peaceful commercial pursuits.

Communications were in operation between Naco and Cananea, a mining town forty-two miles southeast of here, for the first time since General Fausto Topete established his rebel base camp at Cananea a month ago.

The 3,100 rebel soldiers in and near Agua Prieta were kept under the strictest military orders today after the killing of one Mexican soldier by another and the slayer's death at the hands of an officer. Fellow-soldiers said the shooting climaxed a long quarrel.

Two Americans, Joe Chensorgen and Rafael Berejarano, both of Nogales, Ariz., have been released by the rebels after being held as suspected Federal spies. They were not harmed.

Work on the Rodriguez dam on the Tijuana River in Lower California has been ordered resumed May 1, Maura Martinez, Secretary of State of the northern district, announced at Mexicali, today. The work on the structure was halted with the outbreak of the revolt.

HITS CAPPER WHEAT VIEW.

Head of Produce Exchange Denies Need for Selling Kansas Supply.

William Beatty, president of the New York Produce Exchange, in a statement issued yesterday takes exception to the statements made on Monday by Senator Capper indicating that there are 40,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Kansas district which could not be sold in export because of high freight rates. The Senator also said that the wheat must be moved in the next three months to prevent development of a great surplus which would depress wheat prices.

"It is a function of a very large number of the members of this exchange to discover and maintain markets abroad for the wheats of the American farmer," Mr. Beatty's statement says. "These members deal principally in wheat for export. I wish to deplore the statement alleged to be issued by Senator Capper of Kansas and published in the press of the country today.

"The effect of this statement, according to cable reports from abroad, has been to sharply reduce the price of our wheat in foreign markets and to precipitate a decline in our own country of nearly five cents a bushel.

"I wish, furthermore, to call the attention of the Senator to the fact that the Winter wheat crop is not yet made, nor will it be made for two months or more. During that time it must encounter the vicissitudes of drought, too much moisture, frost and hot winds. In case it suffered severely between now and harvest there may be abundant need for the existing surplus of our Winter wheat in this country, and a decision that it is necessary to rid ourselves of 40,000,000 bushels between now and harvest is at the present time inopportune and not conducive to orderly marketing of the United States surplus."

Smith Attends First Meeting As County Trust Director

For the first time, former Governor Alfred E. Smith attended yesterday a meeting of the board of directors of the County Trust Company of New York, to which he was elected several months ago. The meeting was held in the morning at the bank's building at Eighth Avenue and Fifteenth Street.

The principal business of the meeting was approving plans for the bank's new twenty-story building, which will be erected on the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, on a plot 104 by 93 feet. Yesterday's meeting was the first since the board increased the bank's capital and surplus to $8,000,000.

Two other new directors were present. They were P. D. Sayles of the Canada Dry Corporation and Michael J. Meehan of M. J. Meehan & Co. All the other directors of the bank were present except William F. Kenny, who was ill.

PORTES GIL APPEALS FOR A DRY MEXICO

President Calls on All Officials to Aid in Educational Drive Against Alcohol.

ORDERS VICE DENS CLOSED

Executive Also Asks Women, as the Chief Victims of Drink Evil, to Fight Liquor.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, April 16.—A plan of campaign to make Mexico dry without resort to repressive measurer was outlined today by President Portes Gil.

A statement addressed to Federal and State officials, labor leaders, educators and others throughout the republic calls on them to aid in an educational drive to create an effective sentiment in Mexico against alcoholic drinks. His plan is to impress the public with the evils of drink and to provide counter-entertainments to aid in making alcoholic stimulation not only unnecessary but undesirable. The statement makes a special appeal to women, as the chief sufferers from the evils of drink, to aid in the campaign.

The statement says substantially:

"One of the most profound convictions which should dominate all followers of our revolution" [that is, the revolutionary process which has been under way in Mexico for more than 100 years and is embodied in the constitutions of 1857 and 1917, no reference to the Escobar revolt is intended] "is that the principal enemy of our race and of Mexico's future is the vice of alcoholism, which, deplorably, is holding the upper hand among a great portion of our agricultural and laboring classes.

Says Alcohol Injures Homes.

"We cannot be sure of the sanctity of the homes of Mexican laborers as long as alcoholism continues to undermine their physical and moral strength. It puts an end to conjugal felicity and destroys every possibility for the greatness of Mexico's future.

"In view of such grave considerations I feel it my imperative duty to appeal to all noble-minded men to organize a vigorous campaign against this terrible vice. We must fight by every means possible this enemy of our welfare, our health and our hope for the redemption of Mexico's laborers."

President Portes Gil goes on to outline his proposed program, adding that the women suffer the worst and most deplorable consequences of drink and that, as has been so in other countries, the women should be the strongest workers in any campaign against it.

Six Points in Program.

The President's proposals are:

"First, from this date the governments and municipal councils of all Mexican States shall not permit the opening of any centre of vice, it being understood that any closed shall be closed permanently;

"Second, through the republic the greatest stimulus possible shall be given to sports, not only in the schools, but also in agricultural and labor centres;

"Third, all organizations, whether educational, agricultural or labor shall organize weekly cultural entertainments, either in the theatres or open air, to combat alcoholism;

"Fourth, dissemination of anti-alcoholic information shall be declared obligatory in all schools, public and private.

"Fifth, in all schools and theatres shall be placed pictures pointing out the evils of drink.

"Sixth, anti-alcoholic leagues of women shall be formed to assist the campaign."

The statement terminates with the declaration that the proposed campaign is in no manner repressive; that it is intended to appeal to the hearts of the Mexican people by educative means, and that it is hoped that thus healthy communities contributing to national social redemption, may be established.

King George Takes First Auto Ride.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—King George went for his first automobile ride today since he traveled to Bognor from Buckingham Palace in an ambulance. Sitting beside the Queen at the windows of a limousine, he scarcely appeared to be the same man as the weak, emaciated invalid who waved feebly to the crowds two months ago. The King and Queen visited a neighbor in the village of Aldwick, near Craigwell House, and the King showed much interest in a bird aviary in the garden.

SENATE CONFIRMS DAWES AND DIXON

94 OTHER NAMES SENT IN Action on Them Is Deferred—The President Will Designate Five New York Judges Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In an eight-minute session the Senate without debate, and, it is understood, by unanimous vote, confirmed today the nominations of Charles G. Dawes to be Ambassador to Great Britain and former Governor Joseph M. Dixon of Montana to be First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee obtained the prompt action on the name of the former Vice President, and Senator Walsh of Montana moved the confirmation of Mr. Dixon.

President Hoover sent in ninety-six nominations today, all revealed in advance except those of former Governor Oscar B. Colquitt of Texas to succeed Pat M. Neff, also a former Governor of Texas, on the board of mediation, and former Representative John M. Morin of Pennsylvania to succeed H. A. A. Smith on the Employes' Compensation Commission.

Fight Over Colquitt Brewing.

Mr. Colquitt was a Hoover leader in Texas. Possibilities of a fight against his confirmation loom in the background. Mr. Morin, formerly Director of Public Safety at Pittsburgh, was once a baseball player and was defeated in the Republican primaries last year.

The Colquitt and Morin nominations were not acted upon today, nor were several others, including those of Patrick J. Hurley as Assistant Secretary of War, Ernest L. Jahncke and David S. Ingalls as Assistant Secretaries of the Navy, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett as Chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, Rear Admiral Joseph J. Cheatham as Paymaster General and Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Brig. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman as a Radio Commissioner and Charles J. Rhoads, a Philadelphia banker, to succeed Charles H. Burke, as Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

Four of Five Judges Here Chosen.

President Hoover expects to appoint the five new Federal judges for New York tomorrow. He had not reached a decision late today on the fifth member, but was hopeful of making a selection in time to send the nominations to the Senate tomorrow. He is desirous of getting these new courts organized as quickly as possible to aid in the relief of congestion in the Eastern and Southern districts.

Announcement was also made at the White House that the judicial office held by Judge Winslow expired with his resignation.

He was among the twenty-one judges named about six years ago to relieve what then was said to be an emergency. Under the law no successor to these judges can be appointed, Representative George S. Graham, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said today that he would introduce a bill at the next session to restore the judicial place vacated by Judge Winslow because of necessity for additional Federal judges in New York.

The belief existed that Lloyd P. Styker and John M. Woolsey would be renamed for the Southern District and that Francis G. Caffey, a Democrat, selected by President Coolidge for the third place, would be dropped.

Alfred A. Wheat may be renamed for the Eastern District, with indications that Charles G. Galston may obtain one of the places in this district.

Henry W. Anderson of Richmond, Va., was said today to be figuring prominently among those under consideration for the Solicitor Generalship. New Yorkers mentioned as candidates are Arthur A. Ballantine, Walter E. Hope, James Marshall, Vincent H. Rothwell and John Lord O'Brien.

GRAIN MARKET BREAKS SHARPLY

Heavy Selling Attributed to Disappointment Over Proposed Farm Relief Measure.

President Hoover's first message to Congress had an almost negligible effect on the stock market. Trading slowed down during the morning preceding the reading of the message and continued at a slow pace during the later hours, when it was ascertained that the President would confine his remarks to the legislation for which the extra session of Congress had been called, farm relief and tariff. The turnover in stocks was the smallest since Dec. 17 last.

In the commodity markets a sharp break in the grains was the feature. Recent purchasers of grains were heavy sellers, and final prices stood at or close to the lows of the day. Wheat fell 4¼ to 4⅝ cents for the active options, corn 2⅝ to 8½ and oats 1⅝ to 2 cents. Provisions were unchanged to off 12 cents. Trading in cotton was extremely dull.

Such net changes of any consequence as appeared in the stock market, such as the advance in oil shares and scattered gains in such issues as American Can, Postum, Montgomery Ward and Chrysler, were due to influences entirely apart from the President's address. From all appearances the speculative community in Wall Street was not particularly interested.

The break in grain prices in the principal markets was evidently the result of disappointment felt within the trade at the proposed farm relief legislation. Heavy selling took place, much of it on the part of recent buyers who had purchased futures on the prospect of action by Congress on the farm situation.

Cotton prices also ranged lower, more as a result of the disturbance in other commodity markets and the irregularity in stocks than of the actual contents of President Hoover's message. The cotton trade has pretty thoroughly discounted the President's opposition to government buying, selling or price fixing of commodities. The message was used as a bearish argument, however, and cotton prices closed at declines in the face of heavy rains over parts of the South, which were declared to be dangerous for the crop.

GOVERNOR APPROVES SARATOGA SURVEY

Selects Bernard M. Baruch to Head Body to Report on Possibilities of Springs.

HAD HOPED FOR EXPERTS

WILL DEAL WITH LOSSES

Report to Legislature Will Take Up Sale of Waters by Private Corporations.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Governor Roosevelt took the first step today toward further development of Saratoga Springs as a first-class health resort when he approved the bill, introduced by Senator Brown of Schenectady, providing for a temporary commission to make a survey of the possibilities of the springs and recommend appropriate legislation to the next regular session of the Legislature.

The Governor announced that Bernard M. Baruch would head the commission of seven as chairman and would suggest two other members whom the Governor is to appoint. The other four will be legislators, including the president pro tem of the Senate and the Speaker who, in addition, are empowered to appoint a Senator and an Assemblyman to serve on the commission.

Mr. Baruch has long taken a deep interest in the development of Saratoga Springs under State auspices and has made some study of the situation already.

The bill carries an appropriation of $50,000 to defray the cost of the survey, the members serving without compensation.

In a memorandum accompanying his approval, Governor Roosevelt said:

"In several messages to the Legislature and to the public I have stressed my belief that Saratoga Springs can, if properly developed, be a tremendous factor for the good of the health of the State.

"It was my thought that the study should be conducted by experts who would take into consideration the great strides made in this form of curative medicine in various European countries. I had hoped for the appointment of a commission composed wholly of experts. Instead of that the Legislature has given me a bill creating a commission composed of two members of the Senate, two members of the Assembly and three members to be appointed by the Governor.

"What the theory is in asking four members of the Legislature, out of a commission of seven, to make recommendations on the highly technical development of mineral springs is not quite clear to me. However, something useful may come out of this commission. I hope nevertheless that the commission will lay the foundation for doing real good by bringing in a proper plan."

One phase of the survey, it is regarded as certain at the Capitol, will deal with the loss incurred by the Saratoga Reservation Commission through the distribution of bottled waters from the State's springs by a private corporation.

The State owns some 550 acres, with 122 natural springs and wells, including practically every variety of naturally mineralized and carbonated water in this region. The State maintains a drink hall and two bath houses. The present value of the property is estimated to be more than $5,000,000.

Roosevelt Vetoes 11 City Salary Grab Bills As Violating the Principle of Home Rule

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Declaring they were a violation of the fundamental principles of home rule, Governor Roosevelt today vetoed eleven bills providing for salary increases for court stenographers, attendants, interpreters and other attachés in New York City.

He pointed out that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment has authority to carry out most of the changes which would have been forced upon it had the measures been approved.

Grouping the bills together and rejecting all of them at once, the Governor wrote in a memorandum:

"These bills all provide in varying terms by the way of salary allowances, pension allowances and setting up of new bureaus within the government of the city of New York, the expense of meeting these charges in every case being a burden upon the city. In some cases the government of the city of New York has the power to grant the increases or make these expenditures.

"In other case the increases and expenditures must be authorized by legislation, but in every case the city of New York protests against these allowances, either upon the ground that the consent of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment was not secured for the legislation or that the local governing body has the power but is unwilling to exercise it, and the bills attempt to do what the city is unwilling to do."

A majority of the measures were sponsored by Democratic lawmakers from New York City. One fixed a minimum salary for stenographers in the Supreme Court, Second District, at $4,200 a year. Another authorized the county judges of Kings, the Bronx, Queens and Richmond to fix the salaries of county court stenographers. Another fixed the maximum salary for Supreme Court interpreters in the First District at $4,500 a year.

Supreme Court justices in the First Department would have decided the salaries of court stenographers, who now receive $4,200 a year, under one of the rejected bills, and another provided for general salary increases in the Court of Special Sessions.

Vetoes Bill to Validate Act of Monroe County Town Board and Directs Trial Steps.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Governor Roosevelt today designated Supreme Court Justice Stephen Callaghan, Republican, of Brooklyn to investigate the financial affairs of the town of Irondequoit, a suburb of Rochester, and called upon Attorney General Ward to supersede the District Attorney of Monroe County and to prosecute, "both civilly and criminally," all violations of the law in connection with alleged juggling of the finances of the town.

At the same time the Governor vetoed a bill by Assemblyman Arthur T. Pammenter, Rochester Republican, which would have validated and legalized certain acts of the Irondequoit Town Board in connection with public improvements.

It has been reported at the Capitol that certain officials reaped large financial profits through the improvements in the town of Irondequoit. One official, it was said, personally benefited to the extent of $60,000.

In his memorandum vetoing the Pammenter bill the Governor wrote:

"The whole situation regarding the finances of the town improvements in the town of Irondequoit is such that it warrants, in my judgment, a complete investigation by a Supreme Court justice and a special Deputy Attorney General. I have, therefore, designated Mr. Justice Stephen Callaghan of the Supreme Court to hold an extraordinary and special civil and criminal trial term as soon as possible in the county of Monroe to look into every phase of the town's government, and I have designated the Attorney General to supersede the District Attorney of Monroe County and appear before that tribunal and prosecute both civilly and criminally.

"In the meantime, this bill on its face would legalize and validate a general release given last January to the principal contracting company. Even though I am informed the original release has been destroyed, there is still a legal question as to whether this bill would or would not keep it in legal effect and prevent suits by citizens to recover against the contractor and relieve town officials from responsibility.

"If this bill is disapproved, the taxpayers in the Laurelton district still have their rights in certain proceedings now pending and the citizens of other districts throughout the town are definitely deprived of no rights.

"On the general subject of town government, this town of Irondequoit shows, by the examination of the Controller, a long series of failures to comply with the law. It is also a glaring example of the inefficiency of the system of town government in every part of the State which I have so often called to the public attention.

"For the above reasons, the bill is disapproved."

LATE RETURNS FLOOD STATE TAX BUREAU

Increase in Exemptions Decreases Number but Adds to the Final Rush.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Last-minute returns flooded the office of the Income Tax Bureau today. More than eighty bags of mail were stored in the office and it was closely guarded by watchmen tonight. Twenty-five more bags will be delivered tomorrow, and when this is sorted out and checked, something definite will be known about the amount received.

James T. Somers, director of the bureau, tonight could give no estimate of the amount that has been turned in. "It will be two weeks at least before we will know just what we have in these bags," he said. Increasing the exemption has reduced the number of returns by about 150,000, Mr. Somers estimated.

The late rush was about the same as last year, Mr. Somers stated, this being accounted for in part by the fact that the exemption amendment was not signed by the Governor until a few days ago. Many delayed filing their returns until he acted.

State income tax returns which were in the mails before midnight Monday were being tabulated at the Tax Bureau, 220 West Fortieth Street, yesterday, even though received the day after the date for filing had closed. As long as the post marks were for April 15, the blanks were received as filed in time, though delivered actually a day late.

Wesley M. Dawson, district director, said that the returns apparently compared favorably with those of last year, but definite comparison would not be possible for at least a week when the tabulation would be completed. Because of the increased exemptions, returns were fewer, but the money return was approximately equal to that of last year, he added.

ROOSEVELT VETOES HIGHWAY IN PARK

Asks Civic Bodies and City to Agree on New Plan Taking Minimum of Van Cortlandt Land.

WANTS WESTCHESTER LINK

But Governor Opposes "Encroachment"—Decision Welcomed by Defenders of Park Areas.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 16.—The attempt to lay out an artery for heavy traffic through Van Cortlandt Park, in the Bronx, as proposed in a bill sponsored by Assemblyman Kinsley of that borough, was rebuked by Governor Roosevelt today when he vetoed that measure.

In a memorandum explaining his veto the Governor declared that the proposal for a connecting link between the Grand Concourse and Boulevard in the Bronx and the Westchester County chain of parkways should be made the subject of conferences between the park associations and the Board of Estimate, with a view to the minimum of encroachment upon the Van Cortlandt Park area.

Among other terms, the Kinsley bill provided that the Board of Estimate should lay out a broad highway for fast traffic from the Grand Concourse to the proposed Saw Mill Parkway in Westchester, which would have had the effect of bisecting Van Cortlandt Park.

Governor Roosevelt's memorandum was as follows:

"The question of increased highway facilities through Van Cortlandt Park is a serious one, and should be settled by a conference between the park associations and the Board of Estimate of the city of New York.

"The park associations have assured me that they will cooperate to work out a satisfactory agreement between themselves and the Board of Estimate. It is obvious that some method should be evolved for better communication between the Westchester County Park and the northern section of the Bronx.

"A minimum of park land should be taken, and I am confident that the final plan agreed upon will conserve the park as far as is practicable and at the same time provide a very necessary connecting link between New York City and Westchester County. The bill is therefore disapproved."

Governor Roosevelt's veto of the bill providing for extension and widening of the Grand Concourse through Van Cortlandt Park was hailed here yesterday by organizations interested in preserving the parks.

Nathan Straus Jr., president of the Park Association of New York, which took a leading part in the fight against the project, said:

"Naturally, I am very gratified at Governor Roosevelt's action, which is in keeping with his long record as a friend of the parks. On behalf of the Park Association of New York, I may say that we will cooperate in every way with the city authorities, and specifically with the Borough President of the Bronx, to the end that a plan may be worked out to give the needed traffic relief without sacrificing park land."

The Regional Plan of New York and Its Environs, which also opposed the project, gave out this statement:

"By his veto the Governor seems to have expressed exactly the point of view of the Regional Plan. This means that the parks should be preserved to the utmost possible extent."

ROOSEVELT ASSENTS TO SERVICE LAW QUIZ

Approves Bill Creating Commission to Consider Possible Defects in Statutes.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—A study of possible defects in the Public Service Commission law has been assured through approval by Governor Roosevelt today of the Thayer bill providing for a temporary commission of nine members, including Senator Knight and Speaker McGinnies, to make a survey and report next year.

The Governor will appoint only three of the members, so that the two Republican legislative leaders will be able to vest control of the commission in their own party by appointments of Republicans to the four additional places. These four need not be legislators.

It has been the policy of the Republican majority in the Legislature to "stack" against him temporary commissions advocated by the Governor by giving him power to appoint only a minority of the members. The Governor, in a memorandum accompanying his approval of the Thayer bill, again complained of these tactics.

The bill confines the scope of the survey to the law itself, contrary to the demands of the City Club of New York and the Public Power Committee, which advocated an investigation broad enough to include the conduct of the Public Service Commission itself under its present personnel.

Governor Roosevelt said in his memorandum:

"While I was hopeful that the Legislature would create a smaller commission for the purposes of making this survey, I am approving this bill in order to have the investigation started.

"I am convinced that the present Public Service Commission law is in need of great amendment and I hope that this survey will be instrumental in recommending legislation to provide for a more efficient and just supervision and regulation of public service corporations and allied companies.

"Further, the whole principle of guaranteeing to the people a fair rate for the use of services provided by private corporations ought to be restudied. The theory of twenty years ago that the return to public service corporations should not exceed a fair profit on the money actually invested is constantly and flagrantly violated. Some method must be found to return to the original principle. There is an overwhelming demand for practical, definite and immediate action."

The Governor disapproved two bills introduced by Senator Thayer which would have defined as "common carriers" and brought under the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission stage, omnibus and other motor vehicle lines operating between fixed termini.

HELD AS TREATY FORGER.

Ward Hermans Surrenders to the Belgian Police.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, April 16.—Ward Hermans, who fled to Holland at the time of the Utrecht Dagblad "revelations," returned to Belgium and surrendered to the police this afternoon. Flanked by two lawyers engaged for his defense he appeared at the Palais de Justice, where a warrant was issued and he was placed under arrest.

Hermans is accused of being an accomplice of Frank Heine in selling the allegedly fraudulent Franco-Belgian military agreement in Holland. Heine charges Hermans with pocketing the lion's share of the money they received for the documents.

THE PERIODIC HEALTH SURVEY

A Simple Yet Powerful Means Of Securing Health, Happiness and Longer Life.

The periodic physical overhauling and inspection of the human body to detect the early signs of trouble is regarded by every sensible person who gives it a moment's thought as a wise and valuable measure. But how many people are adopting this very simple yet powerful means of securing health and happiness and longer life? Probably not one per cent. of the population.

The Life Extension Institute has examined more than half a million men and women. It has demonstrated according to independent and unassailable scientific authority that by this means the death rate among people who come under this kind of supervision, whose impairments are discovered and the causes pointed out to them, can be reduced one-third and that an equivalent degree of human suffering, unhappiness and life failure can be wiped out.

Practical experience has justified the tremendous logical force in the theory of the periodic health survey. That there is unanswerable logic in the theory is shown by the fact that leading men and health officials from every civilized land have sought complete information as to the methods employed by the Institute and the results obtained. Many such men, including representatives from England, France, China, Japan, Italy and other foreign countries, have been examined at the Head Office of the Institute and have closely inspected its system.

Just as the health authorities of New York City are able to show definite life-saving from their enforcement of sanitary laws, so can the Institute report definite life-saving from its health examinations. Perhaps just as important as the saving of these lives is the demonstration by the Institute of the fundamental soundness of the theory of a yearly health examination and the world-wide acceptance of this principle, which in time will bring about the organization in every land of facilities for making these protective examinations available to every citizen.

Applies to Everyone

Of one fact we may be sure. There is no individual in the population, however perfect he may deem himself, who does not need this type of service, who cannot profit by its protective features and thereby prolong his years of activity and usefulness.

From the mechanic at the bench to the leaders in the counsel of the nation—and this represents the range of the Institute's subscribers—there is need for this fundamental, common-sense service designed to enable the citizen to give to himself, to his family and to his business the best that is in him. And this message is equally strong for women, whether they are in business or wholly in domestic life.

As we grow older the necessity of frequent physical examinations becomes more and more urgent. This is especially true of the diseases of adult life and middle age, such as hardening of the arteries, Bright's disease, diabetes, and cancer. If these diseases can be met at the threshold and proper precautions taken, great suffering can be avoided and many years added to the length of human life. Even cancer, the most mysterious now of our fatal diseases, may be eradicated by an early discovery

DISPUTANTS TO MEET IN PARIS FILM TALKS

French Official Plans Trade and State Round Table Parleys on Quota Cut Controversy.

BOTH SIDES HOLDING FIRM

French Industry Insists on Aid Which the Americans Refuse, Calling It a Subsidy.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—By the end of this week a painstaking effort should be under way to seek an amicable solution of the present film controversy between the French and American industries. François Poncet, Under-Secretary of State for Fine Arts, who is acting for his government, informed the Americans today that he would probably be in a position to initiate a series of conferences between both sides by Friday or Saturday. In addition to representatives of the American Embassy and of the French Government, spokesmen for the motion picture interests of both countries will be invited to attend.

It is likely that the American industry will be represented by Harold Smith, the Paris representative of Will Hays, and the French are expected to choose Charles Dulac, president of the Chambre Syndicale. Henry C. MacLean, Commercial Attaché of the American Embassy, and M. Poncet will complete the circle.

M. Poncet is now engaged in considering the contents of the American's Government's recent memorandum in which the attention of the French Government was called to the difficulties facing the American film interests in France. The note was presented to the French Foreign Office last week and the latter then sent it on to M. Poncet. The hardships which the proposed three-to-one quota would impose upon the Americans was also emphasized, and a hope was expressed that the government would not proceed with the new regulations before giving thought to their ultimately harmful effect upon the American business involved.

There has been no change in the position since the receipt of the State Department's communication, although the bitter tone adopted by several newspapers in discussing the American note and the subsequent explanatory communiqué issued by the embassy has subsided, at any rate, for the moment. It is known that the French officials never shared the views of the more pronounced critics, such as the Comedia. The latter journal challenged the right of the American Embassy to present such a memorandum and went so far as to suggest that a question should be asked in the Chamber. Curiously enough, the author of the articles in question is the same man who was but recently requested by American officials to discontinue the practice of using the design of the American flag to advertise his films. When it was pointed out that such a use of the American flag was a violation of American law he agreed to abandon his design.

French Insist on Aid.

M. Poncet is credited with a keen desire to bring the Americans and French together. The difficulties in his path, however, are considerable. The French appear to be determined to carry out the three-to-one quota unless the American interests agree to some generous form of cooperation. Such cooperation, the Americans say, would amount to financial aid to the French industry. They are equally determined to resist this plan. They have replied that they would even be willing to pay a substantial government tax on all films, the proceeds of which could be turned over to the French film industry, but the French want a direct arrangement with the Americans. Without this, they insist they will press the three-for-one quota.

All the press criticism is not directed against the American industry and occasionally there is heard an outburst of frankness encouraging to the American stand. For example, the Ami du Peuple, in a recent article on the contingent system, said:

"It must be confessed that the French film industry is sick, very sick. It is not with old wives' remedies, with the contingent system, that it can be saved. We all know what the real remedy is. Quality alone can save the French film."

18 NATIONS PLAN TO MAKE SEA SAFER

British Indicate They Will Insist on Stricter Radio Rules as London Parley Opens.

LIFEBOATS A BIG ISSUE

Cargo-Loading Is Another—Our Delegates Interested in Sturdier Ship Construction.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—The shadow of the Vestris disaster in the Western Atlantic last year hung over the Second International Conference for Safety of Life at Sea when it met in the great gold room of the Foreign Office today. Just as the Titanic tragedy dominated the first conference fifteen years ago, so the Vestris sinking gave force to the speeches today.

Delegates from eighteen maritime nations were present when Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister opened the conference and read a message of welcome from King George. Their task is to revise the international convention of 1914 and enlarge it in the light of subsequent disasters on the high seas.

The extent of these revisions is sure to cause controversies, which, to some extent, were foreshadowed in today's addresses.

Sir Philip gave the delegates a plain hint that England would fight for stricter wireless regulations so that no calls for help could in future go unanswered.

Radio Called Vital Factor.

"Wireless is becoming, if it is not already, the most important element in the safety of life at sea," said Sir Philip. "Today it not only insures the greater safety of the ship which carries it; it makes her a potential savior of her sister ships."

Wider use of wireless has all along been one of the three main British contentions for insuring safety at sea. The British regulations provide that every ship of 1,600 tons or more and carrying twelve or more passengers must have wireless with an operator working eight hours daily. A continuous watch must be maintained if the ship carries fifty or more passengers. Until now the British have been far ahead of other countries in their regulations in respect to wireless. In the light of the Vestris disaster, however, when a small freighter had she been equipped with wireless might have saved 100 lives, the British hope that their regulation will become international and that the conference will go even further.

The British, who took the initiative in summoning the conference, have two more main issues which they are expected to bring before the delegates. The first concerns the loading of cargo boats—British regulations providing a strict safety limit as the amount of loadline, while ships of Continental nations come into British ports with heavier loads. The British contention is that this constitutes unfair competition and a menace to safety as well.

Lifeboats Important Topic.

The second concerns lifeboats, an issue on which there is expected to be sharp controversy. Should ships continue to carry lifeboats for all? Or could a supply of liferafts answer the same purpose? It is probable that lifeboats and liferafts may both be recommended by the conference.

Although the British called the conference and have given it some of its issues, all eyes today were on the United States delegation, headed by Representative Wallace White of Maine. Numerically, the United States has the largest delegation of all the eighteen countries.

Mr. White has explained that this is due to the distance across the Atlantic and the difficulty of obtaining technical information when it is needed. Therefore, the delegation includes Charles M. Barnes, chief of the State Department's treaty division; Dickerson N. Hoover, inspector general of the Steamboat Inspection Service; Rear Admiral R. M. Rock, assistant chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, and a long list of hydrographers, radiographers, navigators and members of the steamship owners' committees.

The Americans are deeply interested in such matters as "the rule of the road" at sea and more durable construction of ships. It is believed here, however, that if the Americans and British agree the conference will have surmounted its biggest obstacle.

Tonight Sir Austen Chamberlain, the Foreign Secretary, presided at a dinner to the delegates given by the government. Later there was a reception at Lancaster House.

The business sessions of the conference will begin in earnest tomorrow.

Another Parley in July.

The Comité Maritime International, which is drafting a code for international law-making it compulsory for ship owners to insure passengers against accidental death and personal injury, will assemble at Brussels in July.

The idea underlying the proposed code is that instead of the existing legal liability which ship owners bear to their passengers, there shall be adopted a system by which ship owners will be bound to issue with the tickets insurances against accidental death or injury. This would involve the payment of compensation irrespective of whether the ship owner had incurred any liability by neglect or default.

American ship owners will be represented on the committee.

DAWES PRESENTS DRAFT OF BUDGET

Sees Dominican President and Cabinet and Hopes to End Task Within Week.

HIS FORBEARANCE PLEASES

General Refrains From Criticizing Recent Lavish Expenditures—Opposition Lauds Him.

By HUGH O'CONNOR.

Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SANTO DOMINGO, April 16.—General Charles G. Dawes spent two hours today in private session with President Casquez and the entire Cabinet of the Dominican Republic, submitting a preliminary draft of a budget system adapted to their needs from the budget system of the United States by a group of private American citizens during the past two weeks.

General Dawes and the associated experts expect to give final form within another week to a statement presenting the financial condition of the Dominican Republic, as well as a statement on budget principles, the proposed budget law with supporting executive orders and proposed financing and accounting laws.

It is understood that President Vasquez and his Cabinet were enthusiastic over the way the report was being steered clear of politics by General Dawes, who has restricted economy and efficiency to the future without passing judgment on the operations of the past.

This is a notable achievement in view of the history of this republic, where governments heretofore were interested in spending the money which goes with power and where President Vasquez—who is now arranging for his own re-election—spent freely during the past five years on an ambitious program of public works, which his supporters defend by explaining that it was necessary to employ the opposition forces in order to make peace with them.

The success of General Dawes in steering clear of criticism of this past spending so far is indicated by the latest editorial in La Opinion, which recently spoke of "the evaporation of public funds since 1925," and was denounced by the pro-administration El Mundo for "malicious and unpatriotic falsification." The present attitude of La Opinion is expressed as follows:

"The presence of General Dawes will serve not only to advertise this country but also to advertise its desire to reorganize its finances.

"Moreover, his appointment as Ambassador attracts the attention of London to his presence in Santo Domingo. Some people not only are ignorant as to what sort of people we are, but even of the fact that we exist at all.

"Undoubtedly the production of a plan of financial reform and its application by the present administration would cause President Vasquez to be better supported popularly."

For the moment the rattle of hustling typewriters in the stone building assigned to the Dawes mission has created a sort of political armistice resulting usually heretofore from the rattle of muskery, while this self-styled "cradle of America, where Columbus first implanted the civilization of Europe," awaits the implanting of the American budget.

BOOM PRICES HALT EAST SIDE REALTY DEAL

Southern Markets, Inc., Announces Its Project There Will Be Abandoned.

The collapse of the boom real estate market in the district of the east side lying between Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges, the East River and Madison Street was echoed yesterday in an announcement by Southern Markets, Inc., one of the four principal buyers, of its intention to abandon its plans. William M. Chadbourne, 165 Broadway, counsel for Southern Markets, Inc., made the announcement for his clients:

"Southern Markets, Inc., selected the area along the East River between the Brooklyn and Manhattan Bridges as the site for its operations and began the purchase of certain parcels in that section. It appears, however, that these purchases have created a flurry in the neighborhood resembling the Far Rockaway boom of two or three years ago, and prices have skyrocketed.

"Southern Markets will, of course, take the title to the properties it has contracted to buy and hold them until such time as it can dispose of them. The excessive prices at which land seems to be held in the neighborhood will, however, compel the transfer of the project either to another section of New York or to another city."

Mr. Chadbourne, reluctant to supplement the statement, asserted that Southern Markets, Inc., had no connection with any of the other groups of buyers whose trading in the area caused the boom, which eventually saw small property owners bidding against each other in an attempt to enlarge their holdings. He would not discuss the capital behind Southern Markets, Inc., or go into the details of its plans, which east side property owners were informed contemplated a large storehouse and market.

The government took so serious a view of Mr. Snowden's attack on the Balfour note and his outburst against France that it deferred the ministerial reply to his speech until tomorrow. It will then be known definitely whether Mr. Snowden has the support of his leader Ramsay MacDonald, whose opinion is awaited with interest.

Mr. Snowden said that people who had patriotically lent money to France during the war had been practically ruined by her "bilking" her financial obligations. If France could afford to pay America, she could afford to pay Britain, added Mr. Snowden, and but for Britain France would not be an independent country today.

Sir Robert Horne, Conservative, expressed the surprise felt on the government benches and remarked that he had never heard the policy of the Balfour note challenged before. He said he had "always understood that the Labor party stood for the remission of all debts."

British Fear Loss of Credit.

The reaction over Mr. Snowden's declaration that the Labor party considers itself free to repudiate the debt agreements centres around the effects it may have upon Britain's national credit.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph will say tomorrow:

"If faith in Britain's acceptance of the principle of the Balfour note were weakened it would shake the country's national credit in every sense throughout Europe to its foundations."

It is stated that an emergency meeting of the Cabinet is being called early tomorrow to consider what measures can be adopted to allay possible alarms in foreign quarters. Yet support for Mr. Snowden is forthcoming from unexpected circles.

The Daily Express, which has strongly championed Winston Churchill throughout the budget, will say:

"We congratulate Mr. Snowden on daring to speak the truth about the Anglo-French debt terms. His critics missed the point. There is no question of repudiation at all. France has never ratified the debt settlement with Britain, so what Mr. Snowden advocates is the perfectly legitimate procedure of withdrawing an offer."

Principle of Balfour Note.

The Balfour note, which has formed the basis of the British debt policy since it was issued in 1922, stated that Great Britain would have been willing to cancel reparation claims and interallied debts in a universal settlement. It also stated that she would be content with the collection from Germany and her allies of only sufficient money to cover her own debt to the United States, although the sum of these amounted to only one-quarter of the sum due to her.

Coffee Trade Protests.

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—The revocation of the tea tax by Mr. Churchill has led representatives of the coffee trade in London to send a protest to the Chancellor against the disturbance of the equitable proportion of taxation on coffee and tea.

Expressing regret that while the tea duty has been abolished, that on coffee, cocoa and chicory has been left untouched, the protest calls attention to the statement by a former Chancellor "that the duties of these products should remain equal and that this principle has been observed since 1924." The protest was signed by Andrew Devitt and Alexander J. Parnell, president and secretary of the Coffee Trade Association of London.

One supporter of the protest said: "We cannot measure the effect when tea is duty free and coffee has a duty on it. It is the middle class who will feel the tax, and unless something is done at once we in the trade will find a very serious decline in the consumption of coffee."

EX-COUNTESS GETS DIVORCE

Former Lady Drogheda Gets Decree From De Landa.

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—A divorce decree nisi has been granted to Mrs. Kathleen de Landa y Escandon from Guillermo de Landa y Escandon, wealthy Mexican polo player and prominent figure in Paris society.

Mrs. de Landa was the former Countess Drogheda. She obtained a divorce from the Earl of Drogheda in 1921.

PARIS, April 16 (AP).—Mrs. Caroline Carothers Clement has filed an application for divorce from Joseph Taylor Clement, whose present address was given as 305 Eastern Boulevard, Charlotte, N. C. The couple were married on May 5, 1923, in Newport, Ky.

Hermann Frederic Snyder, an American, also has filed a petition for divorce from Mrs. Snyder, born Britmann. They were married in Paris on May 23, 1925.

Tory "Stocks" Drop After Budget.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—General election "stocks" on the Exchange reacted today to Winston Churchill's budget speech and Conservative prices were marked down five points, Labor and Liberals gaining two points each. The position now is Conservatives, 273 to 277 seats; Labor, 251 to 255; Liberals, 54 to 58; Independents, 5 to 6.

EINSTEIN IS HONORED AT MEETING HERE

HOOVER SENDS A MESSAGE

Lord Balfour, Dr. Michelson and Many Others Add to Felicitations —Secretary Wilbur Speaks.

Men and women from many parts of the country joined here last night in paying tribute to Albert Einstein at a mass meeting in the Metropolitan Opera House. The meeting was arranged by the Einstein jubilee committee, in conjunction with the Jewish National Fund and the Zionist Organization of America. A message of felicitation was sent by President Hoover.

The President in his message said: "Einstein ranks high among the foremost scientists of all time, who have enriched mankind by their invaluable contributions to thought and human progress."

Other speakers included Mayor Walker, Count F. W. von Prittwitz, German Ambassador to the United States; Louis Marshall, Nathan Straus, Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Morris Rohenberg, the Rev. Z. H. Masliansky and Herman Bernstein, chairman of the Einstein jubilee committee. Emanuel Neumann, president of the Jewish National Fund, presided.

Many Tributes Read.

Messages of tribute were read from Lord Balfour, President John Grier Hibben of Princeton University; Dr. Julian Morgenstern, president of the Hebrew Union College, Cincinnati; Chancellor E. L. Lindley of the University of Kansas, Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the University of Nebraska, Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, President David Kinely of the University of Illinois, Professor A. A. Michelson, President James Rowland Angell of Yale University, President C. C. Little of the University of Michigan, President Wallace W. Atwood of Clark University and others.

Answers O'Connell Charge.

Replying to the charge made recently by Cardinal O'Connell of Boston that Einstein's scientific views lead to atheism and tend to undermine the Christian faith, Mr. Marshall compared the Cardinal's attack to similar assaults made in the medieval ages upon such men as Copernicus, Bruno and Galileo.

"What is there in the theory of relativity that can possibly produce a doubt about God and His creation?" asked Mr. Marshall. "Why should a man who reverently approaches the problems of the universe and who recognizes the grandeur of God's handiwork be charged with an attempt to corrupt youth, the same charge that was made centuries ago against Socrates?"

Secretary Wilbur compared Einstein to Lindbergh in the sense that like Lindbergh he is a pioneer who works alone.

"We admire Napoleon and the great leaders," Dr. Wilbur said. "But we admire also those who are pioneers, who go out alone and add to the sum total of human knowledge. Here is a single-handed scientist. He too, like Lindbergh, went alone."

Mayor Walker asked the permission of the audience to admit that he was the only one present who did not know what Einstein's theory was all about. The Mayor added, however, that in common with the rest of the world he was conscious of the tremendous contribution made by Einstein to science.

It was announced at the celebration by Mr. Bernstein that the greetings received from the various men of science and other leaders of thought will be bound into a special album which will be presented to Professor Einstein.

Each of the Jewish signatories of the album contributed $100 toward the acquisition of land in Palestine by the Jewish National Fund, a project in which Dr. Einstein is interested.

Professor Einstein will shortly publish in Berlin some new equations in the development of his unitary field theory, according to Dr. Martin Meyer, Assistant Professor of Chemistry at the Brooklyn Centre of the College of the City of New York, who declared yesterday that he had received that information on Monday in a letter from Professor Einstein.

Dr. Meyer said he had recently sent a copy of his own translation of the unitary field theory to Professor Einstein, asking the physicist to autograph it. He received the returned translation on Monday, he said, appended to which was a brief note in German, which read:

The field equations in this work are not yet the correct ones. The latter will shortly be published in the Sitzungsberichten der Preussischen Akademie der Wissenschaften. A. EINSTEIN.

The German publication mentioned by Professor Einstein," said Dr. Meyer, "is the weekly of a scientists' seminar of the University of Berlin, in which all the field theories of relativity have been issued.

"Einstein said in his latest paper on the unitary field theory," Dr. Meyer went on, in explaining where the changes hinted at would likely be made, "that beginning with equation nine and those following, if we start with a certain equation four others drop out in the development of the proposition. But Einstein points out that if we do not use this tensor, but substitute for it a diverting one, we then reach a satisfactory result."

Dr. Meyer said that in his opinion the changes which he says Professor Einstein is contemplating will not affect the fundamental structure of the field theory, making only slight difference in its general significance. Dr. Meyer has followed Einstein's discoveries for ten years, he said yesterday, speaking and writing on the subject for university classes.

Einstein Expresses Pleasure.

BERLIN, April 16 (AP).—Albert Einstein today expressed through The Associated Pres his pleasure over the mass meeting held in his honor tonight in New York, by the following message to the audience:

You meet to celebrate a myth bearing my name. This proves, however, that in our time, amid all the ill-omened striving after power and luxury, there still lives an appreciation for the eternal aims of the human spirit.

That makes me happy.

ALBERT EINSTEIN.

viously, it will be wiped out after the Leviathan's departure from Southampton next Saturday."

No Prescriptions Issued.

Billy Linn, the liner's chief steward, denied firmly that any liquor stores had been touched during the eastbound voyage and Dr. Frank Stewart, chief surgeon, said that he had not issued a single prescription for any of the passengers with a real or fancied need for alcoholic spirits for medicinal purposes.

Agents for French wine and liquor interests boarded the Leviathan this morning and raced to Mr. Linn's office to lay their price lists before him. He smilingly agreed to look over what they had to offer and said he might place a few orders for delivery when the ship again calls at Cherbourg on Saturday, homeward bound.

Captain Cunningham told newspaper men that he had received wireless requests from all New York daily newspapers to describe the scene at the opening of his ship's "new bar" after the twelve-mile limit had been passed.

"I do not think the passengers getting off here look very debauched," he said. "Yet they seemed to have the impression back in New York that wild orgies would take place on this trip to celebrate the ship's becoming wet again."

Debarking Passengers Wet.

If the debarking passengers were an unmistakably sober crowd, they were, nevertheless, overwhelmingly wet in their sympathies, judged from the remarks of the large number asked by the correspondent to comment on the question of selling liquor on American ships. Every one strongly favored the sale of drinks. There was a concerted rush on the bar maintained on the pier after the American visitors had passed the customs inspection.

"The only change this new order will effect, as far as I can see," said Charles C. Kurzman, veteran buyer, for whom this trip on the Leviathan was his two hundred and first Atlantic crossing, "is that it will mean that a bootlegging steward will be out of luck hereafter. The company will sell the stuff at legitimate and not bootleg prices, as the stewards have in the past. Anything you wanted was served in the smoking room lounge or at the table in the dining salon on this voyage, the same as it has been on every other crossing I have made on the Leviathan. Unfortunately, they ran out of champagne yesterday.

"I noticed that everything to drink was cheaper on this trip, however. Scotch highballs and cocktails formerly cost 75 cents, but they charged only 50 cents this time. Champagne could be had at from $7.50 to $10 a quart. All the stewards in business for themselves were unloading, I suppose. Many of the regular travelers who favored American ships long ago got into the habit of taking their own stuff aboard with them and cabin cocktail parties have become very popular."

Was "Like Any American City."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—"Just like any American city" was the way passengers described the liquor situation aboard the Leviathan when she arrived in Southampton today on her first voyage under new ownership after touching at Cherbourg.

Apparently the ship was dry as Manhattan Island on the entire journey across the Atlantic. The much-heralded stock of "medicinal liquor" was not touched and no liquor was sold openly, although bootleggers did a good business.

If a passenger asked a steward for a drink, he met with a refusal. If he asked for cracked ice or ginger ale or mineral water, however, he found the steward the soul of courtesy, and that, according to officials of the line, is just as it was when the Leviathan was government property.

When she sails homeward Saturday, however, there will be a change. David A. Burke, general manager of the United States Lines, told the correspondent today that the Leviathan would be a wet ship and that the government would not interfere.

"The ship will carry liquor, but no bar," said Mr. Burke. "Only wines in bottles will be served in public rooms like the dining salon or the smoking room. If any one wants a cocktail or a highball, he can have it, but in his own stateroom.

"We do not anticipate any trouble with the United States Government over our position. We base our action on the Supreme Court decision which held that a ship traveling outside American territorial waters is not in American territory and cannot be affected by the Volstead act."

Mr. Burke is here to wind up the business of the old United States Lines and plans to inspect the line's property at Southampton and Liverpool, as well as London. He said the Chapman Company did not plan the acquisition of more vessels except two 46,000-ton liners already contracted for, which should be completed early in 1932.

Another Leviathan passenger was Captain Charles McAllister, president of the American Bureau of Shipping, who arrived in London just too late for the opening session of the International Conference on Safety of Life at Sea, to which he was a delegate.

"You can take it from me," he said, "I did not see a single drop of liquor sold from the moment we left New York."

Situation Is Confused.

The policy that will ultimately be followed by the United States Lines, Inc., as to the sale of liquors on its transatlantic liners was confused rather than cleared by statements made at Cherbourg on the Leviathan's arrival yesterday. Joseph E. Sheedy, executive president, declined to discuss the matter at his office, 45 Broadway.

Passengers were quoted as saying that the ship was "no wetter than before." It has been generally asserted that one could get all he wanted to drink on the Leviathan in the past. The only change expected from Mr. Sheedy's original statement that liquor would be sold on trips both ways was that the owners would take responsibility for sales.

Although comment was declined at the offices of the lines, it is known that a more definite legal statement of the rights of the owners to sell liquor is sought as the basis of a declaration by Mr. Chapman or Mr. Sheedy. Meanwhile responsibility has been placed in the hands of Captain Cunningham for the conduct of the Leviathan.

The right of the ship owners to sell medicinal liquor on the high seas for beverage purposes constitutes the point at issue and American ship owners, with the exception of the Dollar Line, according to New York shipping men, now assume that they can sell it as they desire and have sold it since 1923 for beverage purposes.

AUSTRIAN CRISIS PERSISTS.

Government Parties and Socialists Fail to Agree on Chancellor.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 16.—Negotiations between the government parties and Socialists, which it had been hoped would be ended today in a compromise that would permit the election of a new Chancellor to succeed Mgr. Seipel have again broken down.

The negotiations primarily concerned the government's desire to secure an increase in house rents chargeable under Austrian law. These rents are still reckoned in paper crowns, which means that they are practically nothing. The Socialists agreed to permit increases which would raise them to the level of about one-fifth of the pre-war figures, but this was not large enough to meet the wishes of the government.

The Socialists have now requested that the negotiations be adjourned until the 23d, period because they wish to know the result of Sunday's bye-elections before continuing them.

The danger of the breakdown is that it probably will be accepted by the leaders of the Heimwehr, Austria's private anti-Socialist army, as conclusive evidence that the political crisis cannot be settled by Parliamentary means and may encourage them to execute their threat to solve it by force of arms.

TOKIO TO QUIT TSINAN IN SPITE OF NANKING

Nationalists Fail to Take Over City and Japanese Order Evacuation to Proceed.

HEAVY FIRING ON YANGTSE

Fleeing Wuhan Troops Clash With Loyal Forces—Slain Missionary Was Indiana Man.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, April 16.—Delayed reports reaching here this afternoon indicate a hitch in the plans of the Nanking authorities for taking over control of Tsinan-fu from the Japanese. A brigade of troops under General Sun Liang-chen, which had been stationed outside the city waiting to take over control as soon as the Japanese had evacuated the city, suddenly withdrew to Taian by order of the Nanking Government.

This action caused the Japanese to unload all the military supplies and munitions which had already been placed on the trains preparatory to withdrawal.

Replies to urgent telegrams to Tokio, however, instructed the military forces to evacuate the city, regardless of whether the Chinese were prepared or not to take over, according to previous orders sanctioned by the Emperor.

The city, therefore, will be cleared of Japanese troops as soon as possible and all munitions and supplies will be reloaded ready for removal tonight or tomorrow morning.

The American Legation here this morning received a wire to the effect that Herbert K. Smith, American missionary, stationed in Kweichow Province, had been killed by bandits. The report was sent here by A. B. Bezzell, stationed at Huangtsaopa, Kweichow.

The legation has wired the United States Consulate at Hankow to investigate.

All United States vessels stationed at Nanking have now left for Hankow and points up the Yangtse.

The remnants of General Liu Chen-nien's troops in Shantung are holding Muping against Marshal Chang Tsung-chang's forces, but they are expected to capitulate in one or two days.

Heavy Firing on Yangtse.

SHANGHAI, April 16 (AP).—Chaos reigned today along a stretch of the upper Yangtse Kiang hundreds of miles long as Wuhan rebels fought with loyal Nanking troops, who attacked them at both front and rear.

Shipping was raked with machine-gun fire and heavy field guns were trained on the stream at strategic points. Commercial boats failed to get above Hankow today.

The danger area, it appeared, stretched from Shasi and Ichang, Hupeh, to Chungking, in Szechuwan Province. The situation was not clear, but apparently troops of the Wuhan factions retreating up the Yangtse met a large contingent of Szechwan troops coming to aid the Nationalists.

At least 20,000 soldiers were congregated on the north bank of the Yangtse between Shasi and Wanhsien, Szechwan, while large numbers of Wuhan troops were attempting to cross the river at Shasi to enter Hunan. Nanking government gunboats along the river were aiding their land forces. It was not determined which faction was responsible for the firing at ships.

American consular and missionary authorities tried today to piece out the story of the last days of Herbert K. Smith, Seventh Day Adventist of Zionville, Ind.

A telegram dated Kweiyang, Kweichow, by way of Hankow and dated April 12, arrived here last night verifying previous reports of the missionary's death. It was signed by the American Seventh Day Adventist representative of Kweiyang, and said:

M. C. Warren, of Chico, Cal., a Seventh Day Adventist representative who recently saw Smith at Kweiyang, said Smith had started a three week's walking evangelical tour of southwest Kweichow province. Hwangtsaopa was eight days' walk from Kweiyang.

Warren said bandits had overrun the province and he believed Smith had met his death at their hands. Smith's wife and child had been left at Kweiyang and were believed to be safe there.

He said the Hwangtsaopa dispatch evidently had been sent by the Chinese themselves since there were no foreign mission members there. It was not dated—or its date was not known here—so the date of Smith's death could not be determined.

Smith was graduated at the Seventh Day Adventist Language School and sent to Changking in June, 1928, being transferred in October to Kweiyang.

Missionary's Widow Safe.

Special to The New York Times.

ANDERSON, Ind., April 16.—Herbert K. Smith, 25 years old, was a son-in-law of Mrs. Lora Chew of Anderson, who was notified of his death today. She understood Smith's widow and their 2-year-old son were safe at a mission station.

Mrs. Chew said Smith, a native of Boone County, Ind., was graduated from the Adventist Academy, Cicero, Ind., and Emmanuel Missionary College, Berrien Springs, Mich., and was assigned to China two years ago.

Mrs. Chew was trying by cable to communicate with her daughter. She presumed the body of Smith would be forwarded to Anderson or Zionville, Ind. His parents are dead.

SAYS PRIDE COST HAPSBURGS ESTATES

Candidate for Chancellorship in Austria Declares They Would Not Deal With Republic.

SEIPEL PLANNED PAYMENT

Seized Castles and Art Treasures Are Now State Museums—Former Owners Poor.

By JOHN MacCORMAC.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, April 16.—If former Empress Zita and other Hapsburgs had been willing to put their pride in pockets and negotiate with the Austrian Republican Government they could have procured a profitable understanding as to their vast and valuable confiscated estates, as was done by the Hohenzollerns in Germany. This has just been revealed for the first time and with it the fact that the imperial family refused even to negotiate on the ground that they did not recognize the Republican régime.

Dr. Franz Ender, the Christian Socialist head of the local government in Vorarlberg and candidate for the chancellorship in succession to Mgr. Seipel, made this news public yesterday in a speech at Bregenz.

"Concerning the monarchist agitation in Austria," he declared, "I must remark that Chancellor Seipel, as a loyal and honest man, tried to come to an understanding with the former imperial family about their properties, as was done in Germany. But the imperial family refused even to negotiate, because they do not recognise the Republican Government of Austria."

If the Socialists had heard of Mgr. Seipel's plan to indemnify the Hapsburgs for their confiscated properties, they certainly would have opposed it.

These possessions, which consisted largely of estates and castles, were taken over by the republic on behalf of war invalids just after the collapse of the empire. The imperial palaces of Schoenbrunn and Luxemburg, vast hunting parks and old historic and richly furnished castles, became State property, and not a cent of compensation was paid to the former owners. With their rare and almost priceless collections of paintings, tapestries, furniture and porcelain, their total value would run well into the millions.

In the former palace of the Archduke Frederick in Vienna, for instance, is housed the noted "Albertina" collection of drawings, engravings and art prints, including 145 Dürers, probably the largest of its kind in the world. The former Imperial Court Library, nationalized in 1919, contains more than 1,000,000 volumes, 34,000 manuscripts and a noted collection of Greek and Arabic papyri.

Even the gold and silver plate of the imperial family, now museum exhibits in the nationalized palaces of Schoenbrunn and Hofburg, would be a rich prize for connoisseurs and its sale profitable for the former Empress Zita.

But the former Empress is in less straitened circumstances than many of the lesser Hapsburgs. With financial assistance from the Spanish court and Hungarian nobility, she now lives in comfort, if not in luxury, although there were times when the merchants of Vienna sent dresses, baby clothes and toys to the impoverished representative of the imperial family to whom they had once been court furnishers.

SCHACHT PROMISES DEBT FIGURES TODAY

BERLIN AGAIN DUBIOUS.

Doubt Expressed Paris Conference Will Effect a Settlement.

BERLIN, April 16 (AP).—The status of the reparations negotiations now going on in Paris is viewed as critical in German official circles. At the present time the possibility of reaching a settlement is frankly not foreseen.

While no new elements have been introduced into the reparations situation since yesterday when hopes were pinned to the non-ultimatum character of the allied memorandum, apparently second thought has made certain official circles despair for the present at harmonizing views as far apart as the allied and German delegates on the final sum of reparations to be paid.

As far as public discussion is concerned, the press has done most of it, the only exception being the Bavarian Veterans' League, which at a meeting in Munich "in the name of 3,000,000 ex-soldiers" demanded the immediate breaking off of the Paris negotiations since "developments show that a settlement according to good sense and justice evidently cannot be expected."

SPANISH SEEK TO END TRADE MODUS VIVENDI

Exporters Say Tariff Agreement Favors Us but Handicaps Them —Want Reciprocity.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, April 16.—Strong influences representing Spanish exporters of fruits, grapes, cork and other products are now engaged in bringing pressure to bear on the government to break the modus vivendi tariff arrangement with the United States and start negotiations for a new tariff schedule upon the basis of mutual concessions.

It is urged that under the present arrangement Spain makes favorable terms for a large number of American products without obtaining from America any advantages for her exports to that country. The exporters want Spain to adopt the same system of reciprocity in tariff favored by most of the other European countries.

These proposals have been taken under advisement by the government, which is making an extensive study of the tariff situation. Because many Spanish importers are known to derive benefits from the existing modus vivendi with the United States, however, in well-informed circles it is doubted whether the final tariff scheme recommended will greatly differ from that of the present régime.

MADRID, April 16 (AP).—The Foreign Trade Council of the Ministry of Commerce requested today that Spain abrogate the modus vivendi trade agreement with the United States. The meeting was attended by representatives of the chambers of commerce of New York, Havana, Santo Domingo and Panama, as well as several South American cities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Official word that the Foreign Trade Council of the Ministry of Commerce in Madrid had requested its government to abrogate the trade modus vivendi had not reached the State Department today, but officials said such action would be viewed with concern by the United States.

The modus vivendi has been in effect since efforts at negotiating a commercial treaty failed three years ago. The treaty negotiations were delayed indefinitely when Spain was unable to have American fruit quarantine regulations waived, especially those imposed because of the Mediterranean fruit fly. That, the State Department explained at the time, was impossible in view of strict American laws requiring imposition of quarantines.

The modus vivendi, which guarantees most-favored-nation treatment in the absence of a commercial treaty, was at first adopted for six-month periods, being renewed regularly, but a year ago its life was made indeterminate. It is subject, however, to denunciation by either government on due notice.

PROPOSES TO SPLIT SHARES

New York Title and Mortgage Company to Vote on May 15.

Directors of the New York Title and Mortgage Company approved yesterday a plan to split the company's stock on the basis of ten shares for one. The stockholders will vote on the plan on May 15. The purpose, according to Harry A. Kahler, president, is to obtain a wider distribution of the shares. The present par value is $100, and the market price is $750 a share. Under the new plan, the shares will have a par value of $10 each. While the number of shares will be increased, the capitalization will remain the same.

The company has capital funds of more than $62,000,000. It owns the American Trust Company and has a controlling interest in the County Trust Company of White Plains.

AIR ROUTES DIVIDED IN $3,000,000 DEAL

PLAN MANY NEW ROUTES

Hoyt Interests to Operate South of Mexican Border—United to Control Ways to North.

Two of the great aeronautical corporations of the United States, controlling thousands of miles of airways in North and Central America, have reached an agreement for cooperation and exchange of traffic on lines which ultimately will extend from Seattle to South America, and possibly from Alaska to Buenos Aires.

News of this agreement was revealed yesterday when Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of Aviation Corporation of the Americas, which owns Pan American Airways, announced that United Aircraft and Air Transport Corporation, which controls Boeing Air Transport and Pacific Air Transport, had purchased 50,000 shares of the capital stock of the Aviation Corporation of the Americas, representing a value at yesterday's closing prices of $3,075,000.

It was also learned that Frederick B. Rentschler, president of United Aircraft and Air Transport and of the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Corporation of Hartford, would join the directorate of the Hoyt Company.

The deal also involves an agreement whereby United Air Transport takes over from the Boeing Company options on the Compania de Transportes Aereos Latino Americano, which holds the Mexican air mail contract from Tijuana via Mexicali, Nogales and Mexico City to Tapachula. This line, when placed in operation, will probably be extended southward to Guatemala City, and will include an air transport shuttle via Vera Cruze and Merida Yucatan to Belize, connecting there with the Pan American Airways line now under operation between Miami and Cristobal; it was said.

Virtually the agreement between these two companies amounts to this: Aviation Corporation of the Americas agrees to operate south of the Mexican border and through its present international air lines, while United, through its subsidiaries Boeing and Pacific Air Transport, will confine its operations to regions north of the border. At present Pacific Air Transport flies mail and passengers between Seattle and Los Angeles. Boeing carries the transcontinental mail between San Francisco and Chicago.

A survey has been completed, it was learned, by the Boeing Company of an airway between Seattle and Juneau, Alaska, with a view of connecting the Territory with the network of air lines in the United States and to the south.

As a result of the agreement it is expected that a new American corporation will be formed as a unit in Aviation Corporation of the Americas to control the proposed Mexican air line. Pacific Air Transport will probably extend its present line from Los Angeles to Tia Juana, thus linking the cities of the Pacific Coast, and through Boeing the cities west of the Mississippi from Chicago to San Francisco, with the Mexican system.

TWO FOUND GUILTY IN DOUBLE MURDER

Youths, 20, Convicted in First Degree for Graziano Slayings in Franklin Square.

JURY OUT ONLY 53 MINUTES

Time Sets Record for Nassau County —Trial of Two Others to Begin Next Week.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 16.—A jury before County Judge Lewis J. Smith deliberated only fifty-three minutes tonight before returning a verdict of first-degree murder against Frankie (Pliers) Plaia and Michael Sclafonia, both of Brooklyn, two of the four men indicted for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Saro Graziano last Dec. 16 in Franklin Square. The trial lasted eight days.

Court officials said the verdict establishes a record for Nassau County. In no previous murder case has a jury deliberated less than one hour. In this trial the jury received the case at 6:18 P. M., deliberated about fifteen minutes, went to dinner and about a half hour after their return came in with the verdict.

Plaia, leader of the "Sweetheart Gang" in Brooklyn, heard the foreman's pronouncement stolidly. Sclafonia heard the verdict with a smile and was still smiling when he and Plaia were led to the county jail. The two men will be sentenced on Friday morning. Each is 20 years old.

Throughout the trial the State contended that Saro Graziano and his wife, Mary, who were married a short time before they were killed, were the victims of gang vengeance; that Graziano held information which might endanger the freedom of members of the gang. State witnesses testified that Mrs. Graziano had a premonition of death when she and her husband left their home, at 9,217 Foster Avenue, Brooklyn, the night of Dec. 15. She told her mother she was going to meet Plaia and a lawyer. "If anything happens," she said, "blame Plaia." The bodies were found in a deserted bungalow near Franklin Square, riddled with bullets.

Plaia testified in his own behalf in an attempt to establish an alibi, and friends and relatives were called by his counsel to support his testimony. Sclafonia did not take the stand, but his lawyer maintained that his client was in bed at his home, 174 Van Sicklen Avenue, when the shooting took place.

Trial of Arthur Benny, 20, of 2,232 Atlantic Avenue, and of Tony Castigliola, 28, of 393 Jerome Street, both of Brooklyn, is scheduled to start next week before County Judge Smith. They are accused of having conspired with Plaia and Sclafonia to do away with the Grazianos.

Lufthansa Head Urges Duty-Free Airports; Says Europe Needs Them to Keep Pace With Us

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 16.—The creation of free airports in Berlin, Paris and London, where goods may be transhipped without duty, as in free ship harbors, is the aim embodied in a resolution prepared by Director Merkel of the German Lufthansa and to be placed before the International Chamber of Commerce at its forthcoming meeting in Amsterdam.

Herr Merkel made this announcement today at a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce in Germany when he recounted his recent experiences in the United States, where he attended the ceremonies of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Wrights' first flight. He declared that commercial aviation would never achieve the same results in Europe as in the United States, on account of the different languages and customs barriers, until some system were established permitting long, unhampered hauls.

Comparing aviation in general in Europe and the United States, Herr Merkel asserted that the human equation would play such an important part in the future development that Europe must discover some far-visioned enthusiasts such as Henry Ford and Daniel Guggenheim or fall far behind.

The long-time contracts in America for handling mail were at present impossible in Germany, he said, on account of the political situation based on the uncertainty of reparations, but it was solely, he added, because of such contracts that several American lines were now paying commercial enterprises.

In order that civil aviation might become a paying proposition such as railways and automobiles, the Lufthansa director declared that three things were necessary: First, a considerable reduction in the cost of planes; second, engine development and, third, overcoming the difficulties of flying at night and through a fog. Until the last was achieved, he declared, the air companies would never be able to put through time tables satisfactory to the business and banking interests.

Herr Merkel paid high tribute to the work progressing at Langley Field, Washington; Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, and at the United States Bureau of Standards, where he said that such progress was being made as to astonish European visitors. He gave interesting figures showing the difference in mail carried on the two continents. Last year the Lufthansa carried 300,000 kilograms (about 660,000 pounds) at $1 per kilogram, against 1,800,000 kilograms carried in the United States at four times that amount.

He declared that financial success was due to the American form of contract, in which the rates were based on mileage instead of weight, and also cited the individual interest in aviation in the United States, where there are now 7,000 privately owned planes, against 500 in Europe.

Only in the number of passengers carried does Europe still hold the lead. Last year the Lufthansa carried 111,000, against 35,000 in the United States.

Herr Merkel added that this was likely to be changed soon on account of the interest of the American railways, which, having recognized the inroads made by the automobile, are now taking an early practical interest in aviation.

VOTE CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

Michigan Senators Pass Lennon Referendum Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

LANSING, Mich., April 16.—The Michigan Senate this afternoon passed the Lennon capital punishment bill, 21 to 10.

The vote came after an hour's debate in which several unsuccessful efforts were made to amend the measure. An effort to have the referendum clause stricken from the bill was lost 17 to 10. Another amendment which would have made it necessary to electrocute expectant mothers upon conviction under the provisions of the bill was defeated by the same vote.

The bill, if passed by the House and signed by the Governor, must be submitted to the voters for approval.

HIGH LABOR STATUS HELDSTATEHANDICAP

ASK HALT IN WELFARE ACTS

Manufacturers Oppose Further Advance Until Rest of Country Has Caught Up.

ECONOMISTS UPHOLD LAWS

Insist Record of Growth Shows High Wages and Short Hours Stimulate Prosperity.

Economists who asserted that industry in New York State was in a healthy condition and that high labor and social standards did not affect industrial prosperity were challenged yesterday at the meeting of the New York State-Wide Economic Congress at the Hotel Astor by industrialists with figures tending to show that New York State industries were seriously affected by competition of other States with lower standards. The business men were of the opinion that New York State "has gone a little beyond what is required at the moment and so let us have a breathing spell until the other States can catch up."

The congress spent the morning session yesterday in discussing the rural problem, and experts outlined a program for the development of rural centres so as to discourage industry from leaving the State. They suggested the intensive use of good farm land, reforestation of inferior lands and the moving of industry to the small community. The speakers were John P. Myers of Plattsburg, Professor George F. Warren of Cornell University, Alexander D. Falck of Corning, N. Y.; C. R. White, president of the State Farm Bureau Federation, and W. Pierrepont White, identified with the New York Good Roads Movement.

State Leads in Prosperity.

During the afternoon discussion on "The Prosperity of the Workers as an Economic Asset," George Soule of the Labor Bureau, Inc., declared that if it was true that New York State was among the leaders in labor legislation "it also appears to be true that New York remains among the leaders in industrial prosperity."

Mr. Soule questioned the report of the National Industrial Conference Board of 1927, which, he said, maintained that the expansion of industry in New York State did not appear to keep pace with that of competing States or with the United States as a whole.

Between 1923 and 1927, according to Mr. Soule, the value of the manufactured products in New York State grew more than in the United States as a whole and more than in four of the six States which the Conference Board had picked as chief competitors of New York.

"While the value of products was growing 5.5 per cent in New York," said Mr. Soule, "it shrank 6.8 per cent in Pennsylvania and 6.6 per cent in Massachusetts, grew only 1 per cent in New Jersey, 2.1 per cent in Ohio and 4.1 per cent in the United States as a whole. Only Illinois and Michigan overtopped the growth of New York City, with increases of 7.0 per cent and 9.4 per cent, respectively."

Mr. Soule asserted that a reduction of working hours to forty-eight or even less did not necessarily imply increased cost to industry. He urged industry to execute a right-about-face in the matter of progressive legislation and present to the rest of the nation "the picture of a prosperous community which is a model in legislative matters."

Finds Workers' Earnings High.

Dr. Sumner H. Slichter, Professor of Economics at Cornell University, and Miss Frances Perkins, State Industrial Commissioner, produced figures tending to uphold Mr. Soule's thesis. Professor Slichter said that New York was a conspicuous illustration of the fact that high wages did not necessarily mean high labor costs. He cited the census of manufacturers for 1927 as showing that the annual earnings of factory workers in New York were higher than factory workers in any State of the Union except Nevada. Despite the relatively high earnings of New York factory workers, New York manufacturers, according to Professor Slichter, paid out no larger a percentage of their gross income in the form of wages than did manufacturers of other States. In fact, the amount was less, he said. While wages constituted 17.1 per cent of the value of the output of New York factories in 1927, the percentage for the country as a whole was 17.2 per cent.

"Both in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, where wages are lower than in New York, the wage bill of the manufacturers constituted a substantially larger proportion of the value of factory output than in New York," he said. "Even in the South Atlantic States, where factory workers earn one-third less than in New York State, wages constituted a larger proportion of the gross income of factories than in New York.

"Not only have high wages in New York not meant high labor costs but they have apparently not impeded the growth of industry, because manufacturing in New York has been growing more rapidly than in the country as a whole. The factory output of the United States increased about 1 per cent in value between 1919 and 1927, whereas that of New York State increased about 4 per cent."

Miss Perkins, who also quoted the Census of Manufacturers for 1927, said the figures showed that in 1927 the value added by manufacture in the United States was $814,000,000 greater than in 1926 and that New York's gain was $334,000,000, or 41 per cent of the total amount. She said that New York has also gained in industrial management and leadership because the State was a leader in humane and progressive legislation.

Economist Explains Report.

Virgil Jordan, chief economist of the National Industrial Conference Board, took exception to the implications read by Mr. Soule into the board's report quoted by him. He said that the board's study was not intended to prove that regulatory legislation was retarding industry but that it showed industry in New York was not growing as rapidly as that of other States or of the United States as a whole. Between 1914 and 1927, said Mr. Jordan, New York City's industries have increased by 5,400 and the industries of the rest of the State have decreased by 2,000, showing a progressive and steady decline of manufacturing outside New York City.

Henry K. Smith, president of the Art Metal Construction Company, said that New York was virtually bereft of the textile industry, which has gone South. He pointed out that no industry could compete with the same industry in another State if the latter were permitted to operate one hour more a day. It was not important what the laws were for manufacturing, he said, but there had to be an equality of laws in the States if some were not to have advantages denied others.

According to Mr. Smith, the laws relating to workmen's compensation insurance in New York meant a serious cost to industry. He was not opposed to such laws but held that concerns in New York State could not compete with those outside the State whose compensation rates were half of the local rates.

Conditions up-State, he continued, were no good, but New York City was generally included in State figures. New York City was an office or mercantile city and a port and could prosper immensely under conditions which would be ruinous to the balance of the State.

Quoting 1928 figures on compensation insurance, Mr. Smith said that the cost per $100 of payroll in Connecticut was 54 cents, in Chicago 59 cents and in New York $1.35, "with constant demands that the costs be added to in this State." Taxes on his New York plant, he said, were $3.82 per $100 and $1.68 for a similar plant in Illinois. He declared that the cotton industry had been driven out of the Mohawk Valley and out of Massachusetts by legislation and also charged that the franchise tax was one of the greatest burdens imposed on New York industry as compared with similar taxes in other States. He ended by saying that New York industries could maintain their supremacy "if we did not have to go into the industrial race with a ball and chain on our leg."

Asks That Halt Be Called.

Edward Miner, president of the Pfandler Company of Rochester, said that the rate on factory liability insurance in New York was six times the rate in Elyria, Ohio. The franchise tax on earnings up to 5 per cent was one and three-quarters times that of Ohio and on earnings of 10 per cent was three and one-half times that of Ohio. The tax rate on his New York factory was $32.19 per $1,000, as compared to $22.60 on his Lorain, Ohio, factory, he said. He doubted if any manufacturer had a quarrel with those who were interested in raising the standard of the worker, but he felt that New York had gone so far ahead that a halt should be called for some time until the rest of the country caught up with this State.

The relation of education to the economic prosperity of the State was discussed at the session last night. The speakers were Chancellor Elmer E. Brown of New York University; Lewis A. Wilson, Assistant State Commissioner of Education; George M. Wiley, Assistant Commissioner for Secondary Education; W. E. Wickenden of the Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, and H. G. Robinson of Auburn, N. Y.

Vote to End City College Cafe.

After months of agitation, students at the College of the City of New York, voted yesterday for abolition of the present restaurant, in the Student Concourse of the main building of the college, at Convent Avenue and 139th Street, in a referendum conducted by the student council. Of a total of 2,550 students voting, 1,447 declared themselves dissatisfied with the present management of the restaurant, now run under a concession by George E. Hammond, while 112 found conditions satisfactory.

GOLF CLUB FORMING FOR CHILDREN ONLY

Facilities for Many Sports for Members, 7 to 16, to Be Provided at Wheatley Hills.

TO BAR "JAZZ" INFLUENCES

Mrs. H. P. Davison Says Organization Will Avoid Unhealthy Tendencies of Clubs for Adults.

At the suggestion of Mrs. H. P. Davison, a novel organization to be known as "A Junior Golf and Sports Association" is being organized, it was learned last night, for children between the ages of 7 and 16 of the wealthy residents in the exclusive North Shore district of Long Island. The organization, which is to have a sixty-acre property with all sports and recreational facilities in the Wheatley Hills section near Greenvale, is, in the words of Mrs. Davison, to be "a club for young people, which will avoid the unhealthy and usual influences of clubs for adults."

A preliminary estimate of the cost for financing the organization is $100,000. A large part of this cost will be met by the sale of one hundred founder memberships at $500 each to the wealthy families along the North Shore, a large number of whom have already subscribed to the plan. Additional members will be admitted by vote of a committee of parents, which will pass upon the applicants' moral and personal character. The cost of admission, together with all regulations for running the organization, will be decided by this committee.

A nine-hole golf course designed by Devereux Emmet, an outdoor swimming pool, tennis courts, riding and playing fields for baseball and football, facilities for skating and other sports will be included in the new association, according to S. G. Coggins, who is cooperating with the Lewis Development Company of 47 West Thirty-fourth Street, in the promotion work. A restaurant where the children may obtain meals will be another feature of the recreational centre, Mr. Coggins declared.

Professional instructors will teach the children in the various sports. There will also be "expert" supervision to see that the children get the most social and recreational benefits from the association. The centre will open its tennis courts in July and other sports facilities will be completed as soon as possible.

"The viewpoint of youth is generally neglected in the sports clubs that we have today and this neglect has an unhappy result on our youth," Mrs. Davison said last night in explaining the purposes of the organization. "It is hoped that the new association will be entirely different from the club idea as most people know it today.

"Children for the first time will find themselves in a group where the interests of children dominate exclusively. All jazz and other influences, said to be factors in juvenile delinquency, will be eliminated from the new association and the parental and home influence will be retained as far as possible. The children will be able to lead a healthy outdoor life and get the benefits that come from association with a group of clean living and sports-loving youngsters."

CAMPBELL IS SANE, ALIENISTS DECLARE

Jersey Torch Slayer's Counsel Insists, However, Crimes Prove Him Demented.

MRS. BUDD DROPS CHARGE

On Seeing Prisoner, She Says He Is Not the Man Who Kidnapped Her Daughter.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 16.—Self-confessed bigamist, forger, embezzler and murderer, Henry Colin Campbell, or Henry Campbell Close as he has been revealed, was pronounced sane by the alienists who examined him yesterday, Prosecutor Abe J. David announced today as the prisoner's lawyer. Francis Gordon, insisted that the very facts unearthed by the State proved conclusively that his client was mad.

The aged murderer of Mrs. Mildred Mowry, whose body was found ablaze last Feb. 28 on a road near Cranford, was called upon this afternoon to deny another crime. And after seeing him face to face, Mrs. Delia Budd of 406 West Fifteenth Street, New York City, who had come to accuse him of kidnapping her 10-year-old daughter Grace last June, was forced to admit that she was mistaken. His photographs made him look like the mysterious stranger who called himself "Frank Howard," and who called at her home to discuss a job on his farm at Farmingdale, L. I., for her eldest son, and who vanished with her only daughter. Mrs. Budd said, but he was not the man.

At about the same time, Francis L. Bergen, Prosecutor of Somerset County, who has been trying to find a link to connect Campbell with the murder of Miss Margaret Brown, under circumstances similar to the crime Campbell has confessed, was admitting that he was all but convinced that the prisoner was innocent of any connection with it.

One of the most interesting developments of the day concerned a hitherto hidden chapter of Campbell's life. William Wagner, a private detective engaged by the county to help run down Mrs. Mowry's slayer, reported to Prosecutor David that Edward Reilly, chief of police of Montclair, N. J., had informed him that Campbell lived there as Dr. H. C. Close from 1900 to 1903, working for druggists and finally running a sanitarium on Willard Place. One day for a reason which never was explained Close, without saying good-bye to any one, disappeared as he since has done on several occasions.

Prosecutor David said he had been unable to obtain any satisfactory explanation from Campbell of his flight from Montclair.

The Prosecutor declared that he will devote most of his attention to developing the case he will submit to the grand jury May 14, when he will ask for the prisoner's indictment on a charge of first-degree murder. The pistol found upon Campbell when he was arrested and the bullet taken from his victim's body were turned over to H. Albert Foster, a firearms expert of New York, who has been retained by the prosecution.

fell on the sidewalk, hitting with his head and shoulder."

"Was it the defendant who struck the other man?" asked Mr. Pascocella.

"Yes," was the reply.

Both men had had their hands up, but he did not see Mr. Smith strike any blow and his attitude was one of defense, he continued. With the fallen man motionless on the ground Bell jumped into a waiting cab, the witness said.

He added that he walked over to the driver of this taxi, who is now known to be Frank Spencer of 328 Sampter Street, Brooklyn, and demanded, "Are you going to leave this man here this way?"

Went for a Policeman.

The only response, according to Gilbert, was a wave of Spencer's hand as if to say it was none of his business. As the cab moved off Gilbert said he was joined by two citizens from a private automobile and they tried to revive Mr. Smith without success. The witness declared that he then got into his cab and drove south to Forty-seventh and north of forty-ninth Street in quest of a policeman.

He spied Patrolman George Hartwell of the East Fifty-first Street Station just as the other was approaching the scene of the encounter. They picked the body up and carried it to the service entrance of the hotel. There Gilbert noticed a blood stain on the head.

Under the cross-examination of Theodore F. Van Dorn of 52 Wall Street, attorney for Bell, he clung to his story of the blow although he could not say whether the altercation had previously been "violent." He insisted that it did not appear that Mr. Smith was simply pressing toward the waiting cab while Bell was opposing him.

A Flashlight Bombardment.

"Park Avenue day" in court, as the attendants called it, was heralded by the greatest flashlight bombardment that the Homicide Court has ever known. The Beineckes, Mrs. Schuette, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Barbee of 277 Park Avenue and Mr. and Mrs. A. U. Surprenant of 1,160 Park Avenue, all of whom were at the party, managed to gain their seats without attracting unusual attention.

Mrs. Brown was greeted with a fusillade of flashlight guns, but the real bombardment by at least twenty-five photographers was reserved for Bell. Clerks came running from all sides. Smoke swirled into the court room in billows from the hall outside where the pictures were being snapped and Magistrate Corrigan pounded for order in high indignation.

"A disgraceful scene," he said, as he sent attendants running to eject the cameramen. One of them, Richard Rose, representing an evening newspaper, was seized and placed temporarily in a detention pen. Bell, trembling from the ordeal but much more composed than he was when he permitted himself to be interviewed in the Tombs on Monday, sank into his seat quickly.

Lays Death to a Fracture.

Assistant Chief Medical Examiner Thomas A. Gonzales, first witness, told of the autopsy made upon Mr. Smith after his death Thursday afternoon. There was clotted blood on his head and a distinct fracture of the skull, but no marks on the face, according to this testimony. Dr. Gonzales was sure that the cause of death was the fracture.

Victor Miller, elevator operator at the Marguery, told of bringing five people down in the early morning from Mrs. Schuette's apartment, but he did not recognize them and nothing that they did provoked his attention. Edward Horrigan, assistant night clerk, also noted nothing of the actions of the departing guests.

Patrolman Hartwell said that from a block further north he first saw Mr. Smith, a huddled object in the middle of the sidewalk in front of the Marguery. Joined by Gilbert and three unknown persons, he sought in vain to revive the man. He said that he picked up a pair of nose spectacles four feet from the body, a point which interested Mr. Pascocella particularly, for detectives have said the glasses belonged to Bell.

They called an ambulance surgeon, Dr. Stratford C. Wallace of Bellevue Hospital but he pronounced Mr. Smith to be only alcoholic. With another policeman Hartwell finally walked Mr. Smith, still dazed, to the Commodore, where they mistakenly thought he was registered, and then back to the East Fifty-fifth Street Police Station, where he was booked on a charge of intoxication. Shortly afterward Magistrate Douras in Yorkville Court dismissed Mr. Smith and Hartwell took him to his room in the Barclay Hotel.

The patrolman testified that Mr. Smith had on no rings or jewelry, although the police have information that he wore a diamond ring on Wednesday evening. The witness said that Mr. Smith's lips were swollen and that he was bleeding from the mouth.

Guests Sober, Hostess Says.

Mrs. Schuette's testimony was quickly over. Mrs. Brown, whom she had known for twenty-five years, and Bell, whom she had met in Mrs. Brown's company five years ago, had joined the rest of the guests at her apartment after dinner. There had been something to drink, she admitted, but the guests were sober and nothing untoward occurred.

In a red felt hat and tan coat with fur collar, Mrs. Brown in a low voice testified that she had not met Mr. Smith before the fatal evening. She had known Bell for eight years. She described the party.

"Were you sober?" demanded Mr. Pascocella.

"I was—I thought I was," she corrected herself.

Mr. Smith paid no particular attention to her at the affair, she insisted. After they had descended in the elevator she stayed in the arcade while the others went out, she said, but Mr. Smith came back and talked with her a moment. Then Bell, on the sidewalk, called her, she continued, and she went out and got in the cab, with Bell following her. Whether Mr. Smith followed her out she did not know, but she said she saw no altercation at all.

Spencer, who was to have testified, was ill at Bellevue Hospital.

Pleading for dismissal of the case, Mr. Van Dorn said that Bell did nothing he was not fully justified in doing by the law and that there was a total lack of evidence.

"I could have asked many questions to show the intimacy between Mrs. Brown and Bell," replied Mr. Pascocella, insisting that he could show a motive for the alleged attack. Magistrate Corrigan held that the utmost charge would be manslaughter, and accepted a complaint accordingly. Afterward he fined the arrested camera man $5 and advised him to charge it to his expense account.

A bondsman furnished bail for Mr. Bell and he was released. Mrs. Brown, who was freed of her "voluntary" police escort, was said to be planning to return at once to her husband in Lexington.

While the District Attorney's office is arranging to present the case to the grand jury, detectives will continue a search for the missing diamond ring of Mr. Smith. The admission that drinks were served at Mrs. Schuette's apartment did not particularly interest Federal District Attorney Tuttle. He said he would make no investigation for the present.

NEW JERSEY FLIER DIES IN GEORGIA CRASH

Companion of Charles Kufty of Perth Amboy Receives Hurts in Plane Fall.

CARROLLTON, Ga., April 16 (AP).—Charles Kufty of Perth Amboy, N. J., pilot, was killed instantly and a companion, Henry Walheim, an airplane distributer of Kearny, N. J., was seriously injured when their plane crashed in a field near here late today.

A telegram found on the body of Kufty, who is believed to have been connected with Cates's Flying Circus in New Jersey and whose home address is 608 Compton Avenue, Perth Amboy, N. J., indicated the men had left Tuscaloosa, Ala., today. Their destination was not known here.

Residents saw the plane circle the city several times, apparently in an effort to locate a landing spot. It was obvious that the craft was in distress as it dropped suddenly to an altitude of approximately 100 feet. Persons near by said they heard the occupants shouting as the plane nosedived.

The pilot jumped before the craft struck the ground and suffered a broken neck. Walheim was extracted from the wreckage, suffering cuts and bruises. He was conscious when taken to a hospital, and physicians said he probably would recover.

Henry Waldheim of Newark, who was injured in an airplane crash at Carrollton, Ga., lived with his wife and child at 814 Chestnut Street, Kearny, and was connected with the Teterboro Airport and the Standard Flying Service, says The Associated Press.

Pope's New Auto Reaches Rome.

ROME, April 16 (AP).—The Pope's new automobile, decorated with the image of St. Christopher, patron of travelers, on a gold plaeque, arrived today at the local agency of the Italian firm which built it. It will be formally delivered to the Pontiff Saturday afternoon in the court of San Damaso in the presence of fifteen of the manufacturers' expert workmen. The papal arms are painted on the doors and the upholstery is of red silk.

D. A. R. REAFFIRMS MRS. BAILIE OUSTER

THE MOVE IS UNEXPECTED

Mrs. Brousseau Afterward Says Daughters Have Answered Reinstatement Plea.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Without discussion and with but one dissenting vote, the thirty-eighth congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution today sustained the ruling of the national board expelling Mrs. Helen Tufts Bailie of Cambridge, Mass., for having criticized publicly the circulation among the Daughters of so-called blacklists of prominent men and women.

The appeal of Mrs. Bailie from the board's decision, which it had been understood was to come up later in the week, probably on Saturday, was brought before the congress at the morning session, causing a flurry among the delegates.

Abruptly suspending the proceedings of the morning session, Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau announced that Mrs. Bailie's appeal would be considered in executive session, and ordered the hall cleared of representatives and all non-members.

Declaring that "this is not a trial," Mrs. Brosseau told the Daughters that the question was merely one of sustaining or reversing the action taken by the board last year. Mrs. Bailie's attorney, George W. Alger of New York, was denied a hearing on behalf of Mrs. Bailie, and a motion to close debate was adopted by a rising vote, with fifteen Daughters voting in the negative.

On the next motion, to sustain the decision expelling Mrs. Bailie, only one voice in the rear of the hall was heard to vote "No," and Mrs. Brosseau announced that the incident was closed. The whole matter of the appeal was disposed of in about twenty minutes.

"The Daughters of the American Revolution," said Mrs. Brosseau, "have answered Mrs. Helen Tufts Bailie."

"The D. A. R. have dishonored their own constitution," said Mrs. Bailie in a statement issued this afternoon. "No consideration of the evidence was permitted, and the delegates, hurried to a vote by the clique in control, did not know what they were voting about.

Says Blacklisting Is Upheld.

"In thus affirming the decision of the board the delegates uphold the blacklisting policy which has already brought disrepute upon the society and made it the laughing stock of the country.

"If this policy continues, no intelligent woman will care to remain in the organization, which has been outrageously subverted from its original purposes, and the public will still enjoy the spectacle of the solemn condemnation by self-righteous old ladies of eminent divines and university men and women who have the respect of the nation."

Although loyal to the board and well-nigh unanimous in their approval of the ruling in regard to Mrs. Bailie, whose open charges, they say, "have caused the society any amount of trouble," many of the Daughters privately expressed regret that no hearing was accorded Mrs. Bailie's attorney, and they felt that the refusal savored too much of "steam-roller" methods.

The thorny subject disposed of, however, the Daughters turned with visible relief to the consideration of routine business.

Final reports from Constitution Hall, the new building supplementing Continental Hall, were given by Mrs. Brosseau and Mrs. William Russell Magna of Massachusetts, chairman of the finance committee. Delegates greeted with applause the announcement by Mrs. Brosseau that "the Continental Congress of 1925 voted to build Constitution Hall; the congress of 1929 will see it dedicated and concluded, and 1930 will see us in the new hall."

New York, which has a representation of one-ninth the total membership of the society, contributed one-ninth of the total of $1,000,000 for the new hall, according to Mrs. Harvey Tyson, New York City State chairman for Constitution Hall. In addition, New York provided 427 chairs for the auditorium and twelve platform chairs.

Mrs. S. J. Kramer Honored.

The retiring New York State Regent, Mrs. Samuel Jackson Kramer, was honored at the meeting today of the State delegation. A pin especially designed for her, set with five diamonds, was presented to Mrs. Kramer by Mrs. Alfred D. Gilmore of Yonkers and Mrs. F. Bradley Reynolds of Bronxville.

Miss Ruth Barber, retiring State treasurer, also was the recipient of a testimonial in the form of a pin in appreciation of her "most efficient work." The pin was presented together with a large bunch of roses.

Plans of the Daughters to make a pilgrimage to Mount Vernon this afternoon were completely disrupted by the wind and rain of the stormiest day Washington has known in months.

The president general's reception, followed by the pages' ball at night, were, however, carried out successfully.

DARROW POKES FUN AT BOOK CENSORSHIP

Attorney in Boston Address Also Takes Up Cudgels for Birth Control Advocates.

BOSTON, April 16 (AP).—After declaring that the only way to regard life is "as a huge joke," Clarence Darrow, criminal lawyer, tonight took up the cudgels of those opposed to book censorship and those favoring birth control. Mr. Darrow appeared at the "annual banquet and frolic of the Ford Hall Forum's self-called "undesirables."

Margaret Sanger, an exponent of birth control, was present on the platform, but her mouth was covered with a cloth gag, signifying that she would not be permitted to voice her doctrine in Boston.

As the fifth in a family of eight children, Mr. Darrow said he had never taken any great interest in birth control, "at least theoretically."

As for the suppression of books as obscene, Mr. Darrow said he had been brought up on obsene books, including a "whole series by a Boston lady which have never been suppressed."

He taxed the rich, the preachers and the college professors with possessing knowledge of birth control with they denied the poor. He declared the same condition prevailed regarding books.

Joy and happiness, he charged, were considered a great sin among the righteous. "They will have that in heaven, they say," said Mr. Darrow, "but personally I have always hated to wait that long, what if there isn't any?"

In a telegram read at the meeting, Upton Sinclair, author of a book recently banned in Boston, said:

"I would rather be banned in Boston than read everywhere else, and that isn't as bad as it sounds, because you will be read everywhere else."

Arthur Garfield Hays, at present conducting the defense of a New York publisher now on trial here, and Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, also discussed book censorship.

IOWANS DISAPPOINTED.

They Think Hoover Did Not Go Far Enough.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, April 16.—Iowa farm organization leaders are disappointed in President Hoover's farm relief message. Charles E. Hearst, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and Milo Reno, president of the Iowa Farmers' Union, indicated that they thought that the message had not gone far enough in setting forth a definite plan of taking care of the farm surplus.

"If the positions of Brookhart, Dickinson and some of these other farm relief advocates who supported Hoover weren't so pathetic, I would be inclined to give them a big hearty laugh after reading Hoover's meaningless message," said Mr. Reno.

Mr. Hearst said:

"I am in agreement with many of the points in Hoover's message on farm relief, but was disappointed that he did not go farther and point out a specific course of action for the farm board."

YUGOSLAVS ANGERED BY ITALIAN CHARGES

Assertion That Belgrade Is Preparing a Guerrilla War Is Hotly Denounced.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELGRADE, April 16.—Although under the rigid censorship which does not permit expression of the popular feeling it is difficult to speak of the general indignation, it is correct to say that the Giornale d'Italia's accusations that Yugoslavia is preparing a guerrilla war against Italy has genuinely inflamed public opinion since these accusations were allowed to become generally known.

Rejoicing in unaccustomed freedom to speak frankly about Italy, the Politika compares these Giornale accusations to the historic charges made by the Hapsburg monarchy against Serbia, known as the Friedjung case, based on documents proved to have been forged for the purpose of making a case against Serbia.

"Italy's manoeuvre," says tonight's Pravda, "is simply an attempt to distract the attention of Europe from her own machiavellian policy in the Balkans. Yugoslavia pursues everywhere a peaceful policy, but it is an open question whether she is entitled to believe Italy's intentions are peaceful. What must be expected to follow Grandi's pompous visit to Tirana and the Chamberlain-Mussolini interview at Florence?"

Telegrams from Trieste state that immediately after publication of the article of the Giornale d'Italia new persecution of the Slavonic inhabitants of the Istrian peninsula, now annexed to Italy, began. Twelve persons were arrested in Trieste alone, including the woman editor of a newspaper, five other journalists and three students. The Prefect of Police of Trieste is reported to have declared that by 1930 there would be no Slavs left in Istria who had not become pro-Italian.

In connection with the Italo-Yugoslav imbroglio the Italian Minister to Belgrade, Signor Galli, called at the Foreign Office this morning. Following the call a Cabinet Council was held, but no communiqué was issued.

In conversation, a distinguished Yugoslav politician said:

"These charges are invented in order to divert European attention from the highly significant tour of Signor Grandi in the Balkans and elsewhere. The clear policy of encircling Yugoslavia is pursued more assiduously than ever despite Yugoslavia's obvious desire to come to an agreement with all her neighbors."

HELPED 10,484 FAMILIES

Cardinal Urges Every Communicant in Diocese to Support Drive Next Week.

With the annual drive of the Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of New York already under way, the report of the work of Catholic Charities for 1928 was made public yesterday, showing a total of $1,367,775.19 received for the year. The intensive period of this year's drive has been set for next week.

Last year's annual appeal listed 279,176 subscribers, who contributed a total of $1,051,453.73, or an average contribution of $3.83. While this amount, collected from the 367 parishes of the diocese, represented the largest amount in the history of the organization, this year's drive will be for $2,000,000. Cardinal Hayes, in announcing the increased budget, urged that every one of the 2,000,000 Catholics in the diocese contribute to the fund.

The largest expenditure for the year was in the Family Division, 10,484 families having been aided at an expenditure of $555,750.55; $55,081.05 was spent in the care of homeless men and women. Other amounts are listed as follows:

For immigration, $17,132.27; protective care, $68,670.88; Summer camps for children, $32,630.07; settlements, $15,854.64; boys' activities, $59,932.33; day nurseries, $23,942.28; special care of children, $35,535.60; girls' activities, $28,750; special education work for children, $177,072.49, and health appropriations for applicants direct to Catholic Charities, $45,840.45.

These amounts do not include appropriations from other Catholic sources, totaling more than a million dollars. In the Health Division, the total expenditure of Catholic hospitals was $3,086,941.45, a deficit of $786,172.18 over the amount received from patients and public appropriations. The deficit was made up by the auxiliaries of the institutions, by donations and legacies.

During the year 209 social agencies, working between Staten Island and Saugerties, cared for 193,206 individuals; 1,773 sisters are working in these institutions and receive no pay for their services. The report estimates that if they received prevailing wages, their services would cost $2,127,600.

Uniform Traffic Signals Urged for Nation; 100 Cities Surveyed; Diversity Held a Peril

The American Engineering Council at 23 West Thirty-ninth Street announced plans yesterday for uniform traffic signals in every municipality of the country.

Through State committees which are now being selected the council will urge official recognition of recommendations following a nation-wide survey. This survey, conducted by the committee on street traffic signs, signals and markings, covered thirty-five States, and returns were analyzed in more than 100 cities having a population of more than 33,000.

The committee's report, now available to the public, declares that the practice recommended will by general use make traffic on city streets both safer and more convenient.

Owing to the wide variation in the placing of official responsibility for the selection, placement and maintenance of traffic signs, signals and markings, some difficulty is foreseen in making the plan effective. "Responsibility is so diversified that no general statement relating to it can be made," Arthur W. Berresford, president of the council, said. "In most cities the responsibility is placed upon some branch of the police department. No standard official organization handles questions relating to traffic, and this defect is perhaps one of the most serious features of the present situation.

"The density of traffic in many cities emphasizes the need of standardising traffic signs. In the larger cities the safety of every one depends upon the instant and full recognition of the meaning of messages conveyed by traffic-control devices, and the diversity of use and meaning that now prevails causes great hazard."

In each city the committees making the survey consisted of engineers, automobile club members and representatives of civic groups.

FOR PORTO RICAN SUFFRAGE

Island Legislature Approves Vote for Literate Women.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 16.—Porto Rican women who can read and write may vote in the 1932 election, according to the provisions of a bill passed in the closing hours of the first legislative session held in the island's new capitol. Governor Horace M. Towner, who recommended qualified suffrage for women in his message, is expected to approve the measure.

The action of the Legislature makes unnecessary any vote on a pending bill to give the island's women the ballot by amending the island's organic act.

The session, supposed to end last midnight, continued until 5 o'clock this morning, when it broke up after almost forty-eight hours in continuous session.

The budget of a little more than $10,000,000 was passed. This was a reduction of about $2,000,000 under the current budget and exceeds the coming year's estimated revenues by about $300,000. Senate leaders failed in their efforts to get the House to include an appropriation for the National Guard.

By passing a bill for a fifteen-year extendable lease with Pan-American Airways, the Legislature assured San Juan of an airport on which the company agrees to spend $25,000 to make it a junction point for the West Indies-South American service. The airport, on the Isle of Grande in San Juan harbor, with deep water alongside, will be developed for both land and amphibian planes.

Mexican Textile Strike Ordered.

MEXICO CITY, April 16 (AP).—The National Federation of Textile Workers has ordered a general strike effective Thursday. Eleven thousand workers are said to be affected, most of them in the cotton mills of the Federal district and States of Puebla, Tlaxcala, Guanajuato and Michoacan. The strike order grew out of the dismissal of several union men by a Mexico City mill owner. The case was taken up by the National Arbitration Council, which upheld the owners, whereupon the Federation called a meeting and decided to strike.

PLANS NEW CENTRE OF MENTAL HYGIENE

Columbia Medical School Will Enlarge Aid to Youth, Dean Darrach Reveals.

NEW QUARTERS PRAISED

The advantages enjoyed by the School of Medicine of Columbia University in the new Medical Centre are stressed in the annual report of Dr. William Darrach, Dean of the Medical School for the year ending June 30, 1928.

The report said the new accommodations in the Vanderbilt Clinic and the Psychiatric Institute will be utilized to build up an active mental hygiene centre, where special attention will be given to behavior disorders of childhood and problems of adolescence.

The report showed that from May 1, 1927, to May 1, 1928, 49,454 patients visited the Vanderbilt Clinic, as against 45,985 for the same period in 1926-1927 and 37,655 in 1925-1926. New patients totaled 4,337 for the year ending May 1, 1929, against 4,132 and 4,037 in two preceding years, respectively. Radium treatments were administered to 268 patients in 1927-1928, compared with 205 in 1926-1927 and 137 in 1925-1926.

The School of Tropical Medicine at San Juan, Porto Rico, has made most encouraging progress under the able direction of Professor Robert A. Lambert, the report stated. Organization of fellowships in surgery began with the move to the Medical Centre. These fellowships will cover periods of from three to five years. Each year will be divided into six months of active surgical work and six months of laboratory and clinical investigation.

For the year ending last June, 418 students registered for the courses leading to the M. D. degree and 12 non-candidates registered. There were 87 registrants in the various departments of the School of Medicine under the Faculties of Pure Science, of whom 45 were working for the Master's degree, and 25 for that of Doctor of Philosophy. There were 14 special students. In the courses for graduates there were 126.

YOUTH WHO SLEW TWO IS ARRESTED IN CHURCH

Son of Colombia Attache, Killer of Mother and Sister, Seized in New Rochelle.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., April 16.—Local detectives arrested here tonight Henry Espriella, 26-year-old son of the legal adviser of the Colombian Consulate in New York, who last Thursday night shot and killed his mother, Mrs. Raquell Espriella and his 19-year-old sister, Teresa, in their New York apartment, 225 West Ninetieth Street. Espriella, who seemed to be in a dazed condition, said he had killed his mother because "she always kept me down and never gave me a chance." He slew his sister, he said, because she tried to take his pistol away.

The arrest was made in the Roman Catholic Church of the Holy Family. The Rev. Father Temple, pastor of the church, noticed the shabbily dressed youth loitering in the pews for several hours and called the police. The detectives at first thought the youth a vagrant. He went with them meekly.

At the station house the prisoner, who was found to have a small knife and $550 in his pocket, said he was Henry Ellis Gomez, and would give no account of himself. Remembering that Espriella's description fit their prisoner, the police questioned him at length. After a short time he admitted his identity.

The youth told a rambling story of his movements since the crime. He had slept, he said, in barns and railroad stations in Westchester County and New York, but he didn't know just where.

Detectives of the West 100th Street station in Manhattan visited New Rochelle headquarters and identified Espriella. He was locked up for the night charged with violation of the Sullivan law and will be taken to New York tomorrow to face homicide charges.

$200,000 FIRE RUINS HOTELS AT ARVERNE

SPARKS FLY IN HIGH WIND

Sudden Shift in Gale Brings Damage to Engines—Five Firemen Hurt as Wall Crashes Down.

Facing showers of sparks whipped against them by an ocean gale, firemen from Brooklyn, Jamaica, the Rockaways and Woodmere tried in vain last night to prevent the destruction of the Hotel Colonial, a four-story frame structure with 350 rooms on the ocean front at Beach Sixty-fourth Street in Arverne, Queens. Leaving the Colonial in ruins, the flames burned away part of the Hotel Briton, a 50-room structure adjoining, and leaped across the street to burn away the roofs and destroy the fronts of six two-story frame and stucco bungalows. The total damage was estimated at more than $200,000. The hotels were unoccupied.

Five firemen were slightly injured when a wall of the left wing of the Colonial crashed down on them. Other firemen, protected by a screen of water projected from several lines of hose, pulled them from the débris. The five injured are Ambrose Moran, George H. Pratt, Edward Werthmuller, Herman Twees and Henry Hochschmidt, all of Engine Company 265, Rockaway Beach. Fire Commissioner Dorman, who arrived on the fifth alarm, went with Fire Chief Kenlon to visit them in St. Joseph Hospital when the fire was under control.

The first alarm was sounded at 10 o'clock. From that time until shortly before 11 o'clock the gale scattered sparks over a wide area, blowing in great strength landward. Several times the firemen had to leave the burning hotel to extinguish flames on roof tops. At 11 o'clock the gale shifted offshore, taking the firemen unawares. Before they could get their apparatus away from the lee side of the Colonial two engines had been damaged by the flames.

Lighting the sky for miles around, the flames attracted thousands of motorists to the scene. Cars were parked along the length of Cross Bay Boulevard, where men and women had stopped to watch the spectacle. Beach Channel Drive, too, became congested and the police reserves were called out to handle traffic on both highways.

Until the gale shifted it was feared that Arverne was destined for a repetition of the disastrous fire of 1921, which started at Beach Fifty-ninth Street and swept over the entire ocean front, causing damage that mounted past the $1,000,000 mark.

Brazilian Invents Helicopter.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, March 15.—Some years ago Francisco Duarte, a workman residing in Itapemirim, in the State of Espirito Santo, began working on a flying machine that would rise vertically from the ground. His first model, mounted with two motorcycle engines of 4-horsepower each, rose to a height of thirty centimeters. A larger machine, built with State aid, is now in a hangar in Nichteroy. It has four vertical propellers. It is named Brazil and will be tried out in April.

TRIED FOR BOSTON SALE OF DREISER BOOK

Author Witness for D. S. Friede, New York Publisher—American Tragedy' Called Obscene.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 16.—Just two years to a day after he had been arrested for selling Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" to a vice squad officer at Police Headquarters, Donald S. Friede, New York publisher, today went on trial here for selling a book alleged to contain "obscene, indecent and impure language, manifestly tending to corrupt the morals of youth."

Dreiser himself sat in the court room through the forenoon proceedings and in the afternoon was called as a witness by the defense counsel, Arthur Garfield Hays. Other defense witnesses were Richard F. Fuller, treasurer of the Old Corner Book Store, and Friede.

Frederick T. Doyle, Assistant District Attorney, read to the jury certain of the paragraphs complained of after the defense had objected in vain that the paragraphs should not be separated from their context. Mr. Hays contended that the obscenity, if there was any, could not be determined without showing the connection between the passages complained of and these preceding.

At various times Mr. Hays attempted to introduce the entire book of two volumes as evidence. In every instance Volume 2 was entirely excluded and only those chapters of Volume 1 containing the passages complained of were admitted.

Mr. Hays asserted that present day literature must be judged by present day standards and declared it was impossible to introduce in Massachusetts any book of the past two years by representative American authors.

Mr. Dreiser contended it was impossible for the context of his book to be judged unless the entire book was read.

In response to Mr. Hays's repeated efforts to get in evidence more than the bald excerpts introduced by the prosecution, Justice Hayes finally said that portions that had direct reference to those passages might be introduced.

SISTERS ESCAPE SENTENCE.

Court Finds Owners of Army Ration Patent Already Are in Asylum.

When Dr. Grace Osborne, 45 years old, and her sister, Mrs. Lorena Farson, 47, were called in Special Sessions yesterday for sentence on their conviction two weeks before for defrauding the Ambassador Hotel of a board bill, Justices Herbert, Murphy and Salmon were informed that a few days before Supreme Court Justice Ford had committed them to the State Hospital for the Insane at Central Islip, L. I.

The three jurists had ordered the sisters taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation. Detectives had reported that they had defrauded more than twenty-five hotels in this and other cities in the last ten years. Dr. Menas S. Gregory, head of the psychopathic department at Bellevue, had reported to Justice Ford that they were insane.

Coincident with the arrest of the sisters, who came to this city from Chicago, United States Senator Copeland introduced a bill in the Senate to reimburse them for the use of a patented ration which was used in the army in the World War.

STORM RAKES COAST, MENACING SHIPS

had been bunked into the berth from the whaler Sir James Clark Ross, which arrived on Sunday from a long cruise in the Antarctic. The Healer sank without loss of life in thirty-five feet of water, and though no official estimate of the damage was forthcoming, it was believed it would amount to $250,000. The cause of the sinking was not definitely known, but one explanation was that the heavy seas might have opened a seam. Open ports in her tanks allowed the whale oil to escape and the waterfront near the vessel was covered with a heavy white lather. The lighter is owned by the Atlantic Transport Oil Company.

Another barge, the Teddy Burke, was sunk without loss of life when she broke from her moorings at New Brighton, S. I., and rammed a pier.

Shortly before the Perth Amboy III sank she was towing two barges. The towing cable snapped. The barges drifted away and the tug was whirled into the trough of a big sea which flooded her. The drifting barges were later taken in tow.

Another local shipping casualty was the American Gulf Refining Company's tanker, the Agwi World, with a crew of forty-four men aboard, which late yesterday afternoon was carried away from her moorings between Stapleton and St. George, S. I., and smashed into the head of Pier 13, at the foot of Prospect Street, Stapleton. The ship suffered little damage and late last night a fleet of tugs was attempting to free her. On Monday night, shortly before midnight, the coal barge Montana and the tug Tisdale foundered off Robbins Reef.

The United States Coast Guard headquarters at Sandy Hook, N. J., reported last night that two small tramp steamers, the Columbine and the Portia, bound for Perth Amboy, N. J., had been anchored in Raritan Bay on the mud flats off Belford, N. J., all day, and were apparently waiting for the storm to abate before getting up steam. The vessels, according to the Coast Guard, were not aground and were in no danger. They were faintly visible from shore and no help was sent them, as they flew no distress signals.

Staten Island Ferries Delayed.

Ferry service to Staten Island was crippled. Officials said the boats were from three to eight minutes late, but passengers said they were delayed as much as half an hour. The ferries shipped water badly because of the wind and the high waves. Other ferry lines were not as badly affected. Being further inland, they were more protected.

In the city, the gale took a heavy toll of umbrellas, and in windy neighborhoods, such as those around the Woolworth Building and the Municipal Building, pedestrians were blown down and slightly injured. Hundreds of roof-top aerials were destroyed.

At Belle Harbor and Rockaway Beach three houses were dangerously undermined and a three-story residence collapsed. In Prospect Park and other districts in Brooklyn trees were uprooted.

On Staten Island also trees were uprooted and telephone and telegraph wires and power lines badly damaged.

The White Star liner Majestic and the French liner Ile de France, both due yesterday morning from Continental ports with more than 2,000 passengers, were held back by the gale and the high seas and will not dock until this morning.

The Ile de France arrived in Quarantine at 9:50 o'clock last night and would have gone to her pier, but because of weather conditions the Public Health officer declined to go out to the ship.

The Cunarder Scythia, due from Liverpool via Boston yesterday afternoon, was also delayed and will dock this morning. The Royal Mail liner Avon, from Bermuda with 280 passengers, was six hours late in arriving through the storm and several feet of her upper rail had been carried away by the waves. The Ward liner Siboney, from Cuba with 152 passengers on board, was also six hours late in reaching port.

The Swedish American motor ship Gripsholm from Gothenburg, left Quarantine at 9:50 A. M., but had to anchor ten minutes later because the pilot considered it unsafe to go up the harbor with the wind blowing at seventy-five miles an hour. After waiting nearly an hour the Gripsholm weighed anchor and proceeded to her pier. The Clyde liner Mohawk from Jacksonville and the Savannah liner City of Savannah from Savannah were both several hours late in arriving at their piers yesterday.

Captain E. McConkey, marine superintendent of the Cunard Line, said the storm was nothing out of the way for this season of the year. He said the tide had been very high for the past week and he did not see any difference yesterday morning. The captain said last night that the glass was rising and the wind would probably veer round to the west during the night and moderate before morning. There was a good deal of rain but no fog off the coast.

Seas Damage Coast.

All along the New Jersey coast, heavy seas, pounding inshore on a high tide, carried bungalows, parts of buildings, sections of boardwalks, fishing smacks and other small boats out to sea.

Asbury Park and Atlantic City, where the wind reached a maximum of seventy-eight miles per hour, escaped serious damage. Yesterday afternoon a one-mile chunk of the Point Pleasant boardwalk was washed into the sea, soon after the New Jersey State Senate at Trenton had passed a bill appropriating $150,000 to repair bulkheads and other property damaged by previous storms in that community.

The high tide inundated the shore between Long Branch, N. J., and Atlantic Highlands, for distances ranging from forty to seventy feet, the flood being from two to four feet deep, and disrupted train service on the New Jersey Central Railroad between the two towns. The last train went over the line at 11:30 A. M. on tracks already covered with sand and water. Commuters were forced to travel by bus or motor to Long Branch, Seabright, Monmouth and other intermediate towns.

At Long Branch, where, as in the case of many other towns in the State, the wind blew at sixty miles an hour, a part of the roof of a bathing pavilion was torn away, while the waves pounded a seawall and threatened many houses in the vicinity.

Avalon, N. J., a little town on an irregular peninsula jutting out from Cape May County, was inundated and its residents cut off from communication with the nearest town, Cape May Court House. Coast Guardsmen in a lifeboat rescued E. J. Jones, his wife and two children from their cottage, where they were marooned for thirteen hours. Jones had tried all night to attract rescuers as the water rose higher and higher, but it was not until late yesterday that rescue came. Both babies suffered from exposure, as the flood had extinguished all the fires in the house.

Other Families Marooned.

Many other families were reported marooned all along the coast. Residents of the New Point Comfort section of Keansburg witnessed rowboats sailing along on what had been streets, but what were now turned into streams. Many houses were flooded all along the shore, at Point Pleasant, Asbury Park, Seabright, Belford and Monmouth. Some principal highways were made impassable, either by flood waters or drifting sand. On other highways, bridges were washed away or otherwise damaged. The salt marsh along the Raritan Bay was converted into a vast lake.

Apple orchards in South Jersey, especially in the peach growing section around Hammonton, suffered severely under a fifty miles an hour wind.

A 200-year-old tree with a trunk six and one-half feet in diameter on Kings Highway, Haddon Township, was blown down. In Trenton, two landmarks, the steeple of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Cathedral and the bronze statue of a volunteer fireman in front of the City Hall, were damaged. A large cross was torn from the top of the steeple and sent crashing onto the roof of the cathedral, slightly damaging the roof. A lantern in the hand of the statue was broken off.

At the main office of the Bell Telephone Company in Newark, it was learned that about 3,500 telephones had been put out of commission by the storm. Officials said that 1,700 of these were in Camden, and the others in Atlantic City and Trenton. Most of the line trouble was in the southern part of the State but there was some wire trouble in the northern part, which, however, did not interfere generally with the service.

Along the entire shore in the vicinity of Asbury Park, the thunder of the breakers drowned out the howling of the wind. At Sea Bright, the breakers forced a channel through the rock sea wall and sent through a flood of water that joined the Shrewsbury River, 200 feet inland. Manasquan and Shark River inlets also were flooded.

The main road between Fort Monmouth and Oceanport was impassable. The Seven Bridges Road between Red Bank and Long Branch also was closed to traffic, because of some of the bridges on the road being washed away. The State highway between Perth Amboy and Keyport and the highway at Lawrence Harbor were under water in several places.

The State Highway Department at Trenton placed all its available road repair equipment at the disposal of officials of Point Pleasant, Manchoking and other communities along the coast, following the receipt of a request from Point Pleasant for trucks to assist in removing debris and also for equipment to erect barriers to prevent further inroads by the sea.

The home of the Bacharach Giants baseball club, off the Absecon Boulevard and North Carolina Avenue, Atlantic City, was defaced by the gale.

The Long Island communities of Bayshore, Babylon, Central Islip, Lindenhurst and the Rockaways, suffered heavily. A Summer cottage at the village of Saltaire was expected last evening to fall into the ocean during the high tide early this morning. Basements of stores and homes near the Peconic River, in the business section of Riverhead, L. I., were flooded and much damage was done to the roads in various sections of Suffolk County.

At Washington, D. C., the Weather Bureau reported that continuous rain, starting at 8:30 o'clock on Monday morning, totaled 2.61 inches up to 8 o'clock last night. Rivers feeding into the Potomac from Maryland were flooded and the Potomac went five feet above its normal stage.

Water rising over the surface of the Washington-Baltimore Highway caused the stopping of traffic near Bladensburg. Heavy snows were reported in the mountains west of Cumberland, Md., and there was also sleet and snow in the Shenandoah Valley in Virginia. Fair weather was promised for the apple growers' festival at Winchester, Va., today.

In Boston and elsewhere on the New England coast the Spring storm was the wildest and most spectacular in fifty years. The rainfall was 2.34 inches, the heaviest in a similar period for thirteen years. Hundreds of automobiles were stalled on Greater Boston streets and boulevards, causing many accidents. The wind blew at 60 miles an hour. An automobile went through the railing of the Granite Avenue Bridge over the Neponsit River to the water below, but its driver escaped unharmed. The eighty-five-foot war memorial flag pole at Peabody Square in Cambridge fell, but its fall was broken by trolley wires and no one was injured.

Temperature was near freezing in Western New York last night, according to The Associated Press, following a heavy snowstorm.

At Uniontown, Pa., a six-inch snowfall was reported. Snow falling for three hours covered the National Pike from Uniontown to Grantsville, Md. Traffic, however, was only slightly hampered, as the snow melted quickly. A score of vessels loaded with coal and a half-dozen tugs put into the harbor at the Delaware Breakwater, seeking shelter from the 60-mile gale that swept the Delaware coast.

It was reported in Massachusetts that residents in some parts of the State were expressing anxiety about the possibility of a recurrence of floods in the Connecticut River valley.

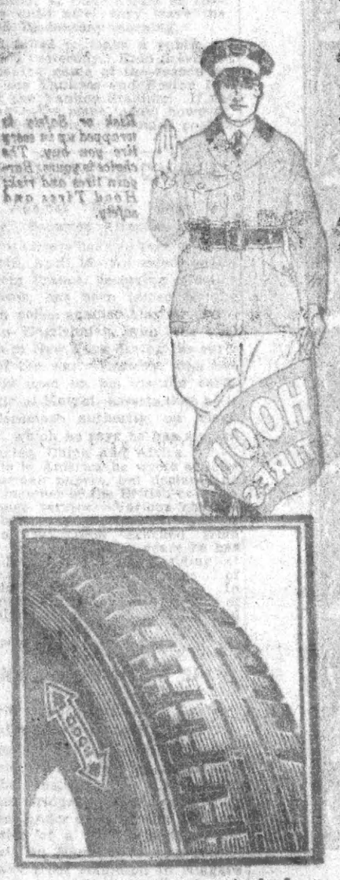
We have an Erskine Six ready for you now! Prove to yourself the new Erskine Six—built by Studebaker, Builder of Champions—is the finest, fastest car under $1000!



Read What Erskine Owners Say!

I defy any car, regardless of price, to stand the pounding which our Erskine receives, as we drive between 40 and 50 miles per hour most of the time. Have never gotten less than 20 miles to the gallon of gas.

W. H. C.—Riverside, Calif.

I drove my Erskine Coupe over the roughest part of this state for 1525 miles at a total operating expense of $15.80, averaging 28⅗ miles to the gallon of gas. At times I was confronted with 5 and 10% hills that stretched 9 to 23 miles. She is still hitting on all six and is ever ready to go.

A. W. W.—Nogales, Ariz.

Think it is the greatest little car on the road. Have never been in second since I had it and we have some mountains and hills out here too.

F. D. T.—Northboro, Mass.

Erskine Owners Sing Praises

We have driven our Erskine 24,976 miles and the best part about it, we have never had one bit of work done on it, not even clean the carbon, grind valves, not even set the valves. All we ever did to it was drive it past 60 miles per.

C. J. R.—Clearfield, Penna.

The continued perfect performance of the Erskine Coupe is truly amazing. My work makes it necessary to drive a great deal and I am crowding the speed limit at all times. I have driven it 10,000 miles in the last five months. No repairs, just gas and oil and a little water is all that is required.

G. A. V.—Anaheim, Calif.

I consider it the most beautiful car in any price class as well as the greatest value.

P. R. K.—Oceanside, L. I., N. Y.

We are delighted with our Erskine in both performance and in the looks. It is unsurpassed in the light car field.

C. H. A.—Milford, Del.

Owners Everywhere—Satisfied

We consider the Erskine better value for the price than anything we have ever seen. It climbs hills on high and generally passes a lot of large cars going up—it just meets every demand.

E. L. R.—Pasadena, Calif.

I can drive my Erskine all day and never get tired. It is most comfortable and it cannot be beat for the money.

H. H.—Pennsylvania.

I am highly pleased with the Erskine in the line of a small six cylinder car, both as to comfort and performance. I hear nothing but praise from everyone and recommend the Erskine highly.

G. T.—Chicago, Ill.

My Erskine is second to none, and I have owned several cars and driven many. It has the world beat in every way for its small cost.

N. O. P.—Durand, Ill.

The Erskine is a wonderful little car in every detail. It runs so well that everyone is tempted to take everything on high.

W. L. H.—Cleveland, Ohio.

Erskine Owners—Best Salesmen

The Erskine is the best car for my practice I have had in 18 years, and I have had some expensive ones.

Dr. A. V. F.—Sapulpa, Okla.

It is the best looking of any car on the road in my estimation. It is the best riding light car I have driven.

S. W. P.—Reno, Nev.

I have owned my Erskine 6 months, get 22 miles per gallon of gasoline and we made a trip of 2250 miles and had no trouble whatever. My next car will be an Erskine. We like it better and better every day.

E. G. D.—Frankfort, S. D.

It has always been a joy to ride in the Erskine. I have had no repair expense to date and I have driven it better than 5000 miles.

H. P. H.—West Hampton Beach, N. Y.

There is no doubt but that this is one of the finest little cars on the market. I just drove from St. Paul to this city and it never gave me one moment of trouble. I averaged 35 miles per hour for a distance of 1165 miles.

F. E. L.—Beatrice, Neb.

Testimony of Satisfaction

I have had several other different cars and have never had such good service and neat performance, and will praise it to the highest in quality, durability and performance.

J. B. C.—Lexington, Ky.

I believe that I can say without fear of contradiction that my little Erskine is beyond a shadow of a doubt the greatest car for all around use that I have ever driven. I have driven mine 18,000 miles in 9 months.

N. Z. S.—Salina, Kans.

My Erskine, which I am very proud of, is a little wonder. Have driven it 13,000 miles over all kinds of roads and in 18 years have never driven anything like it.

T. L. T.—Virginia, Minn.

My Erskine is certainly great on the curves. I can go around short curves at 35 or 40 miles without fear. In appearance it is most satisfactory and, wherever I go, everyone comments upon its beauty.

BYRD TELLS BRITISH HE HONORS PIONEERS

In Message to People Through London Paper He Gives All Credit to Their Explorers.

REVEALS DEBT TO ENGLAND

At the request of the Editor of The Evening Standard of London, Commander Byrd has sent to him, through The New York Times radio station, a message for the British people which reads as follows:

By COMMANDER R. E. BYRD.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, April 15.—We are happy to accept your suggestion that we send a message through you to our friends in Great Britain. We wish to be sure that they understand that we approach our problems with respect for those who have preceded us. They were more the pioneers than we who follow. The best we can hope to do is to add a little to the mass of scientific data they collected.

Their trials and the march of science have lessened for us the difficulties they met. We know now from first hand as we could not have visualized from their modest records the frightful hardships they endured.

Puts Sportsmanship First.

And we wonder if it is probable that their own countrymen admire their deeds so much as do we forty Americans who can tell a new story of their struggles.

Even if international law, vague as to Antarctica, may not be satisfied with their claims of discovery, international courtesy acknowledges them. Sportsmanship is more important here than the strict letter of a rule. Therefore, whatever new land we have discovered or may discover within the British claims we see no reason for controversy.

As to science, it knows no national boundaries. Antarctica is big. There is much to be done. The more who come here the better. We will have a common cause with others who sail southward for knowledge.

So we wish to renew through you our offer of the courtesy of our facilities, both ashore and afloat, to the most scientific of the early pioneers, Sir Douglas Mawson, who has himself so generously offered us cooperation after aiding us with his advice.

Byrd's Ties With British People.

Commander Byrd has been brought in close contact with the British people under circumstances which enabled him to know them intimately and to form many warm friendships among them. He has referred to those circumstances many times in his lectures.

"I have been drawn close to the people of Great Britain by the play of circumstances," he said in one lecture. "As a boy I was nursed back to life from a desperate illness in the Royal Naval Hospital at Plymouth. I was again drawn to them in striving side by side with them in a common enterprise. Several years later the bond was made still tighter by sharing a common sorrow.

"These experiences enable me to see beneath the surface of the British people. I found there an indescribable kindness which they so often cover with reserve."

Associations in Peace and War.

The first time Commander Byrd came in close contact with the British was in 1911 when he was a midshipman on the Iowa, then at Plymouth. He was ill with typhoid and received the kindest and most careful treatment, which saved his life.

If it had not been for this care, his adventurous career would probably never have begun. He often recalls that the Earl of Mount Edgcumbe kept the room of the young sailor full of flowers.

His next close association with the British was during the war when he was in command of the air forces on the Eastern Canadian coast. He formed a friendship at that time with Flight Commander Cull, of the British Navy, which has lasted ever since, and Commander Cull is godfather to his daughter, Bolling Byrd.

Commander Byrd's relationship with the Canadian and British fliers under his command during the war is one of the pleasantest chapters in his career, he has often said, and it recompensed him in some slight degree for not being able to go abroad.

His Part in the ZR-2 Rescue.

When the ZR-2 was wrecked in England, a disaster which Commander Byrd escaped because the crew list for that flight had been made up when he arrived, he helped in the rescue work, toiling side by side with English and other American officers in trying to save some of the many men who lost their lives in that appalling accident.

Later he took part in the funeral services in Westminster Abbey, and, as only a handful of the American detachment was left, British officers and men filled the ropes by the gun carriages. Of that day Commander Byrd wrote in his book, "Skyward":

"The English did homage that day to the American flag that covered the biers. England won me then and there.

"I cannot describe what that crowd did to me. Not a sound was heard but the rumble of the cortège. Not one of the women had dry eyes. Not one of the men or boys had his head covered.

"The spirit of them got to me and I realized then and there that my dream of international good fellowship was not senseless or useless, that aviation in tragedy as well as in success held within it an impalpable something that could bring peoples to a better understanding."

CHURCH SUIT TRANSFERRED

BOSTON, April 16 (AP).—Judge Field of the State Supreme Court today transferred to the Superior Court the bill in equity brought by John V. Dittemore and other members of the Christian Science Parent Church against James A. Neal and other directors of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, known as the Mother Church. The bill seeks to have the respondents enjoined from inducing certain persons to break contracts made with the plaintiffs or to interfere with them in any way.

William G. Thompson, counsel for the plaintiffs, protested against the transfer. He said this was not a commercial case, but one involving constitutional rights and personal liberty. Under the circumstances, he argued, it should be heard in the Supreme Court.

Judge Field said that he did not regard it as an emergency case and that he was following a rule laid down by the Supreme Court that all equity matters should be sent to the Superior Court.

HELD IN ITALIA SINKING.

BOSTON, April 16 (AP).—William Roberts, skipper of the power boat Overland, was held for the Federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Jenney, on charges of violating the navigation laws in failing to stand by the rammed and sinking fishing boat Italia.

Battiste Aeillo, master of the 35-foot Italia, his son Leonard and his brother Samuel, testified that after the Overland had struck the Italia in a fog, the Overland thrice circled the rapidly sinking craft and then proceeded on her way, leaving the three men struggling in the water. The crew of the Italia was taken from the water two hours later, in an exhausted condition.

Wheel smashed because a car swerved. Car swerved because a tire blew. Tire goes—car goes—wheel goes—money goes! A bad bargain in tires is a bad bargain in money and also a bad bargain in risk. Buy your next tires for safety not for price.

You are safe when you ride on Hood Tires. Hoods have an inbuilt, extra margin of safety throughout their entire structure. The specifications behind these famous tires call for higher quality rubber, thicker tread, stronger carcass and better workmanship than can be found on any similar tire.

This means, to you, greater mileage, and never a worry about tire failures, or changing tires on the road. The next tire you buy think of safety. Ask the Hood dealer to tell you the inside facts about the extra margin of safety that Hood Tires assure you.

Risk or Safety is wrapped up in every tire you buy. The choice is yours: Bargain tires and risk; Hood Tires and safety.

Look for the White Arrow on every Hood Tire. It is the Hood mark of quality that assures you an extra margin of safety—the trade mark of a tire manufacturer whose reputation has been built on quality rubber products for more than thirty years.

BABE RUTH MARRIES MRS. HODGSON TODAY

PLAN OF SECRECY DROPPED

Baseball Star Considers "Interest of Public"—Asks Photographers Not to Seek Advance Pictures.

Babe Ruth will be married this morning at 6:30 o'clock to Mrs. Claire Hodgson. The ceremony will be performed at a mass to be said by the Rev. Dr. William F. Hughes in St. Gregory's Church, 133 West Ninetieth Street. These arrangements, which had been made on Monday and were to have been carried out privately, were divulged yesterday by Ruth's business manager, Christy Walsh, and ended the plans for a secret marriage.

Ruth and Mrs. Hodgson obtained their marriage license at the City Hall on Monday, eluding all but a few until nearly 8 o'clock in the evening when, with a party of friends, they emerged from Mrs. Hodgson's apartment at 345 West Eighty-eighth Street and hastened away by automobile to a destination unnamed. They later attended a theatre and then disappeared once more.

Both Ruth and Mrs. Hodgson were reluctant to say when they would be married and had not intended to allow the date of the ceremony to become known in advance until prevailed upon yesterday. Ruth then issued the following statement through Walsh:

Mr. George H. (Babe) Ruth and Mrs. Claire Hodgson will be married Wednesday, April 17, 1929.

For personal and family reasons Mr. Ruth was anxious to avoid notoriety and publicity in connection with the ceremony. It was his intention to be married secretly tomorrow morning, but after considering all angles, the interest of the public and as an appreciation of the consideration that has always been shown him by newspaper writers and photographers, Mr. Ruth has authorized me to make this advance announcement to the press.

Mrs. Hodgson and Mr. Ruth will be married Wednesday morning at 6:30 o'clock mass by the Rev. Father Hughes in St. Gregory's Church, 133 West Ninetieth Street.

In return for making this announcement Mr. Ruth requests that no attempt be made to obtain photographs of Mrs. Hodgson or himself at their homes or elsewhere until after they leave the church Wednesday morning.

Ruth failed to make a public appearance yesterday. Rain prevented the opening game of the season between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox at the Yankee Stadium. If the opening takes place today, however, he will be at his accustomed post in right field.

PARIS TO EXPEL A. CROWLEY

Order Against "Black Magic Authority" Becomes Effective Today.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—An expulsion order from France, becoming effective tomorrow, has been issued by the French police against Alastair Crowley, an Englishman, who was well known in New York during the early part of the war. Crowley, who has recently used on his visiting cards the title of Knight, asserts that he is the foremost authority on black magic, which he says he has studied in Mexico, China and Africa.

While in America he wrote articles for German papers, but declared he was a member of the British counter-espionage service. Various charges have been made against him and he has already been expelled from Italy. For the past six years he has been living in Paris, presiding at times over demonstrations of "magic" of an exotic character. In his youth Crowley climbed some of the highest peaks in America and Asia. He gained some reputation as a poet.

PLANS NEW NIAGARA SPAN.

Ontario Government Also Contemplating Two More Highways.

TORONTO, Ont., April 16.—The Ontario Government is contemplating the construction of a new international bridge across Niagara River and has under consideration the construction of a third highway from Toronto to Hamilton and a second highway from Hamilton to Niagara Falls, Premier G. Howard Ferguson told a deputation today. Legislation is necessary by the Dominion and the United States Governments for the construction projects.

Under legislation passed at the last session, provision was made for the Nigara Parks Commission to acquire lands and construct another bridge across the Niagara River. The cost of the bridge is estimated at between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000. The work would provide employment for at least 1,000 men for two years.

200 Attend Judson Centre Meeting.

Two hundred women, including many prominent in club circles, attended the first annual meeting of the recently incorporated Women's Auxiliary of the Judson Health Centre, 237 Thompson Street, at the Pennsylvania Hotel yesterday. Dr. Eleanor A. Campbell, founder of the centre, told of the expansion of the work since it was founded in 1921. Last year, she said, 28,000 visits were made to the centre's clinic and in March of this year the clinic cared for 2,154 visits, besides calls made in 725 homes of the neighborhood.

Mrs. Harold Vincent Milligan, president of the auxiliary, presided and called attention to the carnival which the centre will conduct in Madison Square Garden on May 2.

500 Aid National Jewish Hospital.

More than 500 contributions, from $100 to $1,000, have been received this week by Judge Samuel D. Levy, chairman of the New York Committee of the National Jewish Hospital for Consumptives, in response to an appeal in connection with National Jewish Hospital Week, which ends April 22. The week is sponsored this year by a committee headed by Cardinal Hayes, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman and Bishop William T. Manning. The institution is non-sectarian.

PROVIDES SCHOOL FOR SACRED MUSIC

Mrs. J. B. Ward of Dobbs Ferry Gives $1,000,000 for Institution at Catholic University.

COURSES WILL BE GIVEN

Purpose Is to Train Organists, Choirmasters and Teachers—Move Hailed as Significant.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Mrs. Justine B. Ward of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., founder of the Pope Pius X School in New York and an authority on Gregorian chant and sacred music, has given $1,000,000 for the establishment of a schola cantorum at the Catholic University of America in Washington, at which will be taught liturgical chant and classic polyphony. This announcement was made here today by Nicola A. Montani, conductor and composer and editor of The Catholic Choirmaster.

The purpose of the school, Mr. Montani said, will be to train organists, choirmasters and teachers. He considers it a move which will have far-reaching results in the field of Catholic music and in the general musical world.

"The school," said Mr. Montani, who has received a papal decoration for his work in the field of sacred music, "may affect modern composers to the extent that melody will again come into its own—possibly a modified chant without bar lines. That intangible element which has eluded the modern composer so far—namely, free rhythm, without recourse to time signature or bar line—may be found and definitely formulated into a modern melodic system."

The Pius X School was founded by Mrs. Ward in 1918. The new school has been made possible by the creation of the Dom Mocquereau Schola Cantorum Foundation, a New York corporation. The income from the $1,000,000 trust fund is to be available, at once, and the courses in liturgical music will be started this Summer at the Summer sessions of the university. Regular instruction will be given at the opening of the next scholastic year.

The university trustees have already set aside a site for the school of liturgical music, it was made known yesterday, and ground will be broken in a few weeks for the structure, near the national shrine of the immaculate conception, which is being erected at the university.

The trustees of the Dom Mocquereau Foundation are the Rev. Dr. William J. DesLongchamps of the Catholic University, who will be dean of the new school; Mother G. Stevens of the Pius X School, and Mrs. Ward. Dr. DesLongchamps is an authority on sacred music and is now organizing the faculty for the school, to be made up of teachers of music of international standing.

The new school will grant a degree of Bachelor of Science in Music and higher degrees for advanced students. The curriculum, it was announced yesterday, will follow closely the courses given at the famous Pontifical School of Sacred Music in Rome and the Academy of Church Music in Vienna.

CHICK GUM'S AMBITION DIMMED BY FLAPJACK

He Dreamed of Being Expert Tosser but Hot One, Possessed of Devil, Lands Inside Shirt.

Chick Gum was ambitious. A Chinese cook, he had looked longingly at American cooks standing in windows casually tossing flapjacks. It seemed the height of desirability. Nor could it be hard. Any one who carefully studied the method should—with just a little practice—be able to pick it up. And then, some day, Chick could get a good job in a restaurant uptown.

Early yesterday morning he was on duty at the Traffic Cafeteria, 163 West Twenty-third Street. Customers were few, and those few of no value whatever. All the milk drivers wanted doughnuts and coffee; it seemed that flapjacks had gone out of style. Each time he went to the kitchen he gazed longingly at the tin pitcher of batter, each time he turned sadly away.

Then, just about the time Chick was to go off duty a tired, hungry man came in. He ate a doughnut, then ordered flapjacks. Chick dashed into the kitchen. The batter was ready, the frying pan greased in expectation. He watched the little bubbles appear—the signal that the cakes should be turned.

Suddenly there was a wail of anguish. The customer sat too terrified to move, a half eaten doughnut in his hand. A second later there was another wail. On the echo of the second alarm Patrolman George Leonard of the West Twentieth Street Station roared into the cafeteria. His hand held his pistol, his mind a vision of promotion for capturing hold-up men in the act of crime. He streaked by the speechless customer and into the kitchen.

Tearfully Chick told him what had happened. He had lifted the frying pan as he had seen them do in the restaurants, he had given it a little toss. But for some reason the flapjack, rather than turning quietly over, had been possessed of a devil. Instead of landing in the pan, it had circled and gone down inside his open shirt. And it was a hot flapjack.

After Chick had been treated by a sympathetic surgeon from Bellevue he went home.

FOR BRAZIL HYGIENE CLINIC.

League at Sao Paulo Will Seek Funds for Project.

Special Correspondence of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAO PAULO, Brazil, March 15.—The Mental Hygiene League at an executive session discussed the advisability of opening a consulting office for pre-nuptial medical examination. The idea is favored by the league and it is proposed to obtain funds to put it into practice. The plan is not to obtain a law requiring examination, but to make such an examination available to all desiring it and to encourage, by means of propaganda, the use of the service.

Many distinguished educators, physicians, sociologists and scientists are included in the league's membership. One of its activities is a campaign against alcohol. Recently an anti-alcoholic week was held in many of the larger cities. The league has recently gone on record to oppose the establishment of a whisky distillery in Sao Paulo.

HE WAS LIFELESS AND DESPONDENT

But ALL-BRAN made him wide-awake and well — doctor prescribed it

CONSTIPATION ruins hopes, saps strength. Yet thousands of sufferers have found the way to relieve and prevent this disease. Read how this man rid his system of constipation.

"During the three years before ALL-BRAN cured me, I experienced more embarrassing moments than I care to tell of. Being lifeless, dull, logey and despondent, I could not keep my job. My friends didn't want my company and I was tired of being asked 'What in the world is the matter with you?'

"After spending much money for treatment, I finally found a doctor who advised me to eat ALL-BRAN three times a day. I did this for three months and I didn't need to be told that I looked better . . . I felt better and acted better . . . I am still using ALL-BRAN every morning and have no trouble how whatsoever." (Name and address upon request.)

Guard against constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to prevent it—to relieve it. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Far better than habit-forming drugs and pills.

ALL-BRAN is 100% effective. Doctors recommend it because it promotes natural elimination. Serve it with milk or cream. Use it in cooking—muffins, bread, etc. Delicious recipes on the package. Grocers sell it. Restaurants, hotels, dining-cars service it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

LUTHERAN MERGER IS SET FOR JUNE 5

BUDGET FIXED AT $450,000

Combined Organization Will Have 208,008 Members and Property Worth $28,182,526.

The Joint Merger Commission of the three Lutheran synods in this State which cover virtually the same territory held its final meeting yesterday at the Lutheran Church House, 39 East Thirty-fifth Street, and made detailed arrangements for the merging of those bodies. This will take place on June 5 in St. John's Church, Albany, N. Y. The name of the merged body will be the United Lutheran Synod of New York.

All three bodies will hold their final sessions as separate organizations June 2 and each will continue in session two days. The Synod of New York, of which the Rev. Dr. Charles W. Leitzell of Albany is president, will meet in Trinity Lutheran Church, Amsterdam, N. Y., thirty miles from the State Capitol, as it had accepted this invitation before the merger was assured. The other synods will meet in St. John's, Albany, one in the church auditorium and the other in its parish house. They are the New York Ministerium, of which the Rev. Dr. Hermann Breing, pastor of Zion Lutheran Church, Niagara Falls, N. Y., is the pastor, and the Synod of New York and New England, of which the Rev. Dr. Samuel Trexler of this city, president of the New York Lutheran Ministers' Association, is president.

The commission adopted $450,000 as the budget for the merged synod for the first year. This is the total of the budgets of the uniting bodies for this year.

The commission completed the legal details for the merger. An enabling act was passed some time ago at Albany, making the merger possible. The commission will recommend that the merged body have a salaried secretary, a minister who will give his complete time to the office. His duty, in addition to helping the president, will be to have charge of the benevolences.

The merged body will have a baptized membership of 208,008, 454 clergymen, 390 churches and property valued at $28,182,526. The synod will include all of the Empire State, all of New England, the northern half of New Jersey and the northern border parishes of Pennsylvania. The synod will have two colleges, one theological seminary and one academy.

SPAIN LIMITS THE PRESS.

Government Bureau to Issue Matter That Must Be Printed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, April 16.—Because numerous newspapers in Spain failed to give any important space to the great demonstration in favor of Premier Primo de Rivera here on Saturday, the government announced today a new measure for the control and "guidance" of the press.

Hitherto, papers have been mainly censored only as regards unfavorable comments that they chose to print, and they were allowed a certain latitude in the selection of their material. The new measures will regulate also what will be obligatory to publish.

The Premier announces that he will immediately establish a press bureau, which will issue statements on important events containing details which the government regards as necessary for public information, and that all newspapers will be required to print these in full. These articles will be free and obligatory, in accordance with the decree regulating their character and issuance.

Ask Norway to Admit Trotsky.

OSLO, April 16 (AP).—At the suggestion of the Trotsky Aid Committee of Berlin, the chairman of the Norwegian Labor Party requested Premier Mowinckel to accord Leon Trotsky the necessary permission to come to Noreay. Premier Mowinckel replied that the government would take the matter under consideration.

YACHTSMAN CHARGES COAST GUARD THEFTS

Inquiry Held at Cape May Into Ross Accusations Against Men Who Seized the Nomad.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—An inquiry was held today at the Coast Guard base at Cape May, N. J., into charges brought by Leland H. Ross of New York, owner of the yacht Nomad, that valuable articles had been taken from the vessel while it was in the hands of the Coast Guard after being picked up in distress seventeen miles off the New Jersey coast on April 3.

The yacht was restored to Mr. Ross after he had been freed in Philadelphia of charges of attempted smuggling and illegal transportation of liquor. Since then he made a thorough inventory and, according to a complaint sent by his attorney, Francis S. Laws, to the Coast Guard base, found jewelry and clothing was missing.

Captain William H. Shea, commandant of the Cape May base, conducted the inquiry in the presence of Commander Henry Uuke, Mr. Ross and Mr. Laws. The witnesses, who included men who had been aboard the Nomad while she was in their custody, were examined by Captain Shea and cross-questioned by Mr. Ross's attorney.

Captain Shea refused tonight to discuss the charges brought by Mr. Ross. "As far as the Coast Guard base is concerned we are all through with the affair," he said.

The yachtsman listed among the missing articles a pair of gold enameled shirt studs, a gold cigarette case, three sets of gold enameled cuff links, a valuable stick pin, a pair of marine glasses, a gold fountain pen, an alligator skin purse, an expensive walking stick, a silver ciragette lighter and some clothing, including four silk scarfs belonging to Mrs. Ross.

LINKS BERLIN TO BAGDAD.

Air Line Is Completed by New Teheran Service.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 16.—The imperial dream conceived by William II for a Berlin-Bagdad railway is about to be realized in the air. A concession just granted by Britain to the German Persian aviation company to install a service between Teheran and Bagdad will complete the link in the air routes covered by German machines—Junkers and Dorniers—between Bagdad and the German capital.

The line itself will be a three cornered proposition between the German Lufthansa, the Russians and the British, including the German interests in the Persian company. Lufthansa is now regularly operating a twelve-hour service between Berlin and Moscow. The Russians then carry on as far as Baku, where the British take over to Teheran.

Great interest is shown here in securing regular connecting timetables, for it is believed the route will prove more direct than that at present forming part of the London to India route via Genoa and Cairo to Bagdad.

PORTUGUESE PLOT BARED.

Police Announce Defeat of Revolutionary Attempt.

LISBON, Portugal, April 16 (AP).—Another attempted revolutionary movement in Portugal apparently has been frustrated by the police.

A note published in the press today stated that the authorities had arrested several political figures hostile to the government in a seriously complicated proposed revolutionary movement against the dictatorship, which the police had broken up completely.

It is unofficially stated that Señor Antonio Maria da Silva, leader of the Democratic Right of the Republican Party, was among those arrested. A former premier, Domingos Periera, and a former cabinet minister, Daniel Rodrigues, were said to be wanted by the police.

Views of Today's Press on President's Message

NEW YORK.

Praised for Clarity and Restraint.

From The Herald-Tribune (Ind. Rep.).

President Hoover's message to Congress yesterday was marked by admirable restraint in statement and clarity in reasoning.

Agriculture, as the President points out, is not one industry, but a score of industries, and the specialization which has come with the last few decades has materially affected direct consumption of products on the farm, and thus complicated the problems of marketing. There can be no single, sleight-of-hand remedy of a political nature like the equalization fee. The assistance given must be primarily economic, and also varied in character. * * *

To check overproduction nothing is more important than to discourage the cultivation of unprofitable marginal land, which is the most disturbing factor in the export surplus situation.

As to tariff revision, some other industries besides agriculture deserve inclusion—the ones which, as the President says, have suffered from slackening of activity and decrease in employment. It is not a case, however, of creating a new basis of protective duties. Undervaluation is still troublesome. The foreign value is the normal base on which to levy protective duties. But its ascertainment is hindered in many ways, especially in the case of imports which offer sharp competition with American products.

Holds Message 'Somewhat Cautious.'

From The World (Ind.).

Mr. Hoover's first message to Congres is a concise and somewhat cautious statement of the obligations which he believes his administration has assumed as a result of his campaign pledges to the farmers and the high-tariff groups. He tells the farmers just how far he is prepared to go in meeting their demands for legislation, and in so doing dashes any hopes that his election meant a bold manoeuvre. He leaves his attitude toward the tariff more in doubt, and so permits the high-tariff groups to go on hoping that with the help of Congress it is still possible that the sky may be the limit.

It is evident from Mr. Hoover's discussion of the question of farm relief that he has thought enough about the problem to have his ideas thoroughly in order and to know precisely where he thinks the responsibilities of the government begin and end. His statement of the various causes which have united to produce hard times for the farmer is shrewd, compact and to the point.

Mr. Hoover is too good an internationalist and too experienced an economist to be taken in by old-style protectionist logic. He knows perfectly well that overtowering tariffs inevitably get in the way of foreign trade and says as much, condemning the "unwise protection" which "sacrifices a greater amount of employment in exports to gain a less amount of employment from imports."

BOSTON.

"Courage" and "Caution" Voiced.

From The Herald (Rep.).

Courage, hope and caution characterize President Hoover's message to the special session of Congress. He is courageous enough to say that he regards any farm relief measure as an experiment. He is scientist enough to discuss the experiment in the restrained manner of the scientific observer.

There is no loud note of cocksureness, of certainty or even of great expectations. He merely hopes, with a sense, perhaps, of misgiving. He cautions the people that various evils may follow a new government experiment conducted so lavishly as we propose to conduct the farm relief measure.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.

Sees Effort to Fulfill Pledges.

From The Journal (Ind.).

One cannot read President Hoover's special message to Congress without being deeply impressed with his determination to fulfill his campaign pledges.

The language * * * clearly indicates that the President still feels that the farm problem is the paramount economic issue of our times. * * *

Both the House bill and the special message leave no doubt that an extraordinary economic experiment is about to be attempted.

HARTFORD, CONN.

Praises "Brevity" and "Sound Opinion."

From The Courant (Rep.).

President Hoover's message * * * has the merit of brevity, the strength of sound opinion and the diplomacy of statesmanship. He evidently intends to keep the executive function entirely distinct from the legislative function. He is content to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor and be a constitutional President with a meticulous regard for the sphere in which he is supposed to operate.

Mr. Hoover's views on farm relief are sensible and happily at variance with the McNary-Haugen school of agricultural economics.

PHILADELPHIA.

Says Textile Trade Needs Help.

From The Enquirer (Rep.).

"Brief, practical and to the point is the first message of President Hoover to the Congress of the United States. As anticipated, he confines his discussion to farm relief and tariff revision.

"He insists that the freedom of the farmers shall not be undermined by bureaucratic and governmental interference.

"The vast textile industries around Philadelphia have been seriously hit and much of the trouble is due to inadequate protection. The President's test, therefore, would surely include such interests, both here and elsewhere, in the scope of protective legislation. Indeed, a tariff bill that did not meet this situation would be a farce."

BALTIMORE.

Doubtful of the Farmer Plan.

From The Sun (Ind.).

The farm problem is the product of an evolution which has been going on for years, and as an economist Mr. Hoover recognizes its basic causes as being essentially non-political. As a politician who has made campaign promises, however, Mr. Hoover is forced to offer a solution for this complex difficulty.

Even this relief is to be administered fearsomely, lest the farmer's initiative be undermined by farm relief and be superseded by bureaucracy and domination."

Since the farmers themselves have so far proposed nothing save the kind of assistance which Mr. Hoover regards as obnoxious, it is not easy to see how progress is to be made.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

Farm Aid Viewed as Socialistic.

From The Post (Ind.).

No other American industry is fostered, encouraged, protected and paternalized by the government as it is now proposed to deal with agriculture. How long will it be before manufacturers will demand similar government stimulation and protection against loss? * * *

Many old-fashioned citizens will gasp when they begin to comprehend the immense scope of the proposed government aid to agriculture and the undeniable tendency toward socialism that is manifested in the proposed legislation.

RICHMOND, VA.

Says Hoover Knows the Problems.

From The Times-Dispatch (Dem.).

Remarkable for its brevity, its clarity of thought and simplicity of diction, the President's message on the perplexing problem of farm relief and the related tariff revision is unquestionably the product of a man who knows what he's about, of a mind accustomed to dealing with realities and impatient of nonessentials.

It is obvious that Hoover the candidate and Hoover the President are different men, the President shows a splendid grasp of the problems with which he must deal.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Bent on "Constructive Action."

From The Observer (Dem.)

No clearer diagnosis of the agricultural and industrial ills of the nation has ever been submitted to the people through Congress than that which was embodied in President Hoover's message. Not only did he make a clear statement of the condition and the causes that led up to it, but he prescribed remedies of direct application. Operations of the tariff are back of it all. The industry and agriculture of the nation have outgrown the tariff principles adopted seven years ago.

President Hoover would have the administrative machinery gone over, oiled up and put into shape for greater efficiency in operation. Hoover wants nothing mediocre in his administrative field. He is set on constructive action for the future.

NEW ORLEANS.

"Concise and Well Argued."

From the Times-Picayune (Ind. Dem.).

The message is concise and well argued. Congress could do a worse thing than follow its guidance with respect to farm relief and tariff revision.

Embracing his Federal farm board proposal, we have an idea that Congress will balk at certain of the "certain safeguards" he suggests in this connection.

As for his proposal that tariff hoists be limited to those industries in which there has been "a slackening of activity and decrease of employment due to insurmountable competition in the products of that industry," we dare say that "test of necessity for revision" will be instantly and strongly opposed by industries which cannot meet it and yet are demanding higher protective duties for themselves.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

Questions Redeeming of Pledges.

From The Courier Journal (Dem.).

Mr. Hoover has been euchred into his present extra session predicament. He never wanted such a session. He explains that he called the session "to redeem two pledges given in the last election—farm relief and limited changes in the tariff." That would appear to mean that he pledged farm relief, not simply a session of Congress to tackle farm relief. Yet his course recently has warranted the construction that it was not farm relief, but the session of Congress that he pledged. He has repeatedly refused to embody his farm relief ideas in a bill for legislative action, insisting that it is the province not of the President but of Congress to draw such a bill.

Aside from advising the miracle of an effective agricultural tariff, Mr. Hoover treats the tariff question gingerly. It is clear that the President would not welcome a general tariff raid just now, although he may not be able to escape it.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.

Thinks President Is "Groping."

From The Times (Ind. Dem.).

In the address which he delivered on last Aug. 11, accepting the Republican Presidential nomination, Mr. Hoover declared: "An adequate tariff is the foundation of farm relief." All of which would seem to indicate that President Hoover, like most others who have sought a solution of the agricultural problem, has been groping somewhat. And even now he is apparently not certain that a satisfactory solution of the farm relief question has been found.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Likened to Engineer's Report.

From The Age-Herald (Dem.).

President Hoover's first message to the Congress reads like an engineer's report without statistics or blueprints. It is brief, which is something to be praised, and it manages to convey the President's desires without being dictatorial, which is also good. But it hasn't a single phrase or epigram to catch the imagination. Mr. Hoover evidently intends to be sound, let who will be clever.

The paper will not stir a fever in the blood of age or make the infant's sinews strong as steel. Particularly after the long stretch of Coolidge barrenness, one longs for a Rooseveltian snarl or a Wilsonian turn. But those days are gone irretrievably. Those era of standardisers and calculators is at hand. Perhaps it is the time and not the man that should be complained of. Mr. Hoover fits in perfectly with the dullness of the times.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.

No Magic Plan.

From The Gazette (Dem.)

If any farmers were looking for a magic plan, a dose of economic painkiller that would dissipate all their troubles overnight, they will be disappointed. The difficulties of agriculture, Mr. Hoover takes pains to declare in his message, cannot be cured by legislation. Nor can they be cured by government alone. The government, he believes, can help, but the farmers must work out their own salvation by cooperative effort, and the government in assisting them must take care not to undermine their initiative or to lure them into worse trouble by encouraging increased surplus production.

CLEVELAND.

Predicts Some Disappointment.

From The Plain Dealer (Ind. Dem.).

The President's program of farm relief as outlined in his message to Congress yesterday calls simply for a farm board with ample power and liberal appropriation for its operation.

To the farmers who have been expecting an immediate alleviation of their difficulties through legislation to be enacted at the special session, some portions of the President's message will be disppointing.

DETROIT.

"Clear, Concise Statement."

From The Free Press (Ind.).

The first message from Mr. Hoover to the Congress is a clear, concise statement of his views on farm relief and tariff revision. It is a business-like document. The portion referring to farm relief hardly exceeds a restatement of the program that Mr. Hoover outlined during the Presidential campaign. Somewhat more novel is the treatment of tariff revision, aside from the agricultural schedules. The model he has set himself for subsequent messages is short, adequate and business-like. Will the Congress take the hint?

INDIANAPOLIS.

Calls Message Businesslike.

From The Star (Ind.)

President Hoover's first message to Congress as might be expected from a man of his experience and turn of mind, is a businesslike discussion of two very practical business propositions—farm relief and tariff revision.

The President explains that his proposal is to have a bill enacted that will take the agricultural question from the field of politics to the realm of economics. He urges only such tariff changes as experience has shown are advisable in order to stimulate industry at home without interfering with our trade relations abroad.

ST. LOUIS.

Has Faith in Farm Plan.

From The Globe-Democrat (Ind.).

Mr. Hoover's message could not have been written by one who had not given much thought to the farm problem. His farm board and what it does will have absorbing interest for economists.

It will not fulfill the expectation of the political farmer, but the best assurance that it may surpass the expectation of many others is that the President, Congress and the first personnel of the board will enter on the experiment with eyes wide open and with a full knowledge of the possibilities of disappointment and even of failure in some respects.

With so happy an alternative offered it as the one of leaving most of the tariff changes to a strengthened tariff commission, how can Congress plunge business into uncertainty by engaging in a Summer-long tariff fight?

TOPEKA, KAN.

Says Message Will Clarify.

From The Daily Capital (Rep.).

The message must be universally recognized as a great discussion of the farm problem and one that will clarify the views of farmers as well as others as to the conditions which exist and which call for all the support the government can give for their betterment on a permanent basis.

ST. PAUL.

"Veiled Allusion" to Debentures.

From The Pioneer Press (Ind. Rep.).

If there is one point about this speech that strikes the eye more than another, it is an omission which may be significant. At the present moment there is a movement in Congress to give the Farm Board an optional power to introduce the export debenture plan, a scheme for stimulating farm prices by paying a premium on exports out of customs duties. * * * It has been assumed in many quarters that President Hoover does not favor this kind of farm relief, yet it is a noteworthy fact that nowhere in his message does any direct or plainly indirect reference to that subject occur. * * *

Veiled allusion to export debentures may be read into the message, but it seems remarkable that the President has withheld that one word, which, did he desire to do so, more than anything else would arrest this movement in its lusty infancy.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.

Farm Board's Value a Question.

From The Argus-Leader (Republican).

The President appears to place great faith in a farm board. Such a board can be valuable or just a meaningless gesture. This will be determined by the persons appointed to the board and the powers granted to it. If this board is so constituted that it is unable to resist political pressure more harm than good may come from its activities.

The President's views on the tariff are entitled to the hearty endorsement of the Middle West. Proper adjustment of certain tariffs can be of great and immediate benefit to the farmer. There will be little criticism of the President here for his failure to endorse the equalization fee or export debenture plan.

OMAHA, NEB.

Sees One Serious Omission.

From The World-Herald (Ind.).

President Hoover in his discussion of the agricultural problem mentions every cause of farm distress except the principal cause. And in tentatively suggesting remedies he avoids mention of the obvious and only effective remedy. The cause of farm distress is the frightful, legislatively created inequity that compels the farmer to sell his products at cheap world-market prices and then to buy his necessities at high, home-market, protective tariff prices.

The obvious and effective remedy is to lower the tariff wall that now shelters greedy domestic monopolies and combinations while they exact tribute not alone from the farmers but from all American consumers.

SALT LAKE CITY.

"Able and Authoritative."

From The Tribune (Rep.).

Ever since the 4th of March signs have not been wanting that Herbert Hoover proposes to be a very real President of the United States, a Chief Executive who will play the leading part in his own administration.

The bill introduced on Monday by Chairman Haugen of the House Agricultural Committee has evidently been drawn in accordance with President Hoover's ideas as expressed in his message, which must be regarded as an able and authoritative statement of the facts regarding farm relief. As a state paper it will rank with the best of them.

RENO, NEV.

Sees Bar to Paternalism.

From The Journal (Dem.).

One note in the President's message will impress all, whether they be interested in or familiar with the problem of farm relief or whether they be more concerned with the governmental participation in any one industry.

In recommending the establishment of a Federal Farm Board with authority and resources to remedy recurring causes of depression in agriculture, he points out that the broadest operation of this official relief bureau should not place the government in the position of buying and selling.

PORTLAND, ORE.

Sees "Real Relief" for Farmers.

From The Oregonian (Ind. Rep.)

Farmers who have been deluded by quack remedies should be well satisfied with the program which Mr. Hoover lays down. Others have use their troubles for political ends and in six years have accomplished nothing. He proposes to transfer their troubles from the field of politics to that of economics, where continuous, skilled treatment will be given.

No doubt there will be a struggle to extend tariff revision beyond the limits proposed by the President. About every industry wants more protection and some that are on the free list want to be taken off.

New York City, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Prindle:

I want to call your attention to and ask your opinion of an advertisement of the Rainbow Company that has appeared today in the Wall Street Journal and in several other daily papers.

As you know, we have always been against the policy of seeking to try out our patent cases by means of advertisements in newspapers and in this respect we have been pleased to follow as far as possible your advice to abstain from advertising features of our patent position in any argumentative way, but instead, to leave such matters to orderly procedure in the Courts.

However, in the case of the Rainbow advertisement above referred to, it would seem to us that the failure on our part to make any reply might be construed by those who may be interested in one company or the other as an acquiescence on our part in some of the statements contained in the advertisement.

Please let me have your opinion.

Very truly yours,

W. T. P. Hollingsworth
President.

LAW OFFICES OF PRINDLE, WRIGHT, HEALAND BEAR

April 15, 1929.

Mr. W. T. P. Hollingsworth,
President, Claude Neon Lights, Inc.,
50 East 42nd Street,
Manhattan, New York.

Dear Mr. Hollingsworth:

I have your letter of April 15th, asking my opinion of the advertisement of Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc., in today's papers. I reply that, as admitted by the published letter of Rainbow's patent counsel, your Claude Patent (No. 1,125,474) has been held to be valid, and Rainbow Light, Inc., has been adjudged to have infringed the said patent.

I note the Rainbow interests claim they are no now infringing your patent. In my opinion, however, every neon tube which they have made since their first infringement has been built upon the principles invented by Claude and by using the invention of Claim 1 of his said patent, either directly, or by equivalents.

Your counsel are steadily proceeding in an orderly way with the expectation of establishing, by adjudications, the correctness of this opinion.

The reference to the Los Angeles case would lead one to infer that there had been a decision in that case by the Court. That is not a fact, for there has as yet been only a report of a Master which has not yet been acted on by the Court.

Very truly yours,

Edwin J. Prindle.

MARY S. SHEPPARD WEDS J. B. BARTRAM

The Ceremony Takes Place in Chantry of St. Thomas's Church.

MANY IN THE BRIDAL PARTY

Miss Mary S. Sheppard, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Plimpton, was married to J. Burr Bartram, son of J. Percy Bartram of Caritas Island, Stamford, Conn., and of Mrs. F. T. Bartram of Bridgeport, Conn., yesterday afternoon in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church on Fifth Avenue. The Rev. Dr. Roelif H. Brooks, the rector, performed the ceremony in the presence of a small gathering.

The bride, who is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sheppard, has lived with her uncle and aunt since the death of her parents. She was given in marriage by Mr. Plimpton. Her gown was of medieval style, in ivory colored satin, embroidered in seed pearls, and her veil of tulle was caught with a narrow bandeau of orange blossoms. She carried a cluster of calla lillies.

Mrs. Paul Bancroft Jr., and Miss Evelyn Evans were matron and maid of honor respectively. Their frocks were of citron green crepe de chine, and they wore close hats to correspond. The other attendants wore similar costumes of robin's egg blue. They were Mrs. Rensselaer W. Bartram Jr., Mrs. Thomas M. Keresey, the Misses Mabel Jenning, Virginia Bunting, Frances M. Patten and Dorothy Roosen. There were also two flower girls, Eleanor and Harriet Windsor, nieces of the bridegroom.

A. Richard Diebold was best man for Mr. Bartram. The ushers were Rensselaer W. Bartram Jr., a cousin of the bridegroom; Leonard S. Piatt, John J. Radley Jr., Francis G. Wey, Stuart R. Stevenson, Paul Bancroft Jr., G. Sherman Windsor and George Sherrill.

After the ceremony there was a small reception at Sherry's.

Mr. Bartram and his bride will sail on Friday on the Conde Grande for Genoa and will visit later the French Riviera. On their return they will live in Bruce Park, Greenwich, Conn.

Farwell—Thorndike.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., April 16.—Miss Caroline Wyeth Thorndike of 108 East Eighty-first Street, New York, was married here this afternoon to Grosvenor Farwell of this city in St. John's Episcopal Church by the Rev. Gerald A. Cunningham.

There was a reception and dinner for the family and close friends after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Williams of 1,156 Park Avenue, New York. The bridegroom, an investment broker, is the former husband of Mrs. Maud Coville Farwell.

Haynes—Wolcott.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Wolcott of Springdale, near Stamford, announced today the marriage of their daughter, Natalie, to Harold L. Haynes of Springdale on April 4. The young couple are spending their honeymoon in Washington. After their return they will reside in Norwalk until the completion of their home.

Woodward—Woodward.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 16.—Miss Anne Murray Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Woodward of this city, was married this afternoon at the home of her parents in the presence of relatives and a few friends to Donald Woodward of Le Roy, N. Y., airport owner, who recently sold to the Argentine Government the airplane Friendship, which carried Amelia Earhart to England. The Rev. Dr. Frederick Parkhurst of Buffalo performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Lindsay Beach. Ernest Woodward, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Harper and R. B. Woodward, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

A wedding dinner was served to forty guests. Mr. and Mrs. Woodward left for Honolulu and will make their home in Le Roy on their return.

MRS. MICHALIS GIVES TEA.

Members of Committees on Butterfly Ball Are Entertained.

Mrs. Clarence G. Michalis gave a tea yesterday afternoon at her home, 455 Madison Avenue, for members of the débutante dance and floor committees of the Butterfly Ball, which will be held on April 24 at the Ritz-Carlton. She is vice president of the Junior Auxiliary of the House of Rest, under the auspices of which the ball is given annually.

Mrs. Leonard Cox is chairman of the dance committee, assisted by Miss Anne Vaparin and Miss Adele Kelley. Miss Lillian Hillyard Nielson heads the débutante committee and Oliver C. Wagstaff the floor committee. Mrs. Henry Leroy Finch is president of the Junior Auxiliary, the other officers of which include Mrs. Livingston French, secretary; Mrs. Joel Ellis Fisher Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. Thomas Ellis Brown, advisory chairman.

Sidney Wards Give Dinner Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Freeman Ward of Valley Brook Farm, White Plains, gave a dinner dance last evening at Sherry's. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. Austin Day Erixay, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Jackson Koop, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Schermerhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Gale, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Cowenhoven, Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Pagen, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. George Krug, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stewart Wrenn, Mr. and Mrs. Graham K. Mellen, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest R. Gruver, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Schenck, Mr. and Mrs. Addison B. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Claflin, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ferdinand Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Percy R. Goepel, Mr. and Mrs. Horace L. Hotchkiss Jr. and Mrs. Belden Geer.

Son Born to Mrs. Milton Collier.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Collier of 35 East Eighty-fourth Street, on Sunday at York House. Mrs. Collier is the former Miss Sadie Gilman of this city and Gilman, Vt.

ANNOUNCING

AEOLIAN HALL SCHOOL of MUSIC

Piano Instruction by means of the

VISUOLA

AEOLIAN HALL

Fifth Avenue at 54th Street

Saturday, April 20th

WHAT would it mean to you or your child to be able to play the piano artistically, correctly, quickly, easily and happily in one-third the usual time required, and at one-third the usual expense?

This is now possible.

After a year of successful teaching, the Aeolian Hall School of Music again opens its doors to the public and is accepting a limited number of pupils and will also recommend teachers in all sections of greater New York and elsewhere who have taken its graduate research work.

If you are interested, for yourself or your child, accept without obligation this invitation to come to Aeolian Hall this week—hear pupils play the piano teaching by means of the Visuola—a new invention which shows electrically what key to play and how to play it—an invention which also teaches the reading of music in the same modern way now employed in teaching language reading in the public schools. Learn to play the piano this new fascinating and intriguing way.

Registrations now accepted for class instruction at $1.50 per hour. Private instruction at $3 and $5 per half hour. Mornings for children of pre-school age. Afternoons for school children. Evenings for the adult beginner.

The Visuola has been endorsed by the AEOLIAN HALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC and the greatest international educators. It is now in use in over 500 leading Studios, Schools, Normal Schools, and State Universities in this and other countries.

Demonstrations and further information given at any time by appointment and without obligation. Literature sent upon request.

50,000 SEE PIRATES DEFEAT CUBS, 4 TO 3

Record Opening Day Crowd for Chicago Present, 20,000 Being Turned Away.

HORNSBY HITLESS IN DEBUT

Fails Twice in Pinch, but Walks Three Times — Visitors Outbatted, Ten Hits to Seven.

LOSERS THREATEN IN NINTH

Score Two Runs, Then Are Checked by Grimes—Pittsburgh Gets Three Off Root in First.

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The Pirates withstood a Cub rally in the ninth here today and defeated the home team by 4 to 3 before 50,000 fans, comprising the greatest opening day crowd in the history of Chicago. Burleigh Grimes held the Cubs safe until the ninth, when two runs were scored.

Pittsburgh got away to a start of three tallies against Charlie Root in the first and never was headed, although being outbatted ten hits to seven.

Grimes allowed ten hits, but so scattered them that the Cubs were shut out until the eighth. In the ninth, however, the Cubs scored twice and threatened to tie the score. English doubled to start this round and scored on a single by Beck, who came home on Wilson's sacrifice fly after Adams's fumble of Cuyler's roller and Hornsby's force-out of Cuyler. Making his début as a Cub, Hornsby drew three passes, but twice failed to hit safely with runners on base.

70,000 Fans Storm Gates.

Nearly 70,000 fans stormed the gates of Wrigley Field, and 20,000 had to be turned away. The record attendance sent thousands of fans to the open spaces in the outfield and ground rules prevailed. The first fans appeared before the gates at 8 o'clock this morning, three hours before the turnstiles were opened. The weather was bright and fairly warm.

The Pirates got away to a start of three runs in the first two of them due to English's fumble of Adams's roller. Following this misplay, Lloyd Waner and Traynor singled, filling the bases. Grantham then doubled into the right-field crowd, scoring two runs, and Bartell scored Traynor with a sacrifice fly, which would have been the third out but for English's error.

Pirates Score in Seventh.

The Pirates added one run to their total in the seventh on Traynor's third hit, a pass to Grantham and sacrifices by Sheely and Bartell. Heathcote batted for Root in the home half and walked, but a double play by Adams, Bartell and Sheely ended Cub chances. Sheriff Blake went to the box and retired the Pirates in order in the eighth.

Cuyler opened the home eighth with his third hit, a double to right, and Hornsby drew his third pass, but the Cubs got only one run. Stephenson and Gonzales singled, but Wilson, Grimm and Hartnett, the latter batting for Blake, were easy for Grimes.

Traynor and Cuyler led their respective clubs in batting, the latter collecting a double and two singles and Traynor three singles.

Bartell and Adams were extremely busy around the keystone sack for the Pirates. Bartell accepted all of his eleven, while Adams missed one of his ten.

INDIANAPOLIS WINS OPENER.

Defeats Milwaukee, 10-6, as American Association Begins Race.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 16.—The American Association started its 1929 race this afternoon with the Indianapolis club, champion team last year, defeating Milwaukee, 10 to 6, in its inaugural here. Indianapolis won by virtue of a seventh inning rally when five runs were scored on hard hitting. Toledo and St. Paul battled for twelve innings before the former triumphed, 5 to 3.

Minneapolis launched its season by defeating Columbus, a 21 to 4 score, in the latter city. In the fourth game Kansas City turned back Louisville, 3 to 2, at Louisville.

Spent Millions on Cubs, Wrigley Now Sees Pennant

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP).—Two dreamers, one whose dream came true and another who is certain his will be realized, were important actors in the Cubs' part in the National League opening today. They are William Wrigley Jr., owner of the team, and Rogers Hornsby. Both are optimistic despite the opening defeat.

"Well, I have struggled along quite a long time and I have spent several million dollars trying to get a team like this," Wrigley said. "But I believe it will realize a dream for me—a National League baseball pennant for Chicago. If we don't win the pennant—well, we'll try harder next year. But I have a good hunch the team will deliver this time."

Hornsby's wish was realized several months ago when he was sold to the Cubs by the Braves.

HAFEY DRIVES IN 4 RUNS

His Single in 1st and Homer in 6th Each Account for Two Tallies—Lucas Also Allows 5 Blows.

CINCINNATI, April 16 (AP).—The Cardinals, National League champions, opened their 1929 campaign here today by defeating the Reds, 5-to-2, in a light-hitting contest before 26,000 fans. Grover Cleveland Alexander, famous veteran, who usually baffles the Reds, was effective and permitted only five safe blows.

Lucas also was effective, allowing only five, but the Cards made good use of them. Hafey was the batting star. He drove in four runs, two in the first inning on a single and two more in the sixth on a home run. His safety in the first came after Douthit had singled, Haney had been hit by a pitched ball and Frisch had sacrificed.

The Reds obtained a run off Alexander in the second. Walker tripled to start the inning, held third while Allen beat out a high bounder to the box and scored on Pittenger's roller, which forced Allen.

In the sixth Frisch walked for the Cards and when Hafey propelled his home run the Cards added two more tallies to their total.

In the last half of the seventh the Reds put over a run. Kelly started it by doubling. Walker sent him to third with a single and then Allen hit into a double play, Kelly scoring.

Gray Holds White Sox to Five Hits Before Small Crowd at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, April 16 (AP).—Sam Gray, who won twenty victories last season, held the White Sox to five hits and the Browns won the opening game of the season today, 3 to 1.

Misplays helped St. Louis to score each of its three runs. The first was brought in by Thomas's balk and wild pitch, while the last two were scored on errors by Cissell and Metzler.

Cool weather held down the attendance to 7,500. Mayor Victor Miller threw out the first ball in brief opening day ceremonies.

INDIANS STOP TIGERS IN ELEVENTH, 5 TO 4

Luke Sewell's Single, a Pass and Lind's Double End Clash Before 15,000 Crowd.

AVERILL HITS HOME RUN

Marks Major League Debut With Drive Over Fence in First—Gehringer Also Gets Blow for Detroit.

CLEVELAND, April 16 (AP).—Rallies in the ninth and the eleventh innings enabled the Indians to come from behind to win from Detroit by 5 to 4 here today in the opening American League game. Luke Sewell's single, a pass to Gardner and a double by Lind accounted for the deciding run.

Earl Whitehill pitched for Detroit against Joe Shaute and Willis Hudlin. Cold weather held the attendance to 15,000.

Gehringer hit a home run with one on in the fourth to give the Tigers the lead, but the Indians came back with one after two were out in the fourth. A pass to Porter and singles by Fonseca and Jamieson manufactured the run. That ended the scoring for both teams through the seventh, at which point Detroit led by 3 to 2.

Rice's double, an out and a sacrifice fly by Heilmann gave Detroit one more in the eighth. Singles by Hodapp and Lind, Averill's sacrifice and Joe Sewell's infield out gave the Indians one in the home half.

Detroit failed to score in the ninth against Hudlin, who had been called on by Roger Peckinpaugh to halt the eighth-inning Detroit rally against Shaute.

The Indians got only one run in the ninth out of Fonseca's double and singles by Jamieson and Luke Sewell, and the teams went into extra innings.

JERSEY CITY-NEWARK OPEN AT HOME TODAY

Elaborate Ceremonies to Start International League Race in Both Cities.

Holding fast to the traditions of seasonal openings, the International League will swing into action today, staging two inaugurals in the metropolitan area—Jersey City and Newark—and the others at Baltimore and Reading.

The biggest season, financially, at least, in the history of the circuit is predicted by the club owners. Through the Winter they have added strength to practically every club, and the teams will take the field today better balanced than has been the case in many years.

Elaborate ceremonies in both Jersey City and Newark will usher in the season. In the former city, where Buffalo will be the guest team, Mayor Frank Hague will throw out the first ball and two bands will supply music. Former Governor A. Harry Moore and Commissioner William L. Dill will be other notables at the Jersey City opening.

Commissioner J. T. Congleton will officially open the ceremonies in Newark, and if Mayor James J. Walker can perform his duties in opening the Yankees-Red Sox and then get to Newark before the game with Montreal is over, he, too, will be among those at Newark, having promised owner Paul Block to be present for the opening. He did not anticipate, however, that the Yankee inaugural would be postponed.

The other two games on the opening day schedule are Rochester at Reading and Toronto at Baltimore.

Tris Speaker, for eight years the manager of the Cleveland Indians and who wound up his major league career with the Athletics last season, replaces Walter Johnson as pilot of the Newark Bears, and many cities around the International League circuit believe that Speaker, who will play centre field, will be able to make a great fight for the pennant.

Around Speaker are several former major leaguers, among them Wally Pipp, secured from the Cincinnati Reds, and Russell Wrightstone, former Giant. Al Mamaux, though he has been hurling in Newark since being dropped by the Brooklyn Robins several years ago, still is rated among the league's leading hurlers and once more will head the pitching staff. Vic Aldridge, who was sent to Newark last season by the Giants, also will be with Mamaux.

Frank Gilhooley, one-time Yankee, again will lead the Jersey City club. This club has been practically rebuilt, and a number of young players are to be shown for the first time today.

Lewis Throws Gardini.

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP).—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, gained two falls over Renato Gardini here tonight. The first match went 45 minutes and 40 seconds before Lewis threw Gardini with a body lock, but the second was over in 3 minutes and 5 seconds, Lewis scoring with a head lock.

Sonnenberg Pins McGill.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 16 (AP).—Gus Sonnenberg, holder of the heavyweight wrestling title, defeated Pat McGill here tonight before a crowd of more than 4,000. The first fall came in forty-three minutes and the second came nine minutes later. Both were scored with flying tackles.

International Fails to Agree on President — Committee of Three Placed in Control.

SINNOTT AND GILES NAMED

Will Serve on Board With Knapp in League Management—Owners Reject Five Candidates.

Club owners of the International League, after a session in the Hotel Commodore yesterday which lasted for more than four hours, voted against electing a president to fill the place made vacant by the recent death of John Conway Toole and instead placed the league in the hands of an executive committee.

Charles H. Knapp, president of the Baltimore club, was made chairman of this committee to act until such time as the owners reach an agreement upon some one for the position of president.

The decision to organize an executive committee was in the nature of a compromise and was reached after five names for the presidency had been put forth and rejected by the owners. Besides Knapp, the others on the committee are James P. Sinnott, president of the Newark club, and Warren Giles, president of the Rochester club.

Carpenter to Assign Umpires.

Knapp will have all the powers of the president excepting in disputes which may involve the Baltimore club, in which case the other two members of the committee, providing their clubs too are not involved, will make a decision.

Coincident with the arrangement, the committee was relieved of supervision of umpires. William Carpenter, dean of the league's staff, will be umpire-in-chief, and will assign the men to all games. All decisions by them will be passed upon by Carpenter and all fines and disciplinary measures will be under his direction.

Knapp is a lawyer and a member of the firm of Knapp, Tucker & Thomas of Baltimore. He has been a director of the Baltimore club for twenty years and, previous to the election of John Conway Toole to the presidency, was elected to that position, but resigned immediately, declaring that his affiliation with the Baltimore club made it inexpedient for him to keep the post. That was nine years ago. For years he was counsel for the club and Dunn's personal attorney.

Five Proposed for Presidency.

Those proposed for the presidency were Vincent Jameson of Frederick, Md., who is president of the Blue Ridge League; William Ashton Sr., Baltimore, an official of the Orioles; Joseph J. O'Brien of this city, former president of the Toledo club and for several years secretary of the New York Giants; Michael H. Sexton of Rock Island, Ill., president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, and William L. Dill, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles in New Jersey.

Those who attended the meeting were: Laurence Solman and James Dunn, Toronto; Frank J. Offerman, Buffalo; Warren C. Giles, Rochester; Ernest Savard and Walter Hapgood, Montreal; Charles H. Knapp, Baltimore; E. J. Poole, Reading; James P. Sinnott, Newark, and William and Frank Donnelly, Jersey City, and Secretary-Treasurer William J. Manley.

SENATORS-ATHLETICS KEPT IDLE BY RAIN

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP).—The opening baseball game of the season, scheduled for today, between Philadelphia and Washington clubs of the American League, was postponed on account of rain.

President Hoover, with Mrs. Hoover, as well as members of the Cabinet and their wives, had planned to attend. The President was to have opened the game by throwing out the first ball.

The announcement of the postponement said that the game would be played tomorrow, if possible, and that the same program planned for today would be carried out.

Haley Defeats Kuhns in Bout.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., April 16.—Pat Haley, Philadelphia, 151, defeated Joe Kuhns, 148, Reading, here tonight in an eight-round bout. Eddie Dempsey, Philadelphia, 150, stopped George Mallick, Shenandoah, 148, in the sixth round of the semi-final. Red Delp, New York, 161, battled to a draw with Theodore Snowden, Oxford, also 161.

Payne Stops Mason in 4th Round.

REESE BENEFITS BY DELAY

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Weather unfit for opening a window, much less a baseball season, blocked the Giants from their long awaited opening ball game of the National League season today. The Phillies surrendered before noon to the blustering northeaster which drenched this city with an all-day rainstorm. They will try to open the season tomorrow.

Instead of breaking from the barrier with the flying start their cohorts confidently expected, the Giants spent the official opening day in a state of suspended animation.

Andy Reese, who developed a sore foot in the West Point game, considered today's postponement a personal favor to him, giving his injured member a full day's repose. The rest of the Giants chafed at the delay.

Reese's ailment is an infected spike wound, but he declared it is not serious enough to keep him out of the season's first game. Fred Leach, who missed the last week of the exhibition schedule because of an infected ear, reported a complete cure and is ready to jump into the line-up at a tenth of a second's notice.

John McGraw's opening game battery will very likely be Carl Hubbell and Bob O'Farrell. Hubbell sidewheels to best advantage with the veteran backstop steering him, but if an overnight change of plans sends Benton to the hurling hill at Baker Bowl tomorrow, Shanty Hogan will man home plate and lend his baseball-banging might to the Giant batting order.

For the Phillies, Claude Willoughby, a stocky little rigt-hander from the Kansas farming country with three years of National League experience behind him, is the pitching nominee.

Willoughby's last three jobs have been for seven, eight and nine innings, respectively. His full term game was a 3-to-1 victory over the Athletics last Thursday in the city championship series. He allowed the Mackmen only seven hits.

The probable line-up for tomorrow follows:

GALE BLOCKS DEBUT OF ROBINS-BRAVES

Storm Puts Off Opener of the Major League Season in Boston Until Today.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 16.—Wretched weather prevented the official opening of the National League season here today by Brooklyn and Boston and kept the eager Robins hotel-bound all day long. The game was definitely called off early in the day after President-Manager Fuchs and Umpire Rigler took a look at the field.

Longfellow's line, "It rains and the wind is never weary," aptly described the climatic conditions in this city. Rain and sleet, borne on the wings of a northeast gale, swept through the town and its environs from early morning, with no signs of abatement at nightfall.

More rain is predicted for tomorrow, making the holding of the opening-day ceremonies and the playing of the game more than doubtful. Some of the players sat around the hotel or played cards in a half-hearted effort to occupy themselves. Adding to the general depression, Uncle Wilbert Robinson turned up with a bad cold and spent the day in the seclusion of his room.

The line-up for tomorrow's game, if it is played, will place Harvey Hendrick at third base, with Rube Bressler, Johnny Frederick and Babe Herman in the outfield. Nick Cullop, who injured his leg before last Friday's game at Greensboro, N. C., was expected to start here in left field, but Robbie said today Cullop would be held back a while, as the outfielder's leg is not yet in good condition. Clark and DeBerry still stand as the battery to work against the Braves.

The probable line-up:

Robins.		Braves.

HOPE TO PLAY GAME TODAY

But Weather Forecast Is Not Too Promising — The Program Remains Intact.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Baseball's grand opening for the 1929 season yesterday got away in the manner of a man who, rushing out of a room in great haste, catches his coat pocket on a doorknob. Half of it got away, but the other half is still hanging on the door knob.

Along the eastern sector of the two major leagues the inaugural ran for a perfect "four for oh," which is the ball player's expression for no hits in four tries.

Rain washed away the games that had been scheduled at Yankee Stadium, where the Yanks were to have made a

Hermitage Wins as Sande Returns to the Saddle

SANDE WINS EASILY WITH HIS OWN COLT

RACE RUN IN FACE OF GALE

FEAT UNIQUE IN MARYLAND

By BRYAN FIELD.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 16.—Earl Sande returned to the saddle today and won his race here in the teeth of one of the worst gales that has blown off the Chesapeake in years and against four other horses that were not near enough to get spattered by the far-flying mud kicked up by the heels of Sande's mount.

The horse was Hermitage, Sande's own, and the result marked the first time in the history of Maryland racing that one man owned, trained and rode a horse to victory. Heretofore, the Maryland rules prohibited a jockey having any financial interest in his mount, but a recent change enabled Sande to ride.

It probably will be a long time before anybody does the three things again, unless Sande should later, and the spectators had this thought in mind when they rushed to the scales, regardless of wintry wind, lashing rain and frigid temperature, to give the former ace of jockeys an ovation. Only a few thousand made the long trip here from Philadelphia and Baltimore and of this number almost a thousand massed at the judges' stand to cheer Sande.

Triumphs by Four Lengths.

At the finish Hermitage, a maiden until the victory, was four lengths ahead of Domineer, which got the place by a scant margin over Tried and True. New Guinea and Vindication completed the field, which went six furlongs through deep mud.

Hermitage was being eased at the end and doubtless could have won by twice as big a margin if Sande had wanted to drive him. Hermitage was assigned 115 pounds, a weight which Sande can make easily, but Sande elected to dress warmly and took a pound overweight, having confidence in his horse. This son of Friar Rock-Kathryn Harland is eligible for both the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby and will probably go in one or the other, maybe both.

Previous to his start today Hermitage had gone to the post but three times and finished nowhere each time. This was in the colors of John E. Madden, who bred the horse and sold him to Sande. Evidently Sande is as good a trainer as a jockey, for Hermitage was in fine fettle today.

At the break Hermitage and Domineer were away almost as one, but Hermitage soon left Domineer back in the mud and opened up a five-length lead, with Sande holding him so hard his mouth was open. This continued into the stretch, where Sande let out a wrap while the other riders went to the whip. There was nothing to it, however, Hermitage walking in and paying $3.60 for a $2 mutuel ticket. The time was 1:17 4-5.

First Ride Since September.

Sande's ride was the first since he rode that sterling race on Chances Shot behind Reigh Count at Belmont Park last September. Although he was second in this race, the ride Sande put up on Joseph E. Widener's horses was described as one of the best of his long career, and that despite the fact that Sande has piloted most of the great horses in the past ten years to victory.

Sande has lost none of his old skill and if the smile on his face was any criterion he was enjoying being back in the saddle despite the abominable weather conditions.

The Amazon purse, that had the place of honor on the program, was taken by E. R. Morehouse's Banton. Always a contender, Banton took the lead rounding the turn and won by two lengths from Gadalong. Gadalong was three lengths ahead of Eugene S., while Nemore and Sunchen finished in the order named. The mile and seventy yards was run in 1:51.

The mud got so bad late in the afternoon that Starter Jim Milton did not attempt to use the Waite starting gate for races of more than a mile. If the gate became mired on the track it would endanger the field coming around to the finish, and rather than risk this Milton started with the webbing.

Only Four Race in Opener.

Only four went to the post in the curtain-raiser, due to scratches on account of the weather. Such a shivering lot of jockeys and horses has not been seen in a long time and the winner turned up in one of the outsiders, Tom Hill, owned by J. J. Myers, which paid $24.90.

It is probable that the horses tried to keep behind each other for protection and the horse least able to protect itself won the race. In any event the lead changed several times with the front horses appearing to go backward rather than the rear horses coming forward.

Tom Hill finally won by a length and a half from Fixit, which had a length on Frock. Guilford and Jack Adams completed the field.

The second race produced a closer finish when H. E. Moore's Hat Brush won by a head from Sun Sweeper with Amen-Ra third. Fourteen went to the post in this race and they were all over the track at the start and finished more extended than ever.

Sturdy was the early leader, with Hat Brush close aboard. Toward the end of the back stretch run, Hat Brush assumed command with Sun Sweeper moving up to be second. Amen-Ra was running along the rail and the three that were to get in the money plowed on toward the finish spread all the way across the track. It took a keen eye on the part of the judges to separate Hat Brush from Sun Sweeper. Amen-Ra was half a length back.

Chicago Revolver Team Takes U. S. Title; Los Angeles Next

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP).—Sharpshooters from the Hamilton Club, Chicago, won the 1929 United States Revolver Association championship, it was announced today. The Chicago marksmen scored 13,203 points during the twelve weeks of competition. The Anaheim Club of Los Angeles was second with 13,170 points and Lima, Ohio, took third with 13,131.

FITZGERALD NAMED CHICAGO STEWARD

American-National Jockey Club Appoints Him Official for Arlington Park Track.

One-Day Meeting at Bowman Park Is Attracting Patronage—Polydor Will Not Start.

Chris J. Fitzgerald, for many years publicity director for The Jockey Club and before that one of the best known racing officials in this country, has been named a steward by the American National Jockey Club for its meeting at Arlington Park this Summer, it was announced from Chicago yesterday and confirmed here by Fitzgerald. He will act at the meeting with Martin Nathanson and Joseph McLennan.

"I have accepted the post with much pleasure," said Fitzgerald in his office at 250 Park Avenue yesterday. "The American National Jockey Club to my mind is one of the finest organizations that has come into the turf world in a quarter of a century. It has the very highest of ideals and is a great betterment for racing."

Racing men in this city expressed keen pleasure in the appointment of the veteran racing official. He has been a prominent figure in turf circles for more than thirty years. He was at one time president of the Coney Island Jockey Club and for several seasons was the manager of James Butler's Empire City track.

Became Starter in 1893.

His career in racing began at Toronto in 1893 when he became starter for the Toronto Jockey Club. His last appearance in the stand also was there, last year, when he substituted for Frank J. Bryan, who was taken ill. That, however, had been his first appearance in the stand since 1919, when he retired as presiding judge at Havana.

Between 1893 and 1904, when he was elected to the presidency of the Coney Island Jockey Club, Fitzgerald was a starter at New Orleans, Memphis, Sheepshead Bay, Brighton Beach, Gravesend Bay, Empire City and in Canada. From 1904 until 1909 he was head of the Coney Island Jockey Club, which conducted its meetings at Brighton Beach.

When racing was stopped here Fitzgerald retired from the turf and went into business in Canada, but resumed the position of Director of Publicity for The Jockey Club in 1914. He continued in that post until the Spring of 1928, when he resigned to become active in the bloodstock breeding industry, with which he had become identified previously.

Hunts Entries Are Filed.

Despite certain difficulties under which the United Hunts Racing Association's one-day meeting at Bowman Park on Saturday is being staged, entries for the six events, two flat races and four steeplechases, have been coming in regularly and indications are, Secretary Harry Buck announced yesterday, that well-balanced fields will go to the post in every event. The boxes, of which there are only ninety-nine, are being subscribed for in increasing number and already seventy-seven have been allotted.

C. V. B. Cushman, who with Mrs. Cushman and Mr. Cushman's father make up the Eastland Farm Stable, have named several racers for the Hunts meeting and among the lot are some excellent jumpers reported by Trainer Bill Norton to be in excellent shape. Polydor, owned by William Ziegler Jr., and which won the Initial Handicap at the Hunts meeting last year, will not be a starter in that race on Saturday, as his owner had hoped he would be. Polydor was brought here from Maryland last week and the bad weather here has set him back to such an extent that Trainer William Speirs has decided not to start him.

Banton liked the going, moved up very fast on the outside at the far turn, took the lead and drew away to win nicely in hand. Gadalong trailed the field for six furlongs, then came with a rush. Eugene S. was well up all the way and had no excuse. Nemore ran a good race. Sunchen had speed for five furlongs.

DOG TRIALS PUT OFF BY WINDS AND RAIN

Free-for-All Stake Will Be Held at White Plains Today, Weather Permitting.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 16.—Winds, accompanied by a continuous downpour of rain, swept Westchester County today and necessitated a postponement of the field trials of the Southern New York Fish and Game Association. Fortunately, the program was arranged with such a contingency in view, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday having been left open.

The Free-for-All Stake, with a $1,000 guaranteed purse, the leading event of the week, was to have been decided today, but there was absolutely no chance of getting off even a single heat. If conditions permit, this stake will be run tomorrow, 8 A. M. being set for the first brace to go down on the trial grounds, some six miles from this city.

The only sufferers by the delay are the owners and handlers from distant parts of the country, who were anxious to see a finish of the big feature today and get away to other fields. There was nothing to do but sit around the hotel or go to the movies, hoping for better conditions tomorrow.

Ten brace and a bye were drawn for the Free-for-All, with King Devil and Master Rock Rodfield first on the list. Weil and Ray's great pointer Sobig, winner of the Goshen Free-for-All, is the sixth brace, with Swiftsure Prairie Jim.

With thirty minutes allotted to a brace, there will be a minimum of five hours of running, without considering the bye dog, Dr. Longsdorf's pointer Eagle Ferris. Under the rules, a bye dog may be run with a dog in the second series. With as many as three other brace in the second series it should be possible to reach a decision before nightfall.

Judges Thomas P. Baldwin and Joseph Crane Sr. lost no time over the Junior Stake yesterday, and may be depended upon to keep things moving.

According to present arrangements a start will be made on Saturday morning with the cover-dog classes, open to all, but to be judged on the basis of the ideal dog for work in varied Northern covers. There are three events—Open Puppy, Open Junior All-Age and Open All-Age. It may be possible to get the Puppy and Junior Stakes concluded on Saturday, leaving Sunday for the Open All-Age.

A big entry already has been received for all three events, and post entries may be made up to the time of the drawings. It is expected that galleries of up-State shooting enthusiasts will be present both days, as the fields are likely to be largely made up of dogs from that part of the country.

Bugle and Barrier

Special to The New York Times.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 16.—Indications are that My Sis, surprise winner of the Harford Handicap on the opening day, will be pointed for the Pimlico Oaks. Although eligible for the Preakness, My Sis is not expected to be asked to go a mile and three-sixteenths, as she is primarily a sprinter. William F. Scheid has another filly in his barn, also a daughter of Tryster out of Gurgling Water, named Our Sis.

The Aberdeen, the stake for 2-year-olds at this meeting, is expected to have a strong field. Eben Byers, who won last year with Click, will depend on Paddock this year. Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords has entered a filly named Good As Gold, by Golden Broom. Seven have been nominated by the Rancocas Stable, one of them a son of Grey Leg.

Partisan, the 2-year-old that looked so good until he ran out at the top of the stretch in the first race on opening day, is another entered for the Aberdeen. His action recalled another of Jack Joyner's charges of another year, Lady Violeta, which found it hard to run around turns.

More than a hundred riders have been granted licenses, but Frits Weimer is not of the number. Bert Hayward, secretary of the Maryland Racing Commission, said this morning that action on Weimer was held in abeyance pending word from The Jockey Club in New York.

Track Superintendent James Ross was surprised by the way the track and grounds stood the weather. The flower beds in the infield, however, were pretty badly bedraggled after hours of wind and rain.

98 HORSES REMAIN IN ENGLISH DERBY

Survive First Forfeit Stage of Classic to Be Run at Epsom Downs on June 5.

MR. JINKS AN ELIGIBLE

Major McCalmont Also Accepts With Empire Builder—Hunter's Moon Wins Stake.

LONDON, April 16 (Canadian Press).—The first forfeit stage of the Epsom Derby, to be run over the historic mile-and-a-half course on Epsom Downs June 5, was responsible for the disappearance today of 124 entrants, which, with the 110 withdrawals yesterday, leaves a potential field of ninety-eight three-year-olds for the classic. The final acceptances, whittling the field to reasonable proportions, will be made on the Tuesday in the week before the race.

Almost all the fancied candidates stood their ground in the forfeitures. Major McCalmont, owner of Mr. Jinks, which is slightly in front of other outstanding entrants in the betting, has also accepted with Empire Builder. Somerville Tattersall has Briens, second public choice, and Engelberg, who finished second in the Prince of Wales Stakes at Goodwood last year, but has yet to win a race.

Costaki Pasha, the Aga Khan's fine three-year-old which had been more or less a lukewarm favorite through the Winter, is left in, along with five stablemates. King George has taken out Citron and Croesus and now only has Glastonbury entered.

Following are the horses left in the list:

His Majesty's Glastonbury.
M. E. S. Ambatielos's Kersynos.
Lord Astor's Craigadour, Plot and Cavando.
Sir Abe Bailey's Rattlin the Reefer.
W. Barnett's Trigo.
Mrs. Chester Beatty's Great Scot.
Mrs. E. M. Bell's Monnie Luck.
Marcel Boussac's Bara.
James Burns's Kopi.

Arthur James's Pick o' the Circus.

Hunter's Moon, Derby Hope, Wins.

NEWMARKET, England, April 16 (Canadian Press).—The "classic" horses are coming on the stage in the new flat racing season. The Craven meeting opened here today with the famous Craven Stakes, noted Derby trial, the feature race on Thursday and the Free Handicap on the same day also providing a glimpse of the Guineas contenders in action, unless there are some unexpected withdrawals.

The Two Thousand Guineas, for 3-year-old colts and fillies, and the One Thousand Guineas, for 3-year-old fillies only, will be run here on May 1 and 3 respectively, being the first two of the five classics of which the Epsom Derby is outstanding.

Lord Derby's Derby candidate, Hunter's Moon, bay colt by Hurry On—Cyllene, won the spring 3-year-old stakes this afternoon. Another Derby horse, Lord DeWar's Montaigne, was third, while two more Epsom candidates, Vanstadden and Carthaginian, were unplaced. The race was at a mile and a quarter.

The Free Handicap Stakes on Thursday should provide an excellent "Guineas" trial, if such as Kopi, outstriding son of Spion Kop; Ellenvale, a One Thousand entrant, and Gay Day go to the post. The week's racing is expected to provide some foundation for forecasts of the classic races. So far there is no official betting on the Guineas and no unofficial quotations are reported.

The Craven Stakes is over the mile course and the Free Handicap over seven furlongs, whereas both Guineas races are at a mile and the Derby a mile and a half.

Syracuse Eight Shows Power in Drill While Snow Falls

STURDY MEN ROWING IN SYRACUSE SHELL

Only One Is Less Than Six Feet Tall and All Are in Fine Physical Condition.

ROW WHILE SNOW FALLS

This is the fifth article of a series on rowing at the nine colleges in the East which have crews.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 16.—Syracuse heads into its twenty-sixth year under the oldest rowing coach in this country, with a seasoned varsity eight, a good-looking freshman combination and a fair junior varsity. The veteran Jim Ten Eyck, undismayed by a wet, steady snowfall and a blustering, cold wind, sent his navy for a ten-mile spin on the Seneca River late this afternoon, with the three shells joined by a combination boatload of freshmen and varsity substitutes.

The weather conditions were atrocious and the men only went out to get the mileage and come in off the the water as soon as possible. But they were quite an impressive looking lot, so far as size and condition are concerned. The veteran coach has pinned his hopes, so far, on a good many of the men who carried the junior varsity to third place at Poughkeepsie last year.

It is a big boatload, that averages pretty high in weight, and there is little excess weight on any of the men. Ten Eyck's training methods never allow a man to keep overweight. He works them too hard for that. Only one man in the crew stands under six feet in height. They are a tall, rangy-looking lot, with plenty of potential power in evidence.

Freeman Sets the Pace.

Setting the pace from the stroke seat was Bill Freeman, a six-foot-three youngster, who paced the junior varsity at Poughkeepsie in 1928. When he is not rowing, Freeman is a heavyweight wrestler here and he is one of the strongest men in the boat. Last year his juniors led the way in their race at Poughkeepsie until the last mile, when Navy and Cornell came through to force them back into third place.

Harold Deming, another six-footer, is in the No. 7 seat, passing back the beat on the starboard side and filling the same job he handled behind Freeman during the past season. The pair have worked together very well and form a fine combination.

Loizeaux, the varsity stroke of 1928, has been shifted back to the No. 6 seat. He is another big, powerful oarsman. Carl Walters again sits in at No. 5, the same seat he filled in the varsity last year. Then comes the tallest man in the boat, Singer, whose 6 feet 4 inches were in the junior shell last year.

Cockerell, another man from that junior combination, is at No. 3 and then comes O'Connor, the captain, who started in 1928 by stroking the varsity, but who was unable to last the season because of ill health. Wetherell again is the varsity bow and the only man in the shell under 6 feet. He stands only 5 feet 9 and seems small in comparison with his crew-mates.

Not at a Racing Pitch.

The men have been handicapped by bad weather ever since they went out on the water and are not so far along as they might be toward a racing pitch. But they have only two races, both dual engagements, before Poughkeepsie, and neither of these is until the middle of May, so there is still time left if warm weather ever does come to the Eastern rowing camps.

Syracuse crews are always hardy and this year's eight promises to be one of the most powerful turned out in years. Whether it will be a fast crew remains to be seen. At present the combination looks more like a four-mile eight than any in recent years.

The freshmen are a very promising looking lot and another huge boatload like the varsity. They all are more than 6 feet in height with the exception of one and he is 5 feet 11 inches. Rowing followers here have been impressed with the yearling crew and there are high hopes for it. The coach has spent quite a little time with the freshmen this season and they are as strong looking as the varsity, though not so polished.

The juniors are a length or so behind the varsity. Tonight the varsity led them back to the float by a couple of lengths after a brush on the return trip from Long Branch. But they were not badly outclassed and are good enough to be a useful training foil for the first boatload.

On the whole, Syracuse rowing prospects appear better this season than they have during the past three years.

Today's boatings:

Juniors—Bow, Murras; No. 2, Holder; No. 3, Cole; No. 4, Compson; No. 5, Laidlaw; No. 6, Chester; No. 7, Thomas; stroke, Herrick; coxswain, Weber.

RAIN HALTS COLLEGE NINES

Columbia-Fordham Game Postponed as Are Many School Contests.

Yesterday's rainy weather necessitated the postponement of the Columbia-Fordham game, as well as causing several high school nines to set back scheduled contests. Yale was prevented from playing the New Haven Eastern League team. At Boston the contest listed between Dartmouth and Boston College was rained out.

Columbia will endeavor to play this afternoon, when it is scheduled to meet the Seton Hall nine at Baker Field. Columbia will clash with Fordham next Tuesday at Fordham Field in the Maroon's second game on its home grounds. Fordham will play Princeton at Princeton tomorrow and will meet Boston College on the latter's diamond on Friday. The next day the Maroon will oppose Yale at New Haven.

The following school games were postponed from yesterday:

Bryant at Flushing, Long Beach at Lynbrook, Patchogue at Freeport, Woodmere High at Woodmere Academy, Manhasset at Mineola, Bushwick at St. Francis Prep, Far Rockaway at Richmond Hill and Loughlin at Brooklyn Tech. The track meet between the La Salle Military Academy and the Manhattan College freshmen also was set back.

Thrasher Replaces Vorhringer As the Penn Varsity Stroke

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 16.—Clark Thrasher of Coldwater, N. Y., and formerly of Seattle, who stroked the Pennsylvania freshmen last year, today was moved back to stroke in the varsity eight, replacing Walter, Vorhringer of Maplewood, N. J. Vorhringer, after stroking the first varsity for almost a week, went to stroke in the junior varsity. From present indications Thrasher will stroke the Red and Blue first eight when it meets Columbia and Yale at Derby, Conn., on May 4.

Captain Charles Krampf was promoted from No. 6 in the junior varsity to No. 4 in the varsity in place of Bill Taeffner. John (Swede) Olsen of Brooklyn also moved up from No. 5 in the second eight to No. 3 in the varsity in place of Adrian Teaf, regular bow last season.

M. I. T. AND MIDDIES HOLD SHORT DRILLS

Rough Water Limits Crews to Sprints on Sheltered Water at Annapolis.

GLENDON PLANS TEST TODAY

Will Race Two Big Eights to Decide Varsity and Junior Varsity Starters Against Tech.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 16.—With the Massachusetts Tech and Naval Academy crews, which open the rowing season here Saturday, anxious to get as much work in the water as possible, bad weather continued this afternoon and interfered with the practice.

This morning the Tech crews did not get on the water, but worked on the machines in the gym, while this afternoon Coaches Glendon and Haines put their crews through a short session in sheltered waters of College Creek. The wind abated slightly in the late afternoon, but the rain and cold did not diminish.

The crews confined their work this afternoon to short sprints in the calm water they could find.

Coach Glendon was not able to test his crews against each other, but if conditions are good tomorrow he will hold an elimination race to determine which of his big crews will start in the varsity event, the other contesting in the junior varsity.

The crew which appears a slight favorite is boated as follows: Bow, Giese (captain); No. 2, Greathouse; No. 3, Jung; No. 4, Russell; No. 5, Gray; No. 6, Kiehlbaugh; No. 7, Anderson; stroke, McClure; coxswain, Burroughs.

The other varsity crew is arranged as follows: Bow, Butts; No. 2, Hunter; No. 3, Lincoln; No. 4, Crinkley; No. 5, Schoeni; No. 6, Sharp; No. 7, Steffanides; stroke, Strong; coxswain, Rivero. The latter crew is slightly lighter than the other, but has a heavier stroke in Strong.

WISCONSIN NINE WINS, 5-1.

Bunches Hits to Defeat Missouri in First Game of Series.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, Mo., April 16.—Outhit, 6 to 4, the University of Wisconsin nine bunched its safeties with Missouri errors to win the opening contest of a two-game series, 5-1, here today.

CHICAGO SIX BUYS ABEL OF RANGERS

Black Hawks Get Defense Man From New York—Maroons Purchase Neville and Arbor.

PLAY-OFF SUMS ANNOUNCED

Rangers Collect $16,965 for Six Games and Boston, With One Less, Draws $16,600.

DETROIT, April 16 (AP).—Two deals involving three players were announced today as consummated at the meeting here of the Board of Governors of the National Hockey League. The Chicago Black Hawks announced the purchase of Taffy Abel, defense man of the New York Rangers. Mike Neville, centre, and Jack Arbor, defense man of the Windsor Bulldogs, will open the season next year with the Montreal Maroons.

The outright purchase of Abel by the Black Hawks is expected to end negotiations between the Hawks and Maroons for a trade that would have sent Cyclone Wentworth to Montreal for Seibert and Red Dutton and a cash consideration.

President Frank Calder was authorized to offer the Pacific Coast League affiliation with the National League under the same agreement as the American Association, Canadian League and Canadian-American League.

Calder announced each club's share in the play-offs as follows:

Boston, five games	$16,600.83
Rangers, six games	$16,965.87
Toronto, four games	$8,062.98
Canadiens, three games	$6,460.52
Americans, two games	$5,451.13
Detroit, two games	$3,209.65

The date for the annual meeting was fixed for May 11 and will be held in Toronto. The rules committee will meet during the Summer to consider proposed changes in the playing code.

MORGAN BOWLERS GAIN TIE.

Draw Even With Doherty Team as Wall Street League Season Ends.

Sweeping its series while the H. L. Doherty & Co. team, pace-setter almost all season, was losing two out of three games, the J. P. Morgan & Co. quintet tied the Doherty team for the championship of the Wall Street Bowling League as the regular league season ended last night at Dwyer's Broadway alleys. The Morgan team took three straight games from the sixth-place Iselin & Co. combination, while the Doherty team, counted an almost sure victor, was upset by the twentieth-place Campbell, Starring & Co. team. The two teams each finished with 74 games won, against only 7 lost.

As the result of the deadlock, the two teams arranged for a roll-off for the title to be held tomorrow night at the Broadway alleys, starting at 8:30. The series will be determined on total pins.

DWIGHT SWIMMERS WIN.

Defeat Brooklyn Academy Team, 27 to 19, in Dual Meet.

The Dwight Prep School swimming team defeated Brooklyn Academy, 27 to 19, in a dual meet yesterday afternoon in the pool of the Twenty-third Street Y. M. C. A.

The summaries:

FRESHMAN IN ALBANY RACE.

Carpenter of Princeton Preparing San San for Outboard Run.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 16.—Frank Carpenter, Princeton freshman, of New Rochelle, N. Y., has been tuning up his outboard motor boat San San on the Raritan Canal here for the past two weeks in preparation for the Albany to New York race next Saturday. Carpenter's boat is 11 feet long and is powered with a Class C motor.

The Princeton yearling has won numerous races, including some on Twin Lakes, Conn. Carpenter is also a licensed aviator, owning his own plane, which he has been flying for a year and a half.

HALL WINS 2 MORE BLOCKS

Defeats Cochran, 50-48 and 50-44, in 3-Cushion Match.

Allen Hall ran his total of block victories over Welker Cochran to four straight when he defeated the former 18.2 balkline billiard champion in both blocks of their special three-cushion exhibition at Dwyer's Broadway Academy yesterday. Hall leads on points by 200 to 184.

In the afternoon Hall won by 50 to 48, in fifty-three innings. He made a high run of 7 to one of 6 for Cochran. The score at night was Hall 50, Cochran 44, in fifty-six innings. Each player had a high run of 5.

Students Control Amherst Sports; 88 Per Cent Compete in Athletics

Faculty Committee Never Has Vetoed Any Act of the Student Governing Body, Which Arranges All Schedules and Conducts Games—Unusual Grading Plan Eliminates Interclass Tests.

By GROVER THEIS.

Special to The New York Times.

AMHERST, Mass., April 16.—The maximum control by the undergraduates is the keynote of athletics at Amherst. The principle here is not only one of student participation but of student operation and, according to Professor Paul C. Phillips, secretary of the faculty committee on student activities and head of the department of hygiene and physical education, the policy has met with signal success.

A dismal rainy day sent the baseball and track men into the baseball cage for their practices. The weather here, as almost everywhere else, has retarded the Spring workouts, although its inroads have been less at Amherst because its equipment includes the cage.

The weather, however, did not prevent Dr. Phillips, who, incidentally, is retiring in June after thirty-three years of service, from explaining Amherst's theories and practices in sports, which recently have come into the limelight in connection with discussions in the college paper advocating the abolition of intercollegiate competition in favor of an exclusively intramural program, and various reports that have gone abroad as the result of a meeting of student representatives held at Amherst with the other two members of the Little Three—Wesleyan and Williams.

Considering the Future.

There is no indication that intercollegiate competition will be dropped by Amherst, and the interpretation to be placed upon the agitation, if indeed it can be called agitation, is that the self-governing athletes here are giving a lot of healthy thought to the rôle that sport shall play in their college days.

As far as the Little Three meeting is concerned, there was nothing more than discussion, and no decisions were made. Besides the status of intercollegiate and intramural athletics, the Amherst, Williams and Wesleyan representatives took up the question of playing the games on the field without the counsel of a coach on the side lines with the teams entirely on their own resources. No action, however, was taken or recommended.

Amherst's system of athletics by, for and of the students is absolute, according to Dr. Phillips, and all the faculty does is keep a watchful eye against major mistakes in administration and enforce its scholastic requirements. Since the self-government plan was introduced the faculty has never vetoed any move that the Student Council made. The men make up their own schedules, the only restriction being that its baseball program is limited to sixteen games and intersectional competition is barred. At the request of the students, the faculty committee handles the bookkeeping, although the men conduct the individual events and make out the budgets. Not only do they administer their affairs themselves, but they participate pretty well through the ranks, 88 per cent of the enrolment of about 700 taking part in one or another form of athletic endeavor.

No Interclass Matches.

Perhaps 3 per cent compete in varsity sports, while the rest come into the intramural fold, which is on a fraternity basis, with an added unit of non-fraternity men. There are no interclass games, which throws an interesting sidelight on a feature of classification here.

The men are not graded on a class ranking, but on ability. The highest class is C, followed by B and A. Whoever is rated C is eligible for intercollegiate competition, the freshmen, of course, being confined to games with other freshmen.

How far the intramural program has gone here can be seen from the fact that sometimes it interferes with the varsity teams. For instance, it has been found that a second or third string pitcher has been so keyed up over helping his fraternity win that he was not on hand at critical moments when varsity and intramural dates conflicted.

Another evidence of intramural interest is that during the Winter months the basketball teams, although four courts were available, often played well after midnight to work off their schedule.

When a move was contemplated to make a sport that he can pursue in after years compulsory for the senior, it was decided that this was not necessary in view of the high percentage who compete voluntarily. The few delinquents were easy to approach directly.

How Men Are Conditioned.

One aspect of the aims of Amherst training is rather unusual; at least, the amount of stress placed upon it. That is the process of "weathering" the men, by which is meant restoring the skin to its primary functions. For example, in the Fall the athletes are kept out of doors as long as possible in their trunks and light running shirts so as to harden them gradually. This is carried on during the Winter, when, incidentally, strenuous efforts are made to establish the customary Winter sports on ice and in the snow.

Ice hockey has not been very successful, owing to the fickleness of the weather, which makes any schedule extremely uncertain. However, the game is maintained as far as possible, and skiing and similar sports are encouraged. An outdoor club has been organized, which is mainly a hiking organization.

The immediate Spring sport prospects seem to be extremely bright. Coach Albert Lumley has the largest track squad in many years, with seventy men reporting for the first outdoor work recently. Grant, Neale, Morris, Ross, Keith and Mahler are all counted upon to be point scorers in the scheduled meets, and predictions are even made that college records are sure to fall.

The baseball team has mostly veterans, and two good batteries in Nichols and Trenchard, and Pratt and Campbell.

Changes in Coaching Staff.

Since the resignation of Dad White as football coach, several adjustments have had to be made. U. G. Stalling of Oberlin, will have charge of baseball, will serve as line coach in football and will help in basketball.

Al Wheeler will be football coach and he also will help in basketball.

Amherst is exceptionally fortunate in its equipment in that it all is contiguous, including the cage and gym. As planned now, the proposed new gymnasium also will be directly accessible to the various fields and tennis courts.

About fifty-seven acres comprise the play space area, and although not all developed, its series of spaces presents an attractive view even through the screen of a rain.

Surveying the advance of athletics at Amherst from the eminence of his thirty-three years' service, Dr. Phillips, an ardent adherent of intramural sports, as is his assistant, A. W. Marsh, envisioned the time when the intramural contests would culminate in a few climax games instead of the present intercollegiate system.

Just about to retire, Dr. Phillips said: "In twenty years it is not unlikely that in this country we will develop as they have developed in England, where there is plenty of sport at the colleges, but arch rivals, like Oxford and Cambridge, for instance, meet only a few times a year."

This is the eleventh of a series of articles on Spring athletic activities at some of the Eastern colleges.

MATSUYAMA CAPTURES BLOCK FROM HOPPE

Scores First Victory in Afternoon, 300-277, but Loses at Night, 300-297, at 18.1 Balkline.

Kinrey Matsuyama scored his first block victory in his 12-block 18.1 balkline billiard exhibition with Willie Hoppe at the Strand Billiard Academy by winning yesterday afternoon. He also threatened at night, but was forced to accept defeat by 3 points, Hoppe still leads his opponent three blocks to one, and by 1,177 points to 756. On Monday a record high run of 296 was made by Hoppe. It was unfinished, but he did not get to continue it yesterday, as each block is a unit in this match.

The score for the afternoon block was Matsuyama 300, Hoppe 277, in seventeen innings. Matsuyama made a strong start, aided by a run of 85. Hoppe made a persistent effort to overtake his rival, and managed to tie the count at 218 in the tenth inning with his high run of 121.

At night Hoppe won by 300 to 297 in fourteen innings, despite a high run of 124 turned in by Matsuyama. Hoppe's best effort for this session was 86, with which he started play. He stayed ahead for the greater part and was 15 points of game when Matsuyama ran his 124, which brought his total up 293. Hoppe missed on his turn at the table, and Matsuyama came back with 4. His failure enabled Hoppe to group the balls for his needed cluster of 15.

DAVIS LEADS IN CUE PLAY.

Has 12,000 to Newman's 11,556 in English Pro Title Match.

LONDON, April 16 (Canadian Press).—At the close of today's play in the match for the English professional billiards championship, Thomas Newman was at the table and had amassed 11,556 points, while Joseph Davis, defending champion, had 12,000. Newman, however, maintained excellent form throughout. He averaged 240 in the afternoon and 187 in the evening. Davis's averages were 129 in the afternoon and 108 in the evening.

There were two sensational breaks today. In the afternoon Davis made 838 and in the evening Newman made 647, of which 77 were cannons. The match began a week ago yesterday and is for 18,000 points.

Maurer Wins Amateur Cue Play.

The weekly 18.2 balkline billiard tournament of the Amateur Billiard Club was won by C. M. Maurer last night. C. P. Paine was runner-up.

WINGATE FUND TOTAL INCREASES TO $41,584

An Aggregate of $12,892.72 Added by Latest Contributions From Schools.

Contributions received for the General George W. Wingate Memorial Fund, organized to honor the founder of the Public Schools Athletic League, now total $41,584.45, representing an increase of $12,892.72 by recent donations.

It was due mainly to General Wingate's public spirit and enterprise that the P. S. A. L. rose from a small beginning to a powerful unit in schoolboy athletics.

The latest contributions received follow:

Districts 35-40, Brooklyn, J. J. Reynolds, superintendent, $2,510.45.

Supplementary contributions from districts 40-50, 47-48, 45-46, Queens; 35-40, 28-59, 31-53, 41-42, Brooklyn, and 23-24, Bronx, $84.72.
Previously acknowledged—$28,691.73. Total to date—$41,584.45.

SOHL GAINS FINAL ROUND.

Beats McGill, 125-107, in Poggenburg Play—Latter Also Advances.

Henry Sohl gained his way to the final round of the Poggenburg memorial cup 18.2 balkline billiard tournament by defeating Eddie McGill in the last match of the semi-final round at Lawler's Brooklyn Academy last night. The score was 125 to 107 in twenty-eight innings. Sohl had a high run of 22 and McGill one of 28. Despite his defeat, McGill also qualified for the final round, as he is tied with Sohl with three victories and two defeats.

Three tournament matches were played at Lawler's Manhattan Academy. Nelson Mayo defeated M. Wallins, 125 to 62, in twenty-six innings; H. Bergman triumphed over C. Sloan, 125 to 99, in thirty-two innings, and J. Ward beat W. Reynolds, 125 to 94, in thirty-six innings.

American Six Beats Canadiens.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 16 (AP).—In an exhibition hockey game here last night between the New York Americans and the Montreal Canadiens the former won, 5 to 2.

M'CULLOUGH WINS PINEHURST SHOOT

Scores 97 in Second Round to Total 195 in 200-Bird Test of North-South Tourney.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 16.—Continuing today the excellent marksmanship that gave him the lead yesterday in the first round of the opening 16-yard shoot in the eleventh annual United North and South target tournament, D. H. McCullough of Charlotte, N. C., broke 97 targets in the second round to win the event. He had a score of 98 yesterday, and his aggregate was 195.

The trapshoot was divided into three classes, and McCullough, besides winning the tournament, won the Class A trophy.

The next best performance in the event was that of C. E. Bonner of New York, a Class B entrant, who broke 189 targets to win the runner-up honor. He scored 92 yesterday and 97 today.

C. A. Chandler of Atlanta won the Class C trophy with 180. He had 89 and 91 respectively.

Chandler also won the North and South handicap event, breaking 93 targets to lead A. C. Van Etten of Binghamton, N. Y., who scored 91.

The doubles event went to J. F. Bonner of New York, who with 89 finished seven targets ahead of W. F. Hall of Concord, N. C.; W. B. Arie of Salisbury, N. C., and Charles Newcomb of Philadelphia, each of whom scored 82.

Why do good styles die?

They die of too much popularity. For when distinction is overwhelmed by numbers, it ceases to be distinctive.

Competent tailors must pick their styles in the bud that well-dressed customers may wear them in due season.

great, swift, safe and modern Sixes!

THESE are the magnificent, modern motor trucks you've been seeing—the trucks that have swiftly revolutionized every existing standard of truck performance and style.

Diamond T, builder of quality motor trucks for nearly a quarter of a century, has stepped into unquestioned leadership of the industry through sheer brilliance of engineering.

Into a field where the lumbering 4-cylinder Juggernaut had traditionally reigned supreme, Diamond T boldly pioneered—with trucks of smart and low-swung grace, with smooth 6-cylinder 7-bearing power plants, developing peak power at relatively low crankshaft speeds—with safe Lockheed hydraulic all-weather 4-wheel brakes. Modern motor trucks—designed for modern traffic and modern competition in haulage costs.

The results? 59 per cent more Diamond T's were demanded in 1928—and 67 per cent more so far in 1929! Diamond T service, by the way, matches the trucks—which is saying a good deal. Get the facts.

BRITISH WELCOME U. S. PRO GOLFERS

Hagen and His Ryder Cup Men Receive Hearty Greeting on Leaving the Ship.

EXPECT A CLOSE MATCH

Captain Says English Have Even Chance of Winning—Duncan and Compston Meet Train.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—There was only one lament among the happy party of American pro golfers who arrived in London today under the leadership of Walter Hagen to defend the Ryder Cup against George Duncan's team of Englishmen. It came from young Horton Smith, the 6-foot baby of Hagen's team. He said he wished he could have brought his "lucky" caddie with him—young Robert Cox, whom he met first in the tournament at Sacramento.

"He has been my mascot," said Smith, "and I'm afraid that without him my luck will break. You know how you feel about things like that, but we'll see."

Hagen told Duncan and the other members of the British team who gave the Americans a hearty welcome at the station that they were "prepared for a fight."

Says English Are Strong.

"We'll get it, too," he said. "I know all your fellows and they're a great team. Yes, sir, it will be an even break."

Hagen later said he wanted all his ten men to play in the cup match at Leeds on April 26, and suggested that the two who start in foursomes drop out of the singles. "We have no alternates," he said. "It is a long trip and all my boys are anxious to play in an international match."

The Americans are still described as the best dressed team of golfers in the world. Hagen said that the men will wear those blue blazers and gray flannel trousers which aroused so much interest here only when the team is together, but not during the Ryder Cup match.

A sartorial battle seems likely to develop between the rival Ryder Cup teams before the big match. Duncan decreed tonight that the Englishmen shall wear distinctive colored shirts, on which the British and American flags will be interwoven. They also will wear blue ties with representations of golf balls imposed in white.

Get a Royal Welcome.

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—In one respect at least, visiting golf professionals from the United States received a royal welcome when they reached London today to tune up for the Ryder Cup matches to be played near Leeds April 26-27, the profusion of banners and bunting decorating Paddington station usually having been reserved for royalty.

Officials of the British P. G. A. and members of the British Ryder team present to cry a formal "Hello" were joined by hundreds of plain golfers, and Captain Walter Hagen and his fellow-stars of a thousand fairways had to be rescued from their friends as they left their railway compartments.

Captain George Duncan and Archie Compston, two of the British players counted on to score points for the home team, rushed up to Hagen with enthusiastic greetings, giving the camera men added action for their films.

Invitations to numerous luncheons and dinners awaited the players from overseas, but few, if any, will be accepted, as the visitors plan to take their clubs in hand at the earliest opportunity for practice in preparation for the international matches, only ten days away.

Representatives of famous London golf courses were on hand to tender their layouts for practice.

To Go to Leeds Soon.

Captain Hagen soon will lead his men to the Moortown course, near Leeds, for practice on the actual battlefield. Few of the ten members of the United States team have played over the course, where many pitfalls lurk for the unwary.

All the Americans finished the voyage in good shape, and Hagen said they were "fit" for the golf struggle to come. The players include Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell, Leo Diegel, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Ed Dudley, Joe Turnesa, Al Watrous, John Golden and Al Espinosa.

Hagen said all the members would participate in the British open championship at Muirfield. He added he intended to try to fix a series of matches with Archie Compston before returning to the United States.

Miss Marion Hollins and Miss Marion Turpie, who will compete in the British women's championship at St. Andrews, arrived on the same boat, the Mauretania.

SALO WINS 63-MILE RUN.

RICHMOND, Ind., April 16 (AP).—John Salo of Passaic, N. J., led the field into Richmond today in the seventeenth lap of C. C. Pyle's cross-country race, covering the sixty-three miles from Springfield, Ohio, in 8:47:10. His elapsed time is 119:02:27.

Pete Gavuzzi of England retained his lead in elapsed time when he finished second in 9:37:50. His total time is 113:39:12.

Ed Gardner of Seattle, holding second place in time standing, finished third today in 9:56:10.

The first five runners in elapsed time:

1. Pete Gavuzzi, England	113:02:12
2. Ed. Gardner, Seattle	114:51:02
3. John Salo, Passaic, N. J.	119:02:27
4. Giusto Umek, Italy	124:30:51
5. Sam Richman, New York	127:04:45

MARATHON FIELD NOW 190.

BOSTON, April 16 (AP).—Today's Boston marathon entries, which totaled thirty-two, including the fourteen-man Dorchester Club team of Boston, increased the field to 190 runners. Officials said that the number would exceed 200 before the start of the race next Friday noon.

Among those who entered today were John MacDonald of Halifax, N. S.; Mike Lynch and W. H. Carter Jr. of Washington, J. E. Vaughn of Detroit and Wesley O. Bell of Worcester.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

IT is betraying no secret to state that it rained yesterday. The baseball authorities are foolish to stand around and do nothing when their formal openings are put to rout by the whims of the Weather Man. At a recent scientific dinner one of the interesting exhibits was "bottled sunshine," a manufactured product. There's a fortune in it if the manufacturer can turn it out in sufficient quantity to cover a ball park and vicinity on the scheduled opening day.

If that can't be done, the attention of Judge Landis is respectfully drawn to a tale told at the Dutch Treat Club yesterday by Carveth Wells, author, explorer and lecturer. In preparing for his trip to the Mountains of the Moon on the equatorial belt in Africa, he discovered that it was absolutely necessary to have in the expedition a "sun compeller," a native magician who could make good weather out of bad.

It was necessary to have this esteemed performer because as soon as the sun went behind the clouds, the native burden-bearers sat down in their tracks and refused to move until the sun came out again. The apparatus for bringing back the sun seemed absurdly simply. It was a tube of wood which the magician put to his lips and through which he kept blowing one particular note.

It never failed to bring back the sun. But it had one weakness. Sometimes it took three or four days to accomplish the magic feat. But with every tube there goes the guarantee that if blown long enough, the sun will return.

A Suggested Purchase.

Every big league owner should buy one of those magic tubes. If Colonel Jacob Ruppert had started tooting one of these instruments on Sunday, probably the scheduled opening would have been bathed in sunlight. Instead of that, the rain was allowed to have its own way unmolested, and the only occupants of the park were the groundkeepers and three seagulls that seemed delighted over the discovery of a new lake.

When last seen, Carveth Wells had one of those magic tubes in his pocket. In fact, he blew through it, and thus the listeners learned that the "sun-compelling" note resembles the bleat of an ancient and asthmatic goat. The probable explanation of its magic qualities is that after hearing that note repeated for any length of time, the rain gets discouraged and moves out of the vicinity.

Perhaps that particular instrument works only in the African clime. A more annoying note, if possible, might be needed in this area. Perhaps bagpipes would fill the bill.

Something should be done, anyway. The Yankee officials gave in to the rain too easily. The least that Messrs. Ruppert, Huggins and Ruth could have done was to have gathered on the soggy greensward chanting:

"Rain, rain go away,
"Come again when the Giants play."

The Yankee Handicap.

The truth is that the postponement of the formal opening may have hurt the Yankee chances for a pennant. It is urged that one reason why the Hugmen may slip a bit this year is that Babe Ruth is growing older. It can be demonstrated scientifically that he is a day older today than he was yesterday. Thus the Yankees have been weakened by the postponement.

After perusing some of the mournful stories of the decline of the great Bambino, the only conclusion is that he will be playing the outfield with white whiskers in July and will be carted up to the plate in a wheelchair in September.

It's just possible that he will last out the season, however. They were all set to bury G. H. Ruth on several previous occasions, but the funeral had to be postponed. Just when they had him counted out and were thinking up nice things to carve on his athletic headstone, the proposed corpse broke out in a rash of home runs that set a new record in the annals of baseball.

He may be a candidate for the baseball cemetery, but he looked very much alive when he stepped up to the plate at Ebbets Field, and, on his first trip of the year to the plate in a major league park, hit the ball far over the right field wall for a rousing home run.

The Magic Eye.

It is said that the Babe is falling off in his fielding. He could fall off about seventeen stories and still be a better outfielder than many regulars under the big tent. His long-distance clouting somewhat obscured his worth as a defensive factor, but any veteran player will tell you that Ruth belongs among the great outfielders of baseball history.

His hitting is what brought him fame and fortune, however, and no one has noted any signs of failing in his eyesight. It's true that he didn't hit many home runs in the training campaign, but that isn't important. There were other training campaigns like that, and he came through with a full crop of homers in the regular season.

His batting sights were as keen as ever last season. His average wasn't up to his usual mark, but that was because he was swinging for his homers instead of for his batting average. For the greater part of the season the Yanks had such a long lead that the Babe could take a chance on a homer or a strike-out without damaging the team's chances for ultimate victory.

The batting eye is usually the last thing that fails a veteran player, and as long as the Babe has his magic eye, the whole pitching tribe will shiver as he ambles up to the plate.

Proof Positive.

Ruth's record proves that he has a great pair of eyes. He has given other demonstrations of that fact, too. He can stand on a curb and read automobile licenses at a distance that makes them just a blur of supposed numbers to other players. On duck-hunting expeditions he can pick out incoming ducks long before anybody else in the party can spot them.

He can look at a baseball contract and see not only the salary figures thereon, but the salary figures that will be thereon before he affixes his signature. He's remarkably clear-sighted that way, as Colonel Ruppert ruefully admits. He can look at a crowd in a ball park and tell at a glance just what the Yankee share of receipts will be.

But perhaps all this is like whistling to keep up courage. The Babe is getting along, and he may be easing off a little bit. It comes hard to admit it, but it won't be really harmful to the Yankees until Ruth admits it himself. When that happens, he will have lost what Jesse Burkett used to call "the old confeedience" and even with his famous orbs, the Babe must have "the old confeedience" to keep his place in the sun.

MISS WILLS SAILS FOR EUROPE TONIGHT

Will Arrive Today to Embark With Mother on Aquitania for Tennis Invasion.

4 COUNTRIES ON ITINERARY

Will Defend French and Wimbledon Titles and Play Also in Holland and Germany.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Miss Helen Wills, national women's tennis champion, will arrive in New York from California this morning and will leave at midnight on board the Cunard liner Aquitania, bound for whatever honors await her in England, Holland, France and Germany.

While so far as the United States Lawn Tennis Association is concerned, Miss Wills is going over to play tennis, the public has an idea that the immediate future has something more important in store for the Berkeley girl than additional tennis titles, most of which she already holds. The report has been circulated from both England and California that Miss Wills is to be presented at the Court of St. James's.

Until the American Embassy in London divulges the names on the presentation list as approved at Buckingham Palace, the report officially remains that and nothing more, but certain developments lend substantiation to the belief that one of the greatest honors of Miss Wills's career lies directly ahead of her.

Tennis Dates Changed.

Most significant of all is the fact that the dates for the opening matches of Miss Wills's tour as the representative of the U. S. L. T. A. have been changed. Originally, she was to have played in a team match against Holland at The Hague on May 10, 11 and 12.

Last week those dates were changed to the 11th, 12th and 13th, and it was not at the request of the Dutch Tennis Association. It is on the 9th that Miss Wills is expected to be presented at Buckingham Palace, and the twenty-four-hour postponement of the matches at the Hague will make it possible for her to appear at the British court.

In the event that the California girl is received by King George and Queen Mary, before both of whom she has played at Wimbledon, it will mark the first time that a foreign tennis star will have been so honored. Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen of France was to have been presented in 1926, but almost at the last moment her plans were canceled. It was stated at the time that her failure to appear for a match at Wimbledon that year as scheduled, while the Queen waited for an hour in the royal box, was responsible for the cancellation.

Has Passport No. 1.

Miss Wills has already been honored by the State Department at Washington in the issuing to her by Secretary of State Stimson of Passport No. 1 under the Hoover administration. Passport No. 2 was made out in the favor of her mother, Mrs. Clarence A. Wills, while No. 3 went to Miss Edith Cross of California, who is to tour the courts of Europe with her.

Mrs. Wills and Miss Cross will arrive with the champion this morning, and the former will sail with her. Miss Cross and Miss Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., who also is on the touring team, will sail next week on the Berengaria.

Following their first match at The Hague, Miss Wills, Miss Cross and Miss Morrill will next go to Paris for a team match against France May 17, 18 and 19. Beginning May 20, they will take part in the French championships, with Miss Wills as the defending titleholder, and on June 7, 8 and 9 they will play a third team match against Germany at Berlin. Their tour will wind up with their participation in the Wimbledon championships, in which Miss Wills also will be the defending titleholder, and they are booked to sail for home on the Mauretania July 13.

Wedding Plans Await Return.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Miss Helen Wills, on her way to New York to sail for Europe, was in Chicago for an hour today, the most of which she spent posing for newspaper photographers and answering reporters' questions about herself.

Miss Wills, whose engagement to Frederick S. Moody Jr. of San Francisco, was announced recently, said: "We haven't decided on the date of the wedding. No, I really can't make any prediction about it now, but I may have some news when I get back home."

A thick portfolio with drawings in her luggage led to the admission by Miss Wills that she would rather be a noted artist than a famous tennis star.

CUNEO THROWS VOGEL.

Former Columbia Wrestler Makes Auspicious Debut in Pro Circles.

Ernest Cuneo, former Columbia wrestler, made an auspicious entry into the professional ranks last night when he threw Carl Vogel with a flying mare in 9 minutes and 42 seconds. Each weighed 220 pounds.

The bout was held at the Ridgewood Grove Sporting Club, Brooklyn, and was a preliminary to the feature, in which Jack Washburn of California, 220 pounds, threw Mika Romano, 202, of Elmhurst, in 29 minutes with a crotch and body hold.

HUNTER WINS BY 6-0, 6-0.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 16.—Francis T. Hunter defeated Armand L. Bruneau of New York, 6—0, 6—0, in a first-round match of the ninth annual Mason and Dixon tennis championship here today.

Snow and rain delayed play in the tournament, which was to start Monday, but three matches were played late today. J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., eliminated H. N. Huffman, 6—0, 6—0, while G. Carlton Shafter, York, defeated R. H. McKee, Cincinnati, 6—3, 7—5.

MISS COLLETT'S PLAY PREVENTED BY RAIN

Champion, Von Elm and Armour Unable to Hold Final Practice Before Sailing Tonight.

Four of the country's leading golfers are sailing tonight to take part in British championships. Miss Glenna Collett, women's national champion; George Von Elm, 1926 amateur titleholder; Tom Armour, open champion in 1927, and Bill Mehlhorn, former Ryder Cup player, comprise the quartet that is leaving on the Aquitania at midnight.

Miss Collett, as well as Von Elm and Armour, had planned practice rounds yesterday, but the rain ruined their chances of playing a final time on this country's links. Mehlhorn intends to play in New Jersey this morning with Craig Wood over the Forest Hills Club course, but the others have decided to do all further practicing abroad.

For Miss Collett, who will be the outstanding player from the United States in the women's event at St. Andrews, this will be the fourth time she has sailed to play in a British championship. Both times she has played she has met defeat, while on the other occasion the intervening labor strike made it impossible for her to reach the scene of the championship.

Will Limit Play Abroad.

H. H. Ramsay, vice president of the U. S. G. A., yesterday cabled Miss Collett's entry to England and she will limit her trip to playing for the British title, starting the return voyage from England on June 1. Upon her arrival in this country in June Miss Collett intends to go to California, where she will take up residence, and it is unlikely that she will participate in any of the tournaments in the East for some time.

Mrs. Ada Collett, her mother, will accompany the champion abroad.

Von Elm has entered for both the British open and amateur and, unless the dates of the British election force a postponement of the amateur event from May 27, he is considered a real threat for the title that has been won by only one native born United States player, Jess Sweetser. In case the dates of the tourney are shifted to a later time Von Elm will not remain for the championship, so that he may return to America for the national open in the latter part of June.

Armour Not to Tour Continent.

Besides Von Elm, the Tam o' Shanter Club of Detroit will also be represented in the British open by Armour. Armour, however, will not take part in the Continent tour which the Ryder Cup team and other professionals plan, following the championship at Muirfield. He intends to return to this country immediately after the championships.

Mehlhorn expected to leave last week, but a shoulder ailment has been troubling him and he decided to continue having it treated and then sail today. He, like Armour, does not intend to make the extensive tour of foreign courses.

With the departure of the golfers today, one of the greatest U. S. invasions will take place for the British open title, inasmuch as the Ryder Cup team preceded the group last week and Macdonald Smith, Jim Barnes and Bobby Cruickshank are also at Muirfield to take part in the championship.

Roland Hancock of Lynchburg, Va., who lost a chance to win the open at Olympia Fields last Summer on the last two holes, has filed his entry for the coming championship at Winged Foot. The only others who have sent in their entries thus far are those who have gone to Muirfield.

HIGGINS IN FOURSOME WINNING AT PINEHURST

Keating, O'Brien and Statzell Also on Team Placing First With 292 in Tin Whistle Golf.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 16.—A. S. Higgins of Yonkers, N. Y.; E. C. Keating of Montclair, N. J.; F. B. O'Brien of Detroit and G. W. Statzell of Philadelphia comprised the winning foursome in a team competition held by the Tin Whistle Club today in which sixty players took part. The contest was a handicap event, and the aggregate net score of the team counted. The winning squad had a total of 292.

In second place were W. H. B. Ward of Congress Lake, Ont.; J. L. Given of Manchester, N. H.; J. S. Brown of Montclair, N. J., and J. N. Bowker of Detroit with a score of 300.

MME. CHAUME NOT TO PLAY

Will Not Defend British Golf Title at St. Andrew's.

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—Mme. Minette Thion de la Chaume, who as Mlle. Le Blan won the British women's golf championship last season, will not defend her title at St. Andrew's next month, The Daily Mail says. Mme. Chaume, who married the brother of Mlle. Simone de la Chaume, titleholder in 1927, has not played golf recently. Mlle. de la Chaume, however, will compete this year.

Rain Halts Mason-Dixon Golf.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 16.—For the second day, rain caused the postponement of the qualifying round of the Mason and Dixon golf tournament. The play is now set for tomorrow.

GRIFFITH CRITICIZES A. A. U. ON OLYMPICS

Says Association Is Controlled by "Those Not Promoting Athletics"—Ferris Makes Denial.

Less than twenty-four hours after the National Collegiate Athletic Association executive committee, of which he is a member, had made peace with the Amateur Athletic Union, Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western Conference, launched another attack on the A. A. U. yesterday at a luncheon of the Western Conference clubs at the Railroad Club.

Declaring that the American Olympic Association is under the control "of those not actually promoting athletics" and predicting that the colleges eventually will supplant the A. A. U. as the dominating factor in the Olympic Association, Major Griffith asserted that "another conflict is inevitable" between the N. C. A. A. and the A. A. U.

When apprised of Griffith's remarks, Daniel J. Ferris, secretary treasurer of the A. A. U., and J. L. Bingham, faculty adviser of athletics at Denver University, expressed surprise that Griffith, who was a party in the peacemaking, should again assail the A. A. U.

Ferris and Bingham ridiculed Griffith's statement that the A. A. U. was not promoting athletics, that college men (in the sense of undergraduates) comprised the major part of the Olympic team, that college conferences were denied a voice in the Olympic Association, and that the A. A. U. had control of the association. Ferris observed that of all the points scored by the United States in the Olympic Games last Summer, only fifty-six were made by undergraduates, while 114½ were registered by college graduates and non-college men.

The sixty-seven college conferences in the United States should have a voice in the Olympic Association, Griffith declared. Ferris replied that if they wished a voice, all they would have to do would be to join the association. When the Olympic Association met prior to the last Olympic Games, fewer than twenty college conferences were enrolled, Ferris revealed, and only two exercised their voting prerogative.

SQUASH STARS PLAY TODAY.

Ward, Kinsella and Haines in Benefit at Harvard Club.

The world's professional squash tennis champion, the retired champion and the national amateur titleholder will all be seen in action late this afternoon at the Harvard Club in a series of benefit exhibition matches.

Frank Ward of the City Athletic Club, holder of the world's open title; Walter Kinsella of the Fraternity Club, who was the champion until he retired, and Rowland E. Haines of the Columbia University Club, the amateur titleholder, head the list of stars who will take part in the play.

The schedule of the matches is as follows: Ward vs. Kinsella; Haines vs. James Reid, professional at the Crescent A. C.; Ernest Clark, Columbia University Club professional, vs. Edward R. Larigan of the Crescent A. C., and Milton Baron of the Fraternity Club vs. Murray Taylor of the Harvard Club.

The matches will start at 5 o'clock and an admission fee of $2 will be charged.

MR. HOOVER TO CONGRESS.

The President's message to the special session is mainly taken up with the proposals for farm relief. About them he says nothing new—nobody could. He stands by the positions which he often assumed in the Presidential campaign. Mr. HOOVER is against collecting a fee from the farmer, against any form of price-fixing, against putting the government into the business of farming. What he favors is the creation of a Federal Farm Board which shall investigate every nook and corner of the troubles of agriculture in this country, shall sustain and aid cooperative marketing associations, seek to improve and cheapen transportation of farm products and in general do everything within its power to put farming on an equality, so far as the laws are concerned, with other industries. The President is not too confident of immediate results or benefits. He speaks of the need of making a start, and learning as we go along. He frankly characterizes the farm bill as "an experiment," which we must courageously and hopefully undertake, even if it cannot be described, like another notorious experiment, as "noble in motive."

In the tariff part of his message Mr. HOOVER is less explicit and surefooted. He cautiously urges a limited revision of customs duties, except in the case of the agricultural schedule, where he is apparently ready to go the limit. There will be general approval of the impatience which he expresses with the past work of the Tariff Commission, spending years in reaching decisions which ought to be arrived at in months. His plan to strengthen its personnel and speed up its methods is sensible and called for.

Into the President's brief and vague discussion of the relations of the protective tariff to our foreign trade, and to friendly understanding with other countries, it is needless now to go. When the bill is actually before Congress for debate we shall hear much of this matter. At present it is enough to point out that Mr. HOOVER is evidently anxious not to disturb business by wholesale tariff revision. He seems to think that kind words for the protective system, and appeals to manufacturers not to be greedy in their demands, will make all smooth sailing in Congress. Later he will probably have reason to change his mind about that. A limited tariff revision is a restriction of favors. But many angry Republicans will declare that such favors have been bought and paid for and that it is unfair to hold them back. The President may yet discover that it is better to meet a bear robbed of her whelps than a Republican campaign contributor robbed of his tariff rates.

CLEARING THE TRACKS.

Governor ROOSEVELT is about to veto the city conventions bill. The Mayor has expressed willingness to take up the question of Tammany leadership "any day but Thursday." On the Democratic side, therefore, the way is clear for the nomination of Mr. WALKER and a vigorous campaign by Tammany Hall. Even if Governor ROOSEVELT had signed the bill providing for Mayoralty nominations by convention, instead of primary, the Democratic situation would have been easy. The five-cent fare decision and Mr. HEARST'S prompt endorsement of Mayor WALKER removed most of Mr. HYLAN'S hopes anyhow, and he would have given Tammany no difficulty in a city convention. Hence the veto is of no political significance and merely gives the Governor an opportunity to restate his own and his party's spoken devotion to the primary system.

On the Republican side, the pathway is obscured and the conventions bill veto does not make things simpler. Some of Mr. HYLAN'S supporters have sent letters to the newspapers urging what they consider his paramount claims to a fusion nomination. Without Mr. HEARST and a seven-cent fare order it is not probable that the former Mayor seems a strong candidate either to Mr. KOENIG or to the forces of light led by Mr. W. M. CHADBOURNE. Even if those elements were in his favor, the task of giving him the Republican nomination without the aid of the conventions bill would probably have proved too much for them. There is nothing in the record to prove that both or either of them ever did. The Republicans must now cast about for as strong a leader of a presumptive forlorn hope as will consent to maintain the party record.

There are many men ambitious for national and State honors who could be induced to take the nomination, but until the choice emerges and something is seen of his ability to put the city administration on the defensive the Tammany chiefs are not worrying. Their chief concern is who shall succeed Mr. OLVANY as leader. It is undoubtedly true that any one on whom the Mayor and former Governor SMITH unite is certain of selection. In public, these two Democratic leaders speak pleasantly of each other; the Mayor was, in fact, quite sentimental in stressing to the City Hall reporters how impossible it is for his twenty-five-year association with Mr. SMITH to be in any way affected. Should this sentiment prove to be misplaced, and a fundamental difference of opinion appear between them as to the leadership, it is the Mayor's year and his wishes would probably prevail. A known or open break would help the Republicans.

FORTUNES OF A "WORLD MARKET."

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S speech in the House of Commons on Monday reviewed, as budget speeches usually do, the position of London as an international money market. He found reason for reassurance in that matter, and what he said had its bearing on our own position. London is still, the Chancellor of the Exchequer declared, "the greatest international money market." Not only so, but it had very lately made great progress in regaining its old position:

> We are able to maintain money rates which are lower than those nominally prevailing in New York and lower still than those actually effectively ruling in New York. The bill exchange on London, which after the war was so seriously menaced that it threatened to disappear, has in the last few years regained its time-honored position as the favorite international instrument and token of commerce.

The truth of this assertion has already been recognized by Wall Street, particularly during the past three months. The surest measure of a money market's international service is its share in the discounting of "acceptance bills," which represent the direct financing of international trade. In this class of bills the American market had virtually not dealt at all before the war; but by the end of last year the total outstanding at American banks was estimated at $1,284,000,000, of which $489,000,000 were held as investments by the Reserve banks. The New York rate for discounting such bills was 3¼ per cent in our easy-money period of 1927, a more favorable rate than London's, and the business rushed to New York. But the next year's tightening of the Wall Street money market, under the influence of the enormous brokers' borrowings, carried the rate to 4½ at the end of 1928 and, combined with the subsequent gradual withdrawal of the Reserve banks from the acceptance market, it has risen in 1929 to 5½ per cent, the highest since 1920.

This rise in rates necessarily changed the position of the American market for such international bills in relation to London. Not only had the New York rates ceased to be inviting, but other demands on the American banks, present or prospective, were so heavy as to render the acceptance market no inducement for them. It followed necessarily that London should of late have been rapidly regaining business of this character which it had previously lost to America. Whether such decrease in New York's capacity as an international market is permanent or temporary, may be a different question. It is conceivable that the condition of the market may change again, both at New York and London, and that the business may come back. But that can scarcely happen unless and until the strangle-hold of an extravagant Wall Street speculation on the American credit organism is relaxed.

"ANOTHER BODY."

Speaker LONGWORTH'S address after his re-election expresses what may be called not only the corporate feeling of the House as to the interminable delays and obstructions of the Senate but the general feeling of the country. Rebuking in parliamentary phrase the chamber too august to name, he laid on it the blame for preventing the census and reapportionment bills from becoming laws. Too long delays are the chief characteristic of "another body." Indirectly, but none the less tellingly, he whacked at the windy Don Pomposoes of the Senate. For six or seven years statesmen have relieved themselves of a full collection of views on farm relief. Why not do something about it with a reasonable quickness instead of sowing the pages of the Congressional Record with another excess crop?

The Senate Committee on Agriculture has its own scheme of farm relief. Mr. LONGWORTH can hardly have any expectation that the Senate will cease to be "deliberate." "Another body" is beyond time and insusceptible to the spite of the thermometer. Mr. LONGWORTH is for limited tariff revision. His side of Congress is capable of dealing with it. What happens on the other side he knows too well. The House passes a tariff bill. The Senate amends it till it is a new bill. Whatever the Speaker hopes, he cleverly identifies a short extra session, and the House trying to bring it about by more work and less talk, "with the best "interests of business and the prosperity of the country."

It is unlikely that anything will disturb the continuous self-complacency of the Senate. Narcissus will keep looking at his reflection in the water. The image of Narcissus in the popular mind is something very different. For some years, and especially since Mr. LONGWORTH has been Speaker, the House has been gaining, the Senate losing, in popular estimation. It is not only disciplined and effective but it is often distinctly more intelligent than the other body, as was shown notably in several important matters in the last session of the last Congress. Its esprit de corps is useful to the country. The esprit de corps of the other corps is a collective superiority complex doubled with a grotesque magnification of the value of each individual member.

Delighted with its reputation as a nuisance in foreign relations, the Senate has naturally thirsted to display the weight of its magnificent inertia in domestic policies. It would be cruel to grudge anything to its satisfactions and its glories; but, so far as the mere people are concerned, it seems clear that the House has been steadily rising and the other body as steadily falling in their esteem.

PAYING FOR SEWER GRAFT.

It is only human to sympathize with the taxpayers of Queens Borough who journeyed, packed by the hundred in sightseeing buses, to City Hall last week to beg for relief from the burden of local assessments. They don't want to pay for the excess cost of the notorious Jamaica sewers. Unfortunately, somebody must pay for it. Under normal circumstances the entire cost would be assessed against the property owners benefited. President MCKEE of the Board of Aldermen, in a burst of generosity and fellowship, at one time proposed that $5,000,000, a figure widely accepted as the graft content of the sewers, be assessed on the city as a whole. Borough President HARVEY welcomed the proposal, but it didn't find favor with the Board of Estimate. Its special committee, feeling that the McKee-Harvey proposal would involve an injustice to the taxpayers of the other boroughs, brought in a report urging that the entire cost be levied as usual.

At this point the suggestion was made that the excess be charged neither to the property owners alone nor to the taxpayers of the other boroughs, but to the taxpayers of Queens generally. That would relieve the property owners of a burden perhaps too heavy for some of them to bear and at the same time work no hardship on the residents of Manhattan, Bronx, Kings and Richmond. Although this compromise did not suit Mr. HARVEY, who went to Albany in vain for relief at the hands of the Legislature, it seems to have met with widespread approval, except, of course, among the residents of Queens outside of the Jamaica district. One after another they rose up before the Mayor to argue that as they had already gone deep into their pockets to pay for their own sewers, it would be unfair to ask them to pay for Jamaica's.

That argument could be used with much greater force by the other boroughs. There is certainly no reason why they should be called on to pay for Queens graft. The compromise seems all the more reasonable in the light of the city's generous policy toward the outlying boroughs. It has been willing to assume the burden of providing large parks, wherever they may be located, and to share with the local community the cost of arterial highways and other public improvements. Moreover, the weight of taxation bears more lightly on Queens than on the other boroughs, because valuations have long been lower there. The Board of Estimate, which has been under considerable pressure in the matter, has announced that it will render its final decision tomorrow.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE.

Few things better illustrate the topsyturvydom of Chinese politics than the current efforts of the Nationalist government to delay the evacuation of Shantung by the Japanese. That province was the scene of grave disturbances during the revolution. The Japanese not only occupied the Shantung Railway, on which they hold a mortgage, but also Tsinan, the capital of Shantung. The supporters of the Chinese Nationalists not only flooded the world with attacks on the Japanese for occupying this city, but by a boycott endeavored to bring pressure on Japan to evacuate it. For months diplomatic relations between Japan and China were held up by the inability to agree on the Tsinan incident. The mere presence of Japanese troops in Tsinan was represented as a grave affront to Chinese dignity.

Today the Chinese are singing a different song. The fear is openly expressed that a too precipitate Japanese withdrawal will result in confusion detrimental to all concerned. The reason for this change of front is not far to seek. Shantung is to be occupied by the notorious FENG, who so successfully advertised himself abroad by becoming known as the "Christian General" and, after siding with various war lords in succession, became the tool of the Soviet Russians. Nominally, FENG is with the Nationalists. But his record is such that even his Nationalist associates cannot rid themselves of an uncomfortable sense of uncertainty regarding his next move.

FENG in control of Shantung means a FENG more powerful than ever in China. To be sure, he will have to put down the revolt engineered by the former war lord of Shantung, CHANG TSUNG-CHANG, who is operating with a base at Chefoo. But Chinese military operations are often ended by negotiation. FENG has shown himself in the past to be an adept at this. But no one ever can foretell which way he will jump.

The moral of this episode is that the Western World is at the same time unkind and misled when it attempts to judge China in terms of modern America. In suddenly changing about the Japanese evacuation of Shantung the Nationalists are moved by what they consider the best interests of their country. The same thing may be said of FENG when he is inclined to drop old friends for new. Much of it is manoeuvring which on paper looks more sinister than it is in fact. Incidentally, if FENG and the Nationalists continue to work together, at least a good portion of China will enjoy comparative quiet and FENG will have turned the tables on the skeptics.

ST. CHRISTOPHER AND ST. CRISPIN.

It is reported that the Pope has chosen St. CHRISTOPHER as his wayfaring divinity. The image of this patron saint of travelers is to be attached to his new motor car. The legend of St. CHRISTOPHER gives a certain appropriateness to his selection from the calendar of the saints, for he was the ferryman who found that the traveler whom he was carrying on his shoulders across a stream was the Christ Child. The Pope might exclaim that his car, christened "St. Christopher," bears the weight of the world which he represents. One wonders whether it must obey traffic regulations; keep to the left or right as the law of the highway prescribes; observe the block signals and halt at the gesture of an ordinary human being clothed with purely temporal authority.

However appropriate the choice of the patron saint for the guidance of the motor car, all walkers will regret that the sometime Alpine climber has forsaken the saint of the shoemaker for the saint of the automobile manufacturer. St. CRISPIN was chosen patron saint of shoemakers because he and his brother CRISPINIAN, early Christian martyrs of noble origin in Rome, supported themselves in the days of their preaching and persecution in exile by making shoes. Like SHADRACH, MESHACH and ABEDNEGO they walked through fire unharmed and even emerged refreshed from a caldron of boiling tar, but were at last beheaded and in time canonized. They have, or at any rate CRISPIN has, been included among the saints even in the Church of England calendar, though in the recent revision it was proposed to drop him from the list along with St. VALENTINE and St. NICHOLAS, two other much-beloved saints. It is in the order of things that the slow-going St. CRISPIN should be pushed off the road by St. CHRISTOPHER. It is the fate of all pedestrians in this motor age.

If one could know the thoughts of the Pope, one would discover that deep in his heart he still cherishes a devotion to the patron saint of those who made his hobnailed shoes for his journeys on the Alpine heights and those who shaped the softer soles for the parish visits of his early priestly days. He will still look occasionally no doubt upon these souvenirs of the days of larger freedom for his feet and, like King HENRY, on St. CRISPIN'S eve say to himself

> Old men forget, yet all shall be forgot,
> But he'll remember with advantages
> What feats he did

in those athletic days in GOD'S wide out-of-doors.

Seeing him go forth in his St. Christopher motor car, all will wish that no mishap may come to him and that if he should perchance lose his way in his wider wandering the Roman goddess Domiduca, who leads the lost to their homes, will show him the way back to the Vatican.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Making Fishing Easy.

The Sun supported Mr. HOOVER for the Presidency with enthusiasm. This makes the more amazing the way it lent its columns yesterday to the most damaging story that has come out of Washington since March 4.

The Sun correspondent, said to be a man of unimpeachable veracity, reports that the fishing preserve where the President is to emulate the example of CLEVELAND and COOLIDGE has been freshly stocked with trout. That is proper enough in an age where nature is everywhere accorded artificial aid and stimulation.

But are these trout fry? No. They wouldn't grow up in time, even if HOOVER were re-elected. Fingerlings? Wrong again. Full grown trout! Over a foot long, some of them, on the word of a gasoline station man who himself drove the truck into the solitudes of Hunting Creek.

Just as one fisherman to another, isn't that terrible? Why, a man might just as well angle for trout in a fish hatchery. To make matters worse, The Sun man reports finding downstream "something that looked suspiciously like a fish stop." The trout simply aren't going to be allowed to escape the Presidential lure. All that is needed now is to put mosquito netting over the creek and starve them till they leap for the fly.

Pugilism at Law.

A great American industry which rarely if ever before has made its way into the august deliberations of the Supreme Court has finally had its day. Our highest tribunal has rendered a decision in favor of punishing by forfeit of money those boxers who, in the language of the ring, "stall," or loaf, and do not give the public its expected money's worth. JOE DUNDEE, who sued for a writ of certiorari to compel the Wisconsin Boxing Commission to give him $10,000, which he was promised for fighting in Milwaukee, has lost his case, and the efforts of the authorities to aid spectators in seeing honestly fought matches are upheld.

It is probable that the members of the Supreme Court know much more about Mr. DUNDEE'S profession than he knows about theirs. Chief Justice TAFT, during his reportorial days in Cincinnati, was a young citizen of a famous boxing town. The same is true of Justice BUTLER, fellow-citizen of the GIBBONS brothers. From the home city of Justice HOLMES and Justice BRANDEIS came JOHN L. SULLIVAN, and Justice MCREYNOLDS is too aggressive a man not to have noted the existence of men like FITZSIMMONS and CORBETT. The other justices, too, were American boys in their time, and to most boys boxers at one period are heroes.

So when the court considered the question whether DUNDEE'S "stalling" justified his share of the purse being withheld, the issue of fact must have been much clearer than many tangled skeins of statutory meaning. Their petitioner is doubtless none too sure of the meaning of a writ of certiorari, but the justices know when a fight is on the level.

Loosing the Thunder.

Driving rains and penetrating mists are not enough for certain weather enthusiasts. Most of us are thankful that electrical disturbances have not been an accompaniment of the Spring storms, but in Schenectady they want a complete show, and tonight the radio station there will produce and broadcast to our reluctant ears synthetic thunder. COLERIDGE remarked of EDMUND KEAN that "seeing him act was like reading Shakespeare by flashes of lightning." Listening to WGY will be like trying for music and getting static.

Listeners who are informed of what is going on will be able to avoid the artificial thunder by twisting the dials, unless the imitation electrical storm should tangle up the ether as a real one sometimes does. People who tune in on WGY by chance, hoping for entertainment, are going to be puzzled. There are probably just as many timid old ladies and scary children as there ever were before the days of synthetic joys and sorrows, and if the bolder members of the family insist on getting Schenectady weather on the radio, feather-beds and dark corners will be in demand.

To give the proper variety, a talk on protection of high voltage lines will provide a background for the fireworks. While the engineer speaks, he will hold the thunderbolts, and at the proper moments they will be loosed at all listeners-in on WGY.

An Automobile Junk Yard.

There is nothing more unsightly along country roads than the wrecks of abandoned automobiles in fields, in the woods and sometimes even in the beds of streams. The owner of this kind of junk often gets rid of it in the dark of the moon. In the suburbs of towns, too, the automobile junk yard is becoming a common and melancholy sight.

Commissioner ROSSINS B. STOECKEL of Connecticut proposes to regulate the dismal business. In a recent article he said:

> Apparently it is perfectly possible under existing laws to restrain other nuisances. Why should there not be a law to prevent a man from making a nuisance in the esthetic sense and thereby preserve for home builders the practical values of real estate?

Connecticut took a step toward eliminating broken-down automobiles when a law was enacted making it a criminal offense to leave an abandoned car on the highway. This was because it made another hazard in driving, by night if not in the daytime. However, it was easy to drag the hulk to another man's land, where it would rust in the rain and become more of a ruin.

Commissioner STOECKEL has drafted a bill to license "motor vehicle junk yards." After carefully defining them, the bill provides that no person shall establish such a bargain place until he can present to the Motor Vehicle Commissioner a certificate of approval from the warden of a borough, the Mayor of a city or the selectmen of a town.

CONDITIONS IN GERMANY.

Parliamentary System Gives Undue Power to Political Leaders.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was interested by Wythe Williams's article published in THE TIMES on March 3, so much interested, in fact, that I sent it to a friend studying at the University of Koenigsberg. He is a young German well qualified to speak on the present political situation in Germany. His reaction to Mr. Williams's article will without doubt be of interest to your readers. He wrote:

"Totally unaware of the powder barrel, on which I am supposedly sitting here in Koenigsberg, 'the stronghold of Prussian Junkerdom,' I was profoundly shocked by Mr. Williams's article.

"It is true that intelligent people are realizing that the working of the present parliamentary system in Germany is far from being satisfactory. This is due mainly to a lack of that 'element of dictatorship' which is represented in the United States by the President, in Great Britain by the Prime Minister, and which is conspicuous by its absence in French politics. The chief trouble in Germany is the individual responsibility of Cabinet members, and the practical working of the election by proportional representation, both of which have led to an undue accumulation of political power in the hands of the party leaders and thus tended to scatter and obscure responsibility. So it recently happened that the Centrist party withdrew its members from the Cabinet.

"The bugaboo of a dictator was first painted on the wall by Joseph Wirth, an ex-Chancellor and a Centrist politician. There is always a scramble going on among the various parties for Cabinet seats and also a disgusting bargaining. The Centrists in a fortunate position and by virtue of shrewd party strategy were steadily gaining ground, playing ball with the Socialists and the Stresemann party. The latter recently decided to stand pat. This resulted in the present crisis. Wirth evidently wishes to see the Stresemann party soon ready for another compromise.

"Hugenberg is merely a dictator in his Nationalist party. The vast majority of the Steel Helmets are members of that party. These people would like to give to the Reich President the same powers as has the President of the United States, have him appoint (actually!) the Cabinet members, &c. However, the Nationalists are no friends of the republic; no trace of any democratic or even progressive spirit is in them. They are bound to grow stale. And they are realizing themselves that a dictator of the Right is for the time being entirely out of the question. General Hell, former chief of staff of Field Marshal Mackensen, chairman of the East Prussian branch of the Nationalist party, declared in a recent article in the conservative Ostpreussische Zeitung: 'Those who clamor for a dictator should have no doubt that only Otto Braun would be in line for it today because he has something behind himself.' This is absolutely true. Braun, the Prime Minister of Prussia and a Socialist, has far more political power than the Nationalists.

"Mr. Williams's statement as to an impending 'putsch' and plans of making a Reichsland of East Prussia is the product of his fantastic brain. There is not a shred of truth in it. In 1919, before the Versailles Treaty was signed, when Germany was not yet fully disarmed, Upper Silesia, Posen, the 'Corridor,' and Danzig still in our possession and when our troops still occupied a part of the Baltic States, there was a plan to form an independent German State in the East. Adolf von Batocki, former administrative head of East Prussia and during the war Food Administrator of the Reich, was identified as being in favor of this plan. However, it was abandoned when the Berlin Government decided to go to Versailles. Since then the situation underwent such a radical change that not even the most extreme reactionary would commit himself to such a plan.

"Batocki, a friend of the assassinated Walter Rathenau, an aristocrat, and a conservative, is not a radical monarchist but seems ready to compromise. He has not been active in politics since the war but has found a liking in lecturing."

THE BRIBE.

O blood, so more than patient,
O heart, that beats untired,
By what law were you drafted?
Under what ruler hired?

Are you my slaves or keepers?
And why this strict patrol?
What is the crime that fastens
A guard about the soul?

I stand, as in a castle,
And lean against the bars,
Now looking to the river,
Now sighing toward the stars.

What would you take to falter?
To nod, that I depart?
Then, blood, you might cease running,
And you could rest, my heart.

40 PER CENT EFFICIENCY.

Considering Present System, District Attorney Banton is Lucky.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with a mixed feeling of amusement and chagrin a statement of District Attorney Joab H. Banton in which he complained that the public service is only 40 per cent efficient and attributed this inefficiency to civil service laws which made it impossible to discharge employes without a vexatious trial.

If his office is only 40 per cent efficient, it is largely due to the fact that the merit system in that office is applied only to minor clerical positions; all the positions other than minor clerks and stenographers are in the exempt class, where appointments are made without any test as to qualification. These appointments are made in the absolute discretion of the District Attorney.

It is not unusual for politicians to blame the civil service system for their own shortcomings and lack of courage. There is nothing in the civil service law that unduly hampers or restricts the head of a department from making removals at will except in the case of veterans, policemen and firemen. All that the civil service law requires of a department head in removing an incompetent employe is to give the employe the reasons for the removal and an opportunity to make an explanation in writing. But the department head is the sole judge of the sufficiency of the reasons and the answer. There is no restriction on his right to remove the employe except where the removal is for political or religious reasons.

The District Attorney's office in New York County is by far the largest political refuge outside of the Sheriff's office. Is it any wonder that the District Attorney's office is but 40 per cent efficient when he has such a large number of political appointees who owe their appointment not to merit and fitness determined by competitive examinations but to political and personal preference? I dare say if these positions were filled through the merit system the efficiency of his department would be greater than even that of private employment.

I sympathize with District Attorney Banton's plight when I consider what tremendous political pressure and interference he has to withstand in connection with the appointment and retention of such a large number of political appointees. The wonder to me is that he is able to secure even 40 per cent of efficiency in his office, considering what he has to contend with under the present system. He could render no greater public service before retiring than securing the competitive classification of all of the positions in his office. His office has nothing whatever to do with the determination of political policy and there is no good reason why appointments in that office should not be based on a strict businesslike basis—through the merit system.

Danger Spot on Riverside Drive.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Several years ago the roadbed of the Riverside Drive viaduct from 125th Street to 135th Street was in such a bad state of repair that the city closed it to the public and spent several months renovating it. However, due probably to the weakness of the structure itself, the former asphalt covering was replaced by a much lighter roadbed of tar bricks.

As everybody should know, a little water on a tar brick road transforms it into a skating rink, and the least deviation from a straight line will cause any car to skid. There is quite a curve on the 135th Street end, and the application of brakes on a wet night causes a car to swerve. I have skidded when I was traveling at five miles an hour and turning into the garage on 134th Street.

Ever since the day that pavement was laid there has been an average of three smash-ups every rainy night. One of the worst was when a taxicab skidded, jumped the curb and crashed to the street seventy-five feet below, killing the driver and the two occupants. The city then placed signs which told the drivers that the speed limit was fifteen miles an hour. However, on a rainy night the signs cannot be seen by a driver, who is forced to keep his eyes on the road ahead of him. Because of this the accidents have continued.

Just recently the city has raised the sidewalk several inches and built in iron girders along the edge of the road. Every car that skids now hits this edge hard enough to damage it. Recently a policeman was run down as he hurried to the aid of some new victims of this treacherous pavement. The city will probably scour the countryside in an effort to bring the culprit to justice instead of going to the seat of the trouble—namely, the improper paving.

Mr. Hylan's Boom to Resound.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I do not subscribe to the pessimistic view THE TIMES expresses in its editorial regarding the local political situation. It is rather early to concede Walker's re-election and the continuance of Tammany's domination. All the sudden excitement about the fare decision is subsiding. People are beginning to realize that Walker is parading in borrowed political clothes, and that the credit for the five-cent fare, if at all, belongs to the man who almost single-handed for years carried the five-cent banner in the face of bitter calumny and derision, namely, John F. Hylan.

One thing recent developments have done is to solidify Walker's position and make his renomination certain. They have also scared the Fusionists, who do not seem to be able to secure a first-rate man strong enough for a hard political struggle. It now appears that a Waterman type of candidate will fill in for them.

That leaves only John F. Hylan as an outstanding contender. His issues are not merely petty matters of police ineptitude or graft.

In a recent radio address, Hylan focused on fundamental questions of government reorganization, housing and city planning. Perhaps that is a forerunner of a campaign where issues and not personalities will predominate. Hylan's boom is far from being deflated. At worst, it has struck bottom, but it is rapidly on the rebound. Walker will never again be as strong as he is now. It is seven months to election, and time will weaken Walker as it will strengthen Hylan.

Cruel and Unusual Punishment.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

W. C. Durant's criticism of the Federal Reserve Board errs only in moderation. The twin pillars of the Republic, at present, are prohibition and a bull market. Should not the penalties of the Jones act be extended to all critics of stock speculation?

PRESENT OFFICERS REMAIN

Elementary School Heads Fear Loss of Teachers' Institutions Under 1926 Law.

The Board of Higher Education, established three years ago by the State Legislature, took over yesterday the administration and direction of the city's public collegiate centres, including Hunter College and the College of the City of New York. The board, consisting of twenty-one members, includes the old boards of trustees of the two institutions and three additional members from Brooklyn, appointed by Mayor Walker shortly after the enactment of the law on April 16, 1926.

The board was formed to replace the two separate boards in an effort to coordinate public collegiate activities. In the three years of its existence it has administered the Brooklyn college centres, drawing the teaching forces from the faculties of Hunter and City Colleges. The executive officers of the two colleges remain unchanged.

The Board of Higher Education has supervised construction work on the new Hunter College buildings on the Jerome reservoir sites. A building fund of $2,225,000 was appropriated recently by the Board of Estimate.

The broad powers given to the board under the law has made the Board of Education apprehensive at losing control of the three teacher training schools here, whose course has been extended to four years, and which are seeking collegiate recognition.

Under the law the board will have control of city colleges, similar to that usually exercised by trustees, "subject," the law adds, "to the visitation of the Regents of the University of the State of New York."

HELP BLIND IN PALESTINE.

800 Women Hear of Plans to Enlarge Lighthouse in Jerusalem.

About 800 women, active in the support of the Palestine Lighthouse, an institution for the blind in Jerusalem, attended the second annual luncheon of the organization yesterday at the Biltmore.

John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community Church, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, who returned recently from Palestine, said that as a result of the work carried on by the Lighthouse, "men, women and children in Palestine who have been robbed of their capacity of vision are no longer neglected as the work of healing and prevention goes on."

Dr. Nathan Krass of Temple Emanu-El spoke of the members of the organization as "women towering above the tragedy of the blind." Dr. David De Sola Pool, honorary president of the organization, made a plea for additional funds to carry on the work to make the blind "self-supporting and self-reliant."

Mrs. Sara D. Friedman, president of the organization, said the Lighthouse had, so far, supplied only food and clothing for the blind and that plans were being formulated to erect a permanent building in Jerusalem where basket weaving and other occupations for the blind are taught. Fifty dollars supports the institution for one day, it was said.

AFFORDS OUTINGS FOR AGED

A gift of $5,000 to the Field Home, institution for the aged indigent at Yorktown, near Peekskill, the income from which fund is to be used to afford the inmates excursions, outings and drives, has been made by Chester De Witt Pugsley, Peekskill banker, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of the trustees of the institution.

"I am actuated in making this gift by the belief that in many of the homes for the aged the inmates or guests have no opportunity for a change of scene or diversion without it," Mr. Pugsley declared yesterday, "and that the precedent here established may lead other homes to realize the desirability of so doing."

Another benefaction by Mr. Pugsley was announced yesterday at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Field Library. The income of $4,000 in 8 per cent bonds is to be applied for the purchase of books or equipment.

Mr. Pugsley, who is vice president of the Westchester County National Bank of Peekskill, was graduated from Harvard in 1909.

SAYS RUSSIA WANTS PEACE.

Dr. Pinkevitch at Barnard Says It Would Use War Funds for Schools.

Russia is looking forward to the time when international peace will become a reality, in order that it may transfer a large part of its military budget to the development of colleges and universities, Dr. Albert Pinkevitch, rector of the State National University at Moscow, declared yesterday afternoon before an assembly at Barnard College. Further development of education there will depend largely upon the attitude of the world toward armaments and preparedness, with their inevitable expenditure of vast sums of money, he declared.

In a speech last night before the International Institute of Teachers College Dr. Pinkevitch outlined the aims of Soviet education as "the dissemination of knowledge among the unlearned masses and the training of specialists in various fields of practical activity." Radical changes in method have been made, he added, including the abandonment of the lecture method of teaching, in many of the schools.

MISS N. GUGGENHEIM SECRETLY MARRIED

BRIDE'S FAMILY IS SILENT

Said to Have Invited Son-in-Law to a Conference—She Is at Parents' Home.

Miss Natalie Price Guggenheim, 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond A. Guggenheim of Roslyn, L. I., and Thomas M. Gorman, 27-year-old real estate broker of Port Washington, were secretly married on April 6 by the Rev. Kirkland Huske, rector of All Saints Protestant Episcopal Church at Great Neck, L. I., it was learned yesterday.

The marriage was verified by Joseph L. O'Connell, lawyer and real estate operator of Manhasset, with whom Mr. Gorman is associated in the realty business. Mr. O'Connell, who acted as best man at the wedding, said he had been authorized to confirm the fact that the marriage had taken place.

Bride Kept Marriage Secret.

Directly after the ceremony the youthful bride went to the home of her parents, Ebmarna, on the north shore of Long Island, keeping her marriage a secret. Mr. Gorman went about his work as usual and continued to make his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Gorman, in their modest home at 23 Herbert Street, Port Washington. His father has been station master there for the Long Island Railroad for a number of years.

While efforts to get in touch with some member of the Guggenheim family at their Roslyn estate failed yesterday, it was said a formal announcement by the family might be made today. Mr. Guggenheim, who learned of the marriage on Monday night at White Sulphur Springs and expressed great surprise, arrived in New York last evening. It was rumored at Port Washington that young Gorman had been asked to meet the parents of his bride last night at their Roslyn home for a conference.

While the Rev. Mr. Huske still refused to discuss the subject, Mr. O'Connell said the only other witness was Miss Betty Weed, a friend of the bride from New York. Immediately after the ceremony, which took place at 11 A. M., the bridal party went to Great Neck Tavern, where an informal wedding breakfast was served.

It was disclosed that the young couple obtained their marriage license from the Town Clerk of North Hempstead, Charles Schmidt, on March 15, and that they had made two unsuccessful efforts to be married secretly. In one instance, two weeks ago last Saturday, it was said, a bridal table had been prepared for them at Great Neck Tavern.

Had Difficulty Getting Minister.

The obstacles in their path, however, were the watchfulness of the Guggenheim family and the fact that they were unable to find a minister. Their efforts, it is said, centred around week-ends, due to the fact that Miss Guggenheim was attending school at Glen Cove.

Mr. Gorman met Miss Guggenheim when she called at his real estate office with her mother a year ago. His family was reticent yesterday about the marriage. His sister Helen is a teacher in a New York City high school, and his brother Edwin has been with the New York Edison Company here as an engineer for some time. The family is said to own considerable property in the vicinity of Port Washington.

Mr. Gorman was an honor student at the Port Washington High School, where he was graduated. For a time he worked with his father at the railroad station, embarking in the real estate business about two years ago.

The bride's father is the son of Murry Guggenheim, and is a member of the firm of Guggenheim Brothers, 120 Broadway, who have large holdings in the copper industry. She is the only daughter.

$175,000 TO UNION COLLEGE

H. R. Ryder Provides for New Electrical Engineering Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., April 16.—A gift of $175,000 for the construction and maintenance of a new electrical engineering building at Union College by Harold Russell Ryder of New York City was announced today by President Frank Parker Day. This brings Mr. Ryder's contributions to Union to a total of $200,000 in the past few months. He established a loan fund of $25,000 for needy students last Winter.

The new building will be erected on the site of the present college union, between the chemistry building and the electrical engineering laboratory. The present electrical engineering building will be used for some other purpose. The new building will cost $150,000 and the remaining $25,000 will be used for maintenance. It is expected that work on the building will be started this Summer.

Mrs. H. Breckinridge in Hospital.

Mrs. Henry Breckinridge of 455 East Fifty-seventh Street, founder of May Day, which will be observed for the first time this year by act of Congress as Children's Day, is in Roosevelt Hospital, it was learned yesterday, having undergone a minor operation on Saturday. Before her marriage to Colonel Breckinridge, a former Assistant Secretary of War, she was Mrs. Aida de Acosta Root. She was the first woman to steer an airplane unaccompanied, accomplishing the feat at Paris in 1904 in the plane of Santos-Dumont. Mrs. Breckinridge is a member of the Colony Club and the Junior League and has long been known for her interest in practical philanthropy.

A Son to Mrs. C. R. Beattie.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Beattie of 21 East Ninetieth Street on April 12 at the Sloane Maternity Hospital, Medical Centre. Mrs. Beattie is the former Miss Mildred H. Fahnestock, elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Fahnestock of 954 Fifth Avenue.

Col. F. H. Hines Still Very Ill.

The condition of Colonel Frank H. Hines, Manhattan Superintendent of Public Buildings and Offices, who is in St. Luke's Hospital, suffering from high blood pressure, remained "unchanged" yesterday. On Monday he was reported as being "very weak."

Diners in Baltimore Will Hear Speech From Berlin by Radio

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 16.—The first transatlantic after-dinner speech from Germany will be made tomorrow night when Ernst B. Filsinger, vice president of the Royal Baking Powder Company, will address the foreign trade convention at Baltimore by radio.

The speech will occupy fifteen minutes and at its close Mr. Filsinger will propose a toast to the Presidents of the United States and Germany. The hook-up promised by the German Government and the British Postoffice, it is said, will be so perfect that the diners at Baltimore will be able to hear the pop of the champagne bottle cork as the speaker is about to take up his glass.

Owing to the difference in time Mr. Filsinger must sit up until 3:30 A. M. on Thursday before his number is announced in the Baltimore banquet hall. The subject of his address will be the economic conditions of Germany.

COLUMBIA RECEIVES $84,757 IN DONATIONS

Majority of Gifts Are for Work at Medical Centre—$50,000 Given by Rockefeller Fund.

Gifts amounting to $84,757.45 to Columbia University were announced yesterday by Frank D. Fackenthal, secretary of the university. Most of the money was given for research at the Medical Centre. The Rockefeller Foundation gave $50,000 for research in medical mycology and the Chemical Foundation, Inc., made three contributions. One of $10,000 represented the second payment on its five-year pledge of $20,000 annually for research in the department of biological chemistry, another of $1,563.18 was given to meet the cost of construction changes in that department and the third, of $1,075, was the first quarterly payment on a pledge of $11,900 to cover three years of research in bacteriology.

An anonymous donor gave $5,000 for the special tuberculosis fund of the department of the practice of medicine.

The General Education Board contributed $4,500 as the fourth quarterly share of its grant of $18,000, for the department of tropical medicine and the International Committee for the Study of Infantile Paralysis added $2,500 to the Bacteriology-Milbank Infantile Paralysis Fund.

TO GET $1,000,000 THEATRE.

Rockville Centre Project to Be Started on Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, L. I., April 16.—The Rockville Centre Republican Club will move to new quarters within a few days to make room for a theatre which will cost about $1,000,000, it was announced today. For the last nine months the club has been occupying the old Alexander Davison homestead at Park Avenue and Merrick Road.

The new home of the club will be the William Hawkins homestead nearby and the change must be made before Saturday, as ground will be broken then for the new theatre, which authorities say will seat more than 2,000 persons.

The theatre project is being backed by A. H. Schwartz, who owns the Freeport and Grove theatres in Freeport and several other theatres.

The party will go by bus, leaving this village at 8 A. M. The women first will visit the Seamen's Institute. After lunch, which will be served at the institute, the party will take the 1:45 P. M. boat for Ellis Island. Returning to Manhattan, the party will be met by the bus at the boat.

HAVELOCK WILSON, LABOR LEADER, DIES

RULED WITH AN IRON HAND

Advocate of Collective Bargaining Upheld Government in War—Long in Parliament.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—J. Havelock Wilson, one of the most prominent of Britain's labor leaders, died suddenly here this afternoon at the age of 70. He was the founder and president of the National Union of Seamen, and as a patriot he is compared with the late Samuel Gompers of America.

Under Mr. Wilson's iron rule British seamen enjoyed many benefits as the result of collective bargaining with employers. He kept the seamen at work during the general strike of 1926, and throughout the great war exercised discipline over his men like that exercised by an army commander.

During the World War Mr. Wilson was an uncompromising advocate of punishing Germany for the killing and maiming of British seamen on unarmed merchant ships sunk by submarines. Under his leadership the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union decreed a boycott of German sailors and cargoes for a period of two years after peace should be declared, with an extra month added for every additional ship sunk with loss of life.

The German submarine campaign particularly incensed Wilson and caused him to oppose labor leaders who wanted peace by negotiation. When Ramsay MacDonald tried to go to Stockholm in 1917 to discuss peace terms, Wilson used his power as head of the British seamen to prevent him going in a British ship. In April, 1918, he announced that his union had twice blocked the attempt of the three labor delegates to sail for the United States. Since the war he consistently opposed extremists in the trade union movement. He disapproved of labor men forming a political party, and he advised American union members to stay out of politics.

In his youth Wilson was himself a seaman. He sat in Parliament for sixteen years as a Labor member, representing Middlesborough from 1892 to 1900, and from 1906 to 1910, and South Shields from 1918 to 1922. He wrote "My Stormy Voyage Through Life." He was secretary of the Merchant Seamen's League.

Mr. Wilson was created a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in 1917 and a Companion of Honor in 1922.

SOCIETY HONORS OSCAR.

Charles M. Schwab was elected president of the Pennsylvania Society yesterday for the twelfth time at the thirty-first annual meeting and luncheon on the roof garden of the Waldorf. Nearly 400 Pennsylvanians were present.

The guest of honor at the luncheon was Oscar Tschirky, who has had charge of every dinner of the society here since its formation at the Waldorf in 1899 with the exception of the dinner to President Taft at the Astor. Mr. Schwab paid a tribute to Oscar. Oscar responded with incidents of his long association in the Waldorf-Astoria.

CITY TOLL BILL REJECTED.

Roosevelt Says It Counters Home Rule—Approves Old Age Study.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Governor Roosevelt vetoed today a bill of Senator John J. Dunningan, Democrat, of the Bronx, which would have empowered the Board of Estimate to fix tolls over bridges or through tunnels that may at some future time be constructed by New York City.

"The Municipal Assembly has already passed a local law which takes care of this situation and there is no reason under principles of home rule why the State should do for the city what it already has done for itself," the Governor said.

The Governor approved a bill by Assemblyman Horace M. Stone, Republican, of Syracuse, which makes the provisions requiring the licensing of employes and officers of corporations writing bail bond business apply to a city of more than 175,000 instead of to a first-class city as at present.

He signed a bill by Senator Seabury C. Mastick of Westchester, providing for a commission to study the subject of old age security.

The Governor praised the measure as "the first definite step taken by this State in regard to a subject which now engages the attention of the civilized world," but added that the "success or failure of this great experiment will depend wholly in the initial stages on the personnel and attitude of the commissioners to be appointed."

LIGHTNING COMPUTER DIES COUNTING CARS

Willian Strong Supplanted Adding Machine in Peoria, Ill.—He Never Knew How He Did It.

PEORIA, Ill., April 16 (AP).—William Strong, the man who could compute figures with the speed of an adding machine and never knew how he did it, is dead.

He would stand beside a railroad track as a long freight train rolled by, observing the car numbers. When the caboose flashed past, he would announce the total as correctly as the tabulator with pencil and pad who stood beside him.

Merchants employed him at inventory time instead of using adding machines. He would tell engineers how many bricks would be needed for a wall; compute cube root; reply with an exact age the instant a birth date was given him. Always to the question, "How do you do it?" he would answer, "I do not know."

Strong, who was 50 years old, died yesterday on a railroad viaduct in Bartonville, a suburb, where he was in the habit of going daily to perform the feat of adding up box-car numbers, "just to keep in practice," he said.

BAX-IRONSIDE DEAD; BRITISH DIPLOMAT

Sir Henry Was Minister to Bulgaria in the Critical Pre-War Period.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Sir Henry Bax-Ironside, British Minister to Bulgaria during the critical pre-war years, died here today at the age of 69.

Sir Henry spent more than thirty years in the British diplomatic service, having started in 1883 as private secretary to the late Sir William White. He was a grandson of the General Hughes who won distinction in the '50s of the last century while commanding the British forces in Burmah. In his early years he was stationed in various capitals as chargé d'affaires. In 1894 he was in Washington. From 1902 to 1907 he was Minister at Caracas, Venezuela. Then came briefer periods as Minister to Chile and Switzerland before he went to Bulgaria in 1910 for a stay of five years. He was noted for his knowledge of Turkish, Persian and Arabic.

TUTTLE FOR INQUIRY IN I.R.T. INJUNCTION

Asks LaGuardia to Tell if He Intends to Charge Crime to Judge Winslow.

QUACKENBUSH UPHOLDS ACT

Transit Lawyer Says Writ Was Obtained in Usual Way, Without Illegal Consideration.

The temporary restraining order granted by former Federal Judge Francis A. Winslow to the Interborough Rapid Transit Company on Feb. 17, 1928, preventing the city and Transit Commission from prosecuting pending State court actions against the company, may become the subject of a Federal grand jury investigation in the near future, United States District Attorney Tuttle indicated yesterday in a letter to Representative F. H. LaGuardia.

Asking Mr. LaGuardia whether, in charging in Washington on Monday that the restraining order was granted "improperly and for improper and unlawful considerations" he had intended to charge the commission of a crime, Mr. Tuttle gave his assurance that if a crime had been charged his office would at once begin an investigation in the course of which the Representative would have an opportunity to appear before a grand jury.

Mr. LaGuardia's charge, made as an additional "impeachment" accusation against the former Federal judge, was denied yesterday by James L. Quackenbush, general counsel for the Interborough. Mr. LaGuardia's charge, Mr. Quackenbush declared, was based upon "misinformation" and was erroneous in asserting that the signing of the restraining order involved any improper or unlawful action or consideration. He said the application for a restraining order was not made to Judge Winslow after another Federal judge had refused to grant it.

The Winslow order was continued by Judge William Bondy several days later after argument by the company, the city and the Transit Commission. It is still pending as part of the ancillary action brought by the company, and now before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. That court has set May 6 as the date for argument of the appeal and of the joint motion of the city and the commission to dismiss the suit and Judge Bondy's order.

Tuttle's Letter to La Guardia.

Mr. Tuttle's letter to Representative La Guardia, indicating belief that he had charged the commission of a crime in connection with the obtaining of the order from Judge Winslow, follows:

April 16, 1929.

My Dear Congressman:

I note from the newspapers of this morning that in reintroducing your charges of impeachment as regards Judge Winslow you have added a paragraph which begins as follows:

"The said Judge Winslow improperly and for improper and unlawful considerations, in utter disregard of the law and the facts, signed an order on behalf of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in the case known as the Interborough Rapid Transit seven-cent fare case, &c."

From the foregoing wording I cannot tell whether you intended thereby to charge a crime or merely an improvident and unlawful action, but the phrase is so suggestive of a charge of a crime that my duty constrains me to write to ask that if such be the construction of the charge you be so kind as to communicate to me the facts or the information upon which it is based. If you prefer, I would afford you the opportunity to appear before the grand jury. In short, if the paragraph referred to was intended as a charge of crime, then my office desires immediately to perform its duty and make an investigation and take such action as the investigation may warrant.

May I have the favor of an early reply?

Yours sincerely,
CHARLES H. TUTTLE,
United States Attorney.

Mr. Tuttle declined yesterday to comment upon the letter, declaring that nothing further was to be said until he had received work from Representative La Guardia.

Quackenbush Defends Action.

In the statement issued by Mr. Quackenbush the signing of the order by former Judge Winslow was defended as a not unusual act. It was explained that the judge signed the order at night in his home in Yonkers merely because the papers were not ready earlier in the day when he was in chambers in the Woolworth Building, where he had already been consulted regarding the ancillary proceeding. Mr. Quackenbush's statement follows:

"The paragraph added yesterday to the resolution of Congressman La Guardia of March 2, 1920 is based upon misinformation.

"No assurances or guaranties were at any time given, either directly or indirectly, to officials of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company or to any one in their behalf, that Judge Winslow would sign a temporary restraining order in the ancillary action, nor was such order signed for any improper or unlawful consideration or reasons. The arrangements for the presentation of the papers in this matter to Judge Winslow were made with him, directly by counsel for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company. There were no intermediaries, and of course no advance information or assurances as to what his action would be on the company's application.

"Nor was the order signed by Judge Winslow after it had been refused by or taken up with any other judge. The usual affidavit that no previous application for the order had been made to any other court or judge was submitted to Judge Winslow as part of the moving papers. That statement under oath was in all respects true, in the broadest possible sense.

"It had been expected by counsel for this company to present the papers to Judge Winslow at his office. When we found that the papers would not be completed until after 6 o'clock, Judge Winslow was communicated with, and he said they could be brought to his house after dinner that evening. This was done. The procedure was in accordance with correct practice and contravened no rule of the court. No contrary contention was made by counsel for the city or the Transit Commission.

"Judge Winslow heard counsel and examined the papers at some length before signing the temporary restraining order. This was not done a few hours before the State court was to hear argument, as Mr. LaGuardia charges. It was done on Friday evening; the matter was to be before the State court the following Monday.

"The granting of a temporary restraining order to continue the situation unchanged until argument could be had was the usual course. Judge Winslow's order was returnable before Judge Bondy. When the matter came before Judge Bondy it was argued and briefed at great length by counsel for all the parties. Counsel for the city and Transit Commission consented and stipulated to continue Judge Winslow's temporary restraining order in force. Judge Bondy's decision and order specifically upheld and also broadened the restraining order granted by Judge Winslow."

The effect of a grand jury investigation upon the Interborough's pending ancillary action was the subject of much speculation yesterday in transit circles, especially because it is believed that the company is planning to keep up its fight against dismissal of the suit and reversal of the injunction, which is its only protection against Transit Commission orders involving the expenditure of about $40,000,000 for new cars and longer platforms on its subway lines.

LAGUARDIA WON'T TESTIFY.

Declares It Is Tuttle's Business to Act on Crimes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—Representative LaGuardia, sponsor of the charges pending in Congress against former Judge Winslow of the Southern District of New York, has no intention of presenting himself as a witness to testify with respect to the accused jurist's relations with the Interborough Rapid Transit company, he announced tonight.

"I have impeached Judge Winslow," he said. "I am attending to my business. If any crime has been committed, that is Mr. Tuttle's business."

Differences of opinion have developed among House leaders on the question as to whether the proceedings against Judge Winslow should continue in view of his resignation from the bench.

Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, sees no reason to continue the investigation or prepare impeachment charges for action by the House.

The Winslow subcommittee, headed by Chairman Dyer, will go to New York on Friday or Saturday to take testimony at an executive session before formal consideration of its future course.

REPUBLICANS PUSH ANTI-TAMMANY DRIVE

County Committee Plans to Have 500 Campaign Speakers Available Within Sixty Days.

The New York County Republican Committee under the leadership of County Chairman Samuel S. Koenig made an early start yesterday in its campaign against Tammany by the organization of a bureau of information to supplement its speakers' bureau at a meeting at its headquarters, 105 West Fortieth Street. The purpose of the new bureau, Mr. Koenig explained, was to acquaint the voters with the alleged derelictions of Tammany and the Walker administration. The anti-Tammany campaign will begin immediately, and it is expected that 500 speakers will be available within sixty days.

Mr. Koenig added that the bureau was not organized in the interest of any aspirant for the nomination for Mayor. Irwin Kurtz, chairman of the speakers' bureau, will be in charge temporarily. The speakers will speak at meetings and later over the radio. On invitation they will be sent to the other boroughs of the city. It is expected that the Republican organizations in the other boroughs will follow suit and that each will organize a similar body of speakers.

Among those at the meeting who expressed willingness to take the stump against Tammany immediately were United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, former Representative Martin Ansorge, Frederic R. Coudert Jr., Miss Emily Marx, Edward Lumbard, president of the New York Young Republican Club, C. D. Williams, assistant to Samuel Untermyer, special counsel of the Transit Commission, former Municipal Court Justice John R. Davies, Abraham S. Gilbert, Alderman Joseph C. Baldwin 3d, former Representative Isaac Siegel, former Representative Nathan D. Perlman, Alderman James Hatch, Harold Korn, Herman Stichman, Lowell Wadman, William Brouillard, and Deputy Attorney General Raymond L. Wise.

MAP LOST WITH AVIATORS.

Mosaic Destroyed When Marine Plane Fell in Nicaragua.

By Tropical Radio to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 16.—Further details by an eye witness of the plane crash into Lake Nicaragua on Saturday, when three marines were killed, have been received here.

It appears that the plane nose-dived from a height of 1,500 feet into shallow water. The cause of the accident is unknown.

The Mosaic map, tracing the San Juan River from the lake to the Caribbean Sea, upon which Lieutenant McHugh and Sergeant Piner were engaged, and which was nearly completed, was destroyed. This work will now probably be delayed many months because conditions for photographing from the air are favorable for only a few weeks of the year.

To Resume British Electric Parleys.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Negotiations between Sir Hugo Hirst, chairman of the British General Electric Company, Ltd., and Thomas L. Chadbourne and Herbert Bayard Swope, representing the American holders of the company's shares, will be resumed, says the Financial Times, after an interval that has been prolonged by Mr. Chadbourne's illness. A disagreement arose over the terms of an issue of 1,500,000 £1 share at 42 shillings each to Britons only. Mr. Swope is expected to return from Paris in a few days. Mr. Chadbourne visited the offices of the Morgan Grenfell Company here today and an appointment with Sir Hugo will be made soon, it is said. The Americans hope an agreement will then follow.

Seek to Kill Belgian "Blue Laws."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, April 16.—The Liberal party intends to place before the Chamber tomorrow a proposition to repeal the Vandervelde "blue laws" passed in 1919, prohibiting the sale of strong liquor in cafés and restaurants or in quantities less than two quarts in shops. A counter-proposal making the sale of alcohol a State monopoly will be submitted by the Flemings and Catholics. There is strong Socialist opposition, and it is doubted whether either measure can be passed before the adjournment of Parliament for the general election, which takes place the end of the month.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

"He Does Not Seek Farther Than His Nose"

is often said laughingly of some man or woman. They plod along without taking time to read a newspaper or a book. The business man, however, rides a swift steed and, you must notice, often signs his letters, "yours in haste." All the time he lives in the center of operative energy, is generally in an eager mood and in a highly oxygenized air, which stirs his blood and brain fast to energetic, quickening action of benefit to the city and its people. Oftentimes the movements of a conscientious merchant in the pressure of circumstances are an inspiration to others.

U. S. STEEL OFFERS $39,779,753 RIGHTS

Directors Vote $142,324,700 New Common Stock at $140 to Be Offered on 1 to 7 Basis.

NO DIVIDEND CUT LIKELY

Corporation Will Use Funds to Redeem $134,830,000 in Bonds Due in 1951.

TAYLOR TELLS OF PLANS

Says It Is Present Intention Also to Retire Soon $136,555,000 Issue Maturing in 1963.

To carry out the $271,385,000 bond redemption program recently adopted, directors of the United States Steel Corporation voted yesterday to offer 1,016,605 additional shares of common stock at $140 a share, in the ratio of one new share for every seven owned, to holders of record May 1.

Through this operation the common stockholders will finance the bond retirement plan to the extent of $142,324,700, which is the amount the corporation expects to raise through the stock offering. The subscription rights are calculated to be worth $5.59 apiece, or an aggregate of $39,779,753, on the basis of yesterday's closing price for Steel common.

Announcement of the details of the plan by which the corporation has arranged to erase its entire funded debt was delayed until an hour after the close of the stock market. Wall Street, after passing through a day of suspense, examined the terms of the stock offering with surprise. The subscription price of $140 was close to expectations, but the one-for-seven basis had not been mentioned in the long series of rumors that followed the disclosure late in February of the corporation's proposed capital readjustment.

To Retire Two Issues.

The directors took the necessary action yesterday to call for redemption the entire issue of fifty-year 5 per cent bonds, due April 1, 1951, and of which $134,830,000 was outstanding at the end of last year. Sept. 1 was fixed as the retirement date. Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, also announced that it was the intention to retire on Nov. 1 the so-called ten-sixty-year 5 per cent bonds, which amounted to $136,555,000 at the close of 1928. The ten-sixty bonds would mature on April 1, 1963.

More than $305,000,000 will be required to redeem the two issues, since the fifty-year bonds are being called at 115 and interest and the ten-sixty bonds at 110 and interest. The corporation, unless the directors should decide to make another stock offering, will dig into its treasury for fully $162,000,000 of the total needed. Part of the two issues, it is understood, has already been retired through open market purchases out of funds in the corporation's treasury.

The 1,016,605 additional shares to be sold to stockholders will increase the total amount of such stock outstanding from 7,116,235 shares to 8,132,840. The increased common share capital will have a par value of $813,284,000, against $711,623,500. Including the $360,281,100 of 7 per cent preferred stock outstanding, the entire share capital, after the completion of the present transaction, will have a par value of $1,173,565,100. This will bring the share capital above the $1,018,583,600 represented by the two classes of stock originally issued by the corporation in 1901. In 1903 the corporation retired $150,000,000 of its preferred stock, issuing instead $150,000,000 of the ten-sixty 5 per cent bonds, which it is now proposed to retire.

Payment for the new shares may be made in full on June 20, or half on that date and half on Oct. 1, 1929.

Stockholders at their annual meeting on Monday ratified the directors' plan to increase the authorized common stock from $753,821,000, consisting of 7,533,210 of $100 par shares, to $1,250,000,000, consisting of 12,500,000 of $100 par shares. After the 1,016,605 additional shares of common have been issued there will remain unissued 4,367,160 shares of the 12,500,000-share total that resulted from Monday's action of stockholders. The remaining unissued stock will provide an ample margin for future expansion plans, for additional stock subscription offerings or for stock dividends.

No Cut in Dividend Expected.

It is regarded as virtually certain that the present 7 per cent annual dividend rate will be maintained on the increased common stock that will be outstanding after the present financing. That no change in the dividend rate is contemplated was clearly indicated on Feb. 26, when the directors originally announced the plan to retire the funded debt. Wall Street has heard recently that the corporation may pay an extra cash dividend some time this year. There has also been talk of a possible stock dividend.

Retirement of the corporation's funded debt will leave outstanding only the bonds of subsidiary companies, amounting to about $138,000,000. It is understood that some of these bonds will be retired later. The redemption of the funded debt of the corporation proper will reduce the corporation's fixed charges by 29,247,350. The dividend requirements on the additional common stock, figured at the present $7 annual rate, will be $7,116,235, so that a net saving of $22,131,115 will be realized.

The directors met early in the afternoon and remained in session at the corporation's building, at 71 Broadway, until shortly before 4 o'clock. Mr. Taylor made the announcement with hurried informality, calling newspaper men into his office. So surprising was his announcement that he was permitted to stride out of his office before newspaper men thought to ask him about the bond retirement. Stepping back into the room, he briefly explained that the machinery already had been put in motion for the retirement of the fifty-year 5s. Asked about the 10-60 issue, he said it was the "present intention" to call that issue as of Nov. 1.

Mr. Taylor, President James A. Farrell, Controller William J. Filbert and the few other directors who had remained in the room smiled their satisfaction with the plan. "You see," Mr. Taylor said, "we are taking care of a good part of it with funds already on hand. "Now," he added, "you have the whole story, so I shall bid you good-day."

Part of the $160,000,000 or more which the corporation will take out of its treasury to finance the bond redemption came in the form of about $29,000,000 of tax refunds from the United States Government. In addition to that, the corporation has other claims against the government which are said to amount to nearly $100,000,000. The corporation's executives, it is understood, are hopeful that the greater part if not all of these claims will be allowed, so that it is considered possible that the major part of the cash required, above that realized from the sale of additional common stock, will be provided for through such refunds.

Of the $134,830,000 of fifty-year bonds, a small part are non-redeemable and are being retired through an agreement with the holders. The greater part of the issue, it is understood, is held by beneficiaries under the will of the late Andrew Carnegie. These include the heirs of Mr. Carnegie, the Carnegie Foundation and other Carnegie philanthropies.

United States Steel common has been moving heavily on the New York Stock Exchange for some days and yesterday it was one of the weakest issues on the list, the selling apparently reflecting the growing conviction that the more fantastic stories about the terms of the stock offering would be found incorrect. Opening at 187¾, the stock rose to 187¾ and then fell back to 184¾, at which it closed, showing a net loss of 2⅝ points. The highest the stock has sold this year was 193⅞, while the year's low was 157½.

Amends Incorporation Certificate.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 16.—The United States Steel Corporation filed today an amended certificate of incorporation at the office of the Secretary of State here, the fee to New Jersey being $69,368.60. The authorized capital of the concern is increased to $1,650,000,000, divided into 4,000,000 shares of preferred stock and 12,500,000 shares of common stock, both having a par value of $100.

English High-Wire Walker Dies In 50-Foot Fall at a Fair

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—Theodore Gappa, England's veteran tight-rope walker, crashed to his death tonight from a high wire over the Southall Fair Ground. A thousand horrified people saw Gappa, who was seized by a fit of giddiness, make a desperate effort to cling to the wire, fifty feet above the ground.

For several minutes he hung head downward with his legs crossed over the wire. Meantime attendants had spread a tent cover beneath him, but when his grip finally failed he crashed right through it and was killed.

WILBUR OUTLINES NEW INDIAN POLICY

It Will Be to Make Nation's Wards Self-Respecting American Citizens.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Simultaneously with President Hoover's nomination of James C. Rhoads, to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Secretary Wilbur outlined today his policy of Indian administration, saying the fundamental aim would be to make of the Indian a "self-sustaining, self-respecting American citizen," just as rapidly as this can be brought about. Mr. Rhoads, who is a member of Brown Brothers, bankers, of Philadelphia, has a tradition of Indian service in his family, his father having been associated with organizations favorable to the Indians for many years. He has been president of the Indian Rights Association for a year.

Secretary Wilbur said the new policy had been considered by the Board of Indian Commissioners, created by Congress to advise it on Indian problems and given general approval by that board. "The Indian shall no longer be viewed as a ward of the nation, but shall be considered a potential citizen," said Mr. Wilbur, in stating the policy.

"As rapidly as possible he is to have the full responsibility for himself. Leadership should be given the Indians rather than custodianship. The Indian stock is of excellent quality. It can readily merge with that of the nation.

"In order to bring this about it will be necessary to revise our educational program into one of a practical and vocational character and to mature plans for the absorption of the Indian into the industrial and agricultural life of the nation.

"Decentralization of the activities of the bureau shall be brought about as rapidly as possible.

"Viewed over a term of years the Indian, as such, with his abnormal powers, shall be dispensed with. In so far as it is feasible the problems of health and of education for the Indians shall become a responsibility of the various States.

RASKOB AND CHIEFS TAKE UP PARTY DEBT

The Democratic Executive and Advisory Committees Will Meet Here Today.

TO END $1,500,000 DEFICIT

Also Will Discuss Holding a General Conference of National Leaders.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, has called a conference of members of its executive and advisory committees and other influential members of the party, it was learned yesterday. The conference will be held Friday night at the Ritz-Carlton.

Finances and methods of meeting the $1,500,000 deficit which resulted from the unsuccessful campaign to elect former Governor Alfred E. Smith to the Presidency will be among the topics discussed. It is understood that plans for the future policies of the party and the advisability of holding a meeting of the National Committee or a general party conference also will be discussed.

Governor Smith and Senator Joseph T. Robinson, nominee for Vice President, have been asked to attend the conference. The members of the executive committee include former Senator Peter Goelet Gerry of Rhode Island, James J. Hoey, Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee. Senator Gerry, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, J. Bruce Kremer of Montana and Jouett Shouse of Kansas were members of the advisory committee.

Workers to Be Invited.

James W. Gerard, treasurer of the National Committee, also is expected to attend the conference and it was said that persons like William F. Kenny, James J. Riordan and John F. Gilchrist, who contributed largely or worked actively during last Fall's campaign, probably would be included.

The Democratic National Committee, according to the report submitted by Mr. Gerard to the clerk of the House of Representatives, spent $5,342,349 in its attempt to elect the Smith-Robinson ticket and had a deficit of about $1,500,000. The loans to cover this deficit were arranged through the County Trust Company of New York, of which Mr. Smith subsequently was elected a director. The County Trust Company, however, holds only $200,000 of these notes. Of the balance of the loans the Bankers Trust Company, according to an announcement from the committee three months ago, carried $800,000, the Brooklyn Trust Company, $200,000, and the International Germanic Trust Company, $200,000.

About $200,000 to apply on the deficit has been obtained through the sale of Mr. Smith's book of campaign speeches as the result of his appeal in a radio speech. Of this amount, $50,000 was contributed by Tammany, the Brooklyn Democratic organization through John H. McCooey and the Bronx Democratic organization through Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn. It is expected that methods of reducing the deficit further by extension of the sales of the book and possibly by other methods will be discussed at the conference.

Little information concerning the conference, except a confirmation that one was to be held, could be obtained from Mr. Raskob. When informed that it was reported that he had called such a conference, he said:

"I have not had a meeting of the committee since election. I thought it was time to get together and discuss things generally."

General Meeting Opposed.

The suggestion for calling a meeting of the Democratic National Committee or holding a general party conference, which is understood to be likely to be among the matters discussed, was said to be likely to meet with objections. Mr. Raskob proposed last December to have a meeting of the national committee and a little later advanced the idea of a general party conference.

Both suggestions at the time were opposed by some Democrats, and particularly caustic criticism of such a course came from Southern Democrats. Senators Walsh of Montana, Overman of North Carolina, Glass and Swanson of Virginia, Caraway of Arkansas, George and Harris of Georgia, Black of Alabama, Fletcher of Florida, Shepard of Texas, and McKellar and Tyson of Tennessee, were among the Southerners who supported Mr. Smith who opposed a national committee meeting, while the sentiment of those Southern Democrats who bolted the national ticket was even more antagonistic. The consensus among them was that a meeting at that time would reopen the wounds caused by the election. Mr. Raskob then abandoned his idea of either a committee meeting or a general conference.

Since that time, it was said, there had been a change of sentiment among some of the Democratic National Committee members regarding the advisability of holding a meeting. John M. Callahan, National Committeman from Wisconsin, is known to have written some of his colleagues on the advisability of a meeting and to have received a number of favorable replies. Scott Ferris, National Committeeman from Oklahoma, was said to be one of those who believed that a meeting might be helpful as a method of gettting the various factions in the party together and of dispelling the prejudices aroused during the Presidential campaign.

ROBS MRS. DAVE BANCROFT.

Thief Gets Bonds and Gems Valued at $9,000 in Hotel Here.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 16.—Mrs. Dave Bancroft, wife of the coach of the Brooklyn Baseball Club and former manager of the Boston Braves, was robbed of bonds and jewels valued at $9,000 Saturday in New York, she revealed here today. Two diamond bar pins and two diamond-studded wrist watches, valued at $4,000; three $1,000 bonds of the Nassau Land Bank of Germany and two $1,000 Graybar Building Corporation bonds were stolen from her room in the Hotel Alamac while she was in her bath. Her pocketbook, containing the property, was lying on the bed.

Expecting a baggage man, Mrs. Bancroft had left the door to her room unlocked. When she emerged from the bathroom the purse was gone. The bonds have been listed at all clearing houses.

Workers See Bandits Seize $5,360 Payroll; Riot Near as They Demand Wages at Once

A near riot occurred late yesterday afternoon among the 110 employes of Morris White & Co., Inc., pocketbook manufacturers of 1 Bond Street, when four armed robbers stole the $5,360 company payroll, delaying the factory pay-off. The employes at first attempted to rush the hold-up men but were driven back and the robbers escaped. Later the employes were said to have threatended assault on company officers, demanding immediate payment. They were controlled by the police.

The hold-up occurred just before closing time when Louis Goldstein, accountant, and Isaac Kramer, manager, were completing the work of sorting out the payroll envelopes. The money had been brought to the offices by Goldstein two hours before from the Bank of America, Great Jones Street and Broadway.

The four bandits entered with revolvers drawn and ordered Goldstein and Kramer to put up their hands and stand back from the table on which the money lay. The scene was enacted in plain view of a large number of the employes and some of the men grouped together apparently for a rush against the bandits.

Several young women became excited and ran toward the fire escapes screaming for help. The four armed men quickly advanced toward the workers with revolvers raised threateningly, scattered the massing men and headed the women away from the fire escapes.

They then thrust the pay envelopes into their pockets, ran down the stairs and escaped in a waiting automobile. On the way one of the men dropped his gray fedora hat, and this, with a fairly complete description of all the bandits, was turned over to the police of the Mercer Street station.

Before starting their investigation of the crime, however, it is said that the police first found it necessary to disperse factory workers who had grouped about Kramer and Goldstein demanding immediate payment of their wages for the week.

SCHULTE DEMANDS CIGARETTE WAR END

Issues Ultimatum That Unless Price Cutting Ceases in Sixty Days He Will Fight It Out.

WARNS BIG GROCERY CHAINS

Threatens to Make Standard Rate 11 Cents a Package—Acts on Queries on Dividends.

The tobacco war, which has been carried on intermittently during the last year or so, broke out anew at the meeting of stockholders of the Schulte Retail Stores Corporation, and David A. Schulte, president of the company, delivered an ultimatum to the tobacco trade and to chain-store dealers that unless price cutting ceased within sixty days a war of price-cutting "to the bone" would be carried out in all parts of the country.

The statement was directed particularly at the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company and other large grocery and chain store organizations, who advertise standard 15-cent cigarsette brands for 11 cents. The price war has already cut sharply into the earnings of the major cigarette distributers and this led to several sharp questions by Schulte stockholders, to the implication that the dividend would be passed and finally to the charge by several stockholders that many Schulte directors had disposed of their holdings in the open market.

Although the meeting was not held in New York, but in Delaware, in which State the corporation is chartered, it is said to have been attended by about 150 stockholders. They questioned Mr. Schulte at length particularly about the share-holdings of the directors. Stockholders are said to have repeated charges that Wall Street knew that the diivdend would be passed.

"I knew the directors were selling stock," said Mr. Schulte, "but I did not know they had sold out. It was merely a mater of self preservation."

Mr. Schulte declared that the entire difficulty had started when the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company started selling 15-cent cigarettes for 11 cents. He said that if his corporation cut prices to compete with the grocery store chains, the United Cigar Stores would probably follow, which would have the effect of establishing the low level of prices. "Retailers are going to make a legitimate profit or no profit at all," he said.

He told of the especially sharp competition from the grocery chains in Boston, where he called conditions "deplorable," and where the Schulte stores have cut cigarette prices to 11 cents a package to meet the competition. He said that if this situation were not righted within sixty days the trade could expect that price all over the country.

There have been repeated rumors in the financial district that the corporation would pass or cut its dividend because of unsatisfactory trade conditions. The shares pay $3.50 annually and sold last year above $62. Since reaching that figure, however, they have declined steadily and lost 2¾ points additional yesterday, closing at 27½. The high for the year was 41½ and the low 25½. Earnings of the corporation last year were $5,243,711, after charges, or $3.34 on 1,133,000 shares of no par common, compared with $6,919,220 or $4.91 a share on 1,116,145 shares in 1927.

The books of the company at the annual meeting are said to have disclosed that D. A. Schulte held 33,000, shares of common and 20,000 of preferred when the books closed as of March 30. Joseph M. Schulte held 202 shares of common and 3,008 of preferred, Udo M. Reinach held no common and 1,000 shares of preferred, Louis Goldvogel owned no common and 100 shares of preferred, Jerome Eisner held ten shares of common and ten of preferred, Arthur D. Schulte, son of D. A. Schulte, held no stock on the book, although D. A. Schulte declared he held some stock for his son.

Directors were re-elected by a vote of 826,974 shares out of a total of 1,133,000 common shares outstanding.

FIND DOCTOR'S WIFE BEGGING IN STREET

An elderly woman stood in the driving, wind-swept rain at Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway yesterday morning begging. She had a black, crumpled wet dress and a tattered shawl. The rain washed strands of gray hair down over her forehead. Many persons stopped hurrying to shelter long enough to give her a few small coins.

She stayed in the same spot, wet and cold, for several hours. Then Detective Nathaniel Snydecker of the mendicant squad passed by and as a kindness took her to the West Thirtieth Street station. She gave her name as Emma Keller, her age as 50 years, her home only the streets.

While detectives from the Thirtieth Street station notified the Missing Persons Bureau, the aged woman went before Magistrate Rosenbluth in Jefferson Market Court. Again she gave her name as Keller. The magistrate found her guilty of begging, for she admitted it, and held her, pending investigation, for sentencing on Friday.

A few hours later the Missing Persons Bureau compared her description with that of Mrs. Emma Schmid, 72 years old, of 109 West Ninety-fourth Street. Mrs. Schmid's brother, A. R. Keller, president of the Town Topics Publishing Company, was notified and advised to go to Jefferson Market Court. The woman was brought before the magistrate and Mr. Keller identified his sister.

She had been ill for some time, he said, and had left home Saturday morning. The family searched for her, the police sent out an alarm and descriptions were broadcast over the radio. She and her husband, Dr. Henry Schmid, a retired physician, had searched throughout the city.

Mrs. Schmid could not tell the court where she had been since leaving home, answering all questions vaguely. As soon as Mr. Keller had identified her, Magistrate Rosenbluth suspended sentence and she was taken home.

GOV. LONG WINS POINT IN LOUISIANA SENATE

Chamber, in Adopting Trial Rules, Permits Defense Demurrer to Any and All Charges.

BATON ROUGE, La., April 16 (AP).—Governor Huey P. Long's fight to avert trial on counts of impeachment voted since the special legislative session ended April 6, resulted in a virtual compromise today in the Senate as the lower house continued taking of testimony on his alleged "strip" gambling raids, employment of a purported bodyguard and alleged misuse of State funds.

Without passing on the legality of House charges voted April 6 or still to be taken up, the Senate decided to receive any further indictments brought and permit Governor Long to file a demurrer on arraignment to any and all charges. The decision followed adoption of rules for the trial.

The Senate adjourned until April 25, after notifying the House that Count 2, charging the Governor with bribery of two legislators to vote for his proposed oil tax, had been formally received.

By a vote of 22 to 15 the trial body adopted a rule providing for sustaining or dismissing by a majority vote of the Senate exceptions of the defense. A two-thirds vote is necessary to convict on any count filed.

W. O. Hart, a New Orleans lawyer, testifying before the House on the charge that the Governor had misappropriated State funds, said that his information was that there was a balance of $2,000 unaccounted for remaining from the $6,000 granted for the entertainment of the Governors' conference here last Fall. The charge is the Governor has never made an accounting.

HARVEY ON STAND AT TRIAL OF PAINO

Again Describes $10,000 Offer, Explains Klan Charge and Defends War Record.

PROSECUTION ENDS TODAY

City Employe Testifies Contractor Has Received $3,956,485 on Queens Contracts.

Borough President Harvey of Queens, testifying yesterday as the star witness for the prosecution, at the trial of Angelo Paino, wealthy Brooklyn sewer contractor, described again in great detail how on Nov. 11, 1928, he was offered at his Summer home in New Milford, Conn., a $10,000 bank-note as a bribe in behalf of certain contractors.

Paino is being tried before County Judge Adel and a jury in the Long Island City Courthouse on a charge of having aided and abetted the attempt to bribe Mr. Harvey. Although admitting that he provided the bank-note, Paino has stated that the money was given by him as a contribution to Mr. Harvey's campaign.

Paino in court yesterday heard the prosecution charge that he planned to succeed the late Jack Phillips as "Sewer King" of Queens, and that the $10,000 contribution was a step toward that end.

In the cross-examination of Mr. Harvey strenuous attempts were made by Robert S. Johnstone, counsel for Paino, to connect the Borough President with the Ku Klux Klan and the American Krusaders, an organization affiliated with the Klan. Mr. Harvey denied he ever tried to join either organization, although he admitted that through an error he nearly signed an application for membership in the Klan.

Denies Signature.

Shown a document, with what purported to be the borough president's signature at the bottom, Mr. Johnstone asked Mr. Harvey if he ever signed the paper. Mr. Harvey said the signature looked like his, but that he had never signed it.

After Mr. Harvey had finished describing how Frank H. Berg Jr. of Far Rockaway had offered him the $10,000 bank-note, repeating testimony he gave at Berg's trial last month, he admitted on cross-examination that prior to Nov. 11 Berg had never suggested any bribe.

Mr. Johnstone subjected Mr. Harvey to a severe cross-examination, questioning him about his early life, his political career and his war service.

After having Mr. Harvey relate the alleged bribery episode on Nov. 11, Mr. Johnstone asked:

"Did you ever in your life have a talk with Mr. Paino about that $10,000 bill?"

"Never," Mr. Harvey replied.

Mr. Harvey testified he did not know of any conversation between Berg and Paino regarding the $10,000 banknote.

Suddenly dropping the subject of the attempted bribe, Mr. Johnstone questioned Mr. Harvey concerning the Klan application.

"Were you not about to sign an application for the American Krusaders, but Mr. Frederick Sasse took it out of your hands and told you not to do it?" Mr. Johnstone asked.

"Yes," replied Mr. Harvey, "but it was not an application for the American Krusaders. It was an application for the Ku Klux Klan."

On re-direct examination Mr. Harvey explained he was attending a testimonial dinner and he was asked to sign menus, cards and photographs. As he was about to affix his signature to a small card, he said, Mr. Sasse snatched it out of his hand, calling his attention to the fact that the card was a Ku Klux Klan application.

Mr. Johnstone later asked, "Were you not arrested for cowardice during the World War?" The witness shouted: "That's a lie, and you know it!"

It was brought out during Mr. Harvey's testimony that he was recently awarded the Distinguished Service Cross by the War Department.

Mrs. Harvey Testifies.

Mrs. Gladys Harvey, wife of the Borough President, testified briefly as to the visit made to New Milford, Conn., by Berg on Nov. 11.

H. Hamilton Heyson, vice president of the National Bank of Far Rockaway, and Francis R. Abrams, teller at the same institution, testified that Berg deposited a $10,000 bank-note on Nov. 12, 1928.

Irving Klein, Superintendent of Highways in Queens, the next witness, also told of being at the Harvey Summer home on Nov. 11 and seeing Berg there.

By agreement of counsel the testimony Paino gave at the trial of Berg and Levin was then read into the record Paino was quoted as testifying he frequently carried large sums of money and that he gave the $10,000 to Berg shortly before Mr. Harvey's election as a campaign contribution.

Eugene J. Tully of 1,014 East Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, the next witness, a clerk in the office of Controller Charles W. Berry, testified that to date $3,956,455.37 has been paid to Paino on Queens contracts. On cross-examination, Tully said that before payment was made the work was examined and approved by the borough engineers and by engineers from Mr. Berry's department.

The last witness for the day was Martin Hanson of 194-07 110th Road, St. Albans, Queens, until recently yard superintendent for Paino.

He testified that eighteen laborers who worked for Mr. Phillips when the latter died were hired to work by Paino, and also that shortly after Phillips died, Paino began to manufacture pre-cast sewer pipe.

The trial will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning. The prosecution will finish presenting its evidence today.

KILLED IN BALLOON CRASH.

Glenn Austin of Jackson, Mich., Dies in Carnival Exhibition.

OGDEN, Utah, April 16 (AP).—Glenn Austin, 24, of Jackson, Mich., was killed today when his balloon crashed to the ground here. A carnival crowd of several hundred persons witnessed the accident.

Austin, who was attempting to ascend, had gained an elevation of about 200 feet when the balloon began to sag. He pulled the cord to release a parachute, but it failed to open.

Comments From Will Rogers On Certain British Issues

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BOSTON, Mass., April 16.—England is taking the tax off tea. It's been on 300 years.

Now, why don't they take the quinine or assafitity (or whatever it is) out of their coffee? It tastes like something that had been in there 300 years, too. Poor coffee and no bathtubs have drove more Americans out of England than unfamiliarity with their language has.

Winston Churchill's party is running on "no tea tax and no betting tax." Lloyd George's gang is running on "more employment." Churchill will win. If an Englishman has got tea and can bet on a horse, what does he want with employment?

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Hoover has already deserted Coolidge's policies. Nothing in the message about the "condition of the country."

TEXAS GUINAN SHOW CLOSED BY POLICE

Summons Is Served on Manager of Club Intime and Guard Is Posted There.

TEST CASE IS PLANNED

Hearing on Monday to Decide if Cabaret May Run After 3 A. M. Since It Is in Hotel.

Texas Guinan's cabaret show at the Club Intime in the Hotel Harding at 203 West Fifty-fourth Street, is doomed to remain closed at least until next Monday unless the Supreme Court comes to the club owners' aid.

Just as the show was about to begin at 12:30 A. M. this morning Detective Anthony Larrousse of Inspector Loonsam's staff gave Karl Dopits, an assistant manager in the establishment, a summons charging that the club was operating a cabaret without a license. The summons is returnable Monday in West Side Court. In the meantime a uniformed patrolman is to stand guard in the club to see that no attempt is made to put on the show unless the Supreme Court gives permission.

Sixty Patrons in Club.

Sixty patrons had pushed back their chairs and were waiting expectantly for the performers to appear when informed there would be no show. Miss Guinan was not in the club.

The summons was served to test the proprietor's contention that the Club Intime is a part of the Hotel Harding and for that reason may operate a cabaret show without a special license. It has been held by the proprietor that the cabaret does not come under the 3 A. M. curfew ordinance, which exempts hotels.

At 2 o'clock, when the club was almost empty, except for a few couples seated at the tables, detectives under Lieutenant Patrick Kenneally entered the place and arrested Frank Pisaro, captain of waiters, and Robert Ronan, a waiter, on charges of possessing liquor.

They were locked in West Forty-seventh Street Station. At the same time summons were served on six employes of the club for "handling food without a Health Department permit."

The allegation that the Club Intime has been operating in the Hotel Harding without a certificate of occupancy from the Building Department was made yesterday in the Supreme Court by Andrew J. Kerwin, president of the West Side Hotel Corporation, owner of the Harding. He filed an order signed by Justice Ford, calling on the Club Intime to show cause why it should not be restrained from making alterations.

Charge Building Violation.

Kerwin contends that the club proprietors have altered the appearance of the part leased to them so that it no longer a part of the hotel but a separate restaurant. It is believed that Kerwin's appearance in Supreme Court was the result of an order issued by the Building Department, caling on Jacob Ginsberg, lesee of the Harding, to discontinue use of the entire hotel structure because of an alleged violation of the building code.

Commissioner Whalen said yesterday that his "curfew crew" of 100 men had received "100 per cent cooperation" in the midtown district, Greenwich Village and in Harlem. He admitted, however, that his men entered all clubs fifteen minutes before "curfew" time to warn proprietors to close.

The Commissioner's raiders were busy last night. They arrested a waiter at 167 West Forty-eighth Street; a waiter and manager at 254 West Fifty-fifth Street and the manager and a waiter in the Mozart Club at 133 West Fifty-second Street, all on charges of possessing liquor.

POSTSCRIPT'S CREW SEIZED

New York Youths Were Mistaken for Embezzlers in Havana.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 16.—F. Slade Dale and Peter Jenness Jr. who left New York in November in the twenty-three-foot sailing sloop Postscript, arrived in Havana this afternoon after an exciting journey from Jamaica.

After clearing for Havana, the Postscript encountered head winds and was compelled to put into the port of Esperanza for food. The crew was taken in charge by Cuban officials because the ship's papers read Havana.

An overzealous Cuban rural guard then discovered a likeness in Dale to J. L. Lowe, who is wanted in Miami on a charge of embezzlement and for whom a $5,000 reward had been offered. Dale and Jenness were locked up in jail after being taken to Vinales. They were kept incommunicado for twenty-six hours before the consulate in Havana could investigate and effect their release.

Kirk Meadowcraft, of the American Museum of Natural History in New York, who is doing research work in the Province of Pinar del Rio, made a special trip to Havana to get the embassy and consulate to intercede in behalf of the Postscript's crew. On arriving in Havana they found other papers awaiting them which they said would be unraveled tomorrow.

HELEN MORGAN SHUNS NOTICE AT HER TRIAL

Entertainer Silent and Demure as She Is Painted a Drinker by Government Witnesses.

AGENT TELLS OF "PARTY"

Says Defendant Tossed Bills to Performers—Swears He Paid $15 a Pint for Brandy.

QUOTES HER ON CLUB RISK

Actress Declared "If There's Trouble You're an Employe," He Asserts as First Witness in Case.

Helen Morgan, the third actress and night club entertainer to face a Federal judge in this district on a charge of maintaining a nuisance under the national prohibition act, was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Edwin S. Thomas and a jury of middle-aged and elderly men, of whom four were listed as "retired," two others as having "no occupations" and one of whom admitted a prejudice against prohibition enforcement methods.

Through the testimony of two Federal prohibition agents the government began to unfold a tale of alleged "whoopee-making" by Miss Morgan which included many drinks of undiluted brandy consumed as she sat upon a bar, sang "Ol' Man River" and tossed dollar bills to the negro entertainers. The agents admitted that they had been with her for one morning and that this and similar convivialities indulged in in the performance of their duty had cost the government sums ranging from $55.75 to $92.60 a night.

Throughout yesterday's session Miss Morgan sat silent and demure. She offered no suggestions and seemed endeavoring completely to efface herself.

Miss Morgan, as did Texas Guinan, recently acquitted before Judge Thomas of a similar charge, elected to stand trial despite guilty pleas by six indicted with her. Two other defendants, Nicholas Blair and Herman Brooks, failed to appear for trial yesterday, their bail bonds were declared forfeited and bench warrants were ordered for their arrest at the request of Special Deputy United States Attorney General Leslie Salter of the staff of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, Assistant United States Attorney General. New bonds of $5,000 each will be required.

Repeated objections by J. Arthur Adler, attorney for Miss Morgan, brought Mr. Salter's opening address to the jury to an abrupt close. Mr. Salter told the jury that Miss Morgan and nine others were charged with maintaining a nuisance at Helen Morgan's Summer Home, a night club at 134 West Fifty-second Street. Blair, he said, had been in charge with two associates whom the investigators had been unable to identify.

"Miss Morgan's position," Mr. Salter continued, "was that of entertainer. Her duty was to draw crowds so that more liquor might be sold. She held a similar position in a night club at 151 West Fifty-fourth Street (Chez Helen Morgan) and she told agents of how she often sat on the bar there and drank and sang."

Dry Agent Testifies.

The first witness was John J. Mitchell, one of the so-called "Four Horsemen" who came here to gather evidence for the June, 1928, night club raids. Under direct examination he told of many visits to the Summer Home, of many purchases of liquor at $10 a pint for whisky, $15 a pint for brandy and $25 a quart for champagne. He told of $10 tips to headwaiters and $7 tips to waiters who actually served him and his party. On most of his visits, Mitchell said, he had been with Lon H. Tyson, another Federal agent, and Tyson's wife.

On the early morning of June 24, 1928, the witness testified, he and Mr. and Mrs. Tyson were joined at their table by Miss Morgan, who had been introduced to them on a previous party.

"Agent Tyson," Mitchell said, "invited Miss Morgan to sit down and have a drink with us. She asked what we were drinking. Tyson told her we had been drinking whisky, but that we might order wine (champagne). She shrugged at the mention of wine and Tyson suggested brandy. She said, 'Yes, order brandy. That's my drink. I've been drinking it all evening. I love brandy.'

"The waiter soon returned saying he was sorry, but they were all out of brandy. She sent for Herman Brooks and told him to go to her house and bring back six quarts of brandy. She said to him 'Tell mamma not to give you that Napoleon, but the other brandy.'"

During the evening the agents purchased two pints of the brandy at $15 each.

Said There Was No Risk.

In conversation at the table, Mitchell said, Mrs. Tyson mentioned that she would like to have a night club like the Summer Home in Dallas, Texas. He quoted Miss Morgan as having replied:

"Why don't you do like I do? There isn't any risk. Get a couple or three good fellows to go in with you and then, if there is any trouble, you are just an employe. They will take the blame."

Under cross-examination by Mr. Adler, Mitchell admitted several misstatements, which he called "oversights," in an affidavit in support of an affidavit by Tyson in connection with an injunction action.

Asked why he had made no arrests on earlier visits when he saw the law being violated, he replied he was "trying to get the higher-ups." Asked if he had not made up the alleged statement of Miss Morgan about arrangine to be considered as an employe only, Mitchell answered:

"Don't point your finger at me, please. No, that is absolutely true."

Tyson corroborated Mitchell's story in practically every detail. He was on the stand when an adjournment was taken until 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Before the afternoon session three men who had pleaded not guilty to an indictment allegring the maintanance of a nuisance at the Club Shadowland changed their pleas to guilty. Sentence was deferred by Judge Thomas until the conclusion of the Morgan trial. The men are Leo Judson, proprietor; Benny Levy, bartender, and another Benny Levy, bookkeeper.

Working Within Sight of Home

What a priceless boon the Hotel St. George thus offers! Its location, high on aristocratic old Brooklyn Heights, makes it almost a part of downtown New York, yet utterly free from its wracking din and hurry.

When fellow-workers set out on the long, arduous evening journey to Westchester, Long Island, New Jersey or Uptown New York, lucky St. George residents are whisked home in a scant 4 minutes—and what a home it is—and how very little it costs to live here!

THE PLAY

By J. BROOKS ATKINSON.

Marrying a Radical.

BEFORE YOU'RE 25, a play in three acts, by Kenyon Nicholson. Produced by Lawrence Bond... At Maxine Elliott's Theatre.

Mary Ellen ..... Harriet Donovan
Gibbons ..... William Wylie
Marabeth Downing ..... Carolyn Ferriday
Miss Humford ..... Mary Hubbard
Cornelia Corbin ..... Josephine Hull
Jeffery A. Corbin ..... Fritz Williams
Leonard Corbin ..... Donald McKee
Clement Corbin ..... Eric Dressler
Murphy ..... F. Cecil Butler
Joan Abbott ..... Mildred McCoy
The Rev. Dwight Simpson ..... Edward Broadley
Norman Philbrick ..... Ernest Glendinning
Giuseppe Bellini ..... Federico Corsona
Norina Bellini ..... Lola Vanni

Talking a young radical out of his fiery convictions is apparently not so funny as Kenyon Nicholson and the actors pretend in "Before You're 25," which was put on at Maxine Elliott's last evening. The ideas are serious at bottom. But Mr. Nicholson's treatment is desperately comic and the acting inclines toward farce. Although the situations in this latest of the little accidents are frequently ludicrous, and although the dialogue is droll and the pace of the performance rapid, you are likely to feel that the fun is less furious than the author and actors hope.

Mr. Nicholson is arguing the familiar maxim that radicalism is the toy of the young. When they become parents, the adventure of assaulting the battlements of the righteous begins to lose its glamor for them, and gives way to the bourgeois task of establishing the home.

Before Clement Corbin and Joan Abbott became parents, they were content to defy established authority with their esoteric magazine, and even serve time in jail, if necessary. Fancying themselves as crusaders, living independent lives, they had neglected to marry. But when fortuen sets them down in the prosperous and respectable home of Clement's parents, the canker of responsibility begins to spread. At the final curtain they are to be seen, a little disgruntled, facing the parson, renouncing their careers, and giving their child an honest name.

As a craftsman Mr. Nicholson is more resourceful than as a thinker. After two or three minor flourishes in the first act—such as rushing the stricken young parents into the midst of an afternoon tea—"Before You're 25" resolves itself into the comic difficulties of getting married. Four times these incorrigible brats face the parson before the bond is sealed. The first parson trickles out in embarrassment when he learns that the bans are post-natal. The second parson stops in the midst of the service to propose to the bride himself. It is only after the sulky groom has been cajoled and threatened and turned into a jealous lover, full of the old possessive instinct, that he goes through with the ceremony.

All this construction makes for liveliness, especially with so able a cast. Josephine Hull, who has been long in a state of flux, much to public enjoyment, faints, screams and saws the air profusely as the helpless, shocked mother. As the hard-headed father, Fritz Williams clamps his jaw firm and puffs cigars nervously. Mary Hubbard, as the smug nurse, rushes in and out with maddening phrases of assurance on her lips. Ernest Glendinning, as the parson, is, like the part, suave and superior. Mildred McCoy as the unmarried mother is altogether delightful and Eric Dressler as the radical crusader is admirably rugged in the style of his acting.

When Mr. Nicholson wrote this comedy, in the years before either "The Barker" or "Little Eva," this tracking of young radicalism to its lair must have seemed more momentous, and giving birth to a baby before marriage was certainly audacious. But now the excitement seems more forced than genuine, and predicated upon ideas that are not intrinsically comic.

FOUR OPENINGS ON MONDAY.

Negro Revue Added to List—"The Sea Gull" in Evening Performances.

With the addition yesterday of "Messin' Around," a negro revue, there will be four theatrical premières on Monday evening. "Messin' Around," of which Louis Isquith is the producer, will open at the Hudson Theatre.

Already announced for next Monday are "The Come-On Man," at the Forty-ninth Street; "Marry the Man," at the Fulton, and "Carnival," at the Forrest. On Tuesday "The Little Show," the intimate revue which Brady and Wiman are sponsoring, is expected to come to the Music Box, although there is a possibility that its opening may be put off a week.

"The Sea Gull," the Tchekov play, which an actors' group has been offering for special matinees at the Comedy, will go into evening performances next week. They will be given on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

Ruth Draper, accordingly, will appear in daily matinees at the Comedy for the last week of her engagement. She will also play on Thursday night of next week, when a benefit is scheduled for the Seamen's Church Institute Associations.

SAY BONES HELD LIQUOR.

Havana Police Report "Marrow" Leaked—American Held.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, April 16.—Bones of animals shipped from Cuba to the United States were employed as containers for contraband liquor by a band of American smugglers, according to the Havana police.

The hollow parts of the bones were cleared and the marrow spaces filled with various contraband liquor and drugs, the police say. The business is declared to have flourished until some of the bones leaked and the plot was discovered.

An American, who gave his name as Sydney Hoffman, is now being held in Havana charged with complicity and proceedings have been begun to deport him.

PLOT ON SALVADOR HEAD.

Police Announce Frustration of Plan to Kill President.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, April 16 (AP).—The authorities announced today frustration of a plot to assassinate President Pio Romero Bosque. Several arrests were made.

Federico G. Kreitz, former Chief of Police; Dan Lainez, José Martinez and Panfilo Montoya were among those arrested.

The plot, the police said, was to be carried out tomorrow evening. The plotters will be tried in accordance with law by a military court convened for the purpose.

By Postal Radio to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 16.—According to a report circulated in Managua this afternoon, an attempt was actually made to assassinate President Bosque today and the man who shot at him with a revolver was arrested.

LEHIGH PLAY CAST CHOSEN.

T. M. Brennan of Rockville Centre to Have Lead in "The Bad Man"

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 16.—After several weeks of competition for places in "The Bad Man," the annual production of the Mustard and Cheese Dramatic Club of Lehigh University, final selection of the cast was made this evening by J. R. O'Neil, the coach. The club was founded by Richard Harding Davis when he was an undergraduate.

The leading part, that of the Bad Man, will be taken by Thomas M. Brennan of Rockville Centre, L. I., president of the club. Other members of the cast are Bertram J. Friedman, Sydney R. Snitkin and George C. Scott of New York; Harold M. Schwartz, Joel E. Rotenberg, John H. Manley and J. Karsten Ahlberg of Brooklyn. The stage manager is Eugene H. Quinlan of Yonkers, N. Y. His assistants are Henry H. Behr of Montclair, N. J., and Chester M. Wilcox of Binghamton, N. Y.

The first performance will be given at a matinee on April 20 in conjunction with the annual Spring house party at Lehigh. The play will be repeated here on the following Saturday. The third performance will be given in Philadelphia on May 2 at the Bellevue-Stratford under the auspices of the Philadelphia Lehigh Club.

NORMA TERRIS IN TALKIES.

Member of "Show Boat" Company Signs Contract With Fox.

Norma Terris, musical comedy actress, who plays the rôle of Magnolia in the stage production of "Show Boat," yesterday signed a contract with Fox Movietone to act in the audible films, beginning June 10. It is said that her first film will probably be the screen musical version of Oscar Strauss's newest operetta "Married in Hollywood," recently acquired by the Fox Film Corporation from the composer of "The Chocolate Soldier." J. Harold Murray, who played the leading rôle in "Rio Rita" is expected to be cast opposite Miss Terris for this picture. Her second screen vehicle will probably be a musical version of the stage play, "Cameo Kirby."

BACH CANTATA IS SUNG.

"Thou Guide of Israel" Given by Lutheran Oratorio Society.

Bach's cantata, "Thou Guide of Israel," was sung by the Lutheran Oratorio Society in a concert last evening at St. Luke's Church, in West Forty-sixth Street, where the practice of Bach's music is carried on throughout the season under Hugh Porter's direction. A program of "The Church Year in Chorales" introduced a dozen of the Leipzig master's other writings for the various holy days, with short compositions by Calvisius, Pretorius and Christiansen. Edna Weese, Ethel Flentye, Carl Theman and Carl Broman assisted Mr. Porter's chorus in a performance of exceptional character, enhanced by its churchly setting on this occasion.

McNutt to Address Catholic Actors.

Patterson McNutt will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the Catholic Actors' Guild on Friday afternoon at the Hotel Astor. Mr. McNutt, producer of "Kibitzer," which the Guild has selected as its play for the month of April, will talk on "Why Should Failures Be Produced?" Eddie Dowling and James Hanley will also appear, and announcement will be made by the Rev. Martin Fahy that the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, and the Right Rev. Thomas C. O'Reilly, Bishop of Scranton, Pa., will be guests of honor at the annual meeting on May 14.

Concert by Rubinstein Club.

The Rubinstein Club's chorus took leave of the Waldorf-Astoria last evening with a concert in the ballroom where its members have sung for thirty-two years. Closing the program was Carrie Jacobs Bond's "A Perfect Day," with an added stanza by the club president, Mrs. Chapman, on the closing of the hotel. Dr. William R. Chapman, the conductor, composed for the chorus an "Ave Maria" and a waltz song, "Spring Joy," the latter with solo by Beatrice Belkin. Rozsy Varady, 'cello, and Justin Lawrie, tenor, were others assisting.

Chaplin, 40, Refuses $1,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, April 16.—Charlie Chaplin celebrated his fortieth birthday anniversary today by turning down $1,000,000 in cash. The million dollars was offered yesterday by James Cruze, fellow film producer, for six months of Chaplin's time for making a talking picture. Chaplin said he preferred to work in his own pictures, under his own direction.

Vermont Junior Play is Cast.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 16.—The annual junior week play at the University of Vermont this year, which will be presented on May 16, is "Summertime" by Louis N. Parker. The play will be coached by Professor J. T. Metcalf. Among the members of the cast are: Elizabeth M. Cory of Montclair, N. J., and Kathryn A. Rauh of South Orange, N. J.

Madge Kennedy Arriving Today.

Madge Kennedy, who has been abroad for several months, will arrive today on the Ile de France. She will immediately leave for Dallas, Texas, where she will begin a two weeks' stock engagement on Monday evening as guest star of "Paris Bound." The following week Miss Kennedy will appear in "Love-in-a-Mist."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Next Monday night's performance of "Bird in Hand" at the Booth Theatre will be a benefit for the Catholic Centre for the Blind. Consequently, "Bird in Hand" will not be transferred to the Morosco until Tuesday.

"Security," in which Margaret Anglin is appearing, will be withdrawn from the National Theatre after tonight's performance.

Two announced productions have been definitely postponed. They are "Hell on Wheels" and "Marietta."

"The Jade God" will open next Tuesday night in Valley Stream.

Fanny Todd Mitchell, who made the English adaptation of "Music in May," will sail on the Aquitania tonight at midnight. Miss Mitchell will be gone for eight weeks.

Aline Bernstein will design the settings and costumes for "The Grand Street Follies," due at the Booth Theatre May 1.

An extra matinee of "Holiday" will be given next Tuesday afternoon at the Plymouth Theatre for the Actors' Fund of America. "Hold Everything" will be played for the same charity this Friday afternoon.

The 700th performance of the Civic Repertory Theatre, which closes its third season this week, will take place tomorrow night.

"Gilbert and Sullivan's Minstrels," recently presented at a private Lambs' Gambol, will be included in the program of the Public Gambol at the Metropolitan on April 28.

Flete O'Hara and Patricia Quinn will be seen in a vaudeville sketch by Irene Fenwilla, "Patsy, the Pest," the first part of next week at Proctor's Fifty-eighth Street Theatre.

MUSIC

By OLIN DOWNES.

Magnificent Concert by Stokowski.

The magnificent performances of Bach given by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra last night in Carnegie Hall would have been in themselves worth the concert. The program opened with orchestral transcriptions of the great G minor Fantasia and Fugue, the choralvorspiel, "Ich ruf zu dir, Herr Jesu Christ," and the stupendous Passacaglia in C minor. These were Mr. Stokowski's transcriptions. In a group they furnished almost symphonic successions and contrasts—symphonic in effect, though not, of course, in method or actual relation.

As they stood, the fantasia and fugue formed an opening section full of brilliancy and movement, the chorale a slow movement of indescribable beauty, mystery and tenderness, and the Toccata a finale of a certain sort not equaled in any symphony we know—not even in the Passacaglia which constitutes the finale of Brahms Fourth. Whether transcriptions of the great works of Bach are esthetically justified is a matter outside the present review. All that the listener felt last night was that the musical conceptions and the towering architectonics of Bach were presented with an eloquence, a power of line, a depth and richness of tint that it seemed hardly possible to surpass, or, indeed, to equal with another conductor. For these works are obviously among Mr. Stokowski's special enthusiasms. They seem to have become identified with his musical thinking, to be special manifestations of his musical intuition, his sensibility, authority and fire. It would be hard to make a choice between the three items of the Bach group last night; each composition was so individual and impressive. Happily, no such choice was necessary. The listener was at liberty to wonder at the beauty, the clarity, the ecstacy of the music, and the manner in which life was given it under the baton of the leader. It is doubtful if Mr. Stokowski has excelled these performances.

The last part of his program consisted entirely of Russian music of the most romantic accent and mood. There were again three scores—the "Polovtsian Dances" from Borodin's "Prince Igor"; the Entr'acte from Moussorgsky's "Khovantchina," and one of the two suites arranged by Stravinsky from his "Oiseau de Feu." These pages have become almost classics of Russian music, though none of them were known in this country twenty-five years ago. But it will be very many years before this music, unsophisticated as it is, is tired of by the public. The dances do not lose with repetition that marvelous freshness of tone which is the characteristic of the childhood of a race. Neither the ear nor the consciousness tires of them, any more than the individual would tire of the wind or the illimitable steppes or the wild nature which inspired Borodin.

The same thing is true of the lordly woe of the excerpt from Moussorgsky, with its rolling, ominous basses, its sable colors, its tragical splendor. The same thing, finally, holds true of Stravinsky's early and poetic music to Russian legend—the one score in which he is unashamedly romantic and full of sentiment and youthful fancy; the score permeated, drenched with Russian folk melody; the music that is heavy with the languor and enchantment of the charmed gardens of the Immortal Katschei and his crew. All these scores, characterized by the sincerity, the magical invention, the God-given aptitude for instrumental color which seems a part of the true Russian composer's heritage, are almost old-fashioned today. But when they are heard they have something of the eloquence and fascination of the daily miracles of nature.

This was a happy contrast for the program. There was also the necessary contrast in Mr. Stokowski's style of conducting. He yielded himself to the impulsive and expressive music of the Russians as completely as he had conserved, concentrated, balanced his forces for the interpretation of Bach. It is true that there were occasional faults of exaggeration in the performance of the Russian works, when there were unnecessarily emphasized contrasts and certain coarsenesses of tone and dynamics. There were also disadvantageous cuts, made possibly because of the hour. Aside from this, or notwithstanding it, Mr. Stokowski gave interpretations which drove home as very few performances do the fantasy of the music. An audience which exhausted the capacities of the hall rendered homage.

RECITAL BY ZIMBALIST.

Violinist Gives Closing Event of Season at Barbizon Club.

Efrem Zimbalist gave a violin recital last evening as the twelfth and closing event of the season at the Barbizon Club, in East Sixty-third Street, where these concerts have contributed to a residential "art centre" established several years ago. It is ascribed in part to their success that those behind the enterprise have just announced plans for building a similar "music centre" on Fifty-ninth Street, facing Central Park, in the coming year. The distinguished violinist was assisted last night by Emanuel Bay in a sonata of Handel, short works of Tor Aulin, Sarasate and Bazzini, and arrangements by Wilhelmj, Spalding and Zimbalist.

Concert of Opera Airs.

There was a large audience at the Town Hall last evening for a concert of opera airs, introduced by many young voices in the "Blue Danube" waltz. Emilio A. Roxas presented the student singers, assisted by some already established and professional artists. Gladys St. John sang an air between appearances at the Paramount Theatre. Others were Grace Force, contralto of All Souls' Church; Rhys Morgan, the Welsh tenor, and Constantino Kazis, a young baritone of the Greek Opera Company. The concert was announced to be repeated for a charity at Jamaica, L. I.

Gold Medalists to Give Concert.

The gold medal winners of the New York Music Week Association will give their third annual concert of ensemble music at Carnegie Hall on April 20. Among those on the patron-sponsors committee are Ernest Hutcheson, chairman; Miss Lucrezia Bori, Mrs. William L. Harkness, Mrs. James Lee Laidlaw, Mme. Samaroff-Stokowski, Leopold Auer, Harold Bauer, Walter Damrosch, John Erskine, Michael Friedsen, C. Stanley Mitchell, Serge Rachmaninoff, Ernest Schelling, Albert Spalding and Allen Wardell.

Benefit for Maimonides Hospital.

A benefit in aid of the building fund of the Maimonides Hospital at Liberty, N. Y., will be given at Jolson's Theatre on Sunday night. A number of well known Broadway entertainers have promised to appear.

JURY OF EDUCATORS HEARS OF FATAL PARTY

Views Blame Parents as Chicago Girl Witness Comments on Youth's Death After Drinking.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 16.—A coroner's jury composed of six Illinois educators today was confronted with the problem of "modern youth" as it continued its inquest into the death of George Lux, 24 years old, who was killed in an automobile accident Sunday morning. The accident followed an alleged "drinking orgy" at a roadhouse in which some nine young men, several of them schoolboys, and half a dozen girls, at least three of them in grade and high schools, took part.

On the jurors' benches were Edward J. Tobin, Cook County Superintendent of Schools; Paul T. Busgin, Superintendent for Lutheran Parochial Schools for Northern Illinois; Benjamin F. Buck, Assistant Superintendent of Schools of Chicago; Professor E. W. Burgess, head of the Sociology Department of the University of Chicago; Sherman Steele, professor of law at Loyola University, and Professor Samuel Stevens, who holds the chair of psychology at Northwestern University.

Virginia Graf, 19-year-old factory girl, aroused the jurors' attention by what she said on the witness stand.

"If a girl doesn't drink, she is not wanted at a party nowadays," she asserted. "They think she is foolish or old-fashioned, and they never invite her again."

"Well, what do you think about it? Do you think a young man would have been killed on this party if you all had not been drinking?" Coroner Bundesen asked.

"I tell you," she replied, "I don't think booze had anything to do with it. It was just George's time to die—and he was killed."

"Where are the parents when these young people are staging their orgies?" was the comment of Professor Steele at the end of the hearing, voicing an opinion agreed to by the other jurors. "They're out at some roadhouse or cabaret, staging a party of their own and having just as wild a time and doing all the daredevil things their children do. Who is to blame, the parents or the children? The age-old law of children following in the footsteps of their parents still holds good."

CATHOLIC POPULATION GAINS 423,709 IN YEAR

Total Now 20,112,758 for United States—Converts Reported Number 36,376.

The total Roman Catholic population of the United States is 20,112,758, which is a gain of 423,709 over the previous year, according to the Official Catholic Directory, published by P. J. Kenedy & Sons, 44 Barclay Street, which made its appearance yesterday.

The number of converts reported is 36,376, which is 2,385 more than were reported the previous year.

The number of bishops increased during the year by five. There are seventeen archbishops, four of whom are cardinals, and 104 bishops in the country. There are 18,370 secular priests and 7,403 priests of religious orders, making a total of 25,773 priests. This is an increase over the previous year of 580 priests. The total number of churches with resident priests is 11,903, which is 204 more than last year. In the thirty-six theological seminaries there are 14,686 young men preparing for the priesthood, which is an increase of 254 over last year.

In the 7,063 parochial schools there are 2,488,682 children. There are 237 colleges for boys and 734 academies for girls and in the orphanages are 54,350 children.

The Catholic population of the Archdiocese of New York is given as 1,273,291. There are 444 churches, an increase of four in the year. The number of priests is 1,314. The pupils in the parochial schools number 102,531, and a total of 179,348 young people are in Catholic institutions of learning.

TWO OF 50 SHOTS HIT MIAMI RUM BOAT

Coast Guardsman at Inquiry Says Range Was 40 to 50 Feet—Some Bullets Went a Mile.

Special to The New York Times.

MIAMI, Fla., April 16.—Coast Guardsmen who are said to have been responsible for a hail of machine gun and pistol bullets in downtown Miami early last Sunday during a chase on the Miami River, scored only two hits on the alleged rum boat out of more than fifty rounds fired at a range of forty to fifty feet, according to testimony today at the investigation being conducted by the commander of the Coast Guard base.

Harold Lopes, fireman, first class, told of seeing his comrade, Sam D. Jones, fire forty-four rounds from a machine gun at the stern of the fleeing boat, while J. R. Ingraham, in command of the guard boat, fired several shots from a .45 automatic pistol and Lopes fired six pistol bullets.

Lopes said that he fired at a range of forty feet, Ingraham at sixty feet and the machine gunner at fifty to seventy-five feet, adding that the two bullet marks found in the pursued craft appeared to have been made by pistol bullets.

Lopes also told of hearing what he took to be a bullet fired at the Coast Guard craft soon after the chase began, and said he believed it came from the rum boat's lookout man, stationed on a bridge.

Edward W. Hahn Jr., Lieutenant, junior grade, told of examining places struck by bullets in Miami, some of them a mile from the scene of the shooting.

George Hodspeth, Customs officer, testified earlier in the day that he believed 5,000 persons were engaged in the liquor trade in Miami.

MUSIC NOTES.

Giulietta Armenaki, Evelyn MacGregor, Fernando Bertini and Mario Valle were the Manhattan Civic Opera's artists in "Rigoletto" last night at the Brooklyn Academy.

Florence Schroder, soprano, will be assisted by Charles Eddy at the piano in a song recital on Friday in the little salon of the new Aeolian Hall.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

A Minstrel's Man's Romance.

THE RAINBOW MAN, with Eddie Dowling, Marian Nixon, Frankie Darro, Sam Hardy, Lloyd Ingraham and George Hayes, written by Mr. Dowling and James F. Hanley, directed by Fred Newmeyer. At the Selwyn Theatre.

Eddie Dowling, the musical comedy performer, made his screen bow last night at the Selwyn Theatre in a highly sentimental singing and talking film, called "The Rainbow Man." Among those in the audience was ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, who, before taking his seat, shook hands with many friends. Mr. Smith was also able to look at himself in shadow form and hear his own voice coming from the screen in introducing Mr. Dowling's picture.

"The Rainbow Man" is an ingenuous stream of slow music and tears, with occasional interludes of more or less effective comedy. Those in the theatre laughed heartily at the fun, and for all one knows they may have shed tears over the distressing state of affairs that surround Rainbow Ryan (Mr. Dowling). Sometimes the incidents are reminiscent of ancient melodramas, for one perceives the most amazing coincidences throughout the picture.

The conspicuous attraction in this venture is Marian Nixon, whose beauty is remarkable and whose voice is soft and charming. While she is on the screen there is not the slightest hint of tedium, for one forgets about the story in watching her sincere acting, which possesses a wonderfully natural quality. If she is about to weep, she looks sad and her chin throbs in her grief. When she smiles, her eyes beam with genuine pleasure. She is dressed in a dainty, sober fashion, which suits her wholesome appearance. Her eyes are dark and her hair is brown. She moves with an easy grace, and when she speaks, even the lines allotted to her in this far-from-favored narrative are spoken so engagingly that they add considerably to every incident in which she figures. Mr. Dowling may be able to sing, but the talking voice of Marian Nixon is even more appealing. Being pretty, she gives a reason for Rainbow Ryan's sudden outburst of affection. He falls in love with Mary Lane (Miss Nixon) in one day.

In the ordinary course of events in a big city, it might have been virtually impossible for Mary ever to find Rainbow Ryan and his little pal, Billy. But in this story it seems to be a mere matter of hours before she discovers where this Rainbow Ryan is living in Manhattan.

Sometimes Mr. Dowling sings when one doesn't expect it. One rather wishes that he would save his melody for some other scene where it might be more natural. There are, however, so many odd happenings in this yarn that it has to be looked at with a lenient eye. It has little if any drama, but now and again a bit of comedy with a dog or with a monkey is bound to create merriment.

At the outset there is Billy's father, who is fatally hurt through a fall from a trapeze. The dying man requests that Rainbow look after Billy. Soon Rainbow and Billy appear in a minstrel troupe, and they arrive at a small town hotel, where Mary's father, a somewhat grouchy individual, dislikes stage people. He is also against having dogs in the place, and the dog of this story takes the sign from its nail and puts it where it will not mean anything to anybody.

Mary subsequently goes to the theatre, where the minstrel show is holding forth, and it is Rainbow Ryan's singing to the girl that causes the irate father to leave the place with his daughter. Doc Hardy, the minstrel manager, is wrathful indeed, and he discharges Rainbow, who takes with him his pal, Billy.

Then these two are seen in New York, with crackers and milk for poor Rainbow to eat after a hard day looking for work. They share and share alike, Rainbow and Billy. It all looks pretty black for the singing man and his diminutive friend, when lo! Mary appears upon the scene with the information that Billy is her sister's child! Insurance is coming to him, and all looks rosy, except that Rainbow is out of work.

Just when things might have gone smoothly, the irascible Colonel Lane has to pop up in New York, and the self-sacrificing Rainbow is impelled to deny to Mary all his affectionate words so that she and Billy will go back to the Colonel.

While they do not find a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, they find each other, and Rainbow Ryan is so overwhelmed at the presence of Mary in the theatre, where he is again officiating as a minstrel man, that he sings to her and takes her in his arms. Later Doc Hardy informs the audience that what they saw and heard was real and not part of the show.

Sam Hardy is excellent as the minstrel manager. Mr. Dowling's songs send one away humming something about "Sleepy Valley." Master Darro is precocious, but mildly amusing in parts of the picture. Lloyd Ingraham is capital as the frowning Colonel.

After the screening of the picture Mr. Dowling himself took the stage and called upon George W. Weeks, O. E. Goebel and others who are responsible for the production to stand up and take a bow. He also asked Morris Gest, Jesse L. Lasky, Lee Shubert, D. W. Griffith and others, including ex-Governor Smith, to stand up.

CITY BREVITIES.

Posters submitted by Harlem school children in the contest conducted by the East Harlem Health Centre will be shown beginning tomorrow in a Public School 102 at 315 East 113th Street.

The Guild of Catholic Lawyers held its regular meeting last night at the Hotel Roosevelt, which was immediately followed by a dinner at which Justice Jerry B. Sullivan of the United States Customs Court was the principal speaker.

The annual dinner of the Wisconsin Women's Society was held last night at the Hotel Astor. Mrs. Victor Fredrickson, founder and president of the society, received twelve volumes written by Wisconsin authors. About 140 persons attended.

The School of Retailing of New York University held its ninth annual dinner last night at the Waldorf. About 300 guests were present, including executives from stores in the metropolitan area, the advisory council of the school and members of the faculty. Samuel W. Reyburn, chairman of the board of trustees of the School of Retailing and president of Lord and Taylor, was toastmaster.

The American Museum of Natural History has arranged to entertain on Thursday crippled children who are unable to attend school. Motion pictures are to be shown and the children will be taken through the exhibition halls in wheeled chairs.

The senior class of Stevens Institute held its annual dinner last night at the Hotel Astor. Among the guests were President H. N. Davis, Vice President J. Crosse, Dean S. Fuller, James Boucher, president of the Alumni Association, and F. Kirkbridge, member of the board of trustees.

New York Life Insurance Company's Goodfellowship Club celebrated its tenth annual stag party last night with a dinner at the Commodore Hotel. John J. Parker of Cleveland was guest of honor. Following the dinner the members attended the theatre.

Dr. H. Chubb addressed the science club of Hunter College yesterday on "Bird Life in New York City," illustrated with colored slides.

The Classical Club of Hunter College will give an Olympian ball Friday evening in the school gymnasium. Miss Hazel Dean of the classical department and Miss Viola Schmid head the arrangement committees.

The annual meeting of the Alliance Française de New York will be held at the Cercle des Annales, 10 East Fifty-eighth Street, on Friday evening. The meeting is to elect officers and directors for the ensuing year.

$1,000,000 NEW RADIUM IS URGED FOR BRITAIN

Addition of 24 Grams for Cancer Recommended—Government Would Pay Half.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—An immediate addition of about twenty-four grains of radium to the existing British stock for treatment of cancer is the chief recommendation of the government commission established last year to examine the country's radium requirements. This will bring the country's total stock to about fifty grains, which it is calculated is the amount necessary to meet the hospitals' existing needs.

The cost is estimated at $1,000,000 and in the Commons this afternoon Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced that the government had agreed to subscribe up to $500,000 on the basis of dollar for dollar publicly subscribed.

The amount of radium is not the only difficulty, in the opinion of the government commission.

"There exists," says the report, "a lamentable shortage of radium surgeons possessing the highest training and a corresponding shortage of available hospital beds. Thus the country will have to face the reproach that a great volume of avoidable distress persists simply because the means of ending it have not been obtained and used."

The nation's supply of radium in the future will be in the hands of two bodies—namely, the National Radium Trustees and the Radium Commission. The former will control the funds and purchase and hold the radium for employment by the Radium Commission.

CIRCUS SEAL GOES IN FOR FILET OF SOLO

Kinko, Who Is Virtuoso on the Scaled Horns, Modifies His Repertory to Suit Diet.

BLUEFISH PROVOKES HYMNS

And Meal of Eel Makes Him Play Jazz—Now He Can Do "Rhapsody in Blue," but Formula Is Secret.

A rumor spread rapidly through Madison Square Garden yesterday that Kinko, the trained seal, had added a new song to his repertory. It was the first movement of the "Rhadsody in Blue," and, as might be expected, it came from something he ate. That something was not bluefish, however; when he eats bluefish he plays hymns.

Mr. Dexter Fellows, emerging from a conference with John Tiebor, the trainer, said that the "Rhapsody" would not be played during the New York engagement. The circus goes next to Boston, he added, and the new song will be used for the first time on the opening night there. New York has enough music without the talking movies.

Kinko, it appears, is practically automatic. If Tiebor feeds him ordinary whitefish—as he has while in the Garden—Kinko grandly plays the first verse of "America." But whenever it seems pertinant—as when royalty sits in the press box—the trainer brings out strange fish, and the musician, as it were, changes the record. He plays on a series of scaled horns.

Mr. Fellows, quoting Mr. Tiebor, said that when Kinko gets a few pounds of alewife he promptly begins "How Dry I Am" and the drinking songs of Heidelberg. Once in a small town of Iowa a humorist gave him some alewife and the circus had to dodge the State for six years.

A quite different effect is introduced by eels, especially salt water eels. Kinko doesn't like eels much—he has the classical mind—but just a bit sends him to the first bars of "Red Hot Momma." Once the circus was playing at State College, Pennsylvania, Mr. Fellows said, and an orchestra failed to show up for a fraternity dance. Kinko was hired and they fed him eels. It was quite satisfactory.

He does his best work while under the benign influence of pompano (dressed). It has a somewhat melancholy effect on him, perhaps, sending him into dreamy waltzes. On flounder he booms out the triumphant measures of "Walkuere"; on pickerel he plays Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." On dressed shad, curiously enough, he gives sections of the "Peer Gynt Suite" and with red snapper (dressed) he prefers Mozart and Haydn.

The formula for the "Rhapsody in Blue" is being kept a secret, Mr. Fellows said, lest it be adopted by

ROOSEVELT HAILS CRIPPLED STUDENTS

HEARTENS THEM FOR TASK

Addressing himself to "fellow veterans" Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke last night at the eleventh annual institute day exercises of the Institute for Crippled and Disabled at Public School 47, Twenty-third Street and Second Avenue. More than 500 persons, most of whom were the relatives and friends of the crippled students of the institute, were present. The program was broadcast through station WNYC.

"Fellow veterans," he said, "I greet you that way because we all belong to the same army of the physically handicapped. It is a bigger army than most people realize. Three hundred fifty thousand belong to this army of ours—people with something wrong with an arm or a leg, but people who have a perfectly good headpiece. We are proud of our headpieces, aren't we? It is a pretty fine army at that. There is no reason to be ashamed of membership in it, but it is fortunate for us that we belong to this age and generation, because a few years ago it would have been a pretty hopeless proposition."

The Governor reviewed the hopeless position of the physically handicapped a few years ago before rehabilitation schools had been established and the crippled were taught to help themselves, and told of the work that is being done by the State and cities, but said the cost of such work for the crippled was too great to expect the State to bear the entire burden. He added:

"We're the most cheerful crowd I have ever associated with and it is our duty to pull our own weight in the boat and help that other 349,999 who haven't been taught to help themselves to pull their weight. In the long run the success is going to depend on you who are handicapped. It's a whale of a responsibility and I believe you are willing to shoulder the responsibility."

Before he spoke Governor Roosevelt sat on the platform with the prize winners of the school and watched the award of certificates to classes in jewelry making, oxy-acetylene welding, optical mechanics, mechanical drafting, press feeding, monotype keyboard operating, hand composition and telephone switchboard operating.

He saw Henry Niles smilingly grasp his crutches and go to the front to receive the Henry Pomeroy Davison prize of $50 presented for courage and persistency in the face of weakened physique, a double spinal curvature and paralyzed legs. Niles, who is now 29 years old, came from a small Tennessee town after reading a magazine article about the "School of Another Chance." He is now successfully employed as a monotype keyboard operator in Yonkers.

Other prize winners were: Genevieve Murphy, 204 East Ninetieth Street, and Edward Kafka of Astoria, who received the John Magee Ellsworth memorial prizes for spirit in overcoming handicaps in spite of being home-bound. Michael Sikora, 62 Hussa Street, Linden, N. J., took the President's prize for his enterprise in learning to be a welder after losing his right arm in an accident. Helen Bennett, 44-04 Seventy-second Street, Winfield, Queens, and Edward Corcoran, 1,619 First Avenue, a truck driver who learned to make artificial flowers, received the Roxy prizes for spirit in overcoming difficulties. Stephen Schwartz, 84 State Street, Brooklyn, received the Burrett B. Brill Memorial. Certificates were presented to the thirty-eight graduates.

HONORS ROOSEVELT'S SON.

Brooks House Association at Harvard Elects Him President.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 16.—James Roosevelt, '30, of Hyde Park, N. Y., son of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York State, has been elected president of the Phillips Brooks House Association at Harvard College for the coming year, J. Hamilton Lane, '28, graduate secretary of the association, announced today.

Charles M. Underhill, '30, of Scarsdale, N. Y., was elected vice president; Charles G. Chase, '30, of Boston, treasurer, and Eugene E. Enigh Jr., '30, of Augusta, Ga., secretary.

SALTZMAN FOR RADIO POST.

Army Officer Named by Hoover to Succeed Pickard on Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—President Hoover today nominated Major General Charles McKinley Saltzman, retired, to fill the vacancy on the Federal Radio Commission created by the resignation of Sam Packard of the Fourth Zone, who recently became vice president of the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

The vacancy created by the resignation of Orestes H. Caldwell of the First Zone still exists because the President is having considerable difficulty filling it due to the fact that the commissioners are now appointed to serve only until Feb. 23, 1930.

The law provides that only three members of the commission can belong to one political party. The member from the First Zone consequently will have to be a Democrat.

General Saltzman is an Iowan, a graduate of West Point, and saw service in the Spanish-American and World wars. He was chief signal officer of the army from January, 1924 to 1928.

NEW SET STIRS INTEREST.

RCA and Victor Combination Machine to Be Announced Soon.

A new radio-phonograph combination, said to include several revolutionary features, is to be announced soon by the Radio Corporation of America and Victor Talking Machine Company, it was learned yesterday on good authority. It is understood that the new instrument will be marketed either as a combination unit or as a separate radio or phonograph machine.

A representative of the Radio Corporation of America confirmed that such a machine exists and that fifty of them had been sent to representatives in all sections of the United States for tests under varying atmospheric conditions. He said the jobbers were so impressed that $2,500,000 worth of advance orders had been received. It is expected that full details will be announced when the machine is introduced some time before the middle of next month.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular, Prevalent Trend Downward—Call Money Rises to 9%.

From the Wall Street viewpoint, the stock market was influenced by the news of the day and the news was disappointing. That is rather traditionally apt to be the case when a prolonged and violent speculation for the rise has been halted, and the market looks around for something to cheer it up. The very fact that, in the excitement of successful speculation, incidents which would ordinarily be considered unfavorable had been either ignored, or swept aside, or actually construed into "bullish news," serves to darken the color of things when reaction comes, and it also seems as if the news itself conspires against the market at such times. Yesterday's renewed advance in the call-money rate to 9 per cent would have been regarded with contemptuous indifference two or three months ago. The continuing break in the lately inflated copper market would have attracted no attention on Wall Street, and something to stir enthusiasm would doubtless have been found in the President's message to the extra session.

But in a falling market, such things are looked at differently. The high money rate has become annoying. Copper may have been rushed up too violently in price in the 43 per cent rise of January and February, but a sudden drop from 24 to 18 cents in barely a week is not the kind of movement that Wall Street likes to watch on such occasions. Nobody really believed that Mr. Hoover would say anything about the credit situation. But the market had certainly cherished an idea, based on nothing at all, that he disliked the resolute policy of the Reserve Board, and therefore the limiting of his remarks to some severely practical suggestions on farm relief and the tariff, followed by a strong hint that he is opposed to discussion of anything else by the extra session, necessarily caused the message, as the stock market fraternity put it, to "fall flat" in Wall Street. It was even more coldly received in the grain market, where wheat declined 5 or 6 cents further, to prices 14 cents a bushel below the February figure. Probably other markets than that for wheat have yet to learn that the new President is a man who from long training looks at realities, and who does not waste his time either in constructing imaginary versions of economic problems or in drawing rabbits out of the executive hat by way of solving them.

The day's stock market did not move uniformly in either direction; there were advances as well as declines, but neither reached noteworthy proportions. It was a "drifting market," with nothing evident from its movement except the lack of speculative interest. This was also shown by the continued reduction in total transactions, which yesterday were a quarter of a million shares less even than the small business of the day before. United States Steel was one of the weaker spots; that may have been due to an idea—which turned out to be correct when the basis of exchange for the new shares was announced after the close—that existing shareholders would not get quite so free-handed an allotment as Wall Street had predicted.

The day's news indicated that the Bank of England still held control of the London gold market. It took in $2,500,000 more gold from the South African arrivals, and the sterling market held firm above $4.85. In that direction, the indications are that what recently looked like a dangerous upsetting of the European markets by the Wall Street bid for international money has been averted.

3 HELD FOR THEFTS IN FINANCIAL DISTRICT

Cashier Seized in $30,500 Shortage—Clerk and Uncle Arrested for Taking $10,000 Bonds.

Two financial district employes and the uncle of one were held in Police Headquarters last night on charges of grand larceny. They are George Hancock, 22 years old; his uncle, William F. Walsh, 47, both of 340 East Fifty-sixth Street, and Philip Ayres, 47, of 103 Fourth Place, Brooklyn.

Hancock was employed as clerk by the First National Corporation of Boston, an investment house of 100 Broadway. The police said he admitted he stole ten $1,000 bonds of the United States of Brazil on Monday. Walsh tried to sell the bonds yesterday, according to the police.

Ayres quit the employ of Edgar Williamson, 20 Broad Street, a few months ago, after two years as cashier. A checkup of the books revealed a shortage of $30,500. The police said Ayres admitted yesterday that he had been misappropriating money by making out vouchers for $500 petty cash while the stubs were made out for $5, enabling him to pocket $495. A craving for liquor and the need of large funds to support his family were given by Ayres as the reason for the thefts, the police said.

CHILEAN FINANCIER LAUDED.

Luncheon for Senor Ramirez Given at Bankers Club.

Señor Don Pablo Ramirez, Minister of Finance of Chile, was praised yesterday at a luncheon as the man who has placed Chile's finances on a stable basis. The luncheon was given for him by the Chile-American Association at the Bankers Club, 120 Broadway. Fifty representatives of American mining, utility and transportation companies having interests in Chile were present. Señor Ramirez is studying American financial and industrial methods.

A message was received from Don Carlos Davila, Chilean Ambassador to the United States, outlining Señor Ramirez's accomplishments as Minister of Finance.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and in the Financial Markets.

With the volume of trading shrinking still further, yesterday was the dullest five-hour market on the Stock Exchange in more than four months and, although there was no aggressive selling, recently active issues lost ground again. Later in the day the market gave a better account of itself, and there was a noticeable revival of buying interest here and there. A handful of issues, including some of the oils and motors, made what looked like a genuine show of strength, considering the heaviness in other parts of the market.

Waiting for Something to Happen.

Wall Street, at the moment, reminds one much of the dwellers in a riverside town who gather on the wharf to watch the steamer come in, possibly to meet some traveler or get a little news. There is something listlessly attentive about the brokerage office hangers-on in these days. Without having anything particular to do, they appeared yesterday to be just standing around, watching the idle market and hoping that the whistle will sound soon and that they will be able to get a little excitement. Just where it was to come from no one seemed to know. But even if the dullness were to be prolonged, the habits contracted by the "office public" in the past twelve months will not be easily shaken off.

The Steel Stock Terms.

Speculative interests could not conceal their disappointment yesterday afternoon over the terms of the common-stock offering of the United States Steel Corporation. The price at which the additional stock is to be sold, $140 a share, was close to what was generally expected, but the ratio of one to seven made the "rights" worth a good deal less than market operators had calculated. It was pointed out, on the other hand, that the terms of the offering furnished the most impressive testimony that could be asked to the financial position of the corporation. What the directors have arranged to do is to raise a little more than $140,000,000 through the sale of additional stock in order to retire $271,000,000 of bonds in an operation calling for a total outlay of more than $305,000,000. That the corporation is able to take more than $160,000,000 out of its pocket to carry out the transaction was described by Steel stockholders as an extremely favorable disclosure. But the market has learned to measure the situation by the size of a "bonus."

President's Message and Market.

Wall Street appeared disposed yesterday to listen attentively to President Hoover's message, to read it more or less carefully and then to go back to its business. Nobody pretended that it had any great effect, one way or the other, on the market, and probably not one share of stock was bought or sold under this particular influence. However, the trading stopped almost dead still while the message was being read. The Street as a whole appeared more interested in what the Steel directors might do in their announcement, which came later, than in the President's words. A small flurry in the sugar market, however, was traced to disappointment claimed to have been felt over Mr. Hoover's tariff proposals by some speculative traders.

New Low Price for Copper Shares.

The movement of copper stocks of late has followed the trend of the price of the metal with surprising alacrity. When the domestic price of copper went to 24 cents there was talk of a runaway market, and copper shares were boosted accordingly. With the subsequent drop to 18 cents for domestic, in line with the weakness in the London market, however, there has been a general liquidation of copper stocks, which would indicate that much of the recent buying was purely speculative in character. After several issues touched new lows for the year the market rallied slightly yesterday and leading issues, such as Kennecott, Anaconda and Greene-Cananea, finished moderately higher for the day.

Demand for Funds Light.

The advance to 9 per cent in the call-money rate yesterday was not the result of any increased demand from brokerage houses, but was caused by the withdrawal of $20,000,000 of loans by the banks, which took place in the face of rather light supplies. The demand for funds was exceptionally small. On the previous day the transactions of the Treasury, particularly the distribution of a large amount of interest on Liberty bonds, were somewhat in favor of the money market, while that trend was not so marked yesterday. Bankers appeared to look for no definite change in either direction until the May 1 requirements begin to make themselves felt in the last week of this month.

Controversy Quiets Down.

While the Federal Reserve banks are continuing to exert influence on the member banks for reductions in loans on securities, many people in Wall Street have come to believe that the day of spectacular controversy on the subject has definitely passed. With Congress in session and with the possibility of political ramifications, it is regarded by most bankers as assured that there will be no more warnings from the Federal Reserve Board on the subject of credit and, in fact, few if any public utterances on the subject from official sources. This soft-pedaling is not understood to mean that the Federal Reserve authorities have changed their views on speculation.

MONEY.

Tuesday, April 16, 1929.

Stock Exchange call money was firm. Renewing at 8 per cent, new money rose to 9, just after 2 o'clock. Supply was only fair, but about the only demand noticed was that by banks calling loans, approximately $20,000,000 being withdrawn. In time money much the same situation continues, turnover being extremely light, with a little four months' placed at 6¾, and ninety days' at 9 per cent. Commercial paper and acceptances were unchanged.

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

Budget Speech Has Little Effect on British Trading—Tea Shares Rise.

PARIS EXCHANGE STILL DULL.

Bourse Recovers in Berlin and All Kinds of Stocks Take Part in General Advance.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—The budget speech of Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, caused hardly a ripple on the Stock Exchange today. Shares of tea stores jumped forward as the result of the remission of the tea duty, but otherwise the market was quiet. Gilt-edged securities were somewhat easier, notably the 4½ per cent conversion loan, 3½ per cent conversion and the funding loan.

Among the industrials Marconi advanced 10½d to 83s 6d, but His Master's Voice Graphophone declined to £16½. Columbia Graphophone also was lower at £14. British Imperial Tobacco and British-American Tobacco each rose 1-32 to £6 3-16 and £6 11-32, respectively. General Electric eased 6d to 61s. Ford declined to £3 25-32, while Rolls-Royce also was depressed, sagging 9d to 46s 3d. Artificial silks were dull. Oils were quiet, with prices falling slightly. Rhodesian Coppers rallied during the afternoon, but the price of copper declined £2 7s 6d per ton. De Beers weakened to £14 5-16.

Money was still plentiful in Lombard Street, where borrowers were able to obtain credits at 4 per cent and even lower. Old day-to-day money was renewed at 4¼ to 4½ per cent, while weekly credits were 4½ per cent. The Bank of England announced the purchase of £533,800 in bar gold and the withdrawal of £4,000 in sovereigns. Sterling weakened to $4.85 7-16.

Depression Remains in Paris.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 16.—The Bourse retained today the depression that was evident yesterday. This was partly due to the losses in speculation revealed by the mid-month settlement and the continued uncertainty over the experts' negotiations on reparations.

The exception to the general weakness was Citroen, which again strongly advanced, while copper turned toward recovery.

Rentes, too, was steady, even making slight gains, closing as follows: 3s, 73.50; 1918 4s, 86.75; 1920 amortizable 5s, 119.40; 1928 5s, 98.20; 1920 6s, 104.60; 1927 amortizable 6s, 107.90. Rule for Paris Closing Prices.

Berlin Recovers From Weakness.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 16.—After several days of weakness, the Boerse was influenced by the customary Tuesday optimism and was firm throughout the session. Recovery was due in part to the Paris situation, which was regarded today as more hopeful, the general opinion being that the critical moment of the conference has passed. It was also noticed that the Reich repaid a loan of 150,000,000 marks, which caused an easier money market and encouraged speculators to effect covering sales.

All markets advanced considerably, with Polyphon leading, going 20 points higher. Artificial silks came next, Bemberg advancing 16 points and Glazed Textiles going up 14 points. The highest quotations were not maintained at closing time. Call money was 6 to 8 per cent.

It was announced tonight that the board of directors of Glazed Textiles had decided to pay an 18 per cent dividend.

Flotations Here $1,487,861,680 for the Year, Commerce Department Announces.

SLUMP IN THE SECOND HALF

Total for First Six Months 2½ Times Larger—Drop Due to Tight Money.

GERMAN SECURITIES LEAD

Canada Second, Latin-American Offerings Heavy—Refunding Estimated at $237,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Flotations of foreign securities in the United States in 1928 aggregated $1,487,861,680, and, despite the high money rates prevailing, were the greatest in any year with the exception of 1927, when the total reached $1,592,595,760, the Commerce Department announced today. The great bulk of the financing was done in the first six months, however, flotations for that period being nearly two and one-half times those in the period from July to December. The slump in the second half of the year was caused by the marked rise in interest rates in the New York money market, it was said, resulting from the speculative activities on the Stock Exchange.

A summary covering total foreign securities, government and coroporation, publicly offered in the United States in the period from 1914 to 1928, inclusive, put the aggregate at $13,147,245,209, of which it was estimated $1,908,272,941 was for refunding to Americans and $11,238,972,268 was new capital. The total number of issues involved was 1,780. This does not include any of the war loans made to the allied nations or capital privately invested abroad.

German issues in 1928, which totaled about $292,000,000, or $57,000,000 more than in 1927, exceeded those of any other country. Canada was second despite the fact that the total of its government issues and government guaranteed corporate issues were the lowest in a decade. Latin-American offerings continued to be heavy in 1928, with Argentina, Chile, Brazil and Colombia leading.

The total of foreign issues used for refunding purposes to Americans in 1928 was estimated at $237,000,000, leav a balance of $1,251,000,000 net new capital. The discount at which these foreign issues sold aggregated $64,000,000 and the premiums aggregated $1,000,000.

Flotations by Years Since 1914.

The department's survey, prepared by Paul D. Dickens, under the direction of Grosvenor Jones, chief of the finance and investment division, contained the following table, showing the total foreign securities, governmental and corporate, publicly offered in the United States in the period from 1914 to 1928, inclusive:

Period.	Total Capital.	New Capital.
1914	$37,722,730	$37,722,730
1915	453,494,614	415,994,614
1916	1,131,080,264	1,123,330,264
1917	718,147,450	686,147,450
1918	29,715,000	28,115,000
1919	813,244,700	562,324,400
1920	836,191,357	485,191,357
1921	675,112,963	631,007,389
1922	828,369,284	682,277,984
1923	495,632,100	413,662,100
1925	1,329,920,750	1,085,380,750

The difference in amount between these totals represents refunding to Americans.

"The explanation of the decline in foreign financing in the United States during the last half of 1928," the department said, "is to be found largely in what is probably a temporary condition—the speculative activity on the exchanges which characterized this period.

"The market was unfavorable for bonds, and most of the foreign financing done in the United States is by means of bond issues. Higher money rates at New York induced many prospective foreign borrowers to suspend their negotiations or to turn to London and other financial centres for capital."

Future Held Uncertain.

The decline in foreign financing in the second half of 1928, the department said, had given rise to queries as to whether foreign security flotations in the United States had passed their peak.

"It is too early to draw any such conclusion," the report declared. "Similar predictions in the past, notably at the close of 1926, proved to be quite erroneous. The placing of capital abroad depends chiefly upon interest rates and these in turn depend upon the demand for and supply of capital, neither of which can be predicted except perhaps for brief periods.

"Even with a resumption of activity in this field, however, it may be that the United States will not dominate the international capital market to the extent it did in recent years."

In connection with this subject the following table was presented:

Foreign Capital Offerings in Three Leading Countries.

Year.	United States.	Great Britain.	Netherla's,
	1925—1928.
1925	$1,329,920,000	$480,500,000	$67,200,000
1926	1,318,554,000	593,150,000	119,200,000
1927	1,592,595,000	743,500,000	136,000,000
1928	1,487,861,000	767,500,000	123,600,000

In a further discussion of the effect of advancing money rates on the flotation of foreign bonds, the department said:

"The variation by quarters during 1928 was exceptional. The year started with a total of $404,000,000 for the first quarter. The second quarter rose to the highest figure yet recorded, $645,000,000. The highest previous quarter was October-December, 1915, with $554,000,000, which was abnormal because it included the $500,000,000 Anglo-French credit of October, 1915. The fourth quarter of 1927, with $532,000,000, had been the highest previous quarter in a normal year. The first half of 1928, with a total of $1,049,000,000, exceeded the first half of 1927 by nearly $255,000,000.

Sharp Drop in Third Quarter.

"Foreign offerings during the third quarter fell very sharply to $155,000,000 and then rose to $284,000,000 in the fourth quarter.

"In other words, the foreign financing done in the United States in the second half of 1928 was $630,000,000 less than in the first half, and as a result the year's total was $105,000,000 below that for 1927."

Europe far exceeded all other geographic divisions in 1928, obtaining 44 per cent of all the capital subscribed in the United States that year for publicly offered foreign securities. Over half of the balance went to Latin America. Canada ranked third in this larger grouping, but was second among individual countries.

The following table gives the total issues, governmental and corporate, from 1914 to 1928, inclusive, by geographic group:

	Total Capital.	New Capital.
Europe	$6,506,178,325	$3,715,338,380
Canada	2,948,607,815	2,812,249,815
Latin America	2,864,326,849	2,268,102,558
Far East	$51,258,080	750,270,180
Non-contiguous Amer territories and possessions	178,573,340	158,921,340
Total	$13,147,245,209	$11,238,972,268

The difference between the totals represents refunding to Americans.

1,400 WILL CONFER ON FOREIGN TRADE

Secretary Lamont Will Be One Speaker at Opening Session in Baltimore Today.

TOPICS TAKE WIDE RANGE

Leaders in Financial and Commercial Fields in United States and Abroad Among Delegates.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 16.—Some 1,400 delegates from thirty-two States, including executives of 500 business concerns and fifteen railroads, are arriving for the opening tomorrow of the three-day session of the sixteenth national foreign trade convention. The entire office force and equipment of the National Foreign Trade Council has been moved from New York to Baltimore for the duration of the congress.

Among those scheduled to address the convention are Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce; Senor Carlos B. Davila, Chilean Ambassador to the United States; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad; Lawrence A. Dawes, president of the Illinois Central System; Charles M. Schwab, president of Bothlehem Steel Company; Robert Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Company; A. H. Griswold, vice president of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company, and Dr. Henry F. Grady, dean of the College of Commerce, University of California.

The convention will open with an address on "Business of the Sea," by James M. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, who will preside. Governor Albert C. Ritchie and Mayor William F. Broening will welcome the visitors.

Two hundred banks, American and foreign, will be represented, fifty of them by their presidents or vice presidents.

Fifteen railroads have delegates registered, among them the Chilean State Railways, the London and Midland Railway and the Great Western Railroad of England.

There are delegates from China, Japan, India, the Union of South Africa, French Indo-China, East Africa, Czechoslovakia, Canada, Chile, Cuba, France, Mexico, England, Germany, Italy and the Irish Free State.

Two special trains will bring more than 100 delegates from Chicago, it is said, and there will be 275 from New York.

Mr. Lamont will make his first public address since becoming a member of the Cabinet at the session tomorrow morning. His subject will be "World Trade Today and Tomorrow." Mr. Willard also will speak at this session on "The Railroads and Foreign Trade."

Trade with South America is likely to receive considerable discussion at the convention this year. Methods of selling American goods abroad on the instalment plan will also come up for consideration, and trade advisers of the convention will answer questions in regard to new methods in this field. More than sixty such trade advisers have volunteered their services.

Southern Cities Public Service Co.

(Central Public Service System)

6% Convertible Gold Debentures, due 1949.

Dated May 1, 1929 Due May 1, 1949

Interest payable May 1 and November 1 at the office of Harris, Forbes & Company in New York City or at the option of the holder in Boston or Chicago. Callable in whole or in part on the first day of any month on 30 days' notice at 105 and interest through April 1, 1933 and at various reductions in the redemption price thereafter. Coupon Debentures of $1,000 and $500 denominations registerable as to principal only. Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Trustee.

TAX PROVISIONS: The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Taxes not exceeding 2% per annum which it may be required or permitted to pay thereon or retain therefrom, and to reimburse the holders of these Debentures, in any year, upon application within 60 days after payment, either for the Pennsylvania or for the Connecticut Personal Property Taxes not exceeding 4 mills or for the Maryland Security Tax not exceeding four and one-half mills per annum.

For further information regarding the Company, these Debentures and Class A Stock of Central Public Service Corporation into which these Debentures are convertible, attention is called to the letter of Mr. A. E. Peirce, President of the Company, copies of which will be furnished on request and from which it will be noted, among other things, that:

Conversion Privilege: Under arrangements made with Central Public Service Corporation, these Debentures will be convertible at the holders' option, subject to the Indenture provisions regarding stock dividends, recapitalization, etc., at any time after November 1, 1929 and prior to November 1, 1934, into Class A Stock of Central Public Service Corporation at the rate of 22 shares of such Class A Stock for each $1,000 principal amount of Debentures, with adjustments for interest and dividends. In the event that the Debentures are called for redemption on or prior to November 1, 1934 the conversion privilege may be exercised only up to the tenth day before the date set for redemption. Delivery of Class A Stock upon conversion will be required within thirty days after surrender of Debentures.

Company: Southern Cities Public Service Co., incorporated in April, 1929, is a direct subsidiary of Central Public Service Corporation and will furnish, through subsidiaries, gas service to over 127,000 customers in 42 communities, located in the southeastern section of the United States. The population of the territories which will be served is estimated to be in excess of 1,100,000 and the larger cities include:

Macon, Ga.	Montgomery, Ala.	Johnson City, Tenn.	Key West, Fla.
Augusta, Ga.	Anniston, Ala.	Meridian, Miss.	West Palm Beach, Fla.
Roanoke, Va.	Gadsden, Ala.	Hattiesburg, Miss.	Port Arthur, Texas.

Capitalization: The consolidated capitalization of Southern Cities Public Service Co. and subsidiaries as of December 31, 1928, after giving effect to the present financing and such acquisition of properties, is as follows:

	To be Outstanding
Southern Cities Public Service Co.
Common Stock (no par value)	200,000 Shares*
6% Convertible Gold Debentures, due 1949 (this issue)	$17,500,000
Subsidiary Companies:
Bonds and Mortgages	11,389,870
Minority Common Stock (no par value)	152 Shares

* All owned by Central Public Service Corporation.

 Includes $7,178,000 principal amount of bonds and mortgages owned by Central Public Service Corporation and pledged; but does not include indebtedness of $1,676,000 secured by a mortgage on property of a subsidiary against which the subsidiary will be fully indemnified by South Carolina Power Company, a subsidiary of Southeastern Power & Light Company.

Earnings: The consolidated earnings for the twelve months ended December 31, 1928, derived from the properties to be owned by the subsidiaries of Southern Cities Public Service Co. upon the consummation of the present financing, and annual charges, after giving effect to the present financing, were as follows:

Gross Revenues and other Income		$7,365,592
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes (except Federal Income Taxes) and amounts applicable to minority common stock		4,317,844
Net Earnings before Interest, Provision for Replacements, Dividends, etc.		$3,047,748
Annual Interest Requirements on Subsidiary Companies' Bonds and Mortgages as above	$ 662,088
Annual Interest Requirements on Funded Debt of Company (this issue)	1,050,000	1,712,088

Net earnings, as above, are approximately 1.8 times the combined annual interest requirements on Subsidiary Companies' Bonds and Mortgages and these Debentures, and, after providing for both maintenance and replacements at the initial rates to be required in the Indenture, are over 1.6 times such interest requirements. After deducting annual interest requirements on Subsidiary Companies' Bonds and Mortgages, as above, net earnings were $2,385,660, or over 2¼ times the annual interest charges on these Debentures.

We Recommend These Debentures for Investment

Price 99 and Interest

These Debentures are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel as to all legal matters. It is expected that Debentures in temporary form will be available for delivery on or about May 1, 1929.

$500,000,000 UNION IN STEEL PROJECTED

Cleveland Men Plan Merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Inland and Republic.

C. S. EATON GUIDES MOVE

Plants Are Said to Be Practically Ready for Combination Through Joint Stock Holdings.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 16.—A Cleveland syndicate, organized to acquire steel stocks, is contemplating a steel combination with resources of more than $500,000,000, it was reported here today.

Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland investment broker, is said to be the dominating figure in the move to merge the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company of Youngstown, the Inland Steel Company of Chicago and the Republic Iron and Steel Company of Youngstown into the country's third great steel corporation, exceeded only by the United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel Corporations.

In addition to resources of more than $500,000,000, the new combination would have an annual capacity aggregating 7,000,000 tons of ingot steel, ranking close to Bethlehem, with assets of $645,000,000 and a 7,900,000-ton capacity. Youngstown Sheet and Tube is the third largest steel company in the United States, with resources of about $300,000,000. Republic is the country's fifth largest producer, with assets aggregating close to $180,000,000. Inland has resources of about $90,000,000.

Mr. Eaton first gained prominence in the utility field as founder of Continental Gas and Electric. His holdings in public utilities throughout the central and western parts of the country are in companies aggregating $1,500,000,000, including Kansas City Power and Light, Columbus Railway and Light and American Light and Traction.

Some steel men here, who have been invited to join the syndicate, believe the ultimat consolidation may strive to include the Central Alloy Steel Corporation, placing more than $88,000,000 additional assets and plants with a 1,400,000-ton annual capacity in the new group.

No public announcement of the new plan was looked for prior to the annual meeting of Youngstown Sheet and Tube next Tuesday or the Inland meeting a week later at Chicago.

Joint Stock Holdings Now Large.

Special to The New York Times.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, April 16.—Formation by Cleveland interests headed by Cyrus S. Eaton of a $30,000,000 corporation to purchase stocks of Midwest steel companies is interpreted as another step in the program to consolidate the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, the Republic Iron and Steel Company of Youngstown and the Inland Steel Company of Chicago. Eaton represents the important Mather interests in such stock purchases. Holdings of the Mather group in the companies have been increased within the past six months and common stock of the Sheet and Tube Company has advanced to new high levels.

Former officials of the Sheet and Tube Company, headed by E. T. McCleary, president, are now in charge of the Republic organization. Joint ownership in the three companies is substantial and is said to have reached the point where the companies could be merged at the will of the Mather group.

Youngstown participants in the new holding corporation include James A. Campbell, president of Sheet and Tube; A. B. Adams, a director of Sheet and Tube and president of the First National Bank; Phillip Wick, director of Republic Steel and Central Alloy and closely associated in the Eaton enterprises; John T. Harrington, former president of Trumbull Steel; C. H. Booth, a director of Sheet and Tube, and others.

It is believed the companies will be operated separately for a time and that their consolidation will be brought about gradually. Sheet and Tube and Republic probably would be the first to be merged. Within the last five years Sheet and Tube has greatly increased its capacity in the Chicago district.

Toledo Ore Port to Be Enlarged.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, April 16.—An immediate start of the gigantic development of Presque Isle by the Van Sweringens, a dream of Toledo for years, was undertaken today by the directors of the Hocking Valley Railroad when they authorized expenditures of $6,000,000 to convert that district into a huge ore and coal port. President W. J. Harahan said the improvements would include two coal-loading machines of 12,000,000 tons capacity and an ore-handling machine of 600,000 tons capacity.

WESTERN ELECTRIC TO GIVE NEW RIGHTS

500,000 Shares to Produce $20,000,000 for Expansion at Two Plants.

A. T. & T. WILL GET 98.34%

$10,000,000 Was Obtained Last Year in Similar Financing to Add to Facilities.

The directors of the Western Electric Company, Inc., which is almost wholly owned by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, voted yesterday to offer rights to subscribe to 500,000 new shares of no par capital stock at $40 a share to stockholders of record April 22 in the ratio of one new share for each eight shares held. The $20,000,000 proceeds of this issue will be used to provide additional working capital and to finance the increased manufacturing facilities of the company.

The company, which supplies telephone equipment used by the Bell System, is understood to be planning to use the greater part of the funds provided by this issue to add to its plant at Kearny, N. J., and to complete the new factory at Baltimore, Md. Both plants are devoted solely to the telephone manufacturing business of the company.

At the end of last year the land, buildings nad permanent fixtures of the company were carried at $42,606,473 on the company's books, which was the cost price of property. Machinery, tools and other equipment, at cost, were $51,819,779, giving the company a total property account of $94,426,252, which will be increased to about $110,000,000 as a result of the expansion planned.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company owned at the close of 1928 3,933,447 of the 4,000,000 no par capital shares of the Western Electric Company, or 98.34 per cent of the stock, and is expected to subscribe in full for its share of Western Electric's new offer. The minority stockholders, about twenty in number, have in the past also exercised their rights when offered. Upon completion of the present offering the company will have 4,500,000 shares outstanding.

Stockholders of record Dec. 1, 1928, received rights to subscribe for one share of stock for each fifteen shares held, also at $40 a share, and subscriptions were received in full for the entire 250,000 shares offered, giving the company $10,000,000 by Dec. 31, 1928, which was employed in providing additional manufacturing facilities.

Western Electric does not plan to use the additional funds to add to its facilities for the production of sound film equipment, although it is steadily increasing the equipment used at the Hawthorne (Ill.) works for that purpose. Revenues from this branch of its activity, which is a by-product of telephone research, totaled $20,000,000 in 1928, and double that amount is expected in 1929.

The Western Electric Company increased the annual dividend rate on its stock from $3 to $4 a share annually beginning with the first quarter of 1929, and it is expected the higher rate will be maintained on the new shares.

APPROVE PARAMOUNT ISSUE

At the annual meeting of the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation at 1,501 Broadway yesterday the stockholders approved the plan to issue 250,000 shares of the unissued capital stock to selected employes at $50 per share. Five new directors, Frank Bailey, Gilbert W. Kahn, Emil E. Schauer, Elek John Ludvigh and Sir William Wiseman, were elected.

Adolph Zukor, president of the corporation, presided. He predicted that in 1929 Paramount would earn more than the customary 10 per cent yearly increase in profits because of the talking picture vogue. He added that Paramount would make many light operas, musical comedies and revues during the coming year for the talkies. During 1928 the corporation did not make any bank loans and was able to put its surplus funds out on call, Mr. Zukor said.

Reduction of Capital Planned.

Stockholders of the Standard Textile Products Company will be asked to approve a financial reorganization of the company involving the reduction of the capital stock to $9,000,000. It is planned to replace each share of Class A preferred stock by one share of new no par $7 dividend preferred stock, each share of Class B preferred by one share of new Class B $5 dividend participating preferred, of no par value, and each share of common stock now outstanding by one share of new common stock.

Increase of Capital Proposed.

A special meeting of the Dominion Holding Corporation will be held on April 26 to vote on a proposed increase in the capital from $202,000 to $1,010,000, which is to be provided by increasing the present 20,000 shares of Class A and 2,000 shares of Class B stock to 100,000 shares of Class A and 10,000 shares of Class B. The common has a par value of $10 a share, and the preferred a par value of $1 a share.

Imperial Oil to Split Shares.

Stockholders of Imperial Oil, Ltd., have approved an increase in the no par capital stock to provide for a four-for-one split-up. When the split-up was announced first it was said the dividend rate of $1.50 a share annually would be continued.

TOM SLICK TO FORM HIS OWN OIL COMPANY

Files Papers of Incorporation in Delaware After Selling Out to Prairie Oil and Gas.

Thomas B. Slick, who a month ago sold his Kid-Continent oil holdings to the Prairie Oil and Gas Company for about $30,000,000 and then said he planned taking a vacation for a year, yesterday filed papers of incorporation in Delaware for a new concern. It is to be called the Tom Slick Oil Company and will have a capitalization of 600,000 shares.

Nothing was said about a possible offer of any of the shares for public subscription. Mr. Slick, however, in the past usually worked alone.

Mr. Slick is 48 years old and was born in Clarion, Pa. In his early oilfield days he was a mule driver, tool dresser and driller. Then, about 1911, he struck oil and founded his present fortune. He has successfully opposed various powerful combinations in the oil fields. He has been called the world's greatest individual operator and the "wildcatter king."

PREPARES OIL STOCK OFFER

Standard of Indiana Wants Minority Holdings in Pan-American.

Directors of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will shortly make an offer to acquire the minority stock interest in the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, according to reports in banking circles yesterday. Standard of Indiana already owns a majority of the Pan American stock.

The offer, it is understood, will be to exchange one share of Standard of Indiana for one share of Pan-American common stock. There are now outstanding $50,077,950 of $50 par Pan-American common stock and $118,034,700 of $50 par Class B nonvoting stock. Standard of Indiana holds control through its ownership of a majority of the common stock.

DISPOSES OF GAS INTERESTS

Electric Power and Light Corp. Makes Deal in Louisiana.

The Louisiana Gas and Fuel Company, a new corporation, has acquired the natural gas interests of the Electric Power and Light Corporation, an affiliate of the Electric Bond and Share Company, in Louisiana, together with all the common stock of the Palmer Corporation of Louisiana, it was announced yesterday. The company controls natural gas producing properties in the Monroe, Richland, Shreveport and other fields in Louisiana.

This is a further step in a series undertaken by Electric Bond and Share affiliates to divest themselves of gas holdings and to confine their activities to the electric power and light industry. The natural gas properties acquired by Louisiana Gas and Fuel include the Industrial Gas Company, the Southern Gas and Fuel Company, the Northern Louisiana Natural Gas Company, the Ouachita Natural Gas Company and the companies formerly subsidiary to the Gas and By-Products Company.

H. C. Couch of Pine Bluff Ark., is chairman of the board of the new company and N. C. McGowen of Shreveport, La., is president. The board of directors includes also Potter Palmer, H. L. Hollis, Walter H. Jacobs, S. Z. Mitchell, C. E. Groesbeck, H. C. Abell, Ralph E. Feagin, O. H. Simonds and E. B. Tracy.

International Petroleum Split-Up.

SARNIA, Ont., April 16 (By The Canadian Press).—Shareholders of the International Petroleum Company, Ltd., today endorsed a by-law under which each share of preferred stock of par value of $5 will be converted into two shares of preferred stock of a par value of $2.50, and each share of common stock, without par value, both issued and outstanding, into two shares of common stock without nominal or par value. The split will not affect the dividend. It is expected the new stock will be available for issue about June 15.

Certo Reports Gain for Quarter.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 16 (AP).—The Certo Corporation for the three months ended March 31 reports net earnings of $392,784 equal to 98 cents a share on the 400,000 common shares outstanding, against $335,018, or $1.11 a share, on the 300,000 shares outstanding in the corresponding period a year ago.

FORCED STOCK SALE ENDS LOREE'S PLAN

Kansas City Southern Disposes of Its Cotton Belt Shares to New York Investors, Inc.

DEAL PUT AT $12,000,000

New Owners, in Control of Road, Deny Consideration of Merger in Southwest.

Leonor F. Loree's project for a $700,000,000 merger of three railroads in the Southwest ended yesterday with the sale of all that remained of the once substantial holdings of securities bought to make the plan possible. The sale was forced by the Interstate Commerce Commission in issuing Clayton anti-trust act citations against the Southwestern stock deals made by Mr. Loree. It was the final chapter in a campaign which he started in 1924 and waged intermittently since that time against one adverse decision after another by the commission.

The collapse of the Southwestern merger project followed by almost a year the defeat of Mr. Loree's plan for a fifth trunk line between New York and Chicago. He purposed to link his Delaware & Hudson with the Lehigh Valley and the Wabash, which line would have had close connections with his proposed Southwestern system. He bought heavily of Lehigh Valley and Wabash stock, but, faced with opposition by all the Eastern trunk lines, he sold these holdings to the Pennsylvania Railroad for $63,000,000, making a profit of $20,000,000.

Cotton Belt Stock Sold.

In the Southwest Mr. Loree sought to unite the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, the Kansas City Southern and St. Louis Southwestern. The finish to this undertaking was written yesterday when the Kansas City Southern sold to the New York Investors, Inc., successor to the Realty Associates, Inc., its holdings of 135,00 shares of voting preferred stock of the St. Louis Southwestern, or Cotton Belt. William M. Greve, president of the New York Investors and a director of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas, or the Katy, announced the purchase.

At current prices the 135,000 shares of preferred stock are worth about $12,000,000. The price paid by the new owners was not disclosed, but it was reported that the Loree interests suffered a loss in the transaction. Frank Bailey, chairman of the New York Investors, is a director of the Cotton Belt, and it was considered likely that as a result of yesterday's transaction the new interests in control would seek additional representation on the Cotton Belt's board.

"The Cotton Belt stock will be retained by New York Investors as an investment," said Mr. Greve.

There are 200,000 shares of Cotton Belt preferred outstanding, and this purchase gives New York Investors control of the road. In view of Mr. Greve's position with the New York Investors and with the Katy, it was suggested to him that the new management might seek to take up the consolidation that Mr. Loree had relinquished. Mr. Greve said no such plans were under consideration now.

Last Fight for Merger.

Mr. Loree made a last effort to save his proposed merger in November when counsel for the Kansas City Southern and the Cotton Belt conferred with T. P. Healy, head of the investigation bureau of the Interstate Commerce Commission, on the possibility of the former road retaining its holdings in the latter. Contending that only 15 per cent of the traffic of the two roads was competitive, the Loree interests sought to have the Clayton act citation against the Kansas City Southern dropped. If the citation had been dismissed, the Loree interests were willing to place the 135,000 Cotton Belt shares in a trusteeship pending legislation to simplify the entire consolidation question.

If this plea had been successful, Mr. Loree would have been prepared to come forward with a third plan of consolidation for the Southwestern properties which would have combined the Kansas City Southern and the Cotton Belt and eliminated the Katy. The last road was destined at one time to be the foundation for the entire merged system. The commission, however, did not give the plea favorable consideration, and hearing on the citation against the Kansas City Southern is due within a few days.

ATLANTIC COAST LINE CUT EXPENSES IN 1928

Pamphlet Report Shows Decreases in Revenues Also—Principal Decline in Freight.

The pamphlet report of the Atlantic Coast Line shows that the chief decrease in operating revenues in 1928 was in freight. Passenger revenue last year was $13,065,000, against $14,955,000 in 1927, and freight revenue was $52,019,000, against $58,839,000. Total revenue was $71,393,000, against $80,426,000. Maintenance of way decreased from $13,220,000 in 1927 to $10,935,000, maintenance of equipment from $16,842,000 to $14,512,000 and transportation expenses from $29,539,000 to $25,403,000. As was previously reported, net income was $8,443,900 after taxes and charges, against $9,855,000 in 1927.

Total assets were $384,933,000 at the end of 1928, against $385,157,000 a year previously, and profit and loss surplus was $92,958,000, against $92,726,000. Investment in road and equipment was $268,559,000, against $265,283,000.

George B. Elliott, president, said that 1928 was not a prosperous year for agriculture in the railroad's territory and that the value of production, as reported by the United States Department of Agriculture, decreased from $1,272,335,000 in 1927 to $1,137,474,000 in 1928. Tobacco in Georgia and the Carolinas brought low prices because of poor quality and adverse market conditions, the crop in South Carolina bringing $5,000,000 less than in 1927. The report estimates that the citrus fruit crop for the season of 1928 and 1929 will total 20,000,000 boxes, or nearly a record, despite losses estimated at 2,000,000 boxes through storms last August and September.

NEW HAVEN MEETING TO BE HELD TOMORROW

Stockholders Expected to Take Up Reported Connection With Pennsylvania Railroad.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 16.—The annual meeting of stockholders of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company will be held here tomorrow, John J. Pelley, president, occupying the chair.

It was rumored tonight that inquiries would be made as to the future of the railroad in connection with the transcontinental combinations which are planned. Large blocks of stock have changed hands recently and reports have been current that interests friendly to the Pennsylvania System have been acquiring them. Choice of a director from the Pennsylvania System has indicated a close connection between the two systems.

Action is to be taken on a proposed lease which would give the New York, Westchester & Boston Railway Company permission to use the double track between Mamaroneck and Rye, N. Y.

CAR LOADINGS DECLINED IN WEEK OF APRIL 6

But Total of 956,364 Was Rise Over Corresponding Parts of 1927 and 1928.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended April 6 totaled 956,364 cars, the American Railway Association announced today, a decrease of 10,665 cars under the previous week. Decreases were reported in all commodities except coal, live stock, coke and merchandise less than carload lots.

The total for the week of April 6 was an increase of 37,012 cars over the corresponding week in 1928 and an increase of 2,457 cars over the corresponding week of 1927.

The car loadings in detail were:

	Week ended April 6.	Change from prev. wk.	Change fr. same wk. 1928.

C. A. Levine Sued for $10,000.

A $10,000 suit against Charles A. Levine, who flew to Germany with Clarence D. Chamberlin, and his wife was disclosed yesterday in the Supreme Court when Justice Ford granted the American Women's Realty Corporation, the plaintiff, the privilege of effecting service upon the defendants by attaching the summons and complaint to the door of their residence or by mail. The plaintiff asserts it has not been paid for 100 shares of its preferred stock for which the Levines are said to have subscribed.

FREIGHT THEFTS DECREASE.

Averaged Only 1.8 Cents a Car Last Year, Aishton Reports.

Robberies of freight on railroads in 1928 amounted to less for each car than the cost of mailing a letter, said R. H. Aishton, president of the American Railway Association, at the annual convention of the protective section of that body in Atlanta, Ga., yesterday. The average loss attributed to this cause was 1.8 cents a car, he said.

"Claims growing out of reported thefts and robberies," continued Mr. Aishton, "and paid last year totaled $928,563, the lowest since 1914, and a reduction of 19 per cent from 1927." He attributed this result to the efficiency of the railroad police. He added:

"The enormous scope of the work of protecting commerce from thieves can best be realized by the fact that the railroads last year handled 51,576,000 cars of revenue freight, of which about one-third was valuable merchandise. More than 1,000,000 trains moved this traffic. Railroad police reported 9,353 arrests for felonies and 36,069 for misdemeanors. Convictions were obtained in 97 per cent of the cases tried."

CANADIAN PACIFIC RIGHTS.

Railway Offers $30,000,000 Issue at $170 a Share.

MONTREAL, Que., April 16 (By The Canadian Press).—The Canadian Pacific Railway is offering to the holders of its ordinary capital stock of record May 2 the right to subscribe to $30,000,000 of additional ordinary capital stock, comprising 300,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, in the proportion of one share of the new issue for each ten shares held at the time of record, at the price of $170, payable in four installments. The right to subscribe will expire June 17.

The company will also offer to its officers and employes the right to subscribe to an additional $5,000,000 of ordinary capital stock at $170 per share on a monthly installment plan. This offer is in pursuance of a policy inaugurated in 1927.

ORDERS FREIGHT RATE CUT.

I. C. C. Grants Sioux Falls Plea on Chicago and St. Louis Traffic.

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP).—A decrease in classified freight rates to Sioux Falls, S. D., on traffic originating in Chicago and St. Louis, effective June 25, was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Sioux Falls is entitled to have classified freight rates that are equal to 104 per cent of like rates applying to Sioux City, Iowa, from Chicago and St. Louis, the commission ruled, in holding justified a complaint of the South Dakota municipality. At present the rates to Sioux Falls from Chicago and St. Louis are as much as 16 per cent on classified freight above the Sioux City schedules.

Allows Southern Pacific Bond Issue.

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP).—The Southern Pacific Company received permission today from the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $65,166,000 in forty-year 4½ per cent gold bonds, and in connection therewith was provisionally permitted to create 195,498 shares of common capital stock.

CHRYSLER AND DODGE PREDICT NEW RECORD

Management Announces Business Exceeding $100,000,000 for First Quarter of Year.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., April 16.—A statement concerning the progress of the Chrysler Corporation was issued by the management following the annual stockholders' meeting held here today. In part it said:

"Shipments and sales of the motor vehicles produced by the Chrysler Corporation and Dodge Brothers Corporation during the first quarter of 1929, both domestic and export, indicate that the progress of the last several years is being maintained and point to a new record in production and sales during 1929 for the companies which constitute the present Chrysler Corporation. Total shipments for the first quarter of 1929 of all Chrysler motor products were 122,758 cars, compared with 112,977 for the first quarter of 1928.

"During the first three months of 1929 vehicles sold to United States dealers by the Chrysler Corporation and Dodge Brothers totaled 96,800, a gain of 5 per cent over the sales of 92,318 units in the first quarter of 1928 and about 26 per cent greater than that of 76,860 in the first quarter of 1927.

"Estimated retail deliveries in the United States during the first quarter of 1929 of Chrysler and Dodge Brothers' cars were 75,757, compared with 70,707 in that period last year and 59,825 in the first three months of 1927. This is a gain of 7 per cent over the first quarter of 1928 and 26½ per cent over that of 1927.

"A still further indication of the increase in business is shown by the fact that during the first three months of this year sales totaled in excess of $100,000,000, both domestic and export, compared with around $94,000,000 in the same quarter of 1928 and about $79,000,000 in the relative period of 1927. This increase is outstanding in view of the fact that prices of products were materially reduced during this period in many instances."

DELAY IN GERMAN FORD.

Stock Issue Date Is Postponed Again, Cable Advices Say.

According to cable advices received yesterday from Berlin by Ludwig Bendix, 42 Broadway, the date of issue of new stock of Ford of Germany has been postponed again and no date has been set for the opening of the subscription books. Mr. Bendix said it was believed in Germany that Mr. Ford, who will make the final decision in the matter, is awaiting the developments of the reparations conference in Paris.

In due time, Mr. Bendix said, announcement will be made through newspaper advertisement to prospective subscribers that questionnaires which will have to accompany their subscriptions are ready. About 42,000 shares will be offered, he added, probably at 109 reichsmarks for each share of 100 reichsmarks par value.

Marmon Looks for Record.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 16.—In the half-month ended on April 15 the Marmon Car Company shipped 2,982 Roosevelt and Marmon cars, indicating the possibility of shipments for the entire month of 5,700 units, it was reported today by A. R. Heiskell, vice president. The total for the month will represent more than 50 per cent increase over the monthly record established in March, when 3,604 were shipped.

GIANNINI BANK GETS NASSAU NATIONAL

ADDS $28,000,000 TO FUNDS

On Completion of Blair and Traders National Mergers, Resources Will Exceed $530,000,000.

The Nassau National Bank, the oldest and largest national bank in Brooklyn, will be merged into the Bank of America, adding approximately $28,000,000 to the resources of the latter institution, under a plan agreed upon yesterday by the directors of the two organizations. The new consolidation follows the recent acquisition of Blair & Co., Inc., and the Traders National Bank of Brooklyn by the Bank of America, which is controlled through the Transamerica Corporation by A. P. Giannini and his associates.

The new merger will be effected through an exchange of stock under which holders of Nassau National will receive 3⅝ shares of Bank of America stock for every share of Nassau National held. Through this transaction the capital stock of the Bank of America will be increased by 57,375 shares of $25 par value, and its capital funds will exceed $130,000,000. The Nassau National has capital of $1,700,000, surplus of $1,700,000 and its undivided profits bring its total capital funds up to approximately $4,000,000. The Nassau has total resources of about $28,000,000 and deposits of about $20,000,000.

Nassau National to Be Branch.

G. Foster Smith, president of the Nassau National, will have charge of the Bank of America branch to be formed through the merger, and the personnel of the Nassau will remain the same. The directorate of the Nassau contains the names of several business leaders of Brooklyn, and some of these will become directors of the Bank of America, while others will join the advisory board to be formed to help in the administration of the bank's affairs in Brooklyn. Matthew Sloan, head of the Edison Companies, is a director of the Nassau, as are William S. Menden, president of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company, and Frank Bailey, financier.

The Nassau National Bank was organized in 1859 and received its charter as a national bank in 1864. It has been prominent throughout its existence in the development of Brooklyn industries. During the rapid expansion in Brooklyn by Manhattan banks in the last few years several institutions have made bids for the Nassau and rumors of mergers have been frequent, but no terms were agreed upon until yesterday. The bank occupies spacious quarters in a new building at Court and Montague Streets, and this location has been one of the reasons for the bidding that has taken place for control of the bank.

Resources of $530,000,000.

The Bank of America, which recently undertook a comprehensive program of expansion under the leadership of Mr. Giannini and his associates, will have total resources in excess of $530,000,000 on completion of the mergers that have been arranged. The stockholders will vote on May 16 on the Blair and the Traders National mergers. No date has yet been fixed for the stockholders' ratification of the Nassau consolidation, but it will be held soon, and it is expected that all details will be completed within the next six weeks.

Stocks of the Bank of America and the Nassau National Bank were actively traded in on the unlisted securities market yesterday, but at practically no change in prices from the previous day. At the close Bank of America was quoted at $234 bid, $239 asked, with Nassau National at $750 bid, $790 asked.

BANKERS SECURITIES TO VOTE ON MERGER

Court Vacates Injunction Restraining Meeting of New Jersey Concern, but Censures Board.

Vice Chancellor Backes at Newark yesterday warned the directors of the New Jersey Bankers' Securities Company that if they did not compromise their differences and act in harmony he would appoint a receiver for the company.

At the same time the Vice Chancellor vacated the temporary injunction restraining the stockholders of the company from meeting and voting on the proposed merger with the Equitable Finance Corporation of New York City, but held that the stockholders' action would be subject to review by the court.

"If the board cannot be harmonious there must be some resignations," said the Vice Chancellor. "If the directors can't get along it would seem that the court must take a hand and put a receiver in charge. The directors have a duty to thousands of stockholders, and that goes for both sides. It is the stockholders, not these two sides, who must be protected. The directors are all high-class men, but they will be boys and fight."

Edward Markley, counsel for the majority of the directors, declared that the deal with the Equitable was in the best interests of the stockholders. Samuel Leber, counsel for Solomon Bernstein, who heads the minority, declared it was not.

The stockholders will meet Friday. The court will hear the rest of the case and decide on approval of the merger on May 23.

Best & Co. Buy Stock for Staff.

Announcement was made yesterday by Philip LeBoutillier, president of Best & Co., that the company had purchased 9,000 shares of its common stock in the open market for the account of fifty executives, buyers and department heads. Last September the company bought 7,500 shares for executives. Mr. LeBoutillier said the participants in the plan had paid 25 per cent of the cost of the stock and would pay the balance in four equal annual instalments. As there was no unissued stock in the treasury, it was necessary to buy the shares in the open market. This took about four months to accomplish.

Candy Merger Being Negotiated.

Negotiations are under way with a view to consolidating the Sweets Company of America and Loft, Inc., Lewis L. Clarke, chairman of the board of the Sweets Company, announced yesterday. He added that a merger with one or two other large organizations also had been discussed, but no action had been taken by the directors.

CALLING OF LOANS LIFTS MONEY TO 9%

Wall St. Believes, However, That Easier Credit Conditions Are Near.

In the face of a light demand from brokerage houses for funds, the call money rate advanced from 8 to 9 per cent in the final hour of trading yesterday, following the withdrawal of $20,000,000 of loans by the banks. These withdrawals, coming at a time when the available supply of funds was rather thin, produced a firm undertone in the market but did not interfere with a growing belief in Wall Street that definitely easier credit conditions were in sight.

The reduction of $134,000,000 for the week of April 10, announced yesterday, in the loans made on securities by the Federal Reserve member banks throughout the country, attracted attention as indicating that the recent declines in brokers' loans represented a real decrease in stock market credit. Brokers' loans last week decreased $135,000,000. In many of the previous reductions in brokers' loans there have been increases in member banks' loans on securities, indicating that a mere shift from brokers' loans to direct bank loans to customers was taking place.

Several bankers expressed the opinion yesterday that, while the Federal Reserve banks would continue to use their influence with the member banks to hold down loans on securities, there would be no drastic action and certainly no further "warnings" or public controversies on the credit subject, particularly in view of the possible political ramifications incident to the convening of Congress.

DIRECTORS OF BANKS APPROVE MERGER PLAN

Boards of Bank of United States and Municipal Bank and Trust Company Act.

The directors of the Bank of United States at a special meeting yesterday formally approved the merger into that institution of the Municipal Bank and Trust Company, whose directors also approved the merger at a meeting held at the same time, giving the combined institution total resources in excess of $300,000,000.

The Municipal Finance Company, the securities company affiliate of the Municipal Bank and Trust Company, is also included in the merger, and will be combined with the Bankus Corporation, whose assets are not included in the figure given.

This merger follows closely upon the merger into the Bank of United States on April 1 of the Colonial Bank, with sixteen branches, and the Bank of the Rockaways. In 1928 the Bank of United States acquired by merger the Central Mercantile Bank and Trust Company and the Cosmopolitan Bank.

The combined capital, surplus and undivided profits of the enlarged bank will exceed $40,000,000. The acquisition will be carried out through an exchange of shares, details of which have not yet been revealed.

Simon H. Kugel, chairman of the board of the Municipal Bank and Trust Company, will become a vice chairman of the board of the Bank of the United States as a result of this merger. Samuel Barnett, president of the Municipal Bank, will retire. He has been in ill health some time. The rest of the officers and personnel of the Municipal Bank will remain with the Bank of United States.

MERGER ANNOUNCED IN MORTGAGE FIELD

Maryland Mortgage and National Title Acquires Maryland Title Guarantee.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 16.—Consolidation of the Maryland Title Guarantee Company with the Maryland Mortgage and National Title Company was announced today.

The Equitable Trust Company of Baltimore will be largely interested in the future of the Maryland Title Company through a large ownership of the Maryland Mortgage and National Title Company, which recently. It is said, acquired the total capital stock of Maryland Title Guarantee and about 90 per cent of the outstanding capital stock of the District Lawyers and Washington Title companies of Washington, D. C. The Maryland Mortgage and National Title directors also recently approved a consolidation with the Mortgage Bond Company of New York through the medium of a holding company to be known as the Mortgage Bond and Title Corporation, with a capital and surplus of about $8,000,000.

On completion of present plans the parent company will have resources of about $47,000,000 and will engage in a mortgage and title insurance business in more than 125 cities.

MANAGEMENT and PURPOSES

THE BERGEN COUNTY FIRST NATIONAL CORPORATION has been organized as the largest financial institution of its kind in Northern New Jersey.

Under the guidance of a Board composed of bankers, financiers and business men, unsurpassed in their knowledge of the financial opportunities presented in Bergen County, the Corporation proposes to play a dominant part in the unprecedented development of this section of the State made possible by the $60,000,000 Hudson River Bridge.

There is perhaps no other region of the United States where the field is more fertile for the operation of a Corporation such as this than in Northern New Jersey. The section adjacent to the span which will become a part of Greater New York due to accessibility. Experts have estimated that building development alone will reach the total of one billion dollars.

With this development is coming new industry, enterprise and transportation. Capital is necessary to meet the needs of increased business, and when this Capital is placed by men intimately familiar with the situation great benefits should accrue to the region with appropriate profits to the Corporation.

Therefore, with the field afforded in Northern New Jersey; with the high standard and experience of the directorate, the BERGEN COUNTY FIRST NATIONAL CORPORATION offers an opportunity for sound investment and enhancement of their holdings to those who participate by subscribing to Units of stock under the arrangement approved by the Board.

JUDGE SIGNS ORDER TO SELL CITY TRUST

Directs That New Mutual Trust Pay in Full All Valid Claims When It Opens Doors.

TIME LIMIT IS JULY 1

Court Reserves Power to Review All Collections and Releases Involving Former Officers.

The formal order permitting Frank H. Warder, State Superintendent of Banks, to sell the assets of the defunct City Trust Company to the Mutual Trust Company, which is being organized to take over its property and pay off all obligations, was signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice McCook and filed in the County Clerk's office. The court also signed the order accepting the offer of the National City Bank of $100,000 for the City Trust Company name.

The order affecting the Mutual Trust Company recited that it appeared that more than two-thirds of the stockholders had approved, and that the depositors' committee had done likewise.

Justice McCook authorizes the sale of the business and assets "upon express covenant and condition which is hereby declared to be for the benefit of the creditors, that all of the claims of the depositors and other creditors having valid claims against the City Trust Company in liquidation shall be paid in full on demand after completion of organization of the Mutual Trust Company and commencing as soon as its doors are open for business." The Superintendent of Banks is authorized to enter into the agreement submitted to the court and to take such further steps as may be necessary to effectuate the agreement.

Teh court orders that the opening of the Mutual Trust Company for business take place not later than July 1, and that the Superintendent of Banks shall not turn over any of the City Trust Company's assets or its books, papers, documents or instruments until after a capital of $5,000,000, consisting of $4,000,000 in reserve and $1,000,000 capital, shall have been paid in cash and so certified to the Superintendent of Banks. The order recites further:

"No collections shall be made from former officers or directors of the City Trust Company nor any releases given them without the approval of the court, and if actions against them shall not be instituted the court reserves power to make such further direction in that regard as may be just."

Jeremiah T. Mahoney, counsel to the banking department, said yesterday that all legal formalities in connection with the organization of the new Mutual Trust Company were being complied with as rapidly as possible and that there was a possibility that the new bank might be ready for business by June 1.

Any questions of the irregularities of the old City Trust Company will be held up until the new bank is in operation. Then the way will be clear to take up the question of forgeries or mismanagement. Until then nothing will be done, except as may be necessary for legal protection. Attorneys for the banking department have already notified the Eagle Indemnity Company that they will be held responsible to the full amount of their bond of $100,000 for forgeries amounting to more than $500,000.

LARSON HEADS AUTO GROUP

Bragg will continue as general manager.

Union Carbide Increases Stock.

Stockholders of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company have approved an increase in the authorized capital stock from 3,000,000 to 12,000,000 shares and the exchange of three new shares for each present share held. The remaining unissued shares are to be issued from time to time at the discretion of the directors.

DU PONT MEN ELECTED TO U. S. RUBBER BOARD

Five New Directors Take Places of Members Who Resigned and Four More Are Added.

Stockholders of the United States Rubber Company at the annual meeting in New Brunswick, N. J., yesterday, elected nine new directors. Five of the new members of the board displace as many directors who have resigned, while the others were added to the board. The stockholders approved the plan to increase the number of directors to twenty. The election of the new directors marked the representation of the du Pont interests in the company.

The new directors are Edward J. Coughlin, M. Cutfre, William de Krafft, James Deshler, Percival Dixon, H. S. Miller, Herbert E. Smith, Louis S. Strauss and Lucius E. D. Tomkins. The directors who retired are Charles B. Seger, recently resigned as president and chairman of the board; H. E. Sawyer, F. M. Nicholson, B. L. Hotchkiss and J. W. Davis.

F. B. Davis Jr., the new president of the company, told the stockholders that sales for the first three months of the current year show a substantial increase in quantity and, despite the lower selling price, are practically the same in dollar volume as for the 1928 period.

VETOES A LIBEL BILL.

Roosevelt Condemns Measure Seeking to Prevent Headline Suits.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 16.—Governor Roosevelt today vetoed a bill sponsored by Senator George R. Fearon of Syracuse designed to prevent suits from being brought against newspapers for "headlines." In rejecting the bill the Governor wrote:

"This bill changes the first words of Section 337 of the Civil Practice act by striking out 'proof of malice' and inserting 'privileges of newspapers.' It then goes on to provide that no action, civil or criminal, can be maintained against a reporter, editor, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper for the publication therein of a fair and true report of any judicial, legislative or other public and official proceedings, and strikes out the words 'without proving actual malice in making the report' and substitutes therefor 'or for any heading of the report which is a fair or true headnote of the article published.' It also amends Section 335 of the Civil Practice act by providing that a defendant in an action for slander or libel may prove the sources of his information and the grounds for his belief.

"No reason is apparent for permitting any reporter, editor, publisher or proprietor of a newspaper to add any matter or to state anything said or done that was not a part of the official proceedings reported. No reasons of public policy make such a course desirable."

NEW BANK PLEA APPROVED.

Fort Green National Will Have Initial Capital of $500,000.

Notification of permission to organize the Fort Greene National Bank in Brooklyn was received yesterday from the Controller of the Currency at Washington, it was announced by Bennett de Beixedon, attorney, who will be president of the new bank. The institution will occupy the old quarters of the Williamsburgh Savings Bank at Flatbush and Atlantic Avenues and will open for business about June 1, Mr. De Beixedon said.

The new bank will have an initial capital of $500,000 and an initial surplus of $125,000. The stock will be sold at $125 a share. Mr. De Beixedon said. William Reed, vice president of the Federation Bank and Trust Company, will be vice president, and George W. Rogers, assistant secretary of the Montauk branch of the Manufacturers Trust Company, will be cashier. Other officers and directors have not been chosen yet.

LABOR WAR IN WARSAW.

Communists Reported in Conflict With Socialists in Unions.

The conflict between the "right" and "left" wings of the labor movement in Poland is becoming more violent, according to a Warsaw dispatch of April 3 to The Jewish Telegraphic Agency. The "Bundist" (Socialist) organ, Volkszeitung, representing the right wing, reports that the "Reds" have organized attacks on Jewish needle workers belonging to the right wing. Shops have been invaded and the workers attacked with knives, shears and hammers. Many were injured. The Garment Workers' Union has decided to start an energetic campaign against the terror, the paper states.

The trouble started last month following the declaration of a strike by the Communist locals of the Tailors' Union. The workers belonging to the Bund opposed the strike, declaring that present economic conditions made a strike inexpedient. Drastic measures against the Bundists who refused to go out were taken by the strikers.

MARCH EMPLOYMENT 5¼% ABOVE YEAR AGO

Sixth Successive Month to Surpass 1928—Payrolls Have Increased 9%.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Employment increased 0.6 per cent in March, 1929, as compared with February, and payroll totals increased 1 per cent, according to a report made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor. The report is based upon returns from 27,625 establishments having in March 4,813,598 employes, whose combined earnings in one week were $134,009,899. The classes of employment included were manufacturing, mining, public utilities, trade and hotels.

Manufacturing employment stood at a higher level in March, 1929, than at any time since April, 1927, and payroll totals were greater than at any time since November, 1923. Employment in manufacturing industries increased 1.2 per cent in March, 1929, as compared with February, and payroll totals increased 2.1 per cent, according to returns made by 12,138 establishments in fifty-four of the foremost manufacturing industries of the United States. These establishments in March had 3,450,042 employes, whose combined earnings in one week were $97,220,138. These employes represent 53 per cent of all employes in the fifty-four industries surveyed and more than 40 per cent of the total number of employes in all manufacturing industries in the United States.

An increase in employment in manufacturing industries in March has been shown in each of the last seven years except 1924, but this increase of 1.2 per cent in March, 1929, is considerably greater than in any of the years except 1923.

The bureau's weighted index of employment in manufacturing industries for March, 1929, is 98.6, as compared with 97.4 in February, 1929, and 93.7 in March, 1928; the weighted index for payroll totals in March, 1929, is 103.9, as compared with 101.8 in February, 1929, and 95.2 in March, 1928. The monthly average for 1926 equals 100.

The spectacular gains in March were 45.8 per cent in employment and 38.9 per cent in payroll totals in the fertilizer industry, which habitually reaches its highest level in March and April. The rayon industry reported an employment increase of 2.6 per cent, with decreased payroll totals of 1.3 per cent.

Increased employment in March was especially notable in nearly all Western States, and somewhat less marked in Eastern States.

The level of employment in manufacturing industries in March, 1929, was 5.2 per cent higher than in March, 1928, and payroll totals were 9.1 per cent higher.

March was the sixth successive month showing a higher level of employment than the same month or the preceding year, the percentage of increase, which in the first month was 0.6, having been substantially greater in each succeeding month.

	Mar., 1929.	Feb., 1929.	Mar., 1928.
Food and kindred products	97.4	98.6	97.2

Your Opportunities

OPPORTUNITY seldom knocks twice. It did in one case. In the first instance, a business man had no satisfactory banking connections. He had established no credit anywhere. Opportunity went elsewhere.

He opened an account here. He prospered and, what is more, learned how to use a bank's facilities. Now, he writes checks in five figures. Only another instance of the constructive service a bank can perform.

To Stockholders of Close Corporations:

We have a plan which will accomplish these things:

1 . . . . . 1 . . . . .

Each stockholder will know definitely what will become of his interest in case of his death.

2 . . . . . 2 . . . . .

Each stockholder will be compensated for his interest, and to its full value.

Each stockholder will know that the surviving stockholders will have funds available to purchase his stock.

Each stockholder will be assured that there will be no introduction of unknown, outside interests to disrupt the smooth working of the affairs of his close corporation.

THE Equitable has prepared a booklet, "To Officers of Close Corporations," in which the method of accomplishing these four points is explained. Send for a copy today.

A BANK LOOKS AT FOREIGN TRADE TRENDS

A large American manufacturer, entering the Japanese field, ordered his advertising department to prepare copy which would, as he put it, "ring the bell."

The American artist who drew the illustration for the first advertisement turned out a beautiful picture of a Japanese woman gazing with fond admiration at the manufacturer's product.

Came the day when this effort appeared in one of Japan's leading newspapers having a million circulation. But instead of selling the goods it provoked amazement and laughter.

This incident only serves to illustrate how carefully the details of an entrance into foreign markets must be planned. Shrewd exporters have found that expert counsel in such matters from a competent source is most helpful.

An up-to-date commercial bank is prepared to make these investigations itself or to put its customers in touch with those who are best equipped to make them.

The Seaboard, through its vast network of foreign banking correspondents the world over, is in a strategic position to help its customers gather authentic data relating to foreign trade conditions and practices.

If you are in doubt on some foreign trade questions, it might be worth your while to consult with us.

SECURITIES SALESMEN

WE want to add to our staff a few more responsible and energetic men to sell The Mandel Plan, which is one of the most attractive real estate investments from the standpoint of safety, income and profits that has ever been offered to the investing public.

We want men who are ambitious to win permanent managerial and executive positions, and who will be eligible for them when the opportunity arises.

We give you full house cooperation plus the aid of a continuous advertising campaign of newspaper display and direct-by-mail solicitation which bring in leads that produce business.

If you can sell and are accustomed to earning a good income, we offer you the opportunity to earn an even larger one, beginning at once. We pay a liberal commission plus attractive bonuses. Ask for Mr. Simmons, Mr. Lea, Mr. Babcock or Mr. Berry.

COUNTER SHARES QUIET IN A DULL MARKET

Prices Move Irregularly and Several Early Gains Are Lost in Later Trading.

Trading in the over-the-counter market was quiet yesterday. Prices were inclined to drift aimlessly, and several issues surrendered gains made during the early part of the session. Bank and trust company shares were active only at the opening. Insurance stocks had an early period of strength. Industrial and chain store stocks held firm. Tobacco shares were softer, and communication issues steady.

In the bank and trust company group, gains were shown by Fifth Avenue Bank, Seaboard, Sterling National, Lawyers Title and Guarantee, Fidelity, United States Mortgage and Trust, Corn Exchange, Liberty and Sixth Avenue. Declines were marked against County, Farmers Loan and Trust, Commercial National, Brooklyn Chase, New York Title and Mortgage, City, Equitable and Interstate.

Among the insurance shares, advances were shown by Niagara Fire, Aetna Casualty & Surety, National Fire, Aetna Life, Automobile Fire, Aetna Fire and a few others. An easier tone prevailed in Boston. Connecticut General Life, Globe & Rutgers, Providence-Washington, National Union, Transportation Indemnity and Transportation Re-Insurance.

Gains in the industrial group were shown by Technicolor, Rubel Coal & Ice and Central Distributers preferred. Losses were marked against Industrial Finance common, Welch Grape Juice common, Standard Textile Products A and B, Drape Corporation and Eisemann Magneto. In the chain store group, G. C. Murphy was slightly higher, while Metropolitan was lower.

Transferred to General Mills.

Transfer of the Larrowe Milling Company of Detroit to General Mills, Inc., has been completed, according to James F. Bell, president of the latter company. No changes are contemplated in the management or organization of the Larrowe Milling Company.

BRASS PIPE SALES IN 1928.

Sales of brass pipe in 1928 totaled 76,777,400 pounds, or almost five times the poundage sold in 1922, according to the Copper and Brass Research Association. The total for 1928 was about 14,000,000 pounds greater than the total for 1927, this being one of the largest gains in a single year since consumption of brass pipe assumed large proportions.

In 1923 sales totaled 16,016,500 pounds. On a percentage basis the gains over 1922 were 5 per cent in 1923, 61 per cent in 1924, 145 per cent in 1925, 234 per cent in 1926, 293 per cent in 1927, and 379 per cent in 1928, or an average gain of 74.8 per cent annually.

New Gas Well at Oklahoma City.

The Cities Service Company announces that its subsidiary, the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Company, has completed a gas well at 4,877 feet with a daily flow of 70,000,000 cubic feet near Oklahoma City. The new well, known as Alice Bodine No. 1, is shut in.

FARM RELIEF PLAN DEPRESSES COTTON

Futures Lose 5 to 10 Points Net in Sympathy With Drop in Prices of Wheat.

FOREIGN QUOTATIONS DOWN

Market Here Under Pressure Most of Day—Local Stocks of Commodity Increasing.

A sharp break in wheat exerted a sympathetic influence on cotton yesterday, and under Western as well as local selling, prices on the Cotton Exchange here worked slightly lower, ending with a loss of 5 to 10 points on the day. Measures proposed for farm relief appeared to disappoint speculative interests in the various commodity markets and liquidation resulted. Buying of May contracts by the trade in the process of fixing prices for raw material already under contract offered resistance at the lower level, but little recovery occurred from the day's low quotations. May contracts were offered freely 59 to 60 points over July.

Exports were larger yesterday which brought the total for the season 950,000 bales ahead of the volume at the same date last year.

Weather conditions unfavorable to the new cotton crop throughout much of the South failed to stimulate buying activity, while a decline of $2 a bale in Indian quotations in Liverpool and a loss of nearly half a cent in Alexandria brought American markets under selling pressure during the greater part of the day.

For the first time this season the local stock is now larger than it was a year ago. From the early part of 1927 to the middle of the Winter of 1927-28 some 200,000 bales were stored here. Then early in 1928 cotton started to move out, and last Fall the quantity was less than 10,000 bales. Owing to the premium on each near month since the December position, more and more cotton has been drawn in this direction, until the stock is now virtually 150,000 bales and increasing, whereas at this time last year it was decreasing.

BOND PRICES STEADY ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Railroads Are Fairly Active but General Tendency Is Listless Throughout Session.

Bond prices were steady to firm on the Stock Exchange yesterday although trading was listless throughout the day. Railroad bonds were fairly active, led by the St. Paul 5s of 1975, which were fractionally up. Profit-taking sent Seaboard Air Line issues lower. There is talk of a retirement of the adjustment 5s through the exchange of bonds and stock. Southern Railway 5s, Memphis division, dropped 2¼ points to a new low for the year. St. Louis-San Francisco issues were active and higher.

A fractional gain for Dodge Brothers convertible 6s on a substantial turnover featured the industrials. Anaconda convertible 7s held unchanged after selling off early in the day. Pan-American Petroleum closed off a point after touching a new high for the year at 108.

Utility issues were quiet and generally without features. International Telephone convertible 4½s dropped half a point in sympathy with the decline in the stock.

The active United States Government issues finished unchanged to moderately higher on purchases attributed to institutions. A certain amount of reinvestment of mid-April interest money is apparent.

British Rubber Shares for Curb.

The Curb Exchange will admit today to unlisted trading privileges, Guaranty Trust Company, American depositary receipts for ordinary registered shares, £1 par value, of the Malacca Rubber Plantations, Ltd., and the Rubber Plantations Investment Trust, Ltd. This will be the first time that trading has been conducted on the exchange in British rubber producing companies.

Corn Declines Sharply Under General Selling—Oats and Rye Go Lower.

CHICAGO, April 16.—Following the publication of the text of President Hoover's message grain operators expressed disappointment today, and opined that there was no immediate prospect of the proposed legislation having any effect on the market. A wave of general liquidation and stop-order selling engulfed the bulls and while there was a fair rally at one time, the finish was weak and about the inside figures for the day, with the net losses of 4⅜ to 4¾ cents. A very weak technical position was disclosed on the way down.

Long wheat came out through Eastern houses generally a good part of the day, with the break helped along by selling by a leading local professional. There was a lack of foreign demand for cash grain even on the decline, while railroads operating in the Southwest have turned down a proposition to put into effect a low freight rate in order to move out the large quantity of cash grain that is held in Kansas. The carriers held there is no certainty that the grain can be sold even though it was laid down at the seaboard or gulf.

Winnipeg closed 3½ to 3⅞ cents lower, with May there going to 5¼ cents over Chicago, as against 4¼ cents over on Monday.

Primary arrivals today, 556,000 bushels; week ago, 739,000 bushels; last year, 721,000 bushels. Shipments 322,000 bushels; week ago, 362,000 bushels; last year, 430,000 bushels.

Clearances of 800,000 bushels corn to Canadian ports by way of the lake have been made from here since navigation opened and it is now certain that a liberal decrease will be shown in the visible supply statement next Monday. Corn prices declined sharply under general selling, with the close 3 to 3¼ cents lower. Local spot basis was steady to half cent higher with receipts thirty-eight cars.

Primary arrivals today, 416,000 bushels; week ago, 693,000 bushels; last year, 654,000 bushels. Shipments, 1,165,000 bushels; week ago, 630,000 bushels; last year, 673,000 bushels.

Rye broke 3⅝ to 4¼ cents. Trade was light.

GRAIN EXPORTS REDUCED.

WASHINGTON, April 16 (AP).—Grains exports last week from the United States were 698,000 bushels, against 1,443,000 bushels the previous week and 2,218,000 in the corresponding week of 1928.

Commerce Department figures today gave the following comparisons between last week's exports and those of the week before. Wheat 277,000 bushels, against 274,000 bushels; oats 70,000, against 76,000; corn 249,000, against 796,000; barley 102,000, against 297,000.

Canadian grain exported last week through United States ports amounted to 2,588,000 bushels, against 1,694,000 bushels the week before while last week's exports of North American wheat flour were 193,000 barrels, against 289,000 barrels the previous week.

Dr. Butler Reported Gaining.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, who was operated upon Monday morning for gall stones and an abscess, was reported by Dr. Allen O. Whipple, surgical director of the Medical Centre, to be improving steadily yesterday after passing a comfortable night.

DENOUNCES ATTACKS ON MACHADO REGIME

Ambassador Ferarra Lays the 'Defamation' of Cuba to Self-Seekers and Theorists.

SEES IGNORANCE OF FACTS

He Declares Country Progressive and Friendly and Doubts if Washington Will Head Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Cognizance of attacks made in this country against the government of President Machado in Cuba was taken today by Dr. Don Orestes Ferrara, the Cuban Ambassador, who, in a public statement, denounced them, expressed his conviction that the American Government would pay no attention to them, and declared that Cuba "is today more than ever on the road to progress and civilization."

The attacks charged that a virtual dictatorship existed and that civil liberties were being denied.

The statement of Dr. Ferrara was prompted by requests from American editors for a reply to these attacks which have been growing in strength with the approach of the inauguration of President Machado for a second term of six years on May 20.

In issuing it, he is understood to have had in mind a series of articles now being published in a New York newspaper by Octavio Seigle, who is said to have been exiled from Cuba; a review of the situation just issued by the Foreign Policy Association and an appeal made last week by Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to Secretary Stimson for the State Department to move in behalf of J. E. Barlow, an American resident of Havana, who claims damages of $5,000,000 on account of property which he avers has been taken from him in that city by the Cuban Government without due process of law.

Secretary Stimson declined to comment on the situation in any way today.

Envoy Accuses Three Groups.

In his statement Ambassador Ferrera said:

"Three groups of persons are carrying on a campaign of defamation against Cuba in this country, directing unconscionable attacks against the republic, its government and its treasury.

"The first group is composed of three or four citizens of the United States seeking indemnification which the government of Cuba considers unjust. When one considers that in Cuba are invested more than $1,500,000,000 of capital of citizens of the United States, it becomes apparent that these few claims are of infinitesimal importance; of as little importance, in fact, as the individuals who advance them.

"The Cuban Government has recently signed a Pan-American arbitration convention, and is disposed under the terms of these to arbitrate all questions of this class.

"But it could never permit that attacks or threats by private individuals, devoid of ethical or factual foundation, should compel it to disburse funds which are the property of taxpayers—Cubans, Americans, Spaniards, &c.

"The second is composed of theorists who are ignorant of the facts and ignorant, above all, of the demands of international courtesy, doing harm both to the country of which they write with such superb lack of knowledge and to the country of which they are citizens.

Insists on Cuba's Friendship.

"The Cuban republic is the most sincere and constant friend of the Republic of the United States of America, and it will continue so to be despite the vociferations of those inadvertent gentlemen who would govern from afar a country in which they have never lived, whose institutions are to them a closed book and whose people they do not know.

"The third group is composed of two persons only, two who give themselves falsely the name of expatriates, since they elect voluntarily to stay in the United States when they could live in Cuba protected by Cuban laws.

"The Government of Cuba and its representative in Washington are gladdened by the latest manifestations of joint activity by the three groups allied against Cuba's institutions, knowing that the result would be a demonstration once again that the Government of the United States, always respectful of the rights of other nations, great or small, will not take upon itself the function of a court of claims for the settlement of all the suits which may arise in the jurisprudence of foreign countries.

"In the United States are thousands of persons with interest in Cuba, and this year in the neighborhood of 100,000 American tourists have visited Cuba.

"These people have first-hand information and can explain that the neighboring republic is today more than ever on the road of progress and civilization."

Charges Against President Machado.

In reviewing the charges made against President Machado, the Foreign Policy Association said that he was first elected in 1924 on a platform pledging non-re-election for a second term, that legal opposition had been silenced by control of members of the Cuban Congress through the lottery, and by government control over the organization of political parties and the suppression of freedom of discussion.

Last year Senator Shipstead of Minnesota introduced a resolution for a Senate investigation of alleged violation of political and individual freedom in Cuba and seizures of American property without due process of law. One of the results of the investigation, which was made by a subcommittee of the Foreign Relations Committee, was the recent appeal to Secretary Stimson in behalf of Mr. Barlow.

"Crooks" Watching Credit Fund.

Interest shown by local criminals in the progress of the campaign of the National Association of Credit Men for the new $1,750,000 fraud-fighting fund is apparently as great as that of the business men and bankers who are raising the money. This assertion was made yesterday by M. S. Mattuck, counsel of the credit protection department of the association. Investigators for the organization, in their work in the "underworld," report that "fences" are watching the campaign with particular interest, Mr. Mattuck added, as the profits of these men depend largely on the loot of fraudulent bankruptcies. Their annual business, he further said, runs to about $25,000,000, but this volume is being steadily reduced by the association's work.

Drop in Buyers Registered.

A drop was shown in the number of buyers registered in the market during the week ended yesterday as compared with those registered last week and in the corresponding period a year ago. For the week to yesterday 647 buyers were reported, which compares with 1,181 in the preceding week and 1,060 in the same week last year, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. The number of buyers in town yesterday was 362, a decrease under last Tuesday's figure when 461 were reported.

Foresee Huge Retail Merger.

Much interest is being shown in retail circles regarding developments likely to become known following the convention of the Retail Research Association which closes today at Old Point Comfort, Va. The belief prevails that light will soon be thrown on merger projects much larger than any launched hitherto. Under way is believed to be the formation of a huge holding company, eventually to be the "General Motors of retailing," with the J. L. Hudson Company, Abraham & Straus and William Filene's Sons Company as a possible nucleus. Also mentioned are the Rike-Kumler Company, F. & R. Lazarus Company and the Emporium. All of these stores are members of the Retail Research.

Large Fall Clothing Order Placed.

What is believed to be the largest individual order for men's Fall suits and overcoats at a single price was reported in the market yesterday. The order, placed by a large retail chain, calls for 45,000 suits and overcoats to be retailed at a price below $25. The business went to a Philadelphia manufacturing concern, which will start production at once. The largeness of the order was held another indication of the strong tendency on the part of retailers to concentrate their distribution on a single or at best a very few price ranges.

Transparent Velvets Sold Up.

The scarcity of transparent velvets last Fall bids fair to be repeated this Spring, it was said yesterday. The fabric is finding wide favor for coats, dresses and ensembles and reorders from retailers are held likely to absorb available quantities which garment manufacturers have on hand. Leading makers of transparent velvets are sold up and are accepting no more business for delivery this season. One of the largest producers reported his lines were sold up much earlier than was the case in past seasons.

Umbrella Sales Show Gain.

One line that has not suffered from the bad weather of the past ten days is umbrellas. Manufacturers here report active reorders for women's novelty styles and also new types of children's parasols. The sixteen-rib, twenty-one inch umbrella with novel dog or bird head handle, or the so-called Prince of Wales hooked handle, leads. Allover patterns lead in the silks used. High shades are coming in, but navy and brown are the volume shades thus far. Black and white patterned materials are receiving attention. Featuring the children's lines are replicas of favored adult modles, with solid colored silks stressed.

Clothiers Place Good Orders.

Orders being placed at the Fall buying convention of the Affiliated Clothiers on men's and boys' clothing and furnishings are about on the same basis as last year, or slightly ahead, according to Arthur Ellner of the buying organization. The sessions will continue this week and next, close to ninety stores participating. While business during the last ten days has slumped because of the weather, reports reaching Mr. Ellner indicated the stores represented had a gain of from 15 to 35 per cent in March, with a smaller but satisfactory gain in February also.

Lynx and "Silvers" Sold Well.

Lynx and silver fox sold best at yesterday's session of the Huth fur sale here. A fine collection of the former moved rapidly at prices ranging to $86, while an average collection of "silvers" was well bid for. Top for the latter was $365, which was paid for a prime half-silver pelt. Marten and Russian sable sold fairly well, but bidding for stone marten and baum marten was poor. Sables touched $190 for the best, while the highest price for marten was $100. Tops for stone and baum marten were $21 and $46, respectively. Sales for the day were $400,000, which brought the total for Section 1 of the catalogue to $750,000. Mink will be the first article on the block today.

Endorses "Warsaw Rules."

Rules relating to c. i. f. (cost-insurance-freight) contracts adopted at the Warsaw meeting of the International Law Association have been endorsed by the Merchants' Association, it was announced yesterday. The regulations, known as the "Warsaw Rules," provide, among other things, that the risk shall be transferred to the buyer the moment the goods contracted to be sold shall have been loaded on board the vessel in the manner customary at the port of shipment. Definite standards for bills of lading are also established. General adoption of the rules is expected to reduce misunderstandings and lawsuits arising in international trade.

Southern Mills Are Curtailing.

While there is not the general movement to curtail cotton goods production at this time that there was a year ago, a number of mills in Southern manufacturing centres are reducing their operations. Some of these mills are now working but four days a week, according to a well-known commission house executive who has just returned from a Southern trip, while others are working five days. In other cases, where full time is being worked, only about 75 per cent of the machinery is in use. While the curtailment reported is not true of all mills, the executive added, it is true of all lines of cotton goods. How long it will continue, he concluded, is problematical.

Gray Goods Still Dormant.

Except for business in May-June deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60 printcloths, which were sold by first hands in excess of 75,000 pieces at 7¼ cents, trading in the local gray goods market yesterday was again lacking in feature. Spots of the 64-60s were held an eighth higher. Other actual printcloth sales included April lots of 39-inch 68-72s and 38½-inch 44-40s at 8⅝ and 5⅛ cents respectively. Large bids of 6¼ cents, an eighth under the asking price, were refused for 38½-inch 60-48s. For 37-inch 48-square four-yard sheetings buyers paid 8¼ cents, and they also paid 11⅛ cents for 40-inch 2.85s. In both cases better makes of the goods were held an eighth higher. April shipments of 80-80 broadcloths were sold at 10⅜ cents, but the rest of the market was devoid of interest.

RUBBER FUTURES HERE DROP 60 TO 80 POINTS

Break Follows Heaviness in London Market—Exchange Sales Total 1,698 Contracts.

Crude rubber futures were weak yesterday, active months closing at declines ranging from 60 to 80 points on sales involving 1,698 contracts. The break followed heaviness in the London market, where spot receded 3/32d to a buyers' basis slightly below 11d, a new low for the present movement.

In the first hour July and September broke through the 22-cent level as offerings came in good volume from various commission houses and speculative sources. Factors in the trade took much of the supply offered and partial recovery from earlier lows was established. Later easiness followed failure of cables to show improvement and prices were swept to the day's lowest on persistent offerings.

London closed dull; Spot and April, 10⅝d; May, 10⅝d; June, 10½d; July-September, 10 11-16d; October-December, 10 15-16d, all bid and ⅛ to 7-16d lower. Singapore was quiet and unchanged to 1-16d higher.

LIVE STOCK AT CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The hog market was somewhat unsettled today, with lightweights steady to 10 cents lower, while butchers' stock was firm and in some instances quoted a shade higher. The day's top was off 5 cents at $11.60, while the average was steady at $11.40. Bulk of desirable weights sold at $11.25 to $11.50, with packing sows at $10.15 to $10.60. Packers bought 13,700 and shippers 6,000, with 5,000 left over. Receipts, 20,000, with 14,000 estimated for tomorrow.

Cattle prices showed little change, with best heavy steers and yearling selling up to $14.50, while bulk of beef cattle brought $12.75 to $14.10. Receipts, 7,000. Fat lambs advanced 25 to 35 cents, with Colorados selling up to $17.85, equaling the best price since June, 1928. Bulk of the sales were at $17.35 to $17.75 for wooled and at $16.50 to $16.85 for shorn. Sheep were steady to strong at $7.50 to $10.50. Receipts, $13,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were reported yesterday in the New York and New Jersey markets by the United States Department of Agriculture:

All classes of live stock nominal.

Hogs—Late Monday's sales steady, mixed lots 140-210 pound weights $12.25, few heavy sows $8.50 to $9.50.

COPPER PRICE SAGS TO 18C, DOMESTIC

SHARP DROP IN LONDON

Refined copper for domestic delivery was reduced 1¼ cents a pound by custom smelters yesterday to 18 cents, making a total decline of 6 cents a pound since the beginning of last week. The foreign price was reduced to 18.30 cents c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London, from the previous quotation of 19½ cents. Both reductions followed one of about £5 a ton in the London market. Most of the actual requirements to the end of July were covered in the first three months of this year, leaving only a nominal amount of business to be done for some time.

Offerings by the custom smelters are the chief factors in the market. Such copper is sold ahead to only a very small extent, as the supply is uncertain. As ore is received from custom smelting, cash is paid at the average price for the week of receipt, and in order to protect themselves the custom smelters promptly sell a corresponding amount of copper in the market. Although this business is small in comparison with the total requirements, it is sufficient to cause considerable price changes in an otherwise inactive market such as prevails at present.

A copper futures market is shortly to be provided on the National Metal Exchange. The board of governors of that Exchange has approved trading rules on copper futures which will be submitted to a meeting of the members for approval on April 29. With favorable action, it is planned to begin copper trading on or about May 10. This will place the New York market on a par with London, where trading in copper futures has been going on for many years.

TIN IN SHARP ADVANCE.

In an active session standard tin futures advanced 60 to 65 points yesterday. The closing was firm. Transactions totaled 550 tons. The rise followed several days of sharp declines. Strength of the London tin market was partly responsible for advances here.

HARDWARE TRADE ACTIVE.

Spring Business Reaches High Level Earlier Than Usual.

Spring trade in hardware is reaching a high level at an unusually early date, owing partly to the unusually warm wave that was experienced in many sections of the country last week, Hardware Age reports. In many instances jobbers are receiving large reorders, and the indications are that this season's business will show a considerable increase.

While snow has appeared in some Eastern sections, it is regarded as more of a benefit than a hindrance and has served to stimulate buying. Building operations are beginning to show improvement, and it is confidently expected that the balance of the season will see normal activity. Prices are steady and collections better than they were a year ago.

NEW HATS ON DISPLAY.

Flower Trimmings Predominate at Ritz-Carlton Review.

A millinery fashion review was given yesterday afternoon at the Ritz-Carlton by a group of Fifth Avenue shops in cooperation with the style committee of the International Artificial Flower Trades. Among the shops to exhibit new Summer modes were Jay-Thorpe, Hickson, Ferle Heller, Joseph, Kurzman, Milgrim and La Mode Chez Tappe.

Flower trimmings predominate and the large garden hat was the most striking note in the collection. This type of hat was worn to particular advantage with the new chiffon gowns, which are even more strikingly feminine than they were last year.

RAW SILK IN RECORD RISE.

Futures Advance 3 to 6 Cents in Rush of Buying.

With trading approaching record proportions, raw silk futures advanced from 3 to 6 cents a pound yesterday, the largest advance on any one day in the history of the National Raw Silk Exchange. Widespread consumer interest and buying by importing interests and brokers with Japanese connections caused the upturn. Considerable absorption was credited to manufacturers. The advance was also helped by short covering by commission houses, following the publication of statistics showing smaller shipments to the United States.

A total of 2,145 bales, or 429 contracts, changed hands, the second largest volume in the history of the exchange. The trading was mainly in small lots.

The price ranges were:

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

What was construed as disappointment over President Hoover's remarks on the tariff caused a reaction in raw sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange yesterday. Closing prices were from 3 to 6 points lower than Monday's final quotations. At the opening prices were unchanged. Closing levels were the lowest of the day.

Coffee.

Raw coffee futures showed a reactionary trend yesterday owing to lower prices in the European markets, and uneasiness over Brazilian exchange. At the close, A contracts were from 1 point higher to 6 points lower, and D contracts were 1 point higher to 8 points lower. The May deliveries were the only ones to advance. At the opening prices were 2 to 10 points lower, while D contracts were unchanged to 7 points lower.

Cocoa.

In an active market raw cocoa futures advanced from 5 to 10 points yesterday on the New York Cocoa Exchange. Opening prices were 1 to 6 points lower, owing to easier foreign cables and an increase of 7,800 bags in warehouse stocks. The market rallied quickly on short covering, however. Trading amounted to 201 lots, or 2,693 tons.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter.

Receipts, 15,721 packages. Fairly good buying interest and the market had a firm tone but without material change in prices. The uncertainty under which operations are strong, supplies quite limited for the moment but trade interfered with somewhat by the heavy storm.

HOUSE ON FIFTH AV. SOLD TO INVESTOR

Ten-Story Building Near 76th St. Is Bought by I. N. Phelps Stokes.

IT WAS HELD AT $750,000

The ten-story apartment house at 952 Fifth Avenue, twenty-seven feet north of the northeast corner of Seventy-sixth Street, was sold yesterday by the 952 Fifth Avenue, Inc., to I. N. Phelps Stokes for investment. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. were the brokers in the transaction.

Mr. Stokes built the fifteen-story apartment house immediately adjoining at 953 Fifth Avenue, which was sold by Douglas L. Elliman & Co. to a cooperative group.

The building at 952 Fifth Avenue was held at $750,000. It was one apartment of twelve rooms and four baths on each floor, except to two top floors, which comprise a large duplex and roof garden. The site is 50 by 120 feet. The house was built by Goddin & Ripley, Inc. It has among its tenants Mrs. Amory G. Hodges, Mrs. Isabella M. Brown, Dr. Charles C. Albertson and William H. Coverdale.

Pease & Elliman, Inc., and Mrs. Edward Stout, Inc., sold to 1,225 Madison Avenue Corporation the nine-story apartment house, 60 by 100 feet, at 139 East Sixty-sixth Street, between Lexington and Third Avenue, facing the Hewitt garden houses. Potter, Hamilton & Butler represented the owners, Rencross Realty Corporation, J. C. Warren, president. The property was held at $500,000.

The purchasers, a group of cooperative owners, recently sold to John H. Carpenter their present building, a seven-story structure at 1,225 Madison Avenue on the northeast corner of the avenue and Eighty-eighth Street. They plan to occupy a number of the apartments in the East Sixty-sixth Street house and rent the remainder.

With the conversion of this apartment into one of the group ownership type the entire block bounded by Lexington and Third Avenues, Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh Streets, will consist solely in cooperative apartments, except for the Third Avenue frontage.

The 139 East Sixty-sixth Street house is divided inti suites of six and eight rooms. It was built several years ago by Edwin S. Brickner, and upon its completion won an award for architectural excellence.

E. H. Ludlow & Co. sold 1,330 Third Avenue, northwest corner of East Seventy-sixth Street, three five-story buildings containing five stores on plot fronting twenty-five feet on Third Avenue and 100 feet on East Seventy-sixth Street. The property rents for $17,000 and was held at $160,000. Stewart Forshay was the seller.

Horn & Wright, Inc., sold for the trustees of L. Duncan Buckley Estate thte seven-story elevator apartment house, 67-67 St. Nicholas Avenue, to the Central Park North Holding Corporation. The property was held at $140,000 and covers a plot of about 6,600 square feet. Walter L. Williams Jr. was associate broker in the deal.

Horn & Wright, Inc., sold two five-story apartment houses, 51-53, St. Nicholas Avenue, for the Ardo Realty Company to an operator, who quickly resold to the Morley Realty Corporation, which is assembling other plotage in the same vicinity. The property was sold for $90,000.

OTHER MANHATTAN SALES.

Deals in Housing and Other Parcels Reported Yesterday.

The Joseph P. Day Management Corporation sold for the Noon Realty Corporation the five-story tenement house at 454 West Forty-fifth Street for $40,000. The property was recently bought by the Noon Realty Corporation through the Monday Realty Corporation, which represented the sellers.

The five-story building at 149 West Twenty-first Street was sold by Robert G. Macbeth to a client of Louis Schrag, broker.

Riverside Properties, Inc. (Eugene I. Gottlieb), owner of 306 and 308 West Ninety-third Street, has bought the adjoining six-story Allenel Apartments at 310 from the Monogram Realty Company.

Slawson & Hobbs sold for Ennis & Sinnott to P. and M. Schrank 492 Amsterdam Avenue, a five-story apartment house adjoining the southwest corner of Eighty-fourth Street, and 783 Amsterdam Avenue. Leon Stein resold both properties for the Schranks.

Samuel J. Kaplan purchased from O'Brien Estates, Inc., the five-story business building at 798 Sixth Avenue through J. C. Hough & Co.

ASK WEIGHTING CONFERENCE

Application to Federal Commission on Silk Standards Approved.

Formal application to the Federal Trade Commission for a trade practice conference on silk weighting was announced yesterday following meetings held in the rooms of the Silk Association of America. The application was addressed to the commission by E. L. Greene of the National Better Business Bureau, chairman of the joint committee on silk weighting, and was subscribed to by eleven national trade organizations. Time and place of the meeting will be fixed following a conference of representatives of the committee and the Trade Commission.

The application sets forth the object of the conference as the determination of standards of percentage of weighting mutually acceptable to all trade factors concerned and the enforcement of these standards. In the meanwhile the standards as set by the Silk Association last January will continue in force. Representatives of retailers, silk manufacturers, dyers and garment producers reported the steps they are taking to maintain the standards.

At the meeting of the technical committee, headed by C. H. Conze of the Susquehanna Silk Mills, the recommendation was made that Canton crêpes be taken from the crêpe de chine classification and put under the heading of satins. This was approved later by the joint committee. Technical tests will continue during the coming months, with particular reference to the relation of weighting of silks to washability, dry cleaning, perspiration and exposure.

Woolworth Daughters Sell Glen Cove Country Estate

Mrs. Charles E. F. McCann and Mrs. James F. Donahue have sold the country estate in Glen Cove, L. I., formerly owned by their father, the late Frank W. Woolworth. The buyer is Richard S. Reynolds, head of Selected Industries, Inc., an investment trust.

The three-story white marble residence, overlooking Long Island Sound, is surrounded by eighteen acres. It contains ten master bedrooms, fifteen servants' bedrooms and has a large pipe organ. The garage has space for eighteen cars, three housekeeping apartments and six additional rooms and bath. The residence was completed about eleven years ago. The Wheatley Hills Real Estate Corporation and Fish & Marvin arranged the sale.

OPERATORS ACTIVE ON THE EAST SIDE

Transactions Are Announced Involving Numerous Tenement House Properties.

SALE BY RUNYON S. BALDWIN

Operator Disposes of Two Flats on East 53d St. Near Second Av. —Other New Deals.

Numerous deals involving purchases of housing properties by operators were announced in Manhattan yesterday. Some of the properties were immediately resold, while negotiations for the resale of others were announced.

Leo Abraham purchased the two four-story brick buildings, 45 by 100 feet, at 314-316 East Thirty-first Street. The property was held at $80,000 and this was its first sale in ten years. Richard J. Fisher and M. L. Agin were the brokers.

Runyon S. Baldwin, operator, sold 308-310 East Fifty-third Street, two five-story tenement houses on a plot 40 by 100 feet, just east of Second Avenue. Mr. Baldwin bought the houses last August. Potter, Hamilton & Butler were the brokers.

In the Yorkville section, Cahn & Cahn, operators, purchased the five-story tenement house at 302 East Seventy-first Street. The house adjoins the southeast corner of Second Avenue and Seventy-first Street, which was recently bought by Cahn & Cahn. Their holdings at this point are increased to eight buildings occupying a block frontage of 175 feet on the avenue, between Seventieth and Seventy-first Streets, with a depth of 100 feet. Fass & Wolper were the brokers.

The Soleis Realty Corporation, in conjunction with the Sutton Realty Company, bought from Adolf Weiss the five-story tenement house at 1,277 Third Avenue, which is 76 feet from the northeast corner of Seventy-third Street. A resale of the property is pending.

A five-story tenement house at 350 East Seventy-sixth Street was bought by Lina Kramer from a client of Otterbourg, Steindler & Houston, Fritz Bricks was the broker.

Edwin E. Tanzer acquired for investment the apartment house at 227 East Eighty-eighth Street from a client of T. Louis A. Britt. The deal was negotiated by Frank Schwartz, broker.

John Ruhle sold the five-story double flat at 302 East Eighty-ninth Street to Fred Schuck. Schindler & Liebler, the brokers, also sold the three-story dwelling at 217 East Eighty-seventh Street for Bertha Brecht to Louis Musser. Schindler & Liebler also sold the five-story double flat at 325 East Eighty-ninth Street for Annie Uihlein to Harry Hurwitz, operator, who has resold the property.

PLAN IS UP TO LIMIT EAST SIDE MARKETS

Chamber Votes Tonight on Program for Drastic Cut in Number of Curb Merchants.

Plans for a material reduction in the number of open air markets on the lower east side will be acted on by the membership of the East Side Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting tonight. Adoption of a program which will be the basis for recommendations for changes to the city authorities is anticipated.

Following a survey of the curb market situation in large cities, Joseph Platzker, executive director of the east side organization, will recommend tonight that three or more market buildings be erected at pivotal locations to accommodate licensed carts, in line with the handling of curb trading in many places. The sites he will suggest are Monroe Street at Rutgers Street, Houston Street at Attorney and Orchard Street at Rivington.

Favorable action on proposals for abolishing some of the nine markets now in operation is predicted at the meeting. Limiting the activities of the cart operators has been called a necessary move for improvement of the trade situation of the section, a bid for new housing projects and a step in bettering sanitary conditions.

"Our section has more open-air markets than any other portion of the metropolis," Mr. Platzker pointed out. "Contrary to accepted opinions, the leading merchants here do not look today with the same favor at the curb markets that they did a generation ago. They feel that this Old-World method of selling cheap merchandise or foodstuffs should not survive in its present form.

"Both real estate operators and builders of note feel that housing activities on the lower east side will continue at a low pace unless encroachment on those market thoroughfares is curbed."

OPERATOR EXTENDS EAST SIDE HOLDING

OTHER MADISON AV. SALES

Moses Ginsberg, operator and builder, as president of the E. & G. Development Corporation, who recently assembled the southeast corner of Madison Avenue and 101st Street, yesterday purchased the three-story building at 51 East 100th Street, 18 by 100 feet, adjoining the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and 100th Street. The house was sold by Irene Furedy through the Houghton Company, as broker.

This parcel abuts the property at 1,455-1,465 Madison Avenue and 50 East 101st Street, forming the southeast corner, and gives Mr. Ginsberg control of 15,700 square feet on the 100th, 101st Streets and Madison Avenue blocks. Mr. Ginsberg recently resold the blockfront on the east side of Madison Avenue, Ninety-seventh to Ninety-eighth Street.

The Alvie Realty Company, L. A. Steeg, president, purchased through Dewey Schnitzer from a client of Cyrille Carreau the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and 107th Street, held at $95,000. A resale of the property is pending.

In the Yorkville section, Teresa Urban, operator, purchased from Florence M. Gander the five-story building at 1,681 Madison Avenue, sixty feet north of 111th Street, 27 by 100 feet. McClarey Brothers and Andresen & Bremer were the brokers.

A ten-family house at 232 East Ninety-fifth Street, between Second and Third Avenues, has been sold by Jacob Klett to Ethel Weiss. A resale of the contract is pending. Arthur Lichtner and Samuel Sason, brokers, closed the deal.

The Duross Company, in conjunction with Dwight, Voorhis & Perry, has sold for Julia I. O'Hara to an investor 169 Eighth Avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth Streets, a five-story apartment house with store, on a lot 22 by 100 feet.

The property at 1,545 St. Nicholas Avenue has been purchased by James A. McDonald through L. J. Phillips & Co., brokers.

Jerome H. Frank, in conjunction with A. Wohlfarth, has sold to Hanna Murphy for investment the five-story brick tenement on a plot 25 by 100 feet at 437 West Fifty-fourth Street. The new owner will modernize the building.

Joseph Goldsmith and Frank Schwartz resold for Sophie Fuches the four-story building at 442 East Eighty-first Street, adjacent to York Avenue, to August Schneider, who recently purchased 428-430 and now controls a plot of 7,500 square feet.

George P. Bedford sold to the Ber Company the three-story building at 145 East Fifty-first Street, adjoining Lexington Avenue. The buyer recently purchased 149.

Elliott C. Carter purchased from Stewart Forshay 1,830 Third Avenue and 195-197 East Seventy-sixth Street, northwest corner, improved with four and five-story buildings.

Sells House Near Park Avenue.

The residence of Mrs. Myllys Terry at 120 East Seventy-third Street has been sold by Brown, Wheelock, Harris, Vought & Co., brokers, to a buyer who intends to occupy the house. This is a five-story American basement dwelling on a lot 18 by 102 feet, 178 feet east of Park Avenue.

At a dissolution sale in the Vesey Street Exchange conducted yesterday by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, fourteen properties were sold for a total of $1,599,500. The properties are in the Columbus Circle, Greenwich Village and Chelsea sections. Operators and builders were most active in bidding at the sale.

Interest centred on the plot in the active Columbus Circle area, a parcel 100 by 100 feet at 335 to 341 West Fifty-ninth Street, occupied by four five-story brick apartments. Bidding started at $250,000 and was finally sold to the Morwyn Operating Corporation, Louis Kovner, president, for $346,000. Mr. Kovner said he would erect a twenty-story club hotel on the site.

In this same area the parcel at 440 to 446 West Forty-eighth Street, two four-story and two five-story apartments on a plot 100 by 100, was bought by Benjamin Rubenstein, who announced his intention of immediately reimproving the plot with modern apartments. Rubenstein paid $150,000.

The southwest corner of Second Avenue and East Sixty-third Street, plot 100 by 80 feet, with four five-story apartments with stores, after active bidding, went to the Tri-Borough Realty Corporation. Herman Peskin paid $139,000 for three and four story tenements at the northeast corner of Hudson and Perry Streets, while $60,500 was paid by Milton Peters for 77 Perry Street, a six-story apartment. The parcel at 43 Jane Street, a five-story apartment, went to A. J. Jones for $42,500; 315 to 321 West Twenty-seventh Street brought a high bid of $121,000 from J. Sherwood; 115 Charles Street, a five-story tenement, went to J. J Lilly for $42,000.

Other results were as follows: 349 to 357 West Twenty-seventh Street, $152,000; 528 Tenth Avenue, $46,000; 88 Amsterdam Avenue, $63,000; southwest corner of Third Avenue and East Ninety-second Street, $126,000; 2,126 to 2,128 First Avenue, $45,500, and 336 East 110th Street, $29,500.

Hewlett Harbor Residence Sold —Sands Point Purchase.

Alfred E. Poor sold his Regence Manoir, a house of twelve rooms and four baths on the old Auerbach estate, now known as Hewlett Harbor, to Reginald Francklyn, recently returned from Spain, for occupancy. The property, including a one-acre plot overlooking the Seawane Club's golf course, was held at $80,000. William Kerr Macdonald arranged the sale.

William B. Whidden of Boston leased for a term of years, through the same broker, a house on Meadowview Drive, Hewlett Bay Park, from the Hewlett Bay Company.

Paul Cushman bought for an addition to his estate fifteen acres of wood lot property in Syosset from H. C. Smith. Hamilton, Iselin & Co. were the brokers.

A Manhattan stock broker bought acreage in Sands Point for improvement with a Summer home. The parcel is east of the Hicks estate, south of the L. Gordon Hammersly property and west of the Cornwell estate. This is the first transfer in about 100 years, according to Pell & Tibbits, the brokers.

Reuben J. Ross of Manhattan leased for a term of years, through the same brokers, the former Gutheridge property in the vicinity, overlooking Manhasset Bay. It adjoins the John Philip Sousa property.

BANKERS TRUST SELLS SITE

A six-story apartment house, representing an investment of $1,000,000, is to be erected on Hugh J. Grant Circle in the Bronx as the result of a deal yesterday, when a site there was bought by the Trieport Realty Corporation. The property was sold by the Highview Property Corporation through Steinholz & Sweedler, brokers.

The plot just sold is on the north side of Hugh Grant Circle and covers the block from Storrow Street to within twenty-nine feet of the corner of Virginia Avenue. It fronts 184 feet on the circle and 144 feet on Storrow Street. It has a westerly line of 284 feet and the entire area comprises twelve lots.

The proposed apartment house is to have stores and negotiations are pending with a bank to occupy the corner. The sellers bought the property about a year ago through Steinholz & Sweedler.

The Bankers Trust Company sold to a client of Kates & Borodkin, brokers, the irregular plot with a frontage of 242 feet on both Intervale Avenue and Dawson Street. The plot is now improved with a one-story taxpayer, which is to be replaced by a six-story elevator apartment house.

In the first sale of the property in thirty years the five-story apartment house at 380 East 138th Street, near Willis Avenue, has been sold by a client of the Julius Trattner Company.

The lot, 30 by 50 feet, on the west side of St. Lawrence Avenue, seventy-eight feet south of Westchester Avenue, was bought by the K. T. & S. Realty Corporation from Richard Webb. It is to be improved with stores and apartments above, according to the Adams-Rubinstein Company, broker.

Ryan & Waters, brokers, resold for the Sole Realty Corporation, Sol Lachman, president, 590 East 134th Street to Edward Reingold; 584-586 East 134th Street to Edward Reppschlagen, and 578-588-582-592 East 134th Street to Martin Heisel. They resold for Martin Heisel 592 East 134th Street to an investor, and sold for Miss Mary Prew 597 East 134th Street to Felix Spliesgart.

Siegel & Boneparth have sold the plot, 75 by 100 feet, on the east side of Mayflower Avenue, about 350 feet south of Wilkinson Avenue.

This plot was bought by the same builder recently reported as having purchased the adjoining plot of five lots, and which now gives him a frontage of 200 feet.

Armstrong Brothers leased for William J. Daniel to Raymond Rubin, operator and builder for twenty-six years, the southeast corner of Jerome Avenue and 170th Street, at the foot of the Jerome Avenue and 170th Street subway station. This property now contains eleven stores and is built on a plot 105 feet on 170th Street by 60 feet on Jerome Avenue.

It is the intention of the lessee to erect a one-story addition to the present building. The lease aggregates about $1,500,000 for the term. This property was purchased by Mr. Daniel through the same brokers about a year ago.

Syndicate Organized by Henry Boskey Company Gets Key to 2,900-Square Foot Parcel.

The recent buying activity in Central Park West has reacted favorably upon Manhattan Avenue, which is just one block west and there have been several sales between 100th and 110th Street. Brokers are reported to be assembling plots as future apartment house sites.

Yesterday the five-story tenement at 28 Manhattan Avenue on a lot 25 by 100 feet, located 75 feet from the southeast corner of 102d Street, was reported sold by the John Sasse Estate to a syndicate organized by the Henry Boskey Company.

This parcel is said to be the key lot to a plot of 29,000 square feet which the Boskey Company is assembling.

Henry Boskey said there were several larger parcels available on Manhattan Avenue at less than half the front foot prices paid for Central Park West property and that some of the parcels in Manhattan Avenue that had changed ownership recently were bought for about $2,500 a front foot for corners.

"Prices, however," said Mr. Boskey, "have not changed materially to any extent on Manhattan Avenue since 1925, but there is every indication of an advance at the present time."

BUILDING CONTRACTS REACH HIGH TOTAL

Awards for Week in Metropolitan Area Aggregate $74,016,500 —Daily Average Lags.

One of the highest weekly building contract totals recorded in the metropolitan area of New York, $74,016,500, was reached during the period from April 6 to 12, according to Dodge reports. The awarding of two large contracts, one in the residential class amounting to $15,000,000 and the other in the public works and utilities group amounting to $25,000,000, was largely responsible for the week's aggregate.

Last week's total was more than double the total for the preceding week and more than three times greater than the total for the corresponding week a year ago. Analysis of the figure shows $34,445,100, or 47 per cent of all construction, for public works and utilities; $29,622,200, or 40 per cent, for residential buildings; $6,070,100, or 8 per cent, for commercial buildings, and $2,864,100, or 3 per cent, for educational projects.

The daily average of new building and engineering work started since the first of this year amounts to $4,352,600, being still a little behind the daily average of new building and engineering work started during the first four months of last year.

During the past week $95,891,600 worth of new work was reported in contemplation in this territory.

BUYERS IN COOPERATIVES.

William A. Duncan, vice president of the Farmers Loan and Trust Company, bought an eight-room apartment in the $5,000,000 cooperative house at 1,060 Fifth Avenue, completed last Fall by Dwight P. Robinson & Co., Inc., from plans by J. E. R. Carpenter. The structure is on the site of the old Henry Phipps house at the north corner of Eighty-seventh Street. The cooperative space is now sold except for two apartments and a doctor's suite, according to John H. Carpenter Jr., the agent.

Mrs. Stuart D. Preston bought an apartment in the 100 per cent cooperative under construction at 6 East Seventy-second Street by the Lenox Hill Building Corporation, from plans by F. Burrall Hoffman and Lafayette A. Goldstone. The Worthington Whitehouse Company, Inc., was the broker.

Mrs. K. B. Emmons bought a suite of four rooms and two baths in the 100 per cent cooperative at 333 East Sixty-eighth Street, between First and Second Avenues, completed about a year ago by Fred T. Ley & Co. Pease & Elliman, Inc., arranged the sale.

Mrs. Fletcher H. Bangs sold her apartment in the limited cooperative at 145 East Fifty-fourth Street to Miss Margaret H. Elliott, and Mrs. John S. Fitzsimmons sold her suite in a similar structure at 150 East Seventy-third Street to the Misses Caroline E. and Dorothy Inslee, represented by Stockwell & Marling. Brett & Wyckoff arranged the deals.

SUFFOLK TITLE & GUARANTEE CO. NEW JAMAICA BUILDING

THE Long Island Real Estate Board selected the new Suffolk Title & Guarantee Building because of its exceptional location, accessibility, superior construction and welcome lack of noise. It occupies the entire block front on Grove Street between Herriman Avenue (161st St.) and Washington Street (160th St.).

The building, itself, offers every advantage — quick, smooth elevator service from three Otis Elevators—all offices outside offices. There are eight floors and on one of the floors special plumbing is installed to provide professional offices suitable for physicians, surgeons and dentists.

SALESMEN.

One of the largest gas range manufacturers needs two supervisors for out-of-town work; men will be thoroughly trained in our business and will be placed in positions where a good future and steady income is assured.

We will pay a drawing account of $40 a week against commission on the sale of all our appliances sold by the public utility to which men will be assigned; it is hard work and requires both tact and the ability to make other men sell.

If you want a good job with a real live organization, write us all about yourself, what you have done and what you want to be; state age and religion. W 162 Times.

MEN AND WOMEN,

YOU ARE INVITED

TO A GREAT RALLY AND ENTERTAINMENT

AT OUR OFFICE

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 18, AT 8 P. M. SHARP.

Hear the story of the greatest progressive step ever made by a real estate organization in the opening of our new AIRPORT at MASSAPEQUA PARK under the supervision of one of the WORLD'S most famous TRANSATLANTIC FLYERS.

CONSIDER THE FOLLOWING:

Business continually increasing.

Property close in—desirable and moderately priced.

Boulevards, Sunrise Highway and Electric Railroad run through the property.

Special Trains every Sunday—Rain or Shine.

Large Auditorium on property.

Luncheons and entertainments.

Experts to close your sales.

Office space increased to capacity for 600 Commission Salesmen and women.

GET ON THE BAND WAGON.

Join a Live, Progressive, Hard-Hitting Organization where Enthusiasm and Energy are apparent on every side; where Success is contagious; where your efforts will be properly directed, and where you will cash in, in the Spring Campaign of 1929, in a big way.

ALL ABOARD! LET'S GO! ! !

AN OPPORTUNITY.

We are in need of three experienced salesmen.

We want them to start at a moderate salary, but want to increase their pay rapidly.

The work is local.

The men we want must be salesmen with clean records and ability to earn good money.

They must be alert, of good appearance and able to take direction gracefully.

They will be trained at our local branch.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16.—The disturbance that was central on the North Carolina Coast Monday evening has moved slowly northeastward with greatly increased intensity and has been attended by gales from the Virginia Capes to Eastport, Me., and whole gales from Delaware Breakwater to Nantucket, Mass. The Northwestern disturbance has moved southeastward to Iowa, while pressure is low over British Columbia and over Eastern Canada. It is high and rising on the Middle Pacific Coast.

The indications are for mostly fair weather in the Ohio Valley, the South Atlantic States and portions of the Middle Atlantic States Wednesday, while rains or snows will continue over Northeastern sections. The weather will be generally fair over much of the district on Thursday.

The temperatures will rise slowly over western and southern portions of the district Wednesday and over the remainder of the district on Thursday. Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Eastport, Me., to Cape Hatteras, N. C.

COUNTER-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours, from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M. and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

PREFERENCE CLAUSE IN SHIP SALE UPHELD

Department of Justice Finds Board Has Right to Favor Operators of Services.

PRACTICE BRINGS PROTESTS

United States Lines to Refuse to Bid on Two Freight Lines on Such Terms.

The United States Shipping Board has been assured by the Department of Justice that its practice of giving preference in negotiations for the sale of lines to the operators of the service is legal and will meet today to decide whether it will include a preference clause in the terms of advertisements for bids for the American France and American Diamond Lines.

J. Harry Philbin, vice president of the United States Lines, Inc., was in Washington Monday to determine whether or not the preference clause would be inserted and said yesterday that if the Shipping Board does extend preference, Paul W. Chapman, head of the United States Lines, Inc., will abandon his plan to bid.

The Chapman group is deeply interested in the disposal of the two lines, which are freight carriers serving France and Germany, and had hoped to acquire them to be combined with the United States Lines, Inc., which has bought eleven ships from the Shipping Board for the transatlantic passenger service.

Says Survey Costs Too Much.

"But the cost of a survey of the property and possibilities of these lines," said Mr. Philbin, "is so high that we cannot afford to make the outlay if the Shipping Board casts the bids aside, calls for a second set of figures and thus permits the operators of the lines to acquire the ships by topping our honestly computed bid."

The preference practice was applied most recently in the sale of the Gulf, Brazil-River Plate Line to the Mississippi Shipping Company, which was not the high bidder when the original offers were opened, but which in subsequent negotiations was managing operator increased its bid to make it the highest figure offered. Controversy over the rights of the board in this practice led a request to the Department of Justice for an opinion, and assurance was given yesterday that it was within its rights.

The America France Line is operated by the Cosmopolitan Steamship Company from North Atlantic ports of the United States to Havre, Dunkirk and St. Nazaire. It includes eleven ships of a total of 95,000 deadweight tons. The American Diamond Line is operated by the Black Diamond Steamship Company from North Atlantic ports to Amsterdam and Rotterdam and includes fourteen ships of a total of 121,000 deadweight tons.

Board Permits Low Rates.

Both managing operators are expected to submit bids for the lines. They operate them under a contract with the Shipping Board by which the board meets any financial deficiencies, the board seeking to build up an American service and offering the ships for private sale when such service is definitely established. Rates have been cut by the American Diamond Line with the authorization of the Shipping Board to such an extent that shippers from Germany rerouted their freight to Amsterdam and Rotterdam to get the benefit of the low prices. The ships were not operated at a profit under these terms.

If the Black Diamond Company acquires the ships and obtains a mail-carrying contract from the government which enables it to maintain the low rates the freight service of the United States Lines, Inc., will face serious competition. The bid which was planned by Mr. Chapman would eliminate this competition and permit the operation of freight ships on a paying scale while the ships of the United States Lines, Inc., would serve the passenger trade.

"Our passenger line," said Mr. Philbin, "needs freight ships just as a railroad line that operates de luxe trains and express service must also have local service and freight cars."

CITY MARSHAL HELD FOR SHOOTING WOMAN

F. J. Herman Also Accused of Assaulting Elevator Operator —Placed in $6,000 Bail.

Ferdinand J. Herman, 39 years old, a city marshal, living at 1,264 Tenth Avenue and having an office at 301 West Fifty-fourth Street, was held yesterday in $6,000 bail on two charges of felonious assault by Magistrate Stern in West Side court as a result of a shooting early in the morning in the hallway of the apartment house at 140 West Fifty-fifth Street. Miss Billie Beverly, 30, of 509 West 149th Stree', was struck in the right ankle by two of the four bullets said to have been fired by Herman.

Herman's companion at the time, William Cohen, 26, of 146 West Sixty-fourth Street, was held by Magistrate Stern in $2,000 bail on a felonious assault charge. Hearing for both men was set for April 26.

The complainant against both men was Walter Colborne of 160 West 141st Street, negro elevator operator in the apartment house where the shooting occurred, who accused them of assaulting him when he interfered with their attempts to force Miss Beverly to accompany them in a taxicab. An additional charge of assaulting Miss Beverly is contained in an affidavit lodged against the city marshal.

Herman said that he had gone to the apartment of Katharine Darlington in the building, where a party was in progress, in search of Dorothy Davenport, who was arrested last week on a charge of stealing 2,500 worth of jewelry from Joseph Pilcer, brother of Harry Pilcer, dancer. Herman asserted the $1,500 bail had been furnished through one of his friends, Jack Shearn, a professional bondsman, and he, Herman, had gone in search of Miss Davenport to advise her not to leave the city. He said he failed to find her at Miss Darlington's party and was leaving when an argument started between himself and the elevator operator.

Detective Patrick Harty of the West Forty-seventh Street station, who investigated the shooting, asserted, however, that Herman had attended the party, and in this he was corroborated by the elevator operator.

Shipping Opens at Fort William As 26 Vessels Sail With Grain

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., April 16 (Canadian Press).—Amid the tooting of sirens and steam whistles, the harbor began the Spring shipping activity last night when marine insurance took effect for the season at 12 o'clock. Tugs turned the huge grain boats and moved them into the channels leading to open water.

Twenty-six vessels of the fleet of thirty-five which had been lying at the head of the lakes with grain aboard for Winter storage cleared today and yesterday. They carried 6,710,000 bushels, chiefly wheat.

Today's shipments represent the crop from about 335,000 acres. If this grain were transported by rail it would require a train 430 miles in length reaching from Fort William to Winnipeg.

Nine of the fleet are still waiting for sailing orders.

DENIES OLIVER NOVEL WINS PULITZER PRIZE

Columbia Official Says Advisory Committee Does Not Meet Until Next Week.

Frank D. Fackenthal, secretary of Columbia University, denied yesterday published reports that the Pulitzer prize for the best novel of 1928 has been awarded to "Victim and Victor," by Dr. John Rathbone Oliver, a novel dealing with the troubles of a clergyman who is unfrocked for drunkenness by his bishop.

"There is absolutely no basis in fact for the report that the Pulitzer award has been decided upon, as the Advisory Committee of the School of Journalism, which is the final arbiter of Pulitzer awards, has not met since last April, when it decided upon the awards for 1927," Mr. Fackenthal declared. "The committee has held no meetings in the interim. It will meet for the first time for the consideration of the 1928 award next week."

The report that the 1928 award had been made to Dr. Oliver grew out of a story printed in the April 13 issue of The Publishers' Weekly in which Dr. Richard Burton, chairman of the Pulitzer Prize Jury, is said to have revealed the prize winner in an address recently at the University of Minnesota. Dr. Burton, in the same article, is also reported to have declared that only the socialistic tendencies of Upton Sinclair's "Boston" kept that book from winning the prize.

"I do not see how Dr. Burton could have possibly made the statements attributed to him," Mr. Fackenthal said yesterday. "There is only one committee authorized to make the award and since that committee has not even held a meeting as yet it is ridiculous to assume that any particular novelist will get the prize. The field for the Pulitzer prize for 1928 is today open to all competing novelists and will remain so until the prize committee begins its deliberations next week preparatory to the official announcement in May."

SHIPBUILDING FIGURES RISE.

Lloyd's Shows Increase of 219,000 Under Construction March 31.

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—A revival in the shipbuilding industry was indicated in Lloyd's register of shipping today. Tonnage under construction in Great Britain and Ireland on March 31 was 1,357,000, an increase of 114,000 over Dec. 31, while tonnage under construction abroad was 1,480,000, an increase of 105.000 in the three-month period.

Another 200,000 tonnage under construction in the British Isles, 200,000 is for the British dominions and 188,000 for sale or for foreign shipowners. Tanker tonnage under construction amounts to 331,000, showing a further reduction.

The tonnage of motorships under construction in the British Isles is 357,000, while abroad it is 862,000.

NEW BANK FOR BROOKLYN.

Fort Greene National to Begin Business About June 1.

Application to organize the Fort Greene National Bank of Brooklyn with a capital of $500,000 and surplus of $125,000, was approved yesterday by the Controller of the Currency. The bank will open for business about June 1 in quarters formerly occupied by the Williamsburg Savings Bank at Flatbush and Atlantic Avenues. Bennett de Beixedon will be the president; William Reed, vice president, and George Rogers, cashier.

An application to organize the De lancey National Bank was made yesterday to the Controller of the Currency by Alexander Dolowitz, an atttorney of 84 William Street. The bank will have an initial capital of $200,000.

PLAN 2 NEW LINERS LIKE THE LEVIATHAN

United States Lines Executive and Naval Architects Confer on Building Program.

Naval architects were in conference yesterday with Joseph E. Sheedy, executive vice president of the United States Lines, Inc., on plans for the construction of two new ships of the Leviathan type which will be added in 1932 to the fleet of the company which now operates the Leviathan.

Although the newly organized company has taken over only one ship, the Leviathan, and must take over ten more before it has completed the first part of its contract with the Shipping Board, an important term of the contract with the board is that two Leviathan-type ships be added.

Plans for the ships are very indefinite, and they will be formulated according to standards of the Shipping Board and the American Bureau of Shipping, in order that the lines may be permitted to borrow 75 per cent of the cost of their construction from the special construction loan fund of the Shipping Board. It is understood that they will be of between 40,000 and 50,000 tons and able to make a speed of 26 to 28 knots.

Printing Club to Honor Weinstein.

The Printing Crafts Club of 460 West Thirty-fourth Street will be the host at a testimonial dinner this evening at 6:30 o'clock to George Weinstein on his sixty-fifth birthday. Mr. Weinstein has been in the printing business for forty years. John C. Oswald, managing director of the Employing Printers Association, Dr. William J. Robinson, Dr. J. Herbert Lowe, Thomas Gilleran and John J. Snyder Jr. will be the speakers.

HOLD STATE CAN TAP DELAWARE RIVER

C. E. Hughes and J. W. Davis Concur on Taking Water Supply for Use of City.

BOARD RECEIVES OPINIONS

Advice Sought Because New Jersey and Pennsylvania Failed to Ratify Compact.

The separate legal opinions written by Charles E. Hughes and John W. Davis on the question whether New York State could proceed, without the consent of the States of New Jersey and Pennsylvania, to tap the headwaters of the Delaware River, located within the borders of this State, for the purpose of adding to New York City's water supply, were formally received by the Board of Water Supply at a private meeting in the Municipal Building yesterday.

George J. Gillespie, president of the board, said later that both legal opinions, "having due regard to appropriate reservations and compliances with prescribed rules and practices, are to the effect that the city can develop its water supply system under the plan submitted, and that the United States Supreme Court would not grant an injunction prohibiting the progress of the work."

The two opinions, which together cover about fifty typed pages, Mr. Gillespie added, would be placed in the hands of Mayor Walker and other members of the Board of Estimate at noon today. The opinion written by Mr. Davis was received some time ago, Mr. Gillespie said, and that of Mr. Hughes last week. Mr. Hughes had been engaged in litigation in the Chicago drainage case and he had thought it well to wait until the United States Supreme Court had decided that issue, as it might have some bearing upon the New York case.

"The reasonableness and fairness of New York in its suggestions and its procedure," said Mr. Gillespie, "its fairness in the plan submitted as to the right of all, the importance the value and necessity of the project to the city of New York, the nation's leading municipality, are dwelt upon and realized as factors which would be taken into consideration by a reviewing court.

"As a matter of fact the waters that would be taken by the city of New York under the plan would be the flood tides of the Spring. The amount of water that would be withdrawn and reservoired would not be noticed by even a trained eye in its effect on the flow of the Delaware River. Waters which otherwise would run away to the sea would be impounded for New York City use. Furthermore, the plan proposes that New York would hold in its reservoirs, to be let out during the Summer drought, a sufficient amount of water to maintain a steady flow at a minimum higher than could be provided under nature's normal conditions. New York feels it is entirely within its rights in this matter, but nevertheless desires and intends to so act that neither New Jersey nor Pennsylvania could reasonably complain.

"I laid down the proposition that we would compensate in full and promptly any damage done and comply with all the laws of the State of New York, and we also assumed that the United States War Department would have jurisdiction over the navigability of the stream.

"Mr. Davis and Mr. Hughes, in their opinions, analyzed the laws bearing on the matter. They also referred to the decisions in similar matters in other States, mainly Western States, where there are border streams. They also analyzed our particular problem here. Of course, we gave them copies of a compact that had been entered into between New York and Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and we realized that if it couldn't be settled by compact it would have to be settled by the United States Supreme Court."

Mr. Gillespie explained that several years ago the appointment of commissions by the three States had resulted in a compact which was later ratified by the New York Legislature, but that the other two States had never ratified it.

INDIA'S RULING PRINCES TO BE UNDISTURBED

British Commission Opposes Federation Without Consent of Native States' Rulers.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 16.—India's ruling Princes have had their worst fears over Indian nationalism set at rest by the Indian States committee, headed by Sir Harcourt Butler, whose long-awaited report was issued today.

The commission was established two years ago to inquire into the existing relations between the British administration and the Indian native States, which comprise a third of India's area and a fifth of her population of 300,000,000.

The Princes have long been troubled by the prospect of a federation being established in India at some future date with the Indian Legislature, the dominating administration. Repeatedly they have petitioned for assurances that their hereditary positions and individualities of their States would not be submerged under some future system of government.

The Butler Commission agrees with the "really grave apprehension of the Princes on this point" and recommends that no federation be established between the native States and British India without the Princes's consent.

The committee adds, however, that any such federation is far in the future and that talk of democratic government by the Indian Legislature is premature. Only one change in the machinery is provided—that in the future the Viceroy of India and not the Governor General in council, as at present, shall represent the princes in their dealings with the British Crown.

MADRID TO FREE AMERICAN

Wright Was Held When Women With Him Criticized Regime.

MADRID, April 16 (AP).—William Wright, an American citizen regularly employed in Canada, arrested several days ago in the company of two Spanish women who, police said were publicly criticising the Spanish Government, is to be released by the Madrid police on the condition that he keep in touch with the authorities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The State Department today asked the American Embassy in Madrid for information concerning the arrest of William Wright yesterday.

No report on the incident has been received from any official source. The identity of Mr. Wright could not be established here today, although he was said to be a resident of this city.

ANDREWS CALLS OFF EXPEDITION PARLEY

Rejects Chinese Demands and Threatens to Abandon Trip to Mongolia.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PEKING, April 16.—Negotiations which have been proceeding here for the past month between Roy Chapman Andrews and the Peking Society for the Preservation of Cultural Objects with regard to permission to make a fourth Asiatic expedition on behalf of the American Museum of Natural History were entirely called off today.

The demands made by the Chinese were flatly refused by Mr. Andrews, who said:

"The society's worst demands are that the entire expenses of the trip be paid by Americans and that no fossil remains discovered can be taken out of the country. I am ready to leave for Mongolia in a week's time, but unless the demands are altered I shall give up the expedition entirely, repack all the equipment and return to New York this month."

The matter has now been referred to Nanking, but it seems unlikely that terms can be made and likely that the entire expedition will be given up and the equipment and staff evacuated.

ARCHITECTS SHOW THEATRE PROGRESS

AIRPORT MODEL ON DISPLAY

Landing Field, on Large Scale, Is Complete With Hangars, Lights and New Devices.

Yesterday was Stagecraft Day at the Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition in Grand Central Palace. Special attentiton was given to stage settings, from the time of Shakespeare to the present day.

Changes that have taken place in the theatre, including scenery and costumes, are illustrated in an exhibit. The single play "Macbeth" was taken as a basis for the exhibit, as the simplest means of demonstrating the development of the theatre throughout the centuries. A series of models illustrate the changing modes of theatrical presentation and a collection of photographs portray actors and actresses who won fame in "Macbeth." The exhibit was arranged by Kate Oglebay, chairman of the drama department of the Arts Council of the City of New York, in cooperation with the Theatre Arts Monthly and the New York Public Library.

"Design and Execution of Stage Sets" was the topic of an address yesterday afternoon in the exposition lecture hall by Woodman Thompson, who designed scenery for various Broadway productions. "One of the greatest tragedies of the modern theatre," he said, "is the criminal speed with which stage productions are evolved. Give those responsible for a production twice the time they now get and the results will be much better."

An address is to be made this afternoon at the exposition on "The Future Airport as the Architect Sees It," by Francis Keally, architect and instructor in the Columbia University School of Architecture. A working model of a landing field, designed according to specifications of the Department of Commerce for an AIA airport, was installed yesterday in THE NEW YORK TIMES exhibition.

This miniature field, representing an airport of 2,500 square feet, is built on a scale of 50 feet to an inch. It is complete with hangars, revolving beacon, batteries of floodlights and flashing red lights indicating obstacles. The model was built by the Westinghouse Lamp Company.

Democrats Plan Annual Party.

The annual card party of the Washington Club, the Democratic organization of the Tenth Assembly District, will be held April 25 in the clubhouse, 241 Prospect Place, it was announced yesterday. Mrs. Minnie J. Harris, the co-leader of the district, and Mrs. Ella F. Healey, chairman of the social committee, are in charge of the program.

TAMMANY CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD SOON

Dooling Arranges for Big Four and His Committee to Meet Not Later Than Tuesday.

Progress toward the election of a leader of Tammany to succeed George W. Olvany was made yesterday, when the committee of seven appointed to recommend a candidate or candidates to the executive committee met at Tammany Hall and decided definitely to arrange a conference with the members of the so-called Big Four. This conference, it is expected, will be held not later than next Tuesday, and may be held on Saturday. A meeting of the executive committee should follow the conference almost immediately, and another attempt will be made then to agree upon a leader.

The meeting of the committee followed a call by Peter J. Dooling, its chairman, on former Governor Alfred E. Smith, at which he arranged for a further talk with Mr. Smith for today. Mr. Dooling had previously seen Mayor Walker and Surrogate James A. Foley and obtained their consent to attend a conference. Senator Robert F. Wagner, the other member of the Big Four, is in Washington and will return on Friday night or Saturday and Mr. Dooling said it was his problem to find a day on which it would be convenient for all of the four to meet.

"I will try to arrange a conference for Saturday, Monday or Tuesday," Mr. Dooling said. "The sooner the better, but it will depend on the convenience of each of them."

Mr. Dooling added that he favored a general conference of the members of his committee and the Big Four instead of a series of conferences with each of the latter. This view also was taken by the members of the committee.

Mexican Censorship Lifted.

The Western Union Telegraph Company announced yesterday that the censorship on all messages to and from Mexico, which had been in force since March 4, had been removed.

LOS ANGELES, April 16 (AP).—Alma Rubens, motion picture actress, has been released from the State Narcotic Hospital at Spadra, Cal., where she was committed for treatment in February. Dr. Thomas Joyce, superintendent of the hospital, said today Miss Rubens was paroled yesterday after showing "a marked improvement in her condition." Her sister, Miss B. Large, said the actress probably would spend her convalescent period in the mountains of Southern California.
